Sunday School Lesson:

Unsalted Salt

By ROY L. SMITH

The truth might as well be told. The Christian is a man who is supposed to be a different person, and if he is really a Christian he is trying so to be. It was for the purpose of making him different that his Lord appeared and lived among men.

That is the plain and simple meaning of Jesus' statement, "You are the salt of the earth."

NOTHING LIKE SALT

Oddly enough, there is nothing in this world like salt. There are spices that resemble pepper, and there are various kinds of sweetness. But there is only one kind of salt. It is salty. Unless it is salty it is not salt.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for September 5: "Living Witnesses," Matthew 5:13-18; John 1:40-42a; Acts 4:13-20; 8:4-8, 26-40; II Corinthians 5:11-20; I Peter 3:13-16.

Oddly enough again, salt has one major purpose — to save the unsalted. For centuries it has been used as a preservative. A long list of foods subjected to the ministry of salt can be preserved for future use. Milk, for example, can be used for a variety of purposes and in a variety of ways, but salt is no multi-purpose product.

MIXING THE SALT

The secret of the saving quality of salt is in its contact with the unsalted. Let even a small area of the meat be shielded from the salt and it will spoil. Salt that holds self aloof from the unsalted never fulfills its destiny as salt.

In all this, of course, there is a parable. The Christian who holds himself aloof from a spoiling world never acts as a preservative, and the church that does not thrust itself out into its community as an agent of redemption forfeits its right to be called "salt" and by the same token forfeits its right to be called "Christian."

Previous to World War II the peace party in Japan was composed of those Japanese who had become Christians. There were slightly more than 300,000 of them, including those of all names, Catholic and Protestant.

Their influence, however, was far out of proportion to their numbers. Over and over the news paper correspondents commented on the fact that the small compact fellowship of Christian, numbering about one out of every 200 citizens, were represented by an amazingly numerous lobby of public officials, members of the diet, and ministers of state. And out from the secret councils came the word that the voice of the Christians was almost invariably raised in behalf of peace. Had there been 2,000,000 of them instead of 300,000 they might actually have controlled the situation and saved the Orient from a holocaust. Had the Christian church both Catholic and Protestant, doubled its missionary giving to Japanese missions, that gracious result might have come to pass.

Our failure to salt the Japanese nation down with Christians cost us billions of dollars and hundreds of thousands of lives. Salt is very economical it wisely used.

LIGHT IS ANTISEPTIC!

In speaking of the mission of Christianity in the world Jesus used another word equally graphic when He said that the Christian was to be a light. Modern sanitary science is employing light on a broad scale as a disinfectant and as an antiseptic. It is in the darkness that disease germs multiply, never in the light. It is in ignorance that hysteria, and communism, thrive. Let the facts be known and the people can be trusted; let the truth be spread abroad and the people will respond. Christianity is the only philosophy of life that places its trust in people.

Hope to Find Drugs That Will Prevent Cancer Cells Dividing

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

WOODS HOLE, Mass. (AP)—New drugs to stop cancer are one prospect from scientific searchings into that tiny but potent engine of life—the living cell.

The prospect is drugs which would prevent cancer cells from dividing and forming two new cancer cells. Cancer is bad because cancer cells keep dividing and dividing without control.

Chemicals which prevent some kinds of cell divisions are being produced here at the Marine Biological Laboratory by Dr. L. V. Heilbrunn, zoologist of the University of Pennsylvania.

They will be tested this winter to see what effect they have against cancer in mice. The chemicals come, oddly enough, from the ovaries of starfish, chickens, dogs and turtles. Ovaries are the storehouses of the eggs for new animal life.

DIVIDING CELLS CLOT

The story concerns a main phase of Dr. Heilbrunn's researches—to learn what kind of engine is the living cell.

The interior of a cell is fluid made of protoplasm. Studying cell division or splitting into new cells, Dr. Heilbrunn finds that a first step is for the cell to start clotting or gelling for a time.

The clotting is apparently caused by the release of calcium into the cell. This calcium is normally bound up in the cortex or outer ring structure of the cell.

And he finds that anything which can prevent the initial clotting action inside the cell will also halt or prevent cell division. Therein lies the cancer clue.

Cells, he reasons, are something like human blood in this clotting action initiated by calcium. One potent drug which thins the blood and acts as an anti-clotting agent is heparin. Heparin can also halt cell division, but the molecule of heparin is too large to enter inside many kinds of cells.

STARFISH EXTRACT

Then Dr. Heilbrunn discovered heparin-like chemicals in the ovaries of some kinds of fish. These substances also can prevent the initial clotting of a cell, and so halt cell division.

One such extract was obtained from the ovaries of starfish. The starfish must release its eggs into the sea water in order for them to start dividing and growing to form a new starfish. While the eggs are still in the ovary, some chemical acts to keep them from dividing.

This chemical was extracted from starfish ovaries. It will prevent cell division in the eggs of a sea worm, chaetopterus. But it has not much effect in preventing division of cells of higher organisms, such as the mouse.

Yet Dr. Heilbrunn finds evidence of powerful anti-division chemicals in the ovaries of many, and perhaps all, animals. So extracts are being made from the ovaries of chickens, dogs and turtles.

These will be tested against one form of cancer in mice, Ehrlich's ascites tumor, in which cancer cells grow in a mass of fluid. Heparin shows some little ability to stop these cancer cells from dividing. The extracts will be compared with heparin to see if one or more of them is better at throwing a monkey wrench into cancer cells.

CREMATES SELF IN CAR

MCARTHUR, Ohio (AP) — An elderly novelty salesman, unable to get a 50-cent loan, killed a woman, then shot and cremated himself Wednesday, police reported. William H. Frantz, 64, poured gasoline on his car, got in, set the car afire and shot himself after leaving the general store where the body of the owner, Mrs. Clyde Peters, was found behind a counter.

Says Fluoridation Would Have No Adverse Effect

KINGSTON (CP) — Dr. Gordon Nikiforuk, associate professor of pedodontics at the University of Toronto, says fluoridation of water supplies would have absolutely no adverse effect on the public.

"When consumed at the proper mixture of one part fluorine to one million parts water, the fluorine would, take 600 years to produce a toxic effect," he said. "We would excrete almost all of the fluorine we drink, storing only about five per cent of it in our lifetime."

Prof. Nikiforuk was one of a group of dentists and dental professors who took part in a panel discussion on fluoridation at the concluding session of the annual convention of the Eastern Ontario Dental Association.

Dr. Wesley J. Dunn, editor of the Canadian Dental Association Journal supported Prof. Nikiforuk.

"There has never been one instance of any pathological change in anyone on this continent due to drinking properly fluoridated water," he said. "And more than 2,000,000 people in the United States have been drinking naturally fluoridated water all their lives."

Federal Liberal Government Faces Test at Polls Nov. 8 In Half Dozen By-Elections

OTTAWA (CP)—The second test of strength in the federal political field since last year's general election will be held November 8, in six federal constituencies.

The date of by-elections to fill vacancies in the House of Commons was announced Thursday by the prime minister's office.

Five of the contests will be held in the central provinces—three in the Ontario ridings of York West, Toronto Trinity and Stormont, and two in the Montreal constituencies of St. Lawrence-St. George and St. Antoine-Westmount. The sixth is for the Selkirk seat in Manitoba.

Progressive Conservative candidates have been chosen in all six constituencies. Among the five Liberal candidates named to date is one cabinet minister, Transport Minister Marier, seeking a Commons seat for the first time since his appointment to the cabinet July 7.

EXPECT NOMINATION

The Liberals have not yet nominated a candidate in Toronto Trinity, but are expected to do so within the next week or two. Two CCF candidates have been named but no Social Credit candidates have been chosen yet.

Chief interest is centred on the contest in St. Antoine-Westmount where Mr. Marier, former Quebec Liberal leader, is opposed by Egan Chambers, a Progressive Conservative, for the seat vacated by Finance Minister Abbott when he became a Supreme Court justice.

The setting of the by-election date for Nov. 8 has raised speculation that there may not be a fall session of Parliament this year. Early this month Prime Minister St. Laurent said he could not be dictated to by the by-elections between Mr. St. Laurent and Premier Duplessis of Quebec which is likely to be reviewed in the Montreal campaigns.

SECOND SINCE ELECTION

The by-elections will be the second since the general election of Aug. 10, 1953, which swept the Liberals back into power, in four by-elections held since then the Liberals retained Verdun and Gatineau in Quebec and Progressive Conservatives held Peel and Elgin in Ontario.

Besides the St. Antoine-Westmount by-election, those in St. Lawrence-St. George and Stormont involve seats formerly held by cabinet ministers.

St. Lawrence-St. George was vacated by Defence Minister Claxton to become high commissioner company executive. Nominees there are Claude S. Richardson, Liberal, and David C. Abbott, Progressive Conservative.

Stormont was vacated by Transport Minister Chevrier, who became Canadian president of the St. Lawrence power authority. He will be contested by Albert Lavigne, Liberal, and Donald R. Dick, Progressive Conservative.

YORK CANDIDATES

Candidates in York West are John B. Hamilton, Progressive Conservative; Robert M. Fleming, bell, Liberal, and Bruce W. Evans, CCF. The former nominee was Rodney Adamson, Progressive Conservative, killed in an air crash at Moose Jaw, Sask., April 8.

In Toronto Trinity, whose former member, Liberal Lionel Conacher died at a Commons softball game last May, the only candidate yet named is Wishart Robertson, Progressive Conservative. Donald Carrick and Hugh Plaxton are seeking the Liberal nomination.

There is a three-way contest in Selkirk among David Wright, Progressive Conservative; William Scotty) Bryce, CCF member of the last Parliament, and John Shansky, Liberal.

Enumeration of voters will take place from Oct. 4-7, with voters lists printed for Oct. 23. Nomination day is Oct. 25.

Present Commons standing: Liberals 191; Progressive Conservatives 50; CCF 23; Social Credit 15; Independent 3; vacant 6. total 367.

NUMBER PLEASE

PARIS (Reuters)—A firm here has published what is claimed to be the first world-wide telephone directory, with 1,700 pages and 250,000 numbers. The directory, in English, French, German and Spanish, gives under activities and professions "the main telephone numbers" of the world, including Communist countries, but only gives 21 telephone numbers in Russia.

Station Operators May Discontinue Sale of Tires

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Retail Gasoline and Automotive Service Association said Thursday night that service station operators have been asked to discontinue the sale of tires since it is no longer a profitable part of their business.

Douglas J. Fletcher, association secretary, said filling stations used to account for about 70 per cent of the total sales in replacing automobile tires. But rubber companies now were selling directly to the consumer.

The action was taken at the association's annual convention in Hamilton earlier this week, attended by 250 delegates representing more than 2,000 of an estimated 8,000 service stations across the province.

Members will probably wait until existing stocks are sold before setting a date for stopping tire sales, Mr. Fletcher said. Operators not members of the association were expected to follow the same policy.

The end of the tire business might mean a change in service stations' air policy, he added.

"Not being in the tire business, they will likely go out of the free air business. It might be that they will start charging for air."

Hees Predicts P.M. Will Pull Out

NANAIMO, B.C. (CP) — George Hees, president of the National Progressive Conservative Association, predicted Wednesday night that Prime Minister St. Laurent will "pull out" during the next session of parliament.

He also told a party rally that the Liberal party would split into four camps in the event of an election making them "ripe for us to knock off."

Mr. Hees said that Finance Minister W. E. Harris, Secretary of State Lester Pearson, Immigration Minister John W. Pickersgill and Health Minister Paul Martin all would be candidates for the Liberal party leadership.

Leave for East

OTTAWA (CP)—Three RCAF officers left here Thursday by air for Indo-China, where they will serve on the truce supervisory commissions. The only air force officers on the Indo-China truce team, they include G. O. Nelson, 33, of St. Thomas, Ont., who during the war was a pilot with ferry command and later with a coastal squadron in Ceylon.

BRANTFORD CONFERENCE

WINDSOR (CP)—The eighth annual Huron diocesan conference of the Anglican Young Peoples' Association will be held at Grace Church, Brantford, during Thanksgiving weekend, Oct. 9, 10 and 11, it was announced Thursday.

Circulation Of Papers Reaches Record High

MONTREAL (CP)—Daily newspaper circulation in Canada and national advertising revenues have reached record highs in 1954, the Newspaper Advertising Managers Association of Eastern Canada was told Thursday at the annual meeting here.

Ian H. Macdonald of Toronto, general manager of the Canadian Daily Newspaper Publishers Association, said total daily newspaper circulation has increased to 3,756,000 a day this year from 3,-616,000 in 1953.

Mr. Macdonald said circulation gains are spread over large and small newspapers.

In national advertising, daily newspapers are heading for a record year, he said. No other advertising medium has made approximated the dollar volume of manufacturer advertising in dailies.

Volume of advertising had increased by 168 per cent since 1945, despite keen competition from radio, television and magazines.

Publicity Dept. Will Conduct Three-Day Course

TORONTO (CP)—The provincial travel and publicity department announced Thursday night it will conduct three-day courses for "key" courses for tourist operators at Huntsville and Bracebridge in late this month and early in October.

The courses will cover both outfitter-resort and motor court operations, including accounting, advertising, financing, maintenance, management, publicity, public relations, landscaping, section and preparation of meals and waitercraft care.

Recognized authorities will provide other sessions open to any person engaged and interested in tourist establishment operation.

At Huntsville the course will be held Sept. 29, 30 and 30, and at North Bay, Oct. 6, 7 and 8.

Missing Minister Thought Drowned

CORNWALL (CP) — Rev. C. S. Lloyd, 70, minister of St. John's Presbyterian church here for the last 17 years, is believed to have drowned Wednesday in the St. Lawrence river cottage on Sheek island, five miles west of here.

He had walked the 15 feet into the river to disconnect a water line from the cottage a short time later by his wife and a handyman, John Yates, at the cottage.

A pipe was found floating, still attached to an underwater line. Attempts to find the body failed.

Mr. Lloyd, a native of North York and graduate of Knox College, University of Toronto, was a former moderator of the Presbyterian synod of Montreal and Ottawa. He had served at churches at Hespeler and Midland.

Survivors include a son, Hugh Lloyd of Guelph and a daughter, Mrs. David Jamieson of Oshawa.

SILT PUMPED FROM OVER TREASURE SHIP

An underwater vacuum-cleaner is drawing up 35 tons of silt an hour from Tobermory Bay, off Scotland, and pouring it over a sieve in hopes of obtaining gold bullion and relics of a Spanish galleon sunk in 1588. The galleon, one of the famous armada defeated in its attempts to conquer Britain, is said to hold $80,000,000 worth of gold which is to pay the troops and sailors of the great adventure. For many years the ship could be seen, but now it is covered by 20 to 30 feet of silt.

Diver First Picture of Britain's Sensational New Jet Aircraft Astonishes Aviation Experts

By RANALD MACLURKIN

LONDON (Reuters)—The first official picture of Britain's sensational new jet aircraft, called the Flying Bedstead, was published Thursday. When aviation experts first saw it they could hardly believe their astonished eyes.

For the wingless, rotorless, experimental machine—built by the Rolls Royce engine manufacturing firm—does in some respects surprisingly resemble the old-fashioned bedstead it's named after. But more accurately looks like a weird monster thrown together from household odds and ends for a practical joke.

Experts believe the 3½-ton "Bedstead," which made its maiden flight last month, may drastically change aeronautics because it can take off vertically from the ground. It is a helicopter.

CHANGE TAKEOFFS

Some have predicted that the principles embodies in the bedstead one day will enable huge jet airliners to take off and land like elevators from postage stamp airports in the centre of the world's great cities.

A look at the picture issued by the supply ministry shows that four long thin legs project from each corner of the machine. These have small wheels resembling castors and looks just like legs from the kind of bedstead grandma used to use.

The legs appear to be tied together haphazardly by struts. Above them are objects like wooden packing cases and herring barrels which comprise the body or fuselage.

The pilot sits in an unsheltered platform atop the body, and it's not much of an exaggeration to say he looks like a man sitting up in bed.

Two mysterious pipes put out in front of the machine and at the back, both with curved nozzles. Their function is to control and steer it when it is hovering.

Rolls Royce say the base of the machine mark where two jet engines propel it up by forcing air straight down.

The pilot can't move—he took off on its first flight with an ear-splitting roar. Ronald Shepherd, 34, a year-old Rolls Royce test pilot, was at the controls.

He remained airborne for nearly 10 minutes. During that time at cruised slowly around at heights of from five to 10 feet above the ground. Finally it landed — "as gently as a new born baby," Shepherd said—at its starting position.

On subsequent flights it was flown free at heights up to 25 feet.

Other performance details have not been disclosed.

New General Manager

TORONTO (CP)—J. W. Harman of Toronto has been apointed general superintendent of the Canadian Pacific Railway's Ontario district, it was announced Thursday.

He succeeds W. F. Kochn, new general superintendent for the Algoma district, at North Bay. Mr. Kochn takes over the post held by F. M. Bonegan who has retired.

Mr. Harman joined the railway at the age of 14 and has worked at Sudbury Falls, North Bay, Chapleau, Schreiber, Sudbury and Montreal. For the past two years he has been superintendent at Toronto.

Mr. Koehn, an engineer, has been with the railway since 1916.

Social Scientists Pooh-Pooh Fears Of Race Riots

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) Social scientists pooh-poohed the notion that mixing Negroes and whites in American schools will cause rioting and bloodshed, a United Nations publication says.

"Apparently many people believe that somebody else will start the rioting, even though they themselves are prepared to accept the new situation," says an article on the subject.

"There will of course be difficulties in the way of further desegregation, but previous experience indicates they can be surmounted."

The article appears in the October issue of the UNESCO Courier, published monthly by the UN Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization in Paris and distributed here.

The article was written by Dr. Otto Klineberg, Columbia University psychology professor and science department.

Cannot Peddle Wares Under False Labels

BELGRADE (AP) — Some of Yugoslavia's alcohol distillers have their own hangover now. The government has begun prosecution of those among them who have been peddling their wares under false labels.

Under British labels describing the contents as "scotch," they have been selling the content at rates lower than the imported varieties. A British diploma with a hangover, after buying a bottle of the genuine article, began the complaint.

In the interests of international relations, the official Yugoslav press reported the fraudulent distillers would be visited with "severe punishment." One sidewalk wag suggested "proper punishment" would require them to drink their own brew.

Maori Race Trebles

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (Reuters)—The Maori race, the lively Polynesian people, is going to be on the way to extinction, according to the number now living the last 50 years. The problem of the Maori is no longer that of the dying race but of integration.

The last official census, taken in 1921, recorded a Maori population of 115,676 out of a total for the nation of just over 1,000,000.

That means there are more Maoris in New Zealand today than there were when the white man came more than 100 years ago.

The estimated Maori population then was 100,000. By 1896 the Maori population had dropped to 42,000.

Find Cash Boxes

TORONTO (CP) — Police said Thursday they stopped a car from driving hospital nurse Miss Elmer Walker, 25, of Peterborough. They said a search revealed two cash boxes containing $6, reported stolen Wednesday night. Walker was held for questioning in connection with the robbery, officers said.

Canadian Defence Officials Say West Losing Ground To Russians in Arms Development

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Senior Canadian defence officials say bluntly the West is losing ground to the Russians in weapons development.

They said Thursday they are worried about the speed with which the Russians apparently are developing new and more deadly nuclear weapons and jet aircraft.

Canada and the West did not have complete information on what the Russians are doing in the weapons field, but they did know the Russians making rapid progress.

"We have no reason for complacency," one official said.

"The Russians are gaining or perhaps are ahead of us in the race for bombers to concentrate on, such as atomic weapons and aircraft.

WHAT KIND OF WAR

"That means that they would be able to decide what kind of war would be fought, and when and where.

"It won't help if we are ahead in some other weapons if we don't get a chance to use them because we already have been knocked out.

"We don't want to be the victim of a scare story but we feel it is time the public knew that we are worried about this thing."

The officials were commenting in part on reports that a new hydrogen bomb test has taken place in Siberia.

They said there has been some increase this week in Canada in the fall of radioactivity, but it might be due to a nuclear explosion but they could not say definitely.

The officials said the amount of radiation is well below the quantity which could be considered a health hazard.

ATOMIC WEAPONS

In armaments, Russian fields of hardest endeavor appeared to be atomic weapons and aircraft. They were making rapid strides in everything the West's early lead and possibly were ahead in some aspects.

However, the Russians could not overtake or pass the West in many fields of weapons development.

Officials said that since the Second World War rapid progress has been made in aircraft. But the weapons to arm those aircraft were still little beyond the stage they were 10 years ago.

For that reason, Canada was trying to develop an air-to-air guided missile to be carried by fighter planes.

Officials here said they have a healthy respect for Russian science.

"Russian scientists are no thick-skulled peasants as we would sometimes like to imagine," one said.

Want Standardization Of Hospital Returns

LISTOWEL, Ont. (CP)—Representatives of 18 western Ontario hospitals met here Thursday night at the first meeting of the Regional Hospital Council No. 2 of the Ontario Hospital Association.

Delegates approved a resolution recommending that annual returns from district hospitals to the department of health be standardized.

Papers were presented by Mrs. Iris Morrey, of Wingham General Hospital and Miss M. Duff, of the Alexandra Marine Hospital, Goderich.

City Not Given Time to Acquire TTC Property

TORONTO (CP)—The civic parks committee, in the midst of trying to find a way to recover one small park could be given to the transit commission, was told Thursday the commission has done it again.

Aldermen Edward Bolsover said the committee that the TTC had recently given a former streetcar loop and park in the northcentral part of the city.

The streetcar loop without giving the city ample time to acquire it.

He said he had received indications notice that the property was to be put up for sale under the city's real estate department Aug. 27. By the following Tuesday, it had been sold to a private firm for $23,000.

"It's time this nonsense was stopped and the commission was made to realize it is a public body and to respect what should be saving the citizens of Toronto," said Mr. Bolsover.

The committee decided to get a report on the advisability and cost of reacquisition, as it did in the other case.

PATIENTS SAVED

PLASTER ROCK, N.B. (CP)— The Tobique Valley Hospital's 18 patients were carried to safety here Thursday when fire believed to have started in the kitchen chimney heavily damaged the three-storey wooden building. No injuries were reported. The patients were taken to private homes.

Indians Close Out Pow Wow With Barbed Resolutions

MONTREAL (CP)—The North American Indian Brotherhood wound up its 11th annual pow-wow Thursday in a flurry of warwhooping dances and barbed resolutions. Some 80 delegates from tribes across Canada saw their Iroquois brethren from the nearby Caughnawaga reservation—where the three-day meeting was held—deck them-selves in their finest regalia for a stomping corn dance and a spectacular eagle dance.

A special welcome was dispatched for Col. H. M. Jones of Ottawa, director of Indian affairs branch of the federal government's citizenship department, and the white man's representative at the convention.

Dr. Jones presented with the results of the meetings by Chief Andrew Paulin of North Vancouver's Squamish Indians, who is president of the brotherhood.

The resolutions were aimed at both the Canadian and United States governments and pressed for a better deal for Canadian Indians.

One resolution questioned the right of the Canadian government to tax Indians for purchases made outside the reservation, on the grounds that some Indians such as those on the west coast are able to earn a satisfactory income from such reservation occupations as fishing.

Chief Paulin said brotherhood lawyers are preparing a test case for the courts on the income tax issue and another on bringing goods duty free into Canada from the U.S.

He said Indians have decided to bring the case of Louis Francis of the St. Regis, Que., reservation before the Supreme Court in an appeal against a lower-court decision confirming the seizure of a helicopter.

Francis was ordered to pay $123 duty on a refrigerator, washing machine and radio he brought from the U.S. The Indians say they have a treaty agreement, and the entrance of goods under the Jay agreement signed between England and the United States in 1794.

The convention also asked that Canada Indians be given the right to be exempted from the American law requiring them to register as aliens.

"We are the first citizens of North America," Mr. Paulin said. "We are citizens of the whole continent."

"Why should we be considered 'aliens' if we move across the border?" he asked.

Delegates also repealed a resolution made at last year's meeting in Ottawa that two Canadian Indians be appointed to the Senate.

Japs Plunge Into Mourning For Victim of H-Bomb Ash

TOKYO (AP) — Japan plunged into almost hysterical mourning today over the death Thursday night of a 40-year-old fisherman who has become the symbol of the country's fear and fear of atomic weapons.

Newspapers and radio broadcasts were virtually turned over to news of Aikichi Kuboyama's death, held by many Japanese as anti-American, but not violently so.

Kuboyama was one of 23 fishermen accidentally dusted by radioactive ash from United States' H-bomb explosion March 1 at Bikini. Japanese doctors said he died of jaundice resulting from radiation sickness, and Japanese physicians who performed an autopsy fixed radiation sickness as the fundamental cause of death.

The U.S. army doctor who watched the autopsy, Lt.-Col. James L. Hansen, said he "could not disagree" with The preliminary findings. He added, however, that he would like to see the results of microscopical examination before making final judgment.

Japanese doctors were allowed to examine carefully either Kuboyama or the other fishermen, all of whom are still under treatment here.

The U.S. ambassador, John M. Allison, sent his personal sympathy to Kuboyama's widow, along with a cheque for 1,000,000, yen (about $2,800).

The U.S. has offered Japan $1,000,000 in damages for the 23 men and for other losses resulting from the H-bomb test. Japan is reported asking $3,500,000 to $7,000,000.

Much of the criticism of the U.S. H-bomb test was centred on Bikini.

1. Hostility toward the American atomic weapons program — particularly the hydrogen bomb — is the strongest emotional grief and fear of the future and left - wing sentiment.

2. Hurt feelings over what many Japanese consider the cold U.S. reaction to their emotional grief and U.S. damage to their fisheries.

Prof. Hideki Yukawa, Japan's most distinguished nuclear physicist and Nobel Prize winner, said: "I only pray the sacrifice of this one man will revive fervent in the hearts of the people of the world, particularly the people of Japan, and powers making atomic and hydrogen bombs, and bear it in mind before bombing of atomic weapons."

Seven Polish Seamen Stage Freedom Mutiny

WHITBY, England (CP)—Seven seamen staged a "freedom mutiny" aboard the Polish trawler Puszczyk and then sailed their vessel into this port Thursday and asked for political asylum in Britain.

As the vessel lurched through the North sea Wednesday night the men, acting under direction of the first mate, quickly seized control of the trawler from Capt. Kobryn Wiktor and political officer Naciszek Franciszek.

They locked the officers and six other crew members who refused to join them below decks and in cabins. All sight were released when the vessel berthed here.

The political officer was treated at a hospital for a knife wound in the hand and head and face injuries received, police said, in a fight with the seven men who commandeered the trawler.

The seven seeking asylum were sent to a police station for questioning.

John Storr, a local ship captain who went out to the trawler before she came into harbor, said he understood "the political officer signed on as an ordinary seaman before the vessel left Poland. It was not until the trawler was at sea that the men realized this and rebelled against it."

OTHERS ESCAPE

Five days ago three young Polish fishermen paddled ashore on a packing case near Amble, Northumberland, and asked local police for political asylum.

They were members of the crew of a vessel which sheltered with five other Polish fishing boats off the Northumberland coast during a gale. Their case is still being considered.

Wednesday Stefen Kwarcinski, a 21-year-old steward on the Polish liner Batory, sought political asylum in London after coming ashore at Sunderland, northern England.

CITY GROWS

CHILD KILLED

HAMILTON (CP)—Sharon Digenaro, 3½, was killed Wednesday when she fell from her tricycle under the wheels of an oil truck which had started to pull away from the curb in front of her home. She was the 14th victim of city traffic accidents this year.

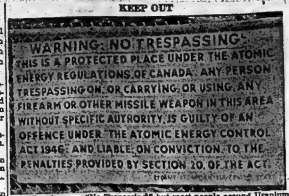
KEEP OUT



The sign says "No Trespassing" but most people around Uranium City, Sask., take it lightly. There were a lot of such signs around the area before the secrecy veil was lifted from uranium production.

Now the signs are hard to find. This one is on the property of the government-owned Eldorado Mining and Refining Co., where most visitors are welcome. It takes a pass to get into the plant but once inside there is little the visitor can't learn about mill operation. (CP Photo).

Secrecy Imposed on Uranium Mining in Sask. Is Lifted

Canadian Press Staff Writer

URANIUM CITY, Sask. (CP)— Secrecy imposed on northern Saskatchewan uranium mining in the hush-hush days of atom bomb tests has been lifted.

At one time, newspapers weren't permitted to publish details about uranium, the metal which forms the basis of nuclear fission and atomic bombs. Even in immediate post-war years, only federal government prospectors were allowed into Saskatchewan's uranium area.

Uranium ore production, as far as Saskatchewan is concerned, now has almost reverted to the care-free days of 1937-43 when uranium was nothing more than a yellow substance thrown out in the refining of radium.

RESTRICTED SPOTS

There still are signs in the Uranium City district which proclaim an area is restricted. But no one pays much attention.

Most visitors are welcome at the scattered mine camps and in the big Eldorado Mining and Refining Co. mill, one of the few places where a warning sign can be found.

Eldorado keeps a reasonably close watch since it has the only refinery mill in operation. A security force sees that no cameras get inside the mill and a visitor needs a pass to go through the townsite after 6 p.m. All employees are screened.

A pass signed by mine manager R. E. Barrett is required to get into the mill and an escort is provided. But once inside, there is little the visitor can't learn about the operating processes.

Methods of extracting uranium concentrate from pitchblende are readily explained.

BRIGHT YELLOW SALT

Ore is crushed and the uranium leached out in solution, under heat and pressure. The liquid is again treated with chemicals and the finished product, a bright yellow uranium salt, is shipped to the Eldorado refinery at Port Hope, Ont., for further processing. The tailings (residue) go back into the mine as fill.

The only things secret, says assistant mill superintendent Jack Woodward, are production and grade figures, classified information which could be useful to a foreign power. The federal government also clamps a lid on how much its crown corporation says private mines which ship ore to Eldorado, but it's reported to be considerably higher than the old base of $7.25 a pound for finished uranium oxide.

The Saskatchewan government declines to say what royalties it receives from uranium production. Royalty payments are calculated on a profit basis which could reveal production totals if made public. A formula for royalties now is being worked out with Eldorado and other mines.

UNDER FEDERAL ACT

Various methods have been suggested to deal with the secrecy factor. One calls for a flat rate to be paid with a settling-up every five or 10 years. Another suggestion is to have all royalty figures lumped together.

The federal government maintains secrecy through the Atomic Energy Control Act passed in 1946. All assays or analyses of materials showing a content of more than .05 per cent uranium must be reported. Ores containing less than .05 per cent are not subject to board orders.

Secrecy was clamped on radioactive minerals half-way through the Second World War, when the original Eldorado Company, a private firm mining radium at Great Bear Lake in the Northwest Territories, was expropriated.

It turned out that uranium, stored in silos or dumped into the harbor at Port Hope, was the prize. The silos were quickly emptied and the harbor dredged. Most of the secrecy was lifted in 1946 when the federal government decided to let private companies exploit uranium areas as a means of stimulating production.

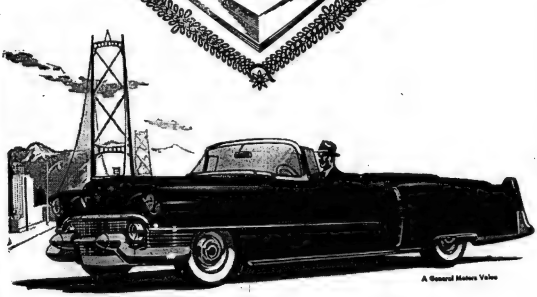
Cadillac



A General Motors Value

As Great as Its Reputation!

The man you see in this breathtaking convertible is learning a great and inspiring truth. And it makes him very happy.

He sensed it the moment he accepted the keys from his dealer and turned on the ignition. That deep, soft, satisfying response of the powerful V-8 engine was too significant to misunderstand.

He sensed it again when he touched the throttle and moved out into the street. The easy turn of the steering wheel—the soft, quick, positive reaction to the powerful brakes—the buoyant "lift" of the deep-tufted seats—"Yes, here's a car, all right!"

And then he got past the corner light, and out in the stream of traffic—and his admiration knew no Bounds.

I feel so safe!" . . . "Yet, it's as light as a feather . . . and, oh, so agile and quick and responsive!"

Yes, it's true, what they say about Cadillac!

And it will dawn truer and truer as the miles and the years go by.

In fact, it is not unusual to find an owner who flatly refuses to part with his old Cadillac. He just keeps it—and orders a new one—to take advantage of the engineering and designing progress.

Not a bad idea, either. For a used Cadillac is the world's best running mate for a new Cadillac.

Why don't you come in—and get the whole wonderful Cadillac story? We'd be happy to see you any time.

People talking about Canada the world over

This sketch by the prominent Swedish artist, Gunnar Brusewitz, depicts Stockholm's "Marble Halls". It was here that the Seagram Collection of Paintings of Canadian Cities was visited by more than 31,000 Swedish citizens who came to see this colourful Canadian exhibition.

Everywhere these paintings went ...north and south of the equator... on both sides of the Atlantic... they won new friends and favourable comment for Canada. In sixteen cities along a 30,000-mile international route through 15 foreign lands, more than a quarter of a million people came to see these original canvases of 22 of our cities, and from them gain a new understanding of Canada and her remarkable achievements.

During its year abroad, the Seagram Collection of Paintings earned for Canada thousands of columns of newspaper reports, editorials, reviews and pictures; magazine articles; radio and television broadcasts; newsreel films—all commenting on these portrayals of our thriving cities, and all serving to make Canada talked about the world over.

Bobcats Defeat Peterborough 7-3 In 1st Game Intermediate AA Series

PETERBOROUGH, (Special) — Belleville Bobcats defeated Bill's (Monaghan Road) Lunch of Peterborough 7-3, Thursday night, at East City Bowl here in the first game of a best-of-three Intermediate AA, OASA playoff series before a fair crowd of fans who braved chilly night to view the spectacle.

The second game is slated for the Quinte town, Saturday after noon, at 2 p.m., and will be played at the C.N.R. grounds.

Bud Burnham's three points for the Bobcats, yielded eight hits, struck out seven men and gave up two walks. He was ably supported defensively as his mates assembled but one miscue offensively, the Quinte man came through in fine style as well, batting effective in all the pinches. Dick West, one of Peterborough's best twirlers, twirled the distance for the losers, and in defeat gave a courageous display. West gave up nine hits, resulting in seven hitters, but yielded nine free tickets.

Bobcats opened the scoring in the second frame, when Gord Donovan walked, Bone hit and Bill Nolan walker, Donovan scored on Logue's sacrifice fly and Doug Bone tallied on Burshaw's fielders choice. Belleville added a single in the third on Donovan's hit and another in the fifth on two errors plus a sacrifice fly. Bill's Lunch burst out in the lower sixth to score three and got back in the game when Jack Gaskill tripled to open, Bloom singled and Roger Wilson drove to the centre field scoreboard. Thereafter, however, Bob Welsh's boys were unable to fathom Burshaw's stanz. Meanwhile, Bobcats continued the attack on West, despite yeoman work by the sturdy right-hander and tallied two in the seventh when Donovan was hit by pitcher, Bone singled, Logue drove safe on a fielder's choice, Burshaw got a life and Hatfield and Dewberry walked. They added the final tally in the eighth, when Donovan walked, advanced on a fielder's choice, Nolan walked and Logue filed out.

Ferguson Is Boston Regular

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP) — Lorne Ferguson, Palmerston, Ont., native, will start the National Hockey League season as the Boston Bruins' regular left winger.

Ferguson, who couldn't catch on with the Bruins three years ago, was named a regular by coach Lynn Patrick from the training camp here.

"People have been asking how we're going to make up the 41 goals represented by John Peirson and Dave Creighton who are sold with us any more," said Patrick. "Ferguson is one of my answers.

"He scored 46 goals for Hershey last season and his showings in our practice games indicate that he'll score for us."

Ferguson has been playing on a line with centre Cal Gardner and right winger Ed Sandford.

Yvon Durelle Whips Wallace

MONCTON, N.B. (CP) — Yvon Durelle retained his Canadian light heavyweight boxing title Thursday night against a second bid by Gordon Wallace of Brandford, Ont.

The three judges unanimously favored the champion from Baie Ste. Anne, N.B., in the 12-round bout.

Durelle then made a surprise announcement that he is retiring from the ring.

He weighed 167, three pounds more than Wallace. The challenger gained an early lead but ran out of steam in the middle rounds. His rally near the end came too late.

Brian Cullen Signs With Maple Leafs

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Brian Cullen, the scoring ace of junior hockey who hopes to jump right into the ranks of the National Hockey League, Thursday signed to a two-year contract by Toronto Maple Leafs.

Conn Smythe, Leafs' general manager, said the 21-year-old Cullen is a promising hockey player but the former junior sensation might be a victim of too much publicity.

Cullen, a native of Ottawa, last season set a junior scoring record when he piled up 168 points while playing with St. Catharines Teepees, 1953-54 Memorial Cup champions.

"He still has to improve himself as far as we are concerned," Smythe said.

Smythe indicated that a spell of minor league seasoning might benefit Cullen. He said the odds are all against a junior moving directly into the NHL.

Oshawa Takes Series Opener With 9-6 Victory Over Batas; Both Teams Kick Ball Around

(By GARRY ALEXANDER)

The Oshawa Transporters took a one game lead in their O.B.A. Senior "B" best-of-three series with the Belleville Batas in Oshawa last night by handing Goyer's men a 9-6 setback in an error-riddled affair that saw no less than 11 misplays. The second game of the series will be played here in Belleville on Saturday night with a loss for the Batas eliminating them from further competition.

Both teams have been idle for some time and it definitely weakened their defence if not their batting eyes. The Transporters spotted the visitors a 3-0 lead in the first frame with four glaring errors but settled down the rest of the way while the Quinte crew committed two costly errors in the initial frame, one in the fifth and another pair in the sixth, all leading to runs. Four Oshawa tallies crossed the plate in the first, both teams netted one in the third for a 5-4 score while the homesters went ahead 8-4 on two in the fifth and their final pair in the sixth. Belleville's farewell effort closed out the scoring with a pair in the eighth.

Cec Hall went all the way on the winner's mound in a fine hurling display, setting the Batas down on seven hits. He whiffed nine of the visitors and walked three.

Johnny Mowat started on the hill for the Goyer-Carson clan and took the loss in five frames. He was touched for seven runs with the same number of hits while fanning a pair and walking four. He gave way to a pinch-hitter in the sixth with Bob Bunton completing the hurling duties. Two runs off three hits were charged to Bunton while he struck out none and issued one walk. Three wild pitches and a hit batter added to his woes.

Claude Carr drew a walk to open the game and when MacDonald bunted, Etcher failed to cover second on the throw for an error and all hands were safe. Goyer too was safe on a fielder's choice and another error with the lead-runner scoring to place men on second and third. Sacrifice flies by Tony Petitt and Dick Fitzpatrick sent them home.

A base-on-balls to Keller started Oshawa on the comeback trail in their bally of the inning and after Joskoski was safe on a fielder's choice, Bunny Masson poked a double into right field for one marker. MacDonald's throwing error put Mroczek on second with Masson scoring while Etcher walked and a dropped pop fly sent the tying run home. Mike McCarther's single netted the other run.

The Batas' first hits, singles by Fitzpatrick and Hull preceded by a hit batter and a sacrifice knotted the count in the top of the third. A walk, sacrifice by Mroczek and scratch singles by Etcher and Brabin put the Transporters ahead to stay in the third. Etcher singled in the fifth to open the winning rally with Brabin sacrificing and reaching base on Mowat's error. McCarther moved them along with a bunt, Richer scoring on an infield out and Brabin coming home on a wild pitch. Bunton was tagged for the insurance runs in the sixth with two errors, a couple wild pitches and singles by Joskoski and Mroczek doing the damage. The winners loaded the sacks in the eighth on Masson's single, a walk and hit batter but a great-running catch by Dave Jones pulled Bunton out of the hole.

Vern "Jumbo" Goyer drove in Belleville's eighth-inning markers with a long double to right field after Bunton singled and Carr and MacDonald had been hit to load the bases. The latter was out on a close play at the plate on a fielder's choice play on Petitt. He raced for second on the first pitch but Keller cut off the throw and nailed Goyer coming home although Goyer bowled McCarther over with a terrific body slam at the plate.

Art Wright was ejected from the Belleville bench in the eighth for saying something to third base umpire Little following a heated discussion with Goyer.

Bunny Masson led the winners at bat with a double and two singles while Joskoski and Etcher contributed a brace of singles each. Dick Fitzpatrick was the lone Belleville batter with more than one hit, coming up with two singles.

Royals, Chiefs To Meet In Playoff Finals

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Montreal Royals and the Syracuse Chiefs, third and fourth respectively during the regular campaign, open the International Baseball League's final playoff series Friday night in Montreal. The winner of the best-of-seven set goes into the little world series against the American Association champion.

The Royals moved into the finals Thursday night with a ninth-inning 4-3 victory over Rochester Red Wings. The victory gave the 1953 Governor's Cup winner and little world series champions the best-of-seven series, 4-2. Syracuse previously eliminated Toronto by the same margin.

Dixie Howell's pinch single, high off the right field scoreboard in Montreal, scored Dick Young with the winning run and gave Royals their first victory of the season over Jack Phillips. The Rochester righthander beat the Royals four times during the regular season play and twice in the playoffs.

Ken Lehman, losing pitcher in both of Rochester's victories, allowed only one hit in five innings after going to the relief of Joe Black. Lehman was credited with the win.

Ducks Need Not Get Stuffy; It's Open Season On Baseball Managers, Too

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carter, Sports Editor

MEET THE COACH!

Frank Boucher, member of an illustrious hockey family, has been appointed coach at the Belleville Memorial senior hockey club, Arena Commission officials announced today.

The new coach is a warrant officer in the Royal Canadian Air Force posted at Station Trenton. He is married and has a small daughter.

Frank has more than family background. He comes with a plentiful supply of coaching experience. A son of George Boucher, recently appointed coach of the Ottawa Senators of the Quebec Hockey League, he is a nephew of Frank Boucher, member of the famous New York Rangers' line that included Bill and Bun Cook.

In his earlier days Frank coached an RCAF team in Cornwall when numerous National Hockey League stars were in the armed services. He coached the Royal Canadian Air Force team that won the Olympic championship back in 1948.

Going overseas he was appointed coach of the London Wembley Lions of the British Hockey League, a position he held for five consecutive seasons, until 1953. He was transferred back to Canada a year ago. Frank will take up his duties as soon as ice is available.

BOBBLE — BOBBLE!

They huffed, and they puffed, and they kicked the ball around. That's the story of the Bates-Oshawa series opener in Campbell's village last night when the two teams, showing glaring effects of the long layoff, looked anything like senior league finalists. That mumbling you hear is from the ghost-throats of Campbell and friend (?), surgling their "I-Told-You-So" dust. Eleven errors were committed all told with eight bungling at times. It was anything but good baseball, says our Master Alexander, who brought home the real story. The teams go at it again here tomorrow night starting at eight o'clock. Art Wright will likely get the chance to restore matters.

BEST OF LUCK!

WELLINGTON — The good burghers of this village are taking time out from processing tomatoes and corn, and other routine duties, for the baseball championship virus has deeply impregnated their blood streams.

Johnny Mowatt, baseball's Pied Piper here, has once again marched two minor teams to the Ontario Baseball Association's titular playdowns, and the loyal villagers for the second time in as many years, envision a title.

Johnny is the idol of the baseball moppets here. With his more or less "silent partner," Jack Ostler, Johnny this year assembled another powerful young diamond machines that swept everything before them in their march to the championship series.

The Iron Dukes bantams went down fighting before a strong Delhi team in their series for the title, losing two games in a row. Now the sons of wrecking the first minor baseball title for the village and Prince Edward County, if not the entire district, rests on the sturdy shoulders of Johnny's gallant young midget crew.

They face the wild test tomorrow when they safari to Mitchell, Ont., for the first game of their best-of-three titular bouts. The Mitchell youngsters eliminated the strong Delhi crew in two straight games by the whopping scores of 21-19 and 16-15, something that has the Wellington board of strategy indulging in a little noggin-scratching.

However, they will cross that bridge when they come to it. The Dukes' midgets, according to Coach Johnny are well fortified in all departments. They have good pitching, good defense and are particularly strong in the hit department.

Meanwhile the burghers are solidly behind their championship aspirants. Not a few will make the trek to Mitchell and you can bet your last year's girdle, the village ball park will be jam-packed with solid cheering citizenry on Saturday, October 2, when the second game of the series will be played.

WHERE, INDEED!

A ray of light has pierced the abysmic gloom that settled over the Flatbush faithful last week when the hated enemy from Coogan's Bluff dashed, wrecked and ruined all "Bum" hopes of the National League flag this year. The bistros along the "avenoo" all the way to Greenpernt were silent. The loyal boighers were sunk deep in the mow of disappointment.

Now they're feeling better. For ever the baseball horizon has flashed a young pitching phenom, who bids fair to become another Antonelli (smile when you mention dat bold, buddy). He is 22-year-old Karl Spooner, a fireball southpaw, who tamed the hated Giants with a 3-0 collar and made fifteen and "one whiff the Polo Grounds ozone in futile swipes at something they couldn't see.

The only time the Giants saw the ball was when Campanella was returning it to the Spooner mitt. Yassuh, that herculida lightning struck in the same place fifteen times leaving a smoking hole.

Now business is picking up in the bistros. There is happiness, smiles and laughter. The famous "Wait Till Next Year" slogan has a brighter meaning. While a few of the dyed-in-the-wool fans are growing "Where has dat bum been all summer?" the main body is looking forward to another Dodger year of pennant-winning happiness.

Spooner has been a sensation in the Texas League. He has a 22-4 record, whiffed 251, 13 in one game, and apparently has gotten over an early-season yen for being wild.

The only thing "wild" about him the other day was the Giant faithful. Even they grudgingly admitted Spooner was great.

Then there's Chico Fernandez, now with Montreal, who, the experts say, will hasten the retirement of the Bums' great captain, Peewee Reese; Charley Neal, a flashing second baseman; Bert Maxnie, a left-handed slugging outfielder and Norm

Sights Laid on Bucky Harris; Dressen for Nats or Phils; Roberts Notches 23rd Victory

By BEN PHLEGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

With the coming of autumn it appears to be open season on managers in the major leagues.

Two changes already have been made at Baltimore and Chicago. Another one, at Washington, appears to be in the works for today.

There are strong indications that the Senators are going to either release Bucky Harris or kick him upstairs to the general manager's job and replace him with Charlie Dressen. A press conference has been called for today with Harris listed as running the show. Owner Clark Griffith so far has parried direct questions on Harris' status by saying he will wait till the season ends Sunday.

If Dressen, who led Brooklyn to two pennants in three seasons then quit last year in a battle over a long term contract, doesn't catch on at Washington the next best bet appears to be the Philadelphia Phillies.

The Phils switched from Steve O'Neill to Terry Moore in mid-season after months of rumors and Moore has only a verbal understanding concerning next year. If the Phils edge out Cincy for the fourth place by may keep his job.

MADE MOVE

His ball club made a move in that direction Thursday night as they defeated Pittsburgh 7-6 and 4-2. The first game marked the completion of a contest started Aug. 15 and halted after eight innings because of a Sunday Pennsylvania curfew with the score tied a 5-5.

Robin Roberts finished the suspended game for his 23rd triumph and his second in two days when Richie Ashburn singled and moved around to score the winning run in the last of the ninth.

In the regular game Stan Lopata put the Phils in front to stay on a 12th inning home run in the first inning.

For a brief spell the Phillies thought they had clinched at least .0002 of fourth place. But an hour after the end of their second game league president Warren Giles upheld a Cincinnati protest of a loss at Milwaukee Wednesday and ordered the game to resume today.

REMEMBER WHEN

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Brooklyn Americans—the former New York Americans—vanished from the National Hockey League 12 years ago today following a meeting of the league's board of governors at Toronto. The franchise of the Americans, who published last in the previous season, had been operated by the league for several years. The club had entered the NHL as the New York Americans in the 1925-26 season.

Catalina Swim Record Broken By Canadian

SAN PEDRO, Calif. (AP)—Sturdy Tom Park, who comes from a Canadian family of champion swimmers, has broken the official record for the Catalina channel swim and deposed titleholder Florence Chadwick.

Miss Chadwick, an indefatigable type, no doubt will try to regain the record.

Park, 21, a professional wrestler and service station attendant, avoided any advance publicity or announcement.

He simply went into the water at Catalina Island's Emerald bay at 4:06 a.m. Thursday, struck out and reached the rocky Palos Verdes peninsula on the Southern California mainland 13 hours, 23 minutes and 31 seconds later. An official AAU timer was aboard the boat that accompanied him. The distance is figured at 21 miles.

DIDN'T SAY MUCH

Park didn't talk much, before or after. At the start he said: "I want to look at the record and then talk later." And at the finish: "I suppose I'll want to do it for something to eat."

Park broke Miss Chadwick's official mark, established Sept. 21, 1952, by 22 minutes. The famed Swimmer was clocked at 13 hours and 47 minutes.

Park, who is only 5 feet 6 but weighs 180 pounds, had smooth swimming most of the way, with the water calm and windless. His only nourishment en route was orange juice and honey. But the last two or three miles he hit cross-currents near shore and was carried two or three miles off course. It took him two hours to make the last mile.

The Canadian, whose home town is Hamilton, Ont., has been practicing long distance in Pacific Ocean waters off Long Beach with his wife, Kay, and their children, Laurie, 4, and Renee, 4. His wife was on the boat that accompanied him during the swim.

Club Owners To Meet, Discuss Athletics Sale

CHICAGO (AP) — American League club owners will visit in New York Tuesday to discuss and perhaps act on the expected sale of the Philadelphia Athletics by Connie Mack family.

League President Will Harridge Thursday announced he had called the meeting to discuss the A's situation with Roy Mack, operating head of the club, who is strongly opposed to a sale which would shift the franchise from Philadelphia.

His father, Connie, and brother, Earle, are anxious to unload the A's and get out of baseball.

The Macks have a verbal offer from Arnold Johnson of Chicago for the franchise which would be shifted to Kansas City.

Harridge said besides the Johnson bid, he understood there were "other people would like to make an offer for the club."

The other clubs must approve a new franchise holder, while six of the eight clubs must approve a franchise transfer to another city.

BRANTFORD HORSE WINS

WOODSTOCK (CP)—May Jester, owned and driven by A. K. Mackenzie of Brantford, won both heats in the $1,000 non-winner event at Norwich Fall Fair Thursday. The colt was timed at 2:18 and 2:17.6. Linda B. Litt, owned by Esther Litt of Stratford, captured the $400 non-winner class in 2:21.6 and 2:20 even.

Tribe's Trio of Mound Chiefs Has Racked Up 54 Victories; But This Is a World's Series

By BEN OLAN

NEW YORK (AP) — Cleveland will have 10 pitchers and the New York Giants 11 available for the baseball series, but strength in numbers will mean little when the pennant - winners meet head-on next Wednesday.

For, pitchers with the excellence and experience of Bob Lemon, Early Wynn, Mike Garcia, Bob Feller and Art Houtteman plus a vastly improved bullpen gives manager Al Lopez the finest mound staff in many American League seasons.

Statistically, Cleveland holds the edge over New York in complete games, earned run average and just about every comparable basis, except shutouts, where the Giants have 16 to the Indians' 12.

119 VICTORIES

Collectively, Lemon, Wynn and Garcia have racked up 54 of their club's 110 victories. Lemon has a 23-5 record, Wynn 22-11 and Garcia 19-8. Feller has chipped in with 13 triumphs and Houtteman, shaking off a "hard luck" tag of long standing, has won 15 games.

The leveland pitchers have gone the distance 75 times to New York's 44. Lemon, Wynn, Garcia, Hal Newhouser, Don Mossi and Ray Narleski all have earned run marks under 3.00.

The Giants have several top-flight pitchers of their own. Johnny Antonelli, with 21 victories and the majors' best earned run average, 2.31, was one of the year's standouts. Ruben Gomez won 17 and sage old Sal Maglie 14, several of them key games.

BELIEVERS STRONG

There's no belittling New York's relief pitchers, either. Knuckleballer Hoyt Wilhelm has won 12 and Marv Grissom 10. Lefthanders Don Liddle and Windy McCall also have been flashes of brilliance.

Garcia has been tagged for only four homers this season. Lemon has given up 10 and Wynn 21. For New York, Antonelli and Maglie have permitted 21 apiece and Gomez 20.

Certainly, sentiment will be riding with Feller, who at 35, will be seeking his first world series victory. Bob had two chances in 1948, but lost both, one by a 1-0 count.

GIANTS AGAINST INFERIORS

Not to be overlooked is the fact that Cleveland's hurlers piled up their awesome records against admittedly inferior opposition the American League posted a .750 club second division." Against the New York Yankees and Chicago White Sox, the Indians finished with 11-11 standoffs.

In the catcher department, not much in the way of hitting is expected from Cleveland's Jim Hegan or New York's Wes Westrum. Both are fine defensive receivers. Rookies Ray Katt and Hal Naragon are the reserves for the Giants and Indians, respectively.

"WHY I Buy My Insurance From An Agent!"

"I buy my insurance from an agent for the same reason that I buy my honey from a grocer rather than a bee. While I might save money by dealing directly with the bee, there's a good possibility that my lack of training, knowledge, and experience would result in my getting stung. Why should I gamble on my own trial and error method when I can secure the services of a man who has devoted years to the study and application of all the different coverages required by all the different people for all their different needs?" So says an insurance buyer.

Yes, "It's wise to buy your honey from the man who knows the bees — and even wiser to buy your insurance from the man who knows the business."

Wirkowski, Etcheverry Clash In Argonauts, Larks Battle; Close Race in Western Loop

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The respective passing ability of the two top quarterbacks in the Big Four Football Union will be matched against each other for the first time this season when Toronto Argonauts and Montreal Alouettes clash Saturday.

Nobby Wirkowski and Sam Etcheverry will be the guiding forces behind the powerful offences of these two clubs as they encounter each other for the first time this year in a battle to decide sole possession of first place.

It is East's really first big game and will go a long way towards talling how powerful a club coach Frank Clair of the Argos has developed in his rebuilding campaign. The first-place Alouettes, who lost their first game last Saturday after winning four straight, have already established themselves as the class of the league in more than one-third of the schedule.

LEAD ARGOS

They lead the Argonauts, who have won three and lost two, by two points. A win for Toronto will move them into a first-place tie and keep them ahead of the third-place Hamilton Tiger-Cats no matter what the outcome of the Ticats' game against the trailing Ottawa Rough Riders Saturday.

Hamilton, however, can create a two-way tie for the runner-up spot with a win over the Riders in Ottawa if the Argonauts lose. The Toronto club has a two-point margin over Hamilton which has won two and lost three. The best Ottawa can do is tie the Ticats also for third place by beating them.

In the West the Calgary Stampeders of the Western Interprovincial Football Union, Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Saskatchewan Roughriders all have double action along with the third - place Calgary Stampeders and the fourth-place Edmonton Eskimos.

Winnipeg, tied with Saskatchewan with five wins, two ties and two losses each, moves out on the road to play Edmonton Saturday night and Calgary Monday night. The Saskatchewan team also starts out from home for its two games, tangling with Calgary Saturday night and then moving into Edmonton for a Monday night encounter. British Columbia Lions are idle both nights.

TEST GAMES

Calgary's two games will further test the odd feature of their ability to win this season only at home. The four games they have won have been all played on their home grounds and their four losses were all encountered on the road. They lead Edmonton by two points but have played two more games than the Eskes.

Strange as it seems, it is also a fact that Stampeders have scored 70 points in their four wins and haven't given up a single touchdown. They had only six points scored against them and they came on two field goals by Edmonton Sept. 11.

The action in the Ontario Rugby Football Union is confined to a single game Sunday in Toronto between the second-place Sarnia Imperials and the Argonauts' farm club, Toronto Balmy Beach. The Beaches are still winless after four games and trail the Imps by six points. Sarnia has a 3-2 record and are four points behind the leading Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen who have played two more games in winning five and losing two.

Rough Riders Get Replacement For Gramling

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian Rugby Union Thursday night cleared the way for Ottawa Rough Riders to obtain a replacement for quarterback Johnny Gramling, due to report to the United States Air Force Sept. 24.

Dr. W. A. Campbell, CRU president, said the CRU executive has agreed to a request for reinstatement into the constitution of the clause permitting the replacement of an import player who is called into the armed services.

The replacement clause was eliminated this year with the adoption of a new import limit of 10 American players, of which any nine can play in a game. Ottawa, in last place in the Big Four, had indicated that if the CRU allowed Gramling to be replaced it intended to try to obtain quarterback Dale Samuels, former Purdue University pivot.

Texas, 'Irish' Game Features Grid Program

NEW YORK (AP) — Southern California and Pittsburgh, two teams trying to relieve past glories, tangle in Los Angeles tonight in an intersectional game which lights the fuse for the first full-blown weekend of the United States college football season.

Every section of the country swings into action with the crescendo apparently to be reached at South Bend, Ind., on Friday where Notre Dame's fighting Irish, picked as the country's best, make their debut against power-laden Texas.

This battle of headliner under different circumstances, packs particular interest because it introduces Notre Dame's new "Wonder Boy" coach, 25-year-old Terry Brennan, as successor to Frank Leahy.

Also tonight in conflict, Southern Cal's Trojans rate a 10-point edge over Red Sanders' Fire Panthers, who are known to be big and tough but of questionable striking strength.

Petes Within One Game Of Lacrosse Title

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Peterborough Trailermen have come within one game of the Canadian senior lacrosse championship and the Mann Cup with a 10-8 victory over Victoria Shamrocks.

The Trailermen took a 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven finals as a result of the last outdoor game of the series Thursday night. The teams move into Civic Stadium here tonight for what could be the last game.

The Shamrocks Wednesday threatened to withdraw if the remainder of the series wasn't indoors. The teams struck a compromise and the Canadian lacrosse association approved the agreement that if Shamrocks would play outdoors Thursday night the remaining games would be moved indoors.

The teams were tied 3-3 in the first quarter, then the Trailermen took the lead and refused to relinquish it for the remainder of the game. They led 5-3 halfway through and 7-6 going into the fourth.

FIVE OF NINE

The Trailermen drew five of nine minor penalties during the fast, hard - fought game. Both teams played it clean but checked hard. Goalie Wootton of Peterborough and his opposite, George Johnson of Shamrocks, put on a display of starry netminding. Wootton showing a slight edge.

Bobby Curtis of the Trailermen was top marksman, scoring three goals. Jim Gerrard, Bob Thorpe, Harry Wipper, Lou Nickle, Jim McNulty, Russ Slater and Danny Bronson scored singles. Wipper and Peterson had two assists each while Thorpe and Curly Mason each helped on one.

The Shamrocks' sharpshooters were Larry Cahill, Archie Browning, splitting six between them. Art Dugan scored both of the Shamrocks' other goals.

Nip O'Hearn had three assists; Jack Proctor, Bob Monaghan, Arnie Ferguson and Booth one apiece.

The westerners threat to withdraw came after the fourth game was postponed — the third time weather forced postponement of games.

Soccer Gossip

Kingston United by winning their second game against Peterborough Merchants on Saturday by three goals without reply, won the right to take on Duna'e new Toronto final. The first game in a home and home total goals to count series will be played in Batawa on Sunday, kick-off 3 p.m. with the return game scheduled for the following Saturday in Kingston. In the other Toronto Intermediate cup semi-final U.E.W. and Scottish Canadians of Peterborough, tie up in the Little City.

Owing to lack of daylight hours in the evenings the game between Trenton Merchants and Northern Electric for the final of the Belleville Cyndicate Cup has been postponed to Saturday, October 2nd, at 3.30 p.m. on Bala Memorial Park. The other replay for the Trenton Challenge Cup takes place tomorrow on the Northern Electric grounds between the same two clubs.

Both Belleville entries in the Ontario Minor Championship lost out on Saturday against their Toronto opposition. Branch 99 Canadian Legion lost 4-1 to Toronto Kalevs, while Foley Foundry lost to Leslie Juveniles by five goals to nothing. Both teams will be looking forward to competing again next year.

The local minor soccer loops get under way this week. In the Juvenile league, Wellington and Kingston opened up the schedule last night, while Napanee and Picton take on Foley Foundry at the Northern Electric park.

The six team bantam league start operations tomorrow morning. Two games are called for the Cricket Field at 9.30 and 10.30 while the third game takes place at Prince Charles School at 10 a.m. The six teams competing are Jubs Bus Lines, Bob Carter's Diesels, Holloway Street United Church Sunday School, Wills' Hardware and Branch 99 Canadian Legion.

Mr. Talbot Says Statistics Prove Tribe Pitching Will Not Win Series

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—If Cleveland Indians have been clouted 17-10 favorites over New York Giants because they have three pitchers named Bob Lemon, Early Wynn and Mike Garcia it is one of the greatest overlays in history.

If the men in Las Vegas arrived at those figures by assuming the 64 victories credited to the "big three" offered a true reflection of their ability to pitch against good baseball clubs, they are in for a jolt.

Against New York Yankees and Chicago White Sox the trio won 11 decisions and lost 13.

Only one of the three, Lemon, did better than break even against the two other contenders, and then only by 5-4. One of his wins over the Yanks was in relief. After the White Sox beat him for the second time on July 11, manager Al Lopez once again permitted them to swing at his ace.

Wynn, the 23-game winner, was able to break even, 6-6, against the wealthy, scoring four decisions over the Yankees. He lost three to the Yanks and was relieved twice by Lopez when the Bombers went on to win. The White Sox clipped him three times.

Mike Garcia, the 19 - gamer, never did succeed in beating either of the big two. The Yankees whipped him four times, once in relief, and got him out of here in his other start against them. He started twice only against the White Sox, and on each occasion was relieved by another Indian who absorbed the loss.

Those who see the three right-handers dominating the playoff then are confronted with the fact that, between them, they won but 11 games from the two other contenders, or only one out of each 10 victories the duo has piled up at the expense of a badly balanced league.

National League Prexy Upholds Cincy Protest

CINCINNATI (AP) — President Warren C. Giles of the National League Thursday upheld Cincinnati's protest of Wednesday's ball game with Milwaukee and ordered it resumed today at the point where the Redlegs had two men on base with two out in the ninth inning.

The game will be finished before the regularly scheduled contest between the Braves and the St. Louis Cards.

The protest was filed with the umpire when Wally Post was on second base, Gus Bell was on third, Johnny Temple at bat, and Milwaukee leading, 3 to 1.

Giles said it will not be necessary that Milwaukee continue with Warren Spahn as the pitcher, and that Cincinnati could put in a substitute hitter for Temple if it desired.

The Redlegs were given a penalty third out in the ninth after Bob Borkowski had leaned on a wild pitch with one out and ran for first base. Catcher Del Crandall threw to third baseman Eddie Mathews to head off a runner and when that failed Mathews threw to first, hitting Borkowski. The ball rolled into right field.

Gus Bell and Wally Post, who were on the bags, scored to tie the game. The four umpires ruled that Borkowski had drawn a throw by his illegal premature start from the line and declared Bell out as a penalty.

Giles said in his ruling: "After considerable research, study of the rules, bulletins and past decisions on 'knotty problems' I cannot concur with the decision of the umpires.

"The result of the game could possibly affect the final standing and the world series share of five clubs. This, combined with the fact Cincinnati scheduled at Milwaukee has been completed, creates an extraordinary situation, which must be dealt with in an extraordinary manner."

Track to Get Four New Barns

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Jockey Club announced Thursday a $410,000 contract has been let for construction of four large concrete barns at its Fort Erie racetrack.

Each unit will consist of stalls for 112 horses and double-banked accommodation for 64 men. The contract was let to the R. Timms Construction and Engineering Company of Welland.

Construction is scheduled for completion next year.

The OJC said it has spent more than $1,000,000 in reconstruction of the Fort Erie track, which it bought in 1952.

Sugar Kings Lose $50,000 In International

HAVANA, Cuba (AP) — Cuba's future in the triple A International League may hinge on development at the minor league convention in Houston, Texas, in November.

Bobby Maduro, president of the Cuban Sugar Kings, said his club lost more than $50,000 in its first year of International League play.

The loss, he said in an interview, resulted almost entirely from Cuba's payment of the air travel expenses of the visiting clubs between Richmond, Va., and Havana.

He said he felt Cuba would not have gained a spot in the league had he not offered to pay for travel between Havana and Richmond, the southernmost U.S. club in the league.

"But we can't pay for all the transportation next year. It is up to the clubs to suggest a more satisfactory arrangement. If they insist on our continuing to pay, then we'll have to decide whether to stay in or not."

'Adios Harry' Wins Rich 'Brown Jug'

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP)—Adios Harry, almost son of Adios, came out of the East Thursday to take pacing's biggest prize, the ninth renewal $33,252.06 Little Brown Jug.

The brown colt, owned by J. Watson Webb of Harrington, Del., didn't see any of the other 14 entrants as Morrie Macdonald, Canadian-born driver from Delaware, Ont., gave him a three-heat buggy ride to front of the pack. Macdonald was making his first appearance in the "Jug."

Adios Harry led all the way in two elimination heats and in the speed duel over the Delaware County Fair's half-mile track as he picked up $26,345.84, $13,666.41 coming on the winner-take-all finals.

Bentley Mind Changed Again; May Go to Leafs

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Veteran centre Max Bentley said Thursday he will play hockey with Toronto Maple Leafs this season.

The dipsy - doodle pivot has opened negotiations with the Chatham, Ont., club here, for one more season in the National Hockey League.

The Maple Leafs traded Bentley to the New York Rangers before last season. A clause in the deal said Max had to report to the Rangers last year and this or he would revert to Toronto.

A few weeks ago Bentley wrote Rangers' officials that he didn't intend to report to their training camp.

He lost three to the Yanks and was relieved twice by Lopez when the Bombers went on to win. The White Sox clipped him three times.

Mike Garcia, the 19 - gamer, never did succeed in beating either of the big two. The Yankees whipped him four times, once in relief, and got him out of here in his other start against them. He started twice only against the White Sox, and on each occasion was relieved by another Indian who absorbed the loss.

Those who see the three right-handers dominating the playoff then are confronted with the fact that, between them, they won but 11 games from the two other contenders, or only one out of each 10 victories the duo has piled up at the expense of a badly balanced league.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

A clinch result holds no terrors for master bridge players of the highest rank. With no effort at all they can be wrung out in clinic number 13 from the winter nationals. This one:

Since five clubs is a laydown, it was typical that only five of the 36 tables were in it. One of these defeated himself by one trick. Not to make five must have taken a prodigious effort.

At the other 31 tables, one took it to an impossible contract of six clubs. Opponents could have taken two diamond tricks fast. But they were too brilliant and the slam made.

Another declarer could not be bothered with a simple suit like clubs to reach a slam. He bulled it into six hearts. Even the pair that played against him could not find a way to jet him make it.

Of the other club bidders, one stopped at four and made five. But another who stopped at four threw a trick away and just made it. If you think this was bad, think of those who stopped at less.

Seven were in three clubs that made five or less. I wonder how none of these stars happened to keep from stopping at one club.

In the wrong contract of four hearts, one east made it and one did not. Five others in east were in two hearts and made four. West in three spades went down three, north in two diamonds lost 800.

Other ludicrous contracts were south and north in hearts; one in two hearts and three in one heart, doubled, lost from 500 to 1100. Another south was not doubled in one heart and lost 200.

But this can get by without the inevitable no-trumpers! Not a single game was bid in three no-trump. Another in three no-trump was preserved with more than enough to make game.

If these are the highest rated masters, where do you stand?

Success Sails With Sinden

Five actors for the price of one! That is the kind of description which could be applied with perfect truth to Donald Sinden who rose up trumps once more for his fifth film "Doctor in The House" now at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre.

And Sinden, the medical student with an eye for the girls, is a far cry from the grin-lipped Sinden who made such a remarkable impression in "The Cruel Sea." It is also a widely different characterization from those he gave in "Mogambo," "A Day to Remember," and "You Know What Sailors Are."

No wonder film producers reckon that this recent screen discovery is one of their most valuable assets. An actor with strong stage experience behind him, Donald Sinden can cope with any part you care to give him. If he needed a middle name it would have to be "Versatile."

Donald Sinden is a man who never sought a film career— it came to meet him. He way playing in "Red Letter Day" at the Garrick Theatre, London, when producer Charles Frend spotted him and cast him for the part of the neurotic Lockhart in "The Cruel Sea." He was an instantaneous success and has hardly been out or the studios since making that very first film.

At 30 this blue-eyed actor with a keen sense of the dramatic and the comic is striding confidently from one hit to another and so far there seems no likelihood of a decline in his fortune.

Certainly "Doctor in The House" will only serve to enhance his already glowing reputation.

New Hollywood Theatre Will Have Everything from Helen Hayes to Bar

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Monday night grocery heir Huntington Hartford offers his answer to those who think the living theatre is dying. He is opening a new theatre that has everything from Helen Hayes to a bar.

The Huntington Hartford theatre will have all the aspects of a big movie premiere, with searchlights, screaming fans and a telecast to record the arrivals of the film stars. The only difference will be that the actors on the stage will be three-dimensional and alive. Miss Hayes will be appearing in her old standby, "What Every Woman Knows," with Kent Smith.

But the star of the evening will be the house, which Miss Hayes has called the most beautiful she has ever played in. It will certainly stand out like a beacon among the legitimate houses of the country, most of which are old, musty and decaying.

For $250,000, Hartford bought the Vine street theatre, which started out in the '20s as a site for second-rate legit shows. For a brief spell during the depression it ran as a movie show, then ended up housing cash prizes.

Hartford left last November for London, where his wife, Marjorie Steele, second in "Saturday Night." He left the refurbishing of the theatre in the hands of decorator Helen Conway.

Not until he returned Thursday did he see the finished product. He also saw the bill—$750,000.

The front is covered with white marble ($12,000). Inside, theatre goers will be greeted by a huge mirror, second in "Saturday Night" installed ($1,000). The carpet throughout is a specially designed pattern of black and silver stars on green ($44,000). The front curtain was a four-hundred hand-woven job ($7,000). You can see where the money has gone.

I caught Miss Hayes backstage between rehearsals for the Barrie play, and she was still rhapsodizing over the facilities.

"Why don't we treat New York playgoers like this?" she asked. "After all, the theatre is a great asset for New York; it attracts thousands of visitors; it is the centre of our culture. And yet the theatres treat patrons as though they resent them.

"The theatres are old and dusty. They have no bars, which make the London and Paris theatres delightful. And it is worth your life to buy tickets."

Your Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SATURDAY, SEPT. 25, 1954

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Try getting ahead of schedule to attain goals, to get extra work done this excellent day. You will be well paid for added effort, other than regular duties.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Your stars say best results will be attained through being accurate in work, speech and thought. Thoroughness will bring you nearer your goal; thoughtlessness will involve you in errors.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Use extreme care in money and personal matters, property, expenses. Legal disputes or other controversial matters should be handled tactfully. Give ample care to obligations.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)) — You may have to supply your own incentive today, but you can do it if you will. P.M. offers more opportunities in business and professional activities. Fine for wholesome romance.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Little outstanding help from day's configurations. Be careful signing your name to valuable papers or obligating yourself financially. News could irritate; be calm, diplomatic.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo) — Good vibrations for you who will give extra effort, careful thinking to your endeavors. Keep yourself well informed on domestic as well as world events.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Libra natives have fine influences now. Use your keen sense of deduction, all natural assets that can further your interests. P.M. hours best for personal affairs, finance, social matters.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Stars indicate many opportunities which, if followed up, could bring fine results. You have the ability to move ahead in closer work. Enjoy some fun, too.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Make the most of the good period you are now passing through. Try to instill in others the necessity for all-out effort; this will help you as well. Heart interests need care.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Personal desires may be achieved if they are not selfish in purpose. Employment, money interests, all essential activities favor you. Eves in p.m. may advance things.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — With care in expenditures and astuteness in business you can come through fine today. This is a friendly and opportune period for all who are purposeful, conscientious. Be consistent.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—A most amenable period for careful planning, conferences, detail work. Less favorable for extended action. Preparations you make before acting will aid achievement.

YOU BORN TODAY: Venus, your ruling planet, is fruitful, productive, pleasant, sociable. When living true to your fine traits, you can reach a high position in almost any endeavor, also socially. Avoid living too much on the personal plane; it could be detrimental to your other interests. You are well balanced, have a keen sense of perception, fine foresight. You make good managers, lawyers, doctors, writers. Govern your temper sensibly. Birthdate of: Theo. C. Chamberlin, Amer. geologist, educator; Felicia Hemans, Eng. poet.

Mass Evacuation Will Be Tested At Brockville

TORONTO (CP)—The first mass evacuation of a Canadian city's population during simulated wartime conditions will take place at Brockville some time in October, it was reported Thursday.

The evacuation will be voluntary but civil defence officials hope most of the city's 19,000 residents will participate.

Air raid sirens will give warning of an atomic bomb attack on Ottawa and signal the evacuation to points within a five-mile radius of Brockville.

When sirens start wailing, fire fighting equipment and medical services will be dispatched from the city and citizens will use police-controlled roads.

Emphasis will be on welfare depots and emergency first aid posts.

Provincial civil defence officials will get an idea of how a similar scheme can be handled in larger cities.

Industrial leaders have been invited to view the civil defence force to be held at London starting Friday. Civil defence officials and workers will be lectured by federal and provincial CD experts.

"SIN-CITY" ELECTS REFORM CANDIDATE

A uniformed soldier keeps an eye on the balloting as Phenix City, Alabama, holds its first election since martial rule was declared in the once racket-ridden town. Clyde M. Knowles, clean-up candidate, was an easy winner. Nationwide attention to crime conditions there was attracted when Albert L. Patterson, nominee for attorney general of the state, was shot to death. ## WELCOMES RUSSIAN GESTURES, SAYS TITO

Shortly after this conference with U. S. Undersecretary of State Robert Murphy, Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia, right, rejected any suggestion that his country would become a NATO member. Addressing a crowd of 350,000 in Ostrozno, he said he would welcome any gesture of goodwill from Russia. Mr. Murphy is believed to have pressed for Yugoslav participation in NATO. # Early Election In Quebec Not Being Considered

QUEBEC (CP)—Premier Duplessis has quashed rumors of an early general election in Quebec following Prime Minister St. Laurent's weekend visit with the Union Nationale government.

Mr. Duplessis said Thursday in an interview:

"I have said and I repeat: there was no question of a call for general election in Quebec province in 1954."

He did not expect an election before 1956 and probably not before 1957 the year of their five-year term of office ends.

Mr. St. Laurent Saturday declared that the Liberal party and Liberal organizers in Quebec the Union Nationale government is acting in provincial autonomy as a "screen."

"Certain persons in good faith and others with the purpose of complicating the situation of confusion which is quite clear, launched a rumor of a general provincial election this year," Mr. Duplessis said.

Falls Man Killed

BATH, N. Y. (AP) — Raymond Hiscoe, 31, of Niagara Falls, Ont., was killed Wednesday night when a tractor-trailer in which he was riding jack-knifed and plunged off Route 17 near here.

Hugh Cooper, 34, of St. Catharines, driver of the truck, suffered minor injuries and was committed to hospital.

Police said the accident occurred during a heavy rainstorm, when Johnston lost control of the vehicle on an embankment near here.

The truck ripped through a row of guard posts and jack-knifed before it overturned.

The truck was loaded with fish.

Seek Sports Vote

HAMILTON (CP)—A group of citizens Thursday night opened a campaign to obtain a vote on the Sunday sports issue.

More than 100 citizens met to draw up a petition and appoint a committee to direct the campaign. Alderman Joseph Landi, spokesman of the question, said 13,000 signatures would be necessary to force council to put the question to a vote in December.

WITHDRAW CITIZENSHIP

Quints' Lives Will Fix Size Of Bequest

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The longes the surviving Dionne quintuplets live, the more money will go into a trust fund to educate young men for the Roman Catholic priesthood.

That is how the will of the late Charles J. Jaegle reads. An accounting of the estate will be given in orphans court today.

Jaegle, former owner and editor of the Pittsburgh Catholic, a weekly newspaper, died Sept. 17. He was 76.

The Pittsburgh newspaper man created an $85,000 trust fund "for the education of a young man to go to the priesthood" on May 14, 1948, Robert L. Price, lawyer for the trustees, says this is how the fund works:

"Income from the Jaegle estate will be added to the trust fund as long as any of the Dionne quintuplets is alive and during an additional period of 21 years."

The Dionnes were born May 28, 1934. One of them, Emilie, died in August.

Immigration Is Advocated By Cardinal

MONT LAURIER, Que. (CP)—Paul Emile Cardinal Leger, Archbishop of Montreal, said Thursday night fear of a broad immigration policy by certain people might be due to an inferiority complex or lack of Christian and humane charity.

He told delegates attending the French-language Roman Catholic Social Life Conference that labor, unemployment and housing shortages are not caused by the influx of immigrants "as some like to think, but perhaps by maladjustment of our national economy.

"We are blaming immigration for our own faults. We must not forget that one country was built up slowly and steadily by immigrants."

CHINESE ANTI-REDS PICKET U.N.

Several of the anti-Red Chinese who picketed United Nations in New York are shown outside the main building, carrying signs reading: "Chinese Reds should not be admitted to U.N." More than 300 overseas Chinese nationals, headed by five anti-Red prisoners of war who refused to be repatriated in Korea, lent emphasis to th opinion expressed by George K. C. Yeh, Nationalist China's foreign minister, that Soviet Russia should be expelled from the world organization. (Central Press Canadian.)

National Conciliation Board Will Try to End Long Dispute

TORONTO (CP) — An Ontario-sponsored national conciliation board will sit here today in an attempt to end a nation-wide contract dispute in the packinghouse industry. Nearly 10,000 workers across Canada are affected.

Norman Riches of Calgary, western director of the United Packinghouse Workers of America (CIO-CCL), said Thursday in announcing the meeting that of the three major meat - packing firms involved, only Swift Canadian Co., Ltd., has not agreed to accept the board's decision arbitrarily.

Canada Packers Ltd., and Burns and Co., Ltd., have agreed on a binding decision to end the dispute, which started when 1954 contract negotiations broke down July 31.

The board was established following meetings between the Ontario labor department and the disputing parties. The governments of Alberta, British Columbia, Saskatchewan and Prince Edward Island have agreed to accept the board as complying with their provincial labor acts, said Mr. Riches, and Manitoba and Quebec are expected to follow suit before the meeting begins.

FAVORED IT

Earlier, several provinces announced that while they favored the plan, it could not operate under their individual legislative technicalities.

In Alberta's case, the Provincial Labor Act stipulates that members of conciliation boards dealing with labor disputes affecting Alberta must be residents of the province. However, Ken Pugh, head of Alberta's board of industrial relations, has informed Ontario Labor Minister Charles Daley that provincial authorities have agreed to forego this right.

Mr. Daley's plan is unique in Canadian labor history. It is the first time one conciliation board has handled a labor dispute affecting private companies in separate provinces.

However, if conciliation talks fail, it is not expected that the dispute can be carried to arbitration by a similar board. Alberta labor officials have said that if a strike vote is taken, the province would "insist" on this being done in accordance with Alberta law.

STAND TO GAIN

Besides the 10,000 employees of the three major companies, another 5,000 workers stand to gain if wage increases result, their employers usually following the wage patterns set by the "big three."

Basic labor rate for union members now is $1.37 an hour, ranging up to $1.90 for skilled workers. It is unknown what fresh terms the union is seeking, but Mr. Riches said before contract talks opened last July that the UPWA hoped to gain "considerable increases" in view of the "healthy state" of the packing-house industry.

Chairman of the board will be Judge J. C. Anderson of Belleville. Eamon Park of Toronto, a legislative representative of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL), will represent the union on the board and T. D. Delamore, well - known Toronto corporation lawyer, will sit for the two companies.

PATINO GRANDCHILD RETURNED TO FATHER

Nurse Deborah Cockhill carries four-months-old Isabella Goldsmith into the Paris, France, home of the infant's father, 21-year-old James Goldsmith, in accordance with a court order that the child be returned. Goldsmith offered to drop kidnapping charges against his wealthy in-laws, Bolivian tin magnate Antenor Patino and his wife if they accepted his role as father of his infant motherless daughter. Goldsmith said he also would offer the baby's grandparents visiting rights. The young father won custody of the child after a bitter four-day court fight, in which the Patinos charged he was not a fit parent because his frequent business trips kept him away from the ailing infant too much. # Police Suspect Drifting Labor Of Robberies

PICTON—Several robberies have occurred in town and county during the past few days and police suspects include persons coming here to pick tomatoes. An epidemic of such thefts has occurred at this time of year for several years past.

VanDusen Bros. store here was entered but the owners could not find anything missing.

Three Convicts Perish Fighting California Fire

Four Forest Fires Raging Razing at Least Ten Homes

OLD ADULT RHYME

This is the night you set 'em back
—set 'em back—set 'em back.
This is the night you set 'em back
—and sleep an hour in the morning.

That's right. Hum that tune all day until midnight then do it. Set the clocks back an hour, for the witching hour or later, marks the demise of Daylight Saving.

So if you hear the church bells ringing at 11:00 a.m. Sunday, you can blame yourself.

You know how many times this summer you have longed for an extra hour "in the bay". This is it. It is up to you.

Don't say you weren't told.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — With three men dead and at least 10 homes burned, weary fire-fighters appeared to be gaining control today of four forest and brush blazes throughout California.

Flames killed three fire-fighters from the Polsom prison honor camp Friday near the small mining town of Sierra City, north of Lake Tahoe in northern California. They became separated from other men on the lines and were trapped by the rapidly moving fire.

Perhaps the most dangerous outbreak in the epidemic of flames was near Chatsworth, 25 miles northwest of Los Angeles.That fire burned at least seven homes but this morning, after blackening more than 1,700 acres, was reported under control. More than 100 persons were estimated to have left their homes temporarily. At the height of the blaze 500 men fought the fire.

STORY THREATENED

Sierra City was threatened by a raging forest fire that came within half a mile of the town. The 200 residents were preparing to flee when a change in wind direction ended the danger. Control was expected some time today as 300 men trained on the blaze.

A fire in the San Dimpas mountains 70 miles northeast of San Diego has blackened 4,000 acres of watershed. State rangers expressed hope it would be controlled today.

Three homes were reported destroyed in the little southern California community of Frazier Park. This blaze had been considered under control but flared up again Friday afternoon and raced through the mountain section of Frazier Park. It has burned over more than 2,000 acres. It was expected to be controlled today.

Two Apple arsonists there were arrested. Officers reported they were seen setting fires which the men said were backfires to save their ranch property.

St. Laurent Denies Refusing To See Duplessis

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent said Friday he has never been asked by Premier Maurice Duplessis or anyone acting for him that he meet with Quebec officials to discuss federal-provincial financial matters.

Mr. St. Laurent made the statement in commenting on a story in the Montreal Gazette quoting a source close to the Quebec premier as saying Mr. Duplessis was rebuffed three times after offering to meet with the prime minister and Finance Minister Harris.

The prime minister's office said the Gazette story was drawn to the attention of Mr. St. Laurent at his summer home at St. Patrick, Que. The prime minister later authorized his office to issue the following statement:

"Neither Mr. Duplessis nor anyone authorized by him has ever informed me that he wished to see me about this matter. I am always prepared to see him this autumn if Mr. Duplessis desires to do so, but as has been stated publicly in a definite manner that he does desire it, I do not consider that it is up to me to take the initiative. If Mr. Duplessis wishes to see me he has only to tell me so or if he prefers, to let me know through an intermediary authorized by him.

"However, when my colleagues or I have had matters to discuss with the government of Quebec it has never seemed necessary for us to arrange our interviews through a third party; we have communicated directly with Mr. Duplessis and we have gone to meet him either at Quebec or Montreal, according to his convenience.

"He may well, that if he really wished to have an interview with me or one of my colleagues we would agree very easily and very rapidly with him as to the time and the place, as has always been the case when it was we who took the initiative."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO. (CP) — Synopsis: A band of cloud and rain moving through Ontario early this morning will clear the province by mid-afternoon. From Muskoka northwards rain was quite general but in the south of the province there were only light showers.

Sunny weather this afternoon with temperatures in the high sixties will persist through Sunday, although in the extreme north some cloudiness and cooler weather may be expected Sunday.

Holding Man In Connection With $25,000 Fire

TORONTO (CP) — Police said they were holding a man in connection with a $25,000 fire at Drainman's Ladies Wear shop Friday.

The man was found in a room behind the downtown store with a towel around his head, police said. He told officers he had broken in the window to get inside because there was a fire on the top floor.

When the fire was extinguished investigators reported it had been set in three separate places. Some candles and inflammable material were taken from the debris for tests.

London Police Fire Shots Into Air To Quiet Freshmen Serenading Girls

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Rowdyism by freshmen at three Canadian universities drew the ire of university officials and student leaders Friday.

In one instance police were called in and fired shots into the air to down freshmen antics.

President Sidney Smith of the University of Toronto said disciplinary action will be taken against the freshmen responsible for what he called a march of destruction Thursday through the university and caused injury to one professor.

Dr. Smith termed their actions "intolerable vandalism." Men and women were assaulted, posters were ripped from walls and traffic signs set up. A small car was lifted from a road and placed in the middle front entrance of University College, largest of the University of Toronto's arts colleges.

At the University of British Columbia in Vancouver freshmen have been hazed, chained and dunked in water tanks. Faculty members and student leaders have called for a less boisterous program.

President Dick Underhill of the Students' Council said charges of "conduct detrimental to the student body" will be laid against freshmen and second-year engineers who chained cars, other illampposts and statues Thursday. They'll appear before a student court.

The antics started when 10 freshmen paraded through the city's second-year student, took them downtown and chained him to a lamp post. Police, who had let them in the rain for an hour, "took a dim view of the situation" and chained two freshmen to statues of lions at the south end of Lions Gate Bridge.

Psychologist Dr. Dro I. Signori said the hazing "humiliating and sadistic."

Serenading of students at Brescia College in London, Ont., a girls' school, by University of Western Ontario freshmen was stopped by gunshots from London township police early Friday.

Residents living near the hall, home of Ursuline College students, complained to police about the noise. One constable said he fired two rounds into the air to stop the screeching.

Students were reported "on the terrace singing and yelling and shooting off firecrackers at 1 a.m." agency operation.

RUSSIA APPROVES 'ATOMS FOR PEACE' PLAN BY U.S.

UN Agrees to Study Plebiscite for Cyprus

By WILLIAM HARCOURT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) The United Nations General Assembly meets today to complete approval of its agenda for the ninth session.

Some items, including the United States proposal for an international agency to develop atomic energy for peaceful purposes, were left undecided Friday when a lengthy debate took place on a Greek proposal for self-determination for Cyprus.

Before the General Assembly debate the steering committee, including the Soviet Union, unanimously agreed the U.S. proposal to give effect to President Eisenhower's "atoms for peace" plan.

SURPRISE TO SOME

Russia's acceptance of the plan came somewhat as a surprise and left many delegates still in doubt as to whether Russia would be willing to join in an international organization for development of peaceful uses of atomic energy.

Soviet delegate Andrei Vishinsky told the steering committee that before Russia could support such a plan, she still considers unconditional prohibition of atomic weapons a prerequisite to all other steps.

The General Assembly is expected to approve the American proposal without argument.

The U.S. plan, as announced by President Eisenhower, provides participation by all countries.

The proposal on Cyprus provoked Friday, the assembly acted in face of a British decision to boycott further discussion in the UN on her dispute with Greece over the strategically important British - owned Mediterranean island.

Greece asked that the UN discuss union of the island with Greece and created a plebiscite to allow Cypriots to decide the matter.

CANADA OPPOSED

Britain opposed the proposal on the grounds that it was a purely domestic matter and hence beyond consideration of the UN.

Canada followed Britain in voicing against the proposal but said her reasons were based on the opinion that discussion of the problem now would do more harm than good.

Jury Reduces Charge to One Of Manslaughter

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — A Supreme Court jury Friday night found Joseph Adams, 24, of Windsor, guilty of manslaughter in connection with the death of his six-week-old daughter.

Adams was charged with murder and pleaded not guilty. The jury of seven men and six women left at 5 p.m., returned with the verdict and reduced the charge. He will be sentenced Oct. 4.

Will Conserve French Culture Says Duplessis

MONTREAL (CP)—Premier Duplessi Friday night renewed his pledge to protect the culture and religion of French Canada in a brief speech of welcome to the French Premier Bidault.

Accompanied by Trade Minister Beaulieu, the premier extended a "fraternal salute from French Canada" to the organizers of the 16-day show of French products.

"We will retain a sentiment of loyalty to France," Mr. Duplessis assured French Ambassador Hubert Guerin, who introduced him.

"We have conserved intact and will continue to preserve with our national culture and religion."

"We are happy and proud that old France has cast its unextinguishable light in this country."

Mr. Duplessis spoke on the occasion of Quebec Day at the fair.

Tourist Trade Is Expected To Top '52 Figure Says Dolan

By ART BEYDON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Canada's tourist season bucked some heavy weather and experts expect it will show in the final results.

Estimates indicate the number of United States visitors and the amount they spent will top 1952 figures but drop below 1953—a record year.

Leo Dolan, director of the Canadian government travel bureau, said in an interview that competition for the tourist dollar was harder but the big factor was poor weather from Victoria to Newfoundland. Mr. Dolan was here attending the Canadian Tourist Association convention which wound up today.

1953 RECORD YEAR

He said 1953 was a record year for visitors and they spent more than ever before — $282,000,000. Figures are not yet available for this season but Mr. Dolan said the total is expected to be below that of 1953.

The number of tourists coming to Canada from the United States is increasing steadily and every province is sharing the increase. A larger percentage of United States tourists is apparently swinging toward European travel and away from Canada but since more people are travelling, total visitors here also increase.

Mr. Dolan said people left Canada in greater numbers this year but there were also more Canadians travelling within their own country. He said vacation with pay—an increasing trend — provided Canadians with more travel time.

CAR TRAVEL POPULAR

Mr. Dolan said motoring sightseeing on the way is still the most popular vacation past-time. He said Americans travel by car more than Canadians, often covering 400 or 500 miles a day and often see more of Canada than Canadians.

Next to motoring and sightseeing, fishing was probably the most popular vacation occupation. It was also the most profitable from the point of view of resort operators who exchange fishing game fish for accommodations, equipment, licences and guide fees.

Cruising was an important vacation pleasure and trips on the St. Lawrence and Great Lakes drew numerous visitors.

GOLF IMPORTANT

He stressed the increasing importance of Canada's golf courses to vacationing sportsmen. The golf vacation—where the addict travels from course to course playing golf every course he or she can find—was coming into its own with fishing and hunting.

Canada offered more attractive golf courses per capita than the United States and a variety that could not be matched. The Celtic flavor on Cape Breton Island had offered a great challenge and interest at Banff, Jasper National Park, and Riding Mountain Park in Manitoba were of excellent quality.

Mr. Dolan said the Canadian northland is becoming more important as United States fishermen and hunters demand new territory for game and fish are plentiful. He mentioned Lac la Ronge in northern Saskatchewan.

QUEBEC INCREASES

Georges Leveille secretary to Premier Maurice Duplessis of Quebec, said that province expects a small increase over 1953 totals in its tourist figures this year although it was 25 years since he had seen weather so bad in August season.

The Gaspesian and Gaspe area have continued to be most popular with tourists but some Americans complained they could afford to travel by plane into northern Quebec.

Suspect in Bank Robbery Held Without Plea

KEEWATIN, Ont. (CP) — Raymond Schultz, 28, of Vancouver, suspect in an $11,597 bank robbery who was trapped by a bandana-wearing policeman Thursday, appeared Friday with armed robbery and remanded without plea until Oct. 1.

Rhoda Joyce Millard, 21, of Denver, Colo., identified by police as Schultz's girl friend, remained in custody on charges of possessing stolen money.

Police charge that Schultz is the bandit who held up the manager of the Keewatin branch of the Royal Bank of Canada Tuesday.

He was captured Thursday night as he approached a car parked on the outskirts of this northwestern Ontario community.

The Millard girl was arrested in Winnipeg. Police said she told them she was to return to Keewatin in a rented car and pick up Schultz.

A policeman sat for more than an hour in a car parked at what he said was a rendezvous spot, disguising himself as a girl by wearing a bandana on his head. Schultz was captured as he approached the car.

LIBERAL LEADER BLAMES GOVT. FOR HIGHWAY TROUBLE

Young Liberals Hold Annual Convention

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Ontario Liberal leader Farquhar Oliver said Friday "those who are the government of the province have the prime responsibility for the highway fiasco."

Mr. Oliver spoke during the opening day of the two-day annual convention of the Ontario Young Liberal Association at nearby Vineland.

"We are going to pin responsibility for the whole mess not on a few individuals but on the government itself," he told Mr. Speaker.

He told delegates the party "has a difficult row to hoe" but asserted boom days for the party are here if they realized there were obstacles to overcome they must make better Liberals.

MUST CRITICIZE

He said the party must present considered criticism of the present administration, also in bold form the Liberal party's own policy.

The government should be criticized for the high taxation of municipalities, the lack of policy in health insurance and housing, said Mr. Oliver.

Dr. J. M. Pike, superintendent of Mountain Sanatorium, Hamilton, in the afternoon session, said he compelled to accept a state-operated insurance scheme or any "socialistic" medical monopoly.

OPPOSES SCHEMES

Speaking on behalf of the Ontario Medical Association, Dr. Pike said: "I am opposed to regimentation whether for the patient or for the doctor."

He suggested that insurance schemes in force in Europe argue against the cost of medical care should be available across Canada and there should be no monopoly by any insurance carrier, government agency or otherwise.

The freedom of choice of a physician, he said, should not and must be interfered with and the confidential nature of medical care must always be preserved.

Dr. Charles E. Phillips, professor of education at the Ontario College of Education, suggested that critics of modern education should look to their own children in the schools to broader social questions.

He said the lament that young people are going to the dogs is not justified as good as they used to be has come from misinformed critics through the ages.

Charge Hull Man With Murder

HULL, Que. (CP)—Arthur Simard, 33-year-old Hull laborer, was charge with murder here Friday in the bludgeon-knife slaying of Eugene Drouin, 70.

Simard, found criminally responsible by a coroner's jury Thursday night for the death, was committed to stand trial over the election.

Drouin, a retired pensioner, died in hospital of multiple fractures shortly after being found on the blood-spattered floor of his chicken-coop shack Sept. 16.

Noted Journalist Says He Talked With Mackenzie King 3 Months Ago

TORONTO (CP) — Percy Philip, internationally - known newspaper writer, has spoke with former prime minister Mackenzie King three months after the latter had died, Mr. King was a great believer in spiritualism.

The 82-year-old retired correspondent of the New York Times said he had talked almost every day the CBC's trans-Canada network Friday night that his conversation with Mr. King took place only three months ago. Mr. King died in July, 1950.

The conversation reportedly took place on a park bench at nearby Kingsmere, Que., "sometime last summer," said Mr. Philip who says that he is not a spiritualist.

"I don't just think I did it. I am convinced that I did it and, moreover, it seemed a entirely normal and natural thing to do, although I was talking with the ghost of the former prime minister had been dead for four years."

Mr. Philip said he could tell his "fantasio," because it sounded like that and he realized that many persons will not believe it happened.

"I am not sure that I believe it myself. But it seemed so real at the time and not in the least unusual. It was indeed so real that it has haunted me ever since, and like the Ancient Mariner, I have to tell my tale."

Mr. Philip, who worked for the New York Times for 30 years before his retirement in 1953, said he was sitting alone on the park bench when he suddenly became aware of a presence beside him.

"I saw a mist, a cloud, and groans and lightning flashes such as mark a spirit's arrival on the Shakespearian stage. Then, as something, a deeper peace . . ."

Mr. Philip said he did not turn his head, he said as naturally as he could: "Good evening, Mr. King."

"Good evening, Philip, I am so glad you spoke to me first," Mr. Philip quoted him as replying.

Mr. Philip said the conversation was mainly in his comment on human affairs."

Dulles Believed Carrying Warning To 9-Power Talks

U.S. May Withdraw Forces If Germany Not Re-Armed

By ARTHUR GAVSHON

LONDON (AP)—Informed diplomats here say State Secretary Dulles of the United States is carrying to London tonight a warning that France can't count on American troops remaining in Europe if Paris blocks Allied attempts to rearm West Germany.

Dulles is due here Sunday for a conference on German rearmament with the foreign ministers of France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands, Luxembourg, Britain and Canada.

The informants say that if France's Premier Mendes-France goes along with plans to have West Germany join the North Atlantic Treaty Organization the U.S. likely will reserve its guarantee to keep troops in Western Europe. Otherwise, the sources add, Dulles will advise Mendes-France not to "assume" American forces would remain.

TAKEN FOR GRANTED

American policy makers are said to feel the French might be taking the American guarantee too much for granted since President Eisenhower declared last April that if Paris left the EDC he would help guard Western Europe as long as its strength was threatened by the Communist East.

The informants say Dulles will seek a public decision on the controversial German arms question but will oppose any solution discriminating against the Allies' wartime foes.

Mendes-France agreed last week with Britain's Foreign Secretary Eden that West Germany should be brought into NATO by the end of this year. The French proposed certain conditions, however, that the other powers have not found completely acceptable.

The French plan is said to call for an alliance of some European powers to administer strict safeguards against any overpowering German rearmament.

LID ON FORCES

Production of atomic and other mass-destruction weapons would be prohibited in the "forward zone" — meaning Germany. A supervisory council would keep a lid on the armed forces of the members and check arms production.

Britain has proposed linking the seven European Allies by bringing West Germany and Italy into the five-power Brussels alliance, the nucleus of NATO. Eden hopes to work up a new council, as the French plan suggests, to help NATO strengthen NATO to provide assurances against German aggression.

TWO HURT

ST. THOMAS (CP)—When Cyril B. Barr, 54, fell from a ladder Friday he crashed on a car parked from a second-storey window, he told police. The car belongs to neighbor, Mrs. A. B. Ellis, started to run to help him, tripped and fractured her right ankle. They went to hospital in the same ambulance.

Man Must Be Freed Unless New Evidence Given

TORONTO (CP) — Mr. Justice D. C. Wells of the Supreme Court of Ontario ruled Friday that Rafaele Esposito, committed for trial on a charge of murdering Mrs. Hedwig Kopplin, must be freed unless new evidence can be produced to support the charge.

Mr. Justice Wells said it is "an absolute thing that a man can be committed for trial on a charge of murder on evidence such as this." He said the new evidence must be produced "as soon as possible."

The ruling was made at a habeas corpus proceeding to set aside the committal.

Esposito, 30-year - old railway worker, was ordered to stand trial by magistrate Walter Russell at Fort William for the June 19 slaying of Mrs. Kopplin, a German immigrant. The body was outside her fire-razed home at the Kelly Lake district 20 miles west southwest of Fort William. Her two young children were found dead in their beds.

Evidence submitted at the preliminary hearing included a two-foot cord found in Esposito's pocket and the fact that it resembled cord that was used to bind the slain woman.

It was also hoped to bind newspapers and piles of newspapers were found in Esposito's shack.

"Nowhere is there any evidence that would lead any reasonably-minded jury to convict," Mr. Justice Wells said. He added that "unless there be no further evidence the accused should not be committed for trial and should be discharged."

Mr. Justice Wells directed that Esposito be held in custody and that a new hearing, or a continuation of the first one be held expeditiously.

Eighty Junior Members In Two Classes

"Over 80 new junior members have registered in the YMCA boys' and girls' gym and swim classes since the fall program has started on September 13th, stated Mr. N. A. Beach, chairman of the Physical Education Committee, at a recent meeting of the committee. "This brings total junior memberships up-to-date to 234."

"It is the policy of the YMCA to give quality of program, along with individual attention to each member," continued Mr. Beach, "and with registrations continuing at this rate, the physical education committee may have to close registration to two junior classes, as these classes have reached capacity."

Thirty-five junior gym and swim classes are now operating each week. Instructing the boys' classes are general secretary, Di Diamantides, Don Cherry and Bob Weatley, helped by intermediate and junior leaders; with Sandra Winter and Eleanor Clarke instructing the girls' classes.

Classes for adults and women start early next month.

'Ribbon Rail' Will Give More Comfortable Ride, Reduce Maintenance Costs for CNR

An experiment in Canadian railroading leading to more comfortable rides for Canadian National Railways passengers and to reduce track maintenance costs is being made in the Belleville district this week.

The experiment is in "ribbon rail" which does away with the monotonous "click-click" of car wheels on rail joints and reduces track maintenance costs up to 15 per cent.

Although ribbon rail has been tried with some success by many of the United States railways, it is being tried for the first time by the Canadian National Railways. The miles of the special rail is being laid on the westbound track of the CNR main line east of Belleville.

Ribbon rail is just what the name might apply. Instead of the conventional short sections of rail with joints every 40 feet the rail is laid without joints in sections close to 1200 feet in length and ultimately these long sections are welded together to give continuous rail, free from joints.

Divisional engineer Fred Hunt was careful to point out that it all is an experiment for the C.N.R. as ribbon rail has not been tried extensively in Canada with such extremes of temperatures as in Ontario.

"Even if we don't get any appreciable saving in maintenance costs, at least we will get a smoother ride," he said.

First of the new rail was laid on the Marysville-Belleville section on Friday and many high officials of the C.N.R. from Toronto and Montreal were on hand to see the work get underway.

COMPLETED IN OCTOBER

It is expected the ten miles of westbound track will be completed by about the end of October although this week-end will have much to do with the speed of track laying. Temperature of about 55 degrees is necessary for track laying as this range means less trouble from track expansion and contraction due to temperature changes.

Ribbon track had its birth in the United States just over 20 years ago some of this type was laid. Since then most of the American railroads have installed ribbon rail on its experimental basis and some roads now have as much as 1,000 miles.

A short stretch of ribbon rail was laid by the New York Central in the St. Thomas district five or six years ago, while the Toronto-Hamilton-Buffalo railway laid a short stretch at Hamilton three years ago.

But the ten mile stretch at Belleville is very definitely an experiment insofar as the CNR is concerned. Time will tell whether it will mean a reduction in track maintenance costs in a climate such as Canada's.

Fabrication of ribbon rail is a production line project. In a special "shop on wheels" at the north end of the Belleville yards 39-foot lengths of 132-lb rail-steel strips are welded together and on end into an 1180 foot "ring" of rail which are lifted up and shoved together under pressure of about 4,500 pounds. Banks of electric heaters then ground out to the proper temperature and the rails are fused together with... out the use of welding rod or other material.

Each 39-foot length of rail loses about one inch in length during the welding process.

After welding the rail is cooled back to its normal temperature and then the weld is ground smooth with power emery wheels.

Electro magneta are brought into play to locate even hair-line cracks. If the cracks are but superficial they are ground off and the depressions are filled with metal. If the cracks are deep the welded joint is cut out and the operation is completed.

The electro magnet not only spots surface cracks in the weld but also cracks not visible to the eye. Iron filings are sprinkled over the weld, the magnaflux is applied across the weld and if a crack is present in the weld, the filings line up along the crack. The crack is then ground out until the fillings no longer form up.

Railway service engineers in charge of the work project although most of the operations except the actual welding are being done by local labor. Supervisors on the rail fabrication project include Harvey Williams and Norman Stewart.

NO DEFINITE LENGTH

There is no definite length for the sections of ribbon rail but according to Mr. Williams the 1180-foot length lends itself more readily to easy handling. Welding and inspection completed, the rails are taken away and spotted along the railway right-of-way ready for track laying.

Friday morning special crews of "extra gang" section men moved in on the Marysville area. Mechanical spike pullers yanked spikes from railway ties. The 39-foot sections of conventional rail were shoved aside, and the new ribbon rail was shoved into position, lined to the proper gauge. Then mechanical spike drivers spiked the rail to the ties.

Proper procedure calls for the ribbon rail to be spotted on the ties between the two rails. Then the old rails are shoved aside and the new rail is barred into position. When sufficient sections of the new 1180-foot rail are in position a portable welding machine will be brought in to weld the lengths together. Until the welding is completed the ribbon rails are fastened together in the conventional manner.

According to divisional engineer Fred Hunt the Marysville section of track was chosen for the ribbon rail experiment because it was about the fastest section of track on the main line between Toronto and Montreal. The rail will be laid in two sections, a mile or so of turns in the Shannonville area being missed.

COSTLY TO MAINTAIN

Rail joints on conventional track are costly to maintain and at the same time create an annoyance for rail passengers who object to the constant click-click as the car wheels strike the joints with monotonous regularity.

The vibration of the wheels striking the joints loosens the rail couplings and they have to be regularly gone over by section men.

Mr. Hunt was not skeptical of the 15 per cent saving in track maintenance costs where ribbon rail is used.

"Time will tell," he said, "but at least we should bet a smoother ride."

Every aspect of a meticulous investigation into the 1952 election in which a Democrat won the United States Senate seat, the jury declared the "great" majority of those allegations (of irregularities and fraud) should never have been made. . . .

Hundreds of crippled, handicapped and underprivileged children from all parts of Ontario will attend the world's largest professional circus when the guests of Shriners when this big show is again held in the Maple Leaf Gardens, Toronto, from Sept. 27th to Oct. 2nd under the auspices of Ramesis Temple as a fund-raising project.

It will mark the 22nd consecutive year that the Shriners of Toronto have brought Col. Bob Morton's big three-ring circus to the Ontario capital with the entire proceeds being in aid of crippled children's charities sponsored by the Shriners among handicapped and underprivileged children.

Thanks to the efforts of the Belleville Shrine Club, 34 crippled kiddies from this city and district will enjoy the big show on Wednesday, Sept. 29. They will travel by bus and be joined at Trenton with another bus containing the young guests of the Picton Shrine Club.

The cavalcade will have an Ontario Provincial Police escort to the Toronto city limits where a Toronto Police Force motorcycle squad will escort them to Maple Leaf Gardens.

Also escorting the buses will be Bush's ambulance, and members of the St. John Ambulance Brigade. His Worship Mayor John Roth will drive a station wagon containing food and other refreshments for the youngsters.

Shrine President Charles Cawker, secretary Lionel Crawford and other Shrine members have completed arrangements for the trip and anticipate another glorious outing for their young proteges.

This year the Shrine circus promises to be even better than ever before with a completely new program of exciting and breath-taking acts. Features include the Tuckers, an outstanding trampoline troupe, a Japanese group of cyclists, Johnny Weide and his trained bears and the Skytoners, a sensational high wire act. In all, there are thirty acts including jungle animals, balancing acts, clowns, comedy dogs, beautiful girls, clown bands and comfortcists.

This annual circus is only part of an extensive program carried on by the Shriners to help crippled and underprivileged children. From this and other activities the Shriners operate and maintain 16 hospitals on the North American continent, two of these being located in Canada.

Any crippled youngster under 14 years of age, regardless of race, color or creed is eligible for admission to these Shrine hospitals. It has been estimated that well over 200,000 youngsters have received treatment at these hospitals. A large portion of the revenue derived from the circus is spent on crippled children's cases through the Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto.

A Lift For Living

Big Natures

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

It has been rather generally assumed that a personal characteristic or pervades one's whole nature. That is, if a person is mean he would be mean in all things; if generous, he would be generous in every phase of his thinking and living.

But not so. For instance, the spelling papers of a school boy may be scrawled, neat while his arithmetic papers are slovenly. Or a man might be tenderly sympathetic to the physical sufferings of a member of his household or a pet animal, and be heartlessly cruel in his struggle with business competitors. Or a man may be strictly honest in his business dealings and yet dishonor his vows in affairs of the heart. A person may be broad and tolerant in his religious views and yet very partisan, even bigoted, in his political convictions.

Some of us who may call ourselves Christians have to confess that we are not equally Christianized in all the departments of our living. Some of us are big in some things, petty in others. Heinrich Heine, who was rated as the greatest lyric poet of modern Germany next to Goethe, was so emancipated from narrow nationalism that he retained his admiration for Napoleon even when his own country was fighting the French war Lord.

Heine deplored that his countrymen were ceasing to be citizens of the world and becoming narrowly German. Yet he once confessed that his dream of happiness was to have a cottage in the country surrounded by flowers and trees. He added, "If the good God wants to make me supremely happy He would have a half-dozen of my enemies hanging from the trees!" Heine could be magnanimously tolerant in his national outlook and yet narrowly jealous in some of his personal circles.

How disappointing it is to find little natures in big places. I knew a woman who likes to listen to holy ground, however small it is.

a certain preacher, but she is afraid to become well acquainted with him lest she lose her faith in him. She had been disillusioned by the littleness of some other ministers on close acquaintance.

On the other hand, how it restores our faith in human nature to find big persons in little places! About 30 years ago the Thames River overflowed its banks. Hundreds of tenement dwellers awoke to find a torrent swirling around their beds. Hugh Redwood, the night editor of a London paper, went out to see the devastation for himself.

There among the flood victims he found the Salvation Army at work. After what he saw he was moved to write a book under the title, "God in the Slums." Writing from the viewpoint of the press room, not the pulpit, Hugh Redwood eloquently said that the spirit of Christ was the factor which brought comfort to the miserable, and cured maddening remorse with the sanity of hope.

Speaking from my own experience, I can say that I am profoundly impressed by the dignity which lowly persons show in the presence of death. Funeral services are not depressing occasions to me, for however humble the surroundings, the nobility of human nature seems to breathe through.

Masterlinck has said that beauty and grandeur are all about us, but only when some shock cracks the shell of our living do we see them.

Could we not all tell of the bigness and nobility we have come across in inconspicuous persons? I think of the taxi driver who drives me to Radio City every week; of a teacher who never writes a book himself because he has been so busy helping his students get degrees and write their books; of a book salesman who did not go to college because he looked after his family and sent his brothers and sent his brothers to school. Two of the boys rose to distinction, and the salesman died unknown to the public.

Wherever God touches a person to bigness of nature, making him generous and magnanimous, sympathetic and noble, that place is holy ground, however small it is.

Who Was This?

By A. A. M.

Who was the teacher who got such a hostile reception when he returned to his own home town after he had been away, although his fame went out through the whole region? He taught in the church school and according to his usual custom on the Sabbath day he went into the Synagogue. When he stood up to read from the Scriptures, he searched for verses from the prophet Isaiah.

He found a striking passage in which was written, "The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, because he has annointed me to preach the gospel to the poor; he hath sent me to heal the broken hearted, to preach deliverance to the captives and recovery of sight to the blind, to set at liberty them that are bruised, to preach the acceptable year of the Lord."

Then when the teacher explained these verses with gracious words, everyone listened. He spoke with authority but his audience would not hear him. They could not forget that he had grown up as boy in their own town. When he perceived that they would not receive his testimone he said, "No prophet is accepted in his own country." Then he mentioned the widow who fed Isaiah during the great famine, and the Syrian. Naaman who was cured of his leprosy.

But these reminders of people long ago who did God's bidding did not lessen the anger of the congregation. The Synagogue was filled with wrath. They all rose up and thrust him out of the city. They led him to the brow of a hill, high up, on which the town was built. They were determined to throw him over the cliff because he had dared to explain his them God's word so flagrantly. But the mob was prevented from carrying out their evil design.

The teacher passed through the midst of them, and no one dared lay hands on him. Unmolested, he made his way through the throng and out of the town and travelled on to another city, Capernaum. There he began to teach and his hearers were astonished at his doctrine for his word was with power. This story and the name of this teacher is found in Luke, Chapter 4, verses 16 to 32.

Stories of Famous Hymns

By HORACE B. POWELL

"HARK! HARK! MY SOUL"

Hark! hark! my soul,
Angelic axes are telling
O'er earth's green fields
And ocean's wave beat shore;
How sweet the truth
Those blessed strains are telling
Of that new life when sin shall be no more.

Onward we go,
For still we hear them singing,
"Come, weary souls,
For Jesus bids you come;"
And thro' the dark,
Its echoes sweetly ringing,
The music of the gospel leads us home.

Far, far away,
Like bells at evening pealing,
The voice of Jesus
Sounds o'er land and sea,
And laden souls
By thousands meekly stealing,
Kind Shepherd, turn their weary steps to thee.

Rest comes at length;
Tho' life be long and dreary,
The day must dawn
And darksome night be passed;
All journeys end
In welcomes to the weary,
And heav'n, the heart's true home, will come at last.

"HARK, HARK, MY SOUL"

Every Sabbath, in hundreds of Protestant congregations, choristers and church members sing this glorious old hymn of Frederick Faber's, little dreaming in most instances that its author was a member of the Catholic faith.

"Hark, Hark, My Soul" is one of the best known and best written of the 150 hymns that Faber composed during his lifetime. It was first published in his Oratory Hymns, in 1854. Eight years later, it appeared again in a second collection of religious songs under the title, "The Pilgrims Of The Night". Given to the public in an appendix to Hymns Ancient and Modern, in 1868, it won immediate recognition and became universally popular.

Like his friend, John Henry Newman, who will always be remembered for his hymn, "Lead Kindly Light", Faber was a Protestant before he was won to Catholicism. Born at Calverly Vicarage, Yorkshire, in 1814 and educated at Oxford, he served for a time as rector of Elton in Huntingdonshire. It was during this ministry that Faber—under Newman's influence—became interested in the "Oxford Movement" and joined the Church of Rome. He founded the London branch of the Catholic congregation of St. Philip Neri and served as its pastor for 14 years.

In his collection of hymns there are others that have endeared themselves to Christians of every land; notably his "O Paradise, O Paradise!", "There's A Wideness In God's Mercy", and "Faith Of Our Fathers," which opens with the stirring lines:

Faith of our fathers, living still
In spite of dungeon, fire and sword,
O how our hearts beat high with joy
Whene'er we hear that glorious word!

Faith of our fathers, holy faith!
We will be true to thee till death".

GLASS-THROWERS A MENACE

In Ottawa the other day a man was fined $10, or five days in jail, on a charge of throwing glass on the street.

Police stated the man accused was seen throwing a carton of empty beer bottles from his car after it struck a safety island.

Perhaps the circumstances surrounding the offence may have influenced the police to lay this charge, but if there had been no accident and if the glass can come from another source besides beer bottles, the punishment would still have been amply justified.

Even more deserving of punishment are those who throw glass or break bottles at beaches.

At many of the beaches in this district there is grave danger of receiving severe cuts if one runs barefooted over the sand dunes or rolls over while sun-bathing.

We eagerly await the day when some culprit is hailed into court for this type of offence. And, without wishing the magistrates any misfortune, we hope that the man on the bench seems to have sat down on a broken bottle on his last week-end outing. Then, maybe, the punishment would fit the crime!

CONCERNED ABOUT FREEDOM OF TV

"Saturday Night," weekly Toronto publication, is concerned about the refusal of a committee of the U.S. Senate to permit the televising of its inquiry into the conduct of Senator Joseph McCarthy.

"At the heart of this matter," it says, "is a question of at least as much importance to Canadians as to Americans—or, indeed, to the citizens of any country where information is not considered the exclusive property of the government: Should people be allowed to see and hear with the same freedom they enjoy when they read?"

Television, "Saturday Night" argues, "while not a substitute for the press, is an important means of providing people with the information they need to be intelligent members of a society whose strength depends on the individual's ability to form his own opinions."

In theory, the editor of "Saturday Night" may have an iron-clad case.

In practice, though, there is an important difference.

The dissemination of information about public affairs is important, but in the very nature of things it can never be more important than the efficient handling of these affairs.

The reporter piles his trade silently and does not disrupt procedures or induce stage-fright. Television cameras and their bright lights are not yet as commonplace as pad and pencil.

Who among us, if called to the witness stand, would be able to think clearly and take coherently if we knew we were being watched by an audience numbered in the millions?

SIGNIFICANT IMMIGRATION FIGURES

In one phase, at least, it appears evident that Canada's post-war immigration policy has been a great success.

A Canadian Press dispatch in this week's news drew attention to the fact that the 1951 census showed that on June 1, 1951, one in every 36.3 persons in Canada had entered the country since the start of 1946. In Ontario the proportion was considerably higher, one in 21.8. Since 1951 many more immigrants have entered Canada.

Most people, we suspect, will be amazed to learn the high proportion of immigrants among Ontario's population. Even that will be adequate proof that our immigration policy has scored a brilliant success in one of its most important phases, the integration of newcomers into the life of existing communities. These immigrants with relatively few exceptions have taken their places beside us in factory and office, church and school, social club and sporting organization. We are aware of their presence as individuals not as a group. They have not sought to make us over, but have accepted our customs and habits and have become Canadians.

Both the immigrants themselves and the older residents have reason to feel pride in this accomplishment.

MOST IRRITATING MAN DEAD

The world's most irritating man is dead.

He was Kokichi Mikimoto and his annoying habits made him one of the richest men in Japan and adorned thousands of women with beautiful pearls.

Kokichi was a noodle vendor in the closing years of the last century when he finally found the key to success. By introducing a granule of mother-of-pearl into an oyster, he induced the oyster to coat it and produce a smooth, round pearl. Cultured pearls brought him wealth.

The oyster produces a pearl when it seeks to eliminate the irritation caused by some foreign substance inside its shell.

If some new genius can discover a way to make man react in the same fashion he will earn the gratitude of the world. Today produces enough irritations to spur man to monumental achievements if he would only copy the oyster.

That Opening Daze!

(By J. M. Oliver in the Edmonton Journal)

Breathes there a man with soul so dead,
Who never to himself has said:
"Tomorrow, if I can get out of bed,
I'm going to knock down a fat greenhead
And in Hollingland mid der over-head!"

—Old Blackfoot Ballad.

The above can be considered, very roughly of course, as the sentiments of any 100 per cent duck-hunter at this time of the year. Take the case of Bill. Everyone knows a "Bill" who is a dyed-in-the-wool, duck-hunting addict.

Ordinarily, Bill is a fine, upstanding citizen, a good husband and a good father, who can look the whole world in the face. But The Day The Season Opens—the "opening daze" of duck-hunting, you are likely to meet Bill, pale, panting and perturbed, peering furtively around the corner of some dark alley before venturing out into the dangerous daylight where serried ranks of creditors lurk.

You add to Bill's mental anguish by taking him down the main street trying to lead him down the main stem to some crowded coffee-shop.

"No, no, not thataway!" Bill hisses. "Some guy might see my shotgun shells and some decoys, and I promised the wife, not to mention Civil Service Second. . . . Forth to fourth mortgage, on the old homestead!" you hint.

"The fifth mortgage!" Bill hisses.

Like one of Nature's nobleman as set a-before-you-sug-gest a better getaway route that you have thought of, suggest on occasion, and make yourself an accessory after the fact by saying, "I'll be right over to plunder so he can run—not walk—to the nearest exit.

If requested, said one thing leads to another, and over the telephone Bill arranges to plan the opening foray in company. Something of a strain on the telephone lines is noticeable when it comes to the choice of location. You point out that crowds are scarcer for the last week you have been rallying out into the great open spaces, a time of designed to catch innocent children on their way home from school. "Armed with a bag of apples and candy-bars, you craftily scorn the little fishes and start hunting them. Unfortunately, the children, impressed with your largesse, try their best to please you, and bring a surfeit of information, all of it just marvellous. "The ducks are coming in like flies, Mister; there's terrible, Mister; he would sure like some hunters to come in there."

You tell this to Bill, practically giving him an iron-clad guarantee.

"Faugh, you can't depend on kids!" snorts Bill. "Now a farmer comes into my place every week with fresh eggs and garden truck. Right around there is wonderful, he says."

Then Bill throws in the gaff—the genuine clincher which no duck-hunter has ever failed to swallow. Casting frankly and fearlessly into your face, Bill says earnestly: "And listen, no city hunters know about the places!"

Well, good old Bill's word is good with you every time, naturally—especially when you want to believe him.

So you and Bill rendezvous somewhere at 4 a.m. on the next day. You have no trouble about getting up because you haven't been to bed at all. That chilling whining at the bedroom door all night, after he had received shells, decoys, and guns being cached out in the garage after dark the previous evening, helped some. When you meet Bill, two bare-faced liars briskly assure each other that they're really living a man ought to get up early every morning to feel like this.

After losing the way a couple of times, you finally crouch shivering in the ditch and Bill is loading to rain the way a fall rain can make it. Then, after a seeming-a-lifetime luck, you really have a mad, glad shoot, or, worst of all, you haven't. Then you are all scared away by some over-enthusiastic ignorant hunter, parked at the far end of the field, making like an anti-aircraft battery long before they are in range.

Well, no—that isn't really the worst. You can come back from that if you can swipes your Peterborough skiff from its dock Big Lake. The worst opening day was worth it, Brother!

The PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Toronto has now joined the ranks of those communities in North America which stage starling shoots in the hope of thinning-out these birds from roosting in favored city neighborhoods.

We might as well have a squad of shotguns shoot holes in a snowstorm, in the hope of thinning the winter, as shoot a few holes in the starling population. Nevertheless, many millions of starlings there are in America today. It would be nice if a few less there would be. He is here for the same reasons we are here—to come to his liking, as we do. He prospers here, for he has. Any species you look at it, he has as much right to be here as we have. And if we want a fight, he will probably give it to us. A few starling St. Bartholomew's Eves won't even dent the total. But if you want to know what a terrible neighbor he is, all you have to do is to come up three to five thousand of them pick on your immediate neighborhood, and then you'll know. They have not the most elementary manners. The sound of them is a veritable din. And they are as irresponsible, in certain particulars, as a boy.

The late Jack Miner had the idea that it was said that the solution of the starling problem was to find them good to eat. If only one of our new Canadians from those countries where they hunt and eat songbirds would come to us and prepare four-and-twenty blackbirds baked in a pie, the starling problem would be brought under control. Jack Miner was at several of his gatherings to tell us that the truth he knew that if the partridge had not been good to eat, the law of supply and demand over our parks and in our city would have seen to it that they had been hunted for two centuries, the clouds of them would darken the sky and they'd crowd all the shore birds, the snipe, plover, and golden plover and lovely pigeon birds, no larger than starlings, used to hang in bunches in all our butcher's and fish and restaurant carts, with living memory. They were good eating.

Now they creep by us in little companies. They were good to eat, tasty manners. The sound of them is a veritable din. And they are as irresponsible, in certain particulars, as a boy.

We happened upon an item in a Wilmington paper which relates that a speaker before a gathering of businessmen had accused them of being "pitifully" and "deplorably" ignorant of the history of Delaware. Our own ignorance of the history of Delaware prompts us to deplore this peculiar custom of sneering at anybody who lacks some special information possessed by the sneerer.

Physicians get patronizing tones and look who don't know a thing from a fibula.

Lawyers think poorly of those who think a tort is a little cake.

Marathoners Are Speedy

Vancouver News-Herald)

Everybody is glad Jim Peters has got a gold medal—or silver medal struck in London in his honor. It is little enough in recognition of his gallant effort in the British Empire Games marathon.

As a result of Jim Peters' tragic race, there will be general support of the proposal for more governing marathon races. Marathon races should not be run in the heat of the day as was the one here. They should be run on cool, hard paved streets. The proper and historic course for a marathon is cross-country.

How many persons have an appreciation of the speed at which the marathoners run? Dr. Banister and John Landy have amazed the world by running a mile in seconds under four minutes. Jim Peters, when he set the world record last June, averaged a mile in five minutes for the whole 26 miles, a speed of only one minute per mile more than that at which the world champions run their single miles.

Dr. Bannister and John Landy run their single mile at the rate of 15 miles an hour. Jim Peters ran his best race at the average rate of 12 miles an hour for each of the 26 miles.

To rank in marathon company, a runner must be able to keep up an average pace of between 10 and 12 miles an hour, without allowing time out for drinks and the occasional sit-down to adjust a shoe.

TO FATHERS, DADS, PAPAS, POPS AND PA'S.

Any sons you have under the age of 14 need your protection now. They are getting threatened by protection rackets in schools and community athletics.

How much do you really know of the athletic programs in which your sons are exposed? Are you ready or willing to listen to the collective wisdom of other men, who like you have the interests of your boy at heart, but unlike you, have spent their lifetimes studying such programs eight hours a day?

Dr. Brady

An appointed committee composed of physical education teachers, playground directors, service leaders, health educators, coaches, have made a four year study of the situation in this country today. Following is one of their resulting statements:

"Above all, children should learn to play for the fun of playing. If sports activities are so organized that great stress is placed on "making the team," the few who succeed may gain personal satisfaction, but others may develop aversions to athletic participation.

Some Junior high school boy needs opportunities for wide participation in athletic activities of his own choosing and at his own pace. He needs protection from premature competition. This is especially true of the boy who shows early promise as an athlete. He needs careful guidance and may need to be deliberately restricted as far as intense competition is concerned, so that he may do himself justice as an athlete when he reaches fullest maturity. The term "burned out athlete' has special significance for the Junior high school boy."

Backers of "Little League" ball are no doubt "bursting out" many promising athletes, one contributing factor in the decline of American baseball. Time magazine says

"Baseball manufacturing is in a serious slump, down by a 40 per cent drop in the number of minor leagues since 1949. . ."

Find Junior Not So Smart

(Hamilton Spectator)

A question that has been debated probably since time began —are members of the younger generation growing up to be more clever than their fathers? —is in the news again. This time 500 experts at a United Nations committee meeting in Rome delved into the matter. Junior will be horrified to learn that he didn't come out of it too well.

The case for Junior was presented by an American professor and backed, naturally, by a mass of statistics. This speaker had hardly sat down before dozens of experts in child-culture were battling for the floor to rend the argument to shreds. From all accounts they did a reasonably good job of it.

A rather sour note which had best be ignored, was struck by a professor from Edinburgh who seemed to think that if we were all growing stupider together we probably wouldn't notice it.

More serious souls, however, noted that the intelligence level of the subject be a number of variables and it was observed that although children, for example, the intellectual maturity earlier they were also reaching their height sooner and then had been no change in average adult height in the process, it was observed.

And so fathers everywhere may relax once more. And the boys, sagging fear inspired by the condescending attitude of today's youth can be banished. Junior is out of your minds, your sons are not more clever than you.

Cackling Politicians

(Windsor Star)

Now that an Australian poultry raiser has claimed his hens laid more eggs after being exposed to broadcasts of parliamentary debates, scientific research has a new and intriguing field opened for it.

Will hens really responded to that barrage of talk why did they do it? Was the increased laying due to nervousness or simply a competitive response?

These competitive aspects angle invites closer examination. There is something of cackling in too much political oratory, and to a hen's ear there may be elements of it in all of them.

Of statistics. This is, of course, a form of boasting. And it could be that the hens are cackling being piped into their hen-houses seemed like the unrestrained boasting of super-hens off in the distance.

In fact, on looking back, it is all too easily seen we are not as smart as were our fathers. True, we have developed a certain technical dexterity lacking in their day, but where are the successors who designed the magnificent architectural works of a few hundred years ago. Where are the poets, painters and authors in their terrible beauty of the magnificent legacy to the world?

There is this one consolation. Although we are not as clever as our fathers, the experts have told us we are more clever than our sons. Remember, fathers, whenever doubt assails you, just remember and even again: I am cleverer than my son. It may help.

MODERN HYPOCRITE

Hypocrisy is a disgusting vice, but the 20th century hypocrite is rather different from his predecessors.

In times past, hypocrites have usually covered up their evil deceitfully and tried to hide their evil beneath a layer of piety. But the 20th century hypocrite is quite different. He is not at all coy. His hypocrisy consists in the effort he constantly makes to convince people that he is worse than he really is. He boasts about the few times in his life he has attended church. He quats aspersions upon the piety of those who keep their pockets buttoned when deacons and those who pass the collection plate on Sunday are in the vicinity. Does he drink? "Boy," he exclaims exultingly, "I can drink more than any two ordinary boys in the gang, and drive my car better as a result." And so on through the catalogue of his sins.

The only good thing we can say that he calls forth laughter instead of disdain. He is not the only one of his species as he is a comedian. Perhaps he does not know what he's doing in spite of himself; and if this occurs, then hell for this hypocrite will probably be the revelation through eternity of what a jackass he made of himself while he was living.

GLASS-THROWERS A MENACE

In Ottawa the other day a man was fined $10, or five days in jail, on a charge of throwing glass on the street.

Police stated the accused was seen throwing a carton of empty beer bottles from his car after it struck a safety island.

Perhaps the circumstances surrounding the offence may have influenced the police to lay this charge, but if there had been no accident and if the glass can contained another source besides beer the punishment could still have been amply justified.

Even more deserving of punishment are those who throw glass or break bottles at beaches.

At many of the beaches in this district there is grave danger of receiving severe cuts if one runs barefooted over the sand dunes or rolls over while sun-bathing.

We eagerly await the day when some culprit is hailed to court for this type of offence.

And, without wishing to be vindictive, we hope that the man on the magistrates' seat proves to have sat down on a broken bottle on his last week-end outing. Then, maybe, the punishment would fit the crime!

CONCERNED ABOUT FREEDOM OF TV

"Saturday Night," weekly Toronto publication, is concerned about the refusal of a committee of the U.S. Senate to permit the televising of its inquiry into the conduct of Senator Joseph McCarthy.

"At the heart of this matter," it says, "is a question of at least as much importance to Canadians as to Americans—or, indeed, to the citizens of any country where information is not considered the exclusive property of the government: Should people be allowed to see and hear with the same freedom they enjoy when they read?"

Television, "Saturday Night" argues, "while not a substitute for the press, has the potential a means of providing people with the information they need to be intelligent members of a society whose strength depends on the individual's ability to form his own opinions."

In theory, the editor of "Saturday Night" may have an iron-clad case.

In practice, though, there is an important difference.

The dissemination of information about public affairs is important, but in the very nature of things it can never be more important than the efficient handling of these affairs.

The reporter piles his trade silently and does not disrupt procedures or indice stage-fright. Television cameras and their bright lights are not yet as commonplace as pad and pencil.

Who among us, if called to the witness stand, would be able to think clearly and talk coherently if we knew we were being watched by an audience numbered in the millions?

SIGNIFICANT IMMIGRATION FIGURES

In one phase, at least, it appears evident that Canada's post-war immigration policy has been a great success.

Canadian Citizenship Week this week drew attention to the fact that the 1951 census showed that on June 1, 1951, one in every 36.3 persons in Canada had entered the country since the start of 1946. In Ontario the proportion was considerably higher, one in 21.8. Since 1951 many more immigrants have entered Canada.

Most people, we suspect, will be amazed to learn the high proportion of immigrants among Ontario's population. This will be adequate proof that our immigration policy has scored a brilliant success in one of its most important phases, the integration of newcomers into the life of existing communities. These immigrants with relatively few exceptions have taken their places beside us in factory and office, church and school, social club and sporting organization. We are aware of their presence as fellow citizens, not as a group. They have not sought to make us over, but have accepted our customs and habits and have become Canadians.

Both the immigrants themselves and the older residents have reason to feel pride in this accomplishment.

MOST IRRITATING MAN DEAD

The world's most irritating man is dead.

He was Kokichi Mikimoto and his annoying habits made him one of the richest men in Japan and adorned thousands of women with beautiful pearls.

Kokichi was a noodle vendor in the closing years of the last century when he finally found the key to success. By introducing a grain of mother-of-pearl into an oyster, he induced the oyster to coat it and produce a smooth, round pearl. Cultured pearls brought him wealth.

The oyster produces a pearl when it seeks to eliminate the irritation caused by some foreign substance inside its shell.

If some new genius can discover a way to make man react in the same fashion he will have the gratitude of the world. Life today produces enough irritations to spur man to monumental achievements if he would only copy the oyster.

That Opening Daze!

(By J. M. Oliver in the Edmonton Journal)

Breathes there a man with soul so dead,
Who never to himself has said:
"Tomorrow, if I can get out of bed,
I'm going to knock down a fat greenhead
And in Heligoland mid der overhead!"

—Old Blackfoot Ballad.

The above can be considered, very roughly, as the first sentiments of any 100 per cent duck-hunter at this time of the year. Take the case of Bill. Everyone knows a "Bill" who is a dyed-in-the-wool, duck-hunting addict.

Ordinarily, Bill is a fine, upstanding citizen, a good husband and a good father, who can look the whole world in the face. But the last Friday in August "the opening daze" of duck-hunting, you are likely to meet Bill, pale, puzzled and perturbed, peering furtively around the corner of some dark alley before venturing out into the dangerous daylight where serried ranks of creditors lurk.

You add to Bill's mental anguish by asking him how he is and trying to lead him down the main stem to some crowded coffee-house.

"No, no, not thataway!" Bill protests. "I'm just bought a case of shotgun shells and some decoys, and I promised the wife not to mention it. Shhhhhhhhhh! Second . . ."

"Oh, it's a fourth mortgage on the old manor?" you hint.

"The fifth mortgage!" Bill hisses.

Like one of Nature's nobleman he is a generous fellow; you suggest a better getaway route that you have found to be successful on occasion, and make yourself an accessory after the fact by telling him that if Bill's wife rings you up he can run—not walk!—to the nearest exit.

Bill, consequently said, one thing leads to another, and over the coffee-cups together you both plan the opening foray in company. Something of a strain on the wife's credulity is involved when it comes to the choice of location. You point out that every evening for the last week you have been sallying out into the open spaces with a fire-hose signed to catch innocent children on their way home from school. "Armed with a bag of apples and candy-bars, you craftily accost the little fellows and start inquiring them. Unfortunately, the children, impressed with your largesse, try their best to bring you, and you get a surfeit of information, all of it just marvellous. "The ducks are coming in daisy's wheat; very terrible, Mister; he would sure like some hunters to come in there."

You tell this to Bill, practically giving him an iron-clad guarantee.

"Laugh, you can't depend on kids!" scowls Bill. "Now a farmer comes into my place every week with fresh eggs and garden truck. Right around there is wonderful, he says."

Then Bill throws in the gaff—the genuine clincher which no duck-hunter has ever failed to swallow. Gazing frankly and fearlessly into your face, Bill says earnestly: "And listen, no other hunters know about the place!"

Well, good old Bill's word is good with you. Now a farmer comes into my place every week with fresh eggs and garden truck. Right around there is wonderful, he says."

Then Bill throws in the gaff—the genuine clincher which no duck-hunter has ever failed to swallow. Gazing frankly and fearlessly into your face, Bill says earnestly: "And listen, no other hunters know about the place!"

Well, good old Bill's word is good with you. Now, naturally—especially when you want to believe him.

So you and Bill rendezvous secretly at 5 a.m. on the great day. You have no trouble about getting up because you haven't been to bed. After duck-dog, whining at the bedroom door all night, and Bill's wife, Mabel, barking decoys, and guns being cached out in the garage after dark the previous evening, before your once-in-a-lifetime luck, you really have a mad, glad shoot, or, worst of all, a mad, sad shoot. You are left scared away by some over-enthusiastic ignorant hunter, panicked by a flock of the field, making like an anti-aircraft battery long before they are in range.

Well, no—that isn't really the worst. You can come back from the shoot at 10 a.m. and expect to find that your appendix is ruptured. While you are in the garage Mrs. Bone thug swipes your Peterborough skiff from its dock at Big Lake, and by that opening day was worth it, Brother!

Jack Miner was at several banquets where he ate it. It was the truth he knew that if the partridge had not been good to eat, we would have had the partridge all over our parks and in our city gardens long ago. It has only been hunted for two centuries, the clouds of them would darken the sky at the time of year, foul the shore birds, the snipe, plover, and all the other lovely pigeon birds, no larger than starlings, used to hang in bunches in all our butcher shops and a restaurant down with living memory. We can't defeat a man or woman who has already decided to follow a certain program! There is always so much more of, everything good and beautiful in life for those who see it ever imagined. What keeps us on the sunny side of life is our understanding faith, coached by a never-failing belief in oneself.

In nature there are coaches. I watched a brood of wild ducks in front of my cabin this morning. The mother would make a run and then the small ones would imitate. Then the mother would dive, and all the youngsters would do the same. Mothers are wonderful coaches. Good neighbors, beings! Never should we fail them.

ing. If sports activities are so organized that great stress is placed on "making the team," the few who succeed may gain personal satisfaction, but others may develop aversions to athletic participation . . .

"The Junior high school boy needs opportunities for wide participation in athletic activities of his own choosing and at his own pace. He needs protection from specialization. This is especially true of the boy who shows early promise as an athlete. He needs careful guidance and may need to be deliberately restricted as far as intense competition is concerned, so that he may do himself justice as an athlete when he reaches fuller maturity. The term "burned out athlete" has special significance for the Junior high school boy."

Backers of "Little League" ball may no doubt "burning out" many promising athletes, one contributing factor in the decline of American baseball. Time magazine says

"Baseball manufacturing is in a serious slump, with output in 40 per cent drop in the number of minor leagues since 1949 . . ."

Find Junior Not So Smart

(Hamilton Spectator)

A question that has been debated probably since time began —are members of the younger generation growing up to be smarter than their fathers? —is in the news again. This time 500 experts at a United Nations committee meeting in Paris delved into the matter. Junior will be horrified to learn that he didn't come out of it too well.

The case for Junior was presented by an American professor and backed naturally, by charts and statistics. This speaker had hardly sat down before dozens of experts from other nations were battling for the floor to get the argument to shreds. From all accounts they did a reasonably good job of it.

A rather sour note which had best be ignored, was struck by a professor from Edinburgh who remarked acidly that if we were all growing sluglier together we probably wouldn't notice it.

More serious souls, however, noted that the statistics were subject to a number of variables and it was observed that although children were getting more intellectual maturity earlier they were also reaching full height a month sooner and there had been no change in average adult height in the last 50 years.

And so fathers everywhere may relax once more. The smartness of Junior is quite different. The nagging fear inspired by the condescending attitude of today's youth can be banished. And if it is out of your minds, your sons are not more clever than you.

Cackling Politicians

(Windsor Star)

Now that an Australian poultry raiser has claimed his hens laid better eggs as they being exposed to broadcasts of parliamentary debates, scientific minds are agog for new and intriguing field opened for it.

The hens really responded to that barrage of talk why did they do it? Was the increased egg output a coincidence or simply a competitive response?

The latter explanation is more angle invites closer examination. There is something of cackling in the egg-laying business, and to a hen's ear there may be elements of it in all of politics. Certainly the hens is, of course, a form of boasting. And it could be that the hens were modelling being piped into their hen-house, seemed like the unrestrained cackling of super-hens off in the distance.

In fact, on looking back, it is all too easily seen we are not as smart as we are our fathers. They even exhibited a certain technical dexterity lacking in their sons, but where are the youths who designed the magnificent architectural works of the past? Where are the poets, painters and authors in whose writing full height a magnificent legacy to the world?

There is this one consolation. Although we are not as clever as our fathers, the experts have told us we are more clever than our sons. Remember, fathers, whenever doubt assails you, just remember and even again: I am cleverer than my son. It may help.

MODERN HYPOCRITE

Hypocrisy is a disgusting vice, but the 20th century hypocrite is rather different from his predecessors.

In times past, hypocrites have usually been out-and-out deceivers who tried to hide their evil beneath a layer of piety. But the 20th century hypocrite is quite different. He is not at all oily. His hypocrisy consists in the effort he constantly makes to convince people that he is worse than he really is. He boasts about the few faults in his life he has attended church. He casts aspersions upon the saints and tries you to keep your pockets buttoned when deacons and those who pass the collection plate on Sunday are

Handling Rebels

By NANCY CLEAVER

A pre-school youngster who was an expert in rebelling against authority was described in the press last year when the Superintendent in the Canadian orphanage in which he lived asked for a month's rest.

One day this lad slipped into the kitchen and scooped out the middle of a Birthday Cake. Another night he threw forty children's shoes out the front window into the mud below. He broke a toilet bowl when he hurled a heavy stone into it. Poking holes in screens, breaking windows and sending the Christmas tree lights crashing have been among his activities. When he had the chance, he took a bicycle apart. Just to keep life interesting for the Superintendent he delighted in climbing out top story windows and balancing on the roof. No wonder she needed a change of scene!

Most parents have to deal with occasional flare-ups of rebellion against their authority. Dr. Hilda Neatby, author of "So Little for the Mind" was struggling with problems of raising a family when she might not point such an accusing finger at parents who enforce rules "uneasily and with a bad conscience."

What if Junior flatly disobeys a rule? If at all possible, he should suffer the natural consequences of his disobedience. If he hits a chum over the head with a shovel when playing in the sand pile, then he must play alone. If he is so slow in coming when father calls to him, he may not take him for a ride in the car, then he misses the ride. It may inconvenience a parent at an awkward time to make sure that the punishment that a rule must be followed. But in the long run, this is something he must learn, as he grows older he learns it the better for everyone.

When young people enter adolescence, they usually rebell against external authority. They still need a parent's guiding hand in some matters, but more and more they should be trusted to direct their own actions.

Teen agers are much more willing to cooperate with unspoken rules about the use of the telephone or the hour of coming in at night after a party, if they have discussed these with their parents. "What the girls need most of great importance to an adolescent. Often parents must be content with a mere promise between what they desire and what is the accepted procedure of their child's group. Today's rules cannot just be a repetition of those followed by mother and aunt when they were young.

All through childhood and youth, parents must insist on their children as individuals. Each youngster is different and no one set of rules will fit each one of them. Parents must also be a bit flexible. Circumstances do alter cases. Tom, at ten may be safe enough going at a bike with his pals, while Margaret, at ten, might be in real danger of an accident if the traffic on the highway was heavy.

It is the spirit behind the making and observing of a rule which really matters. If there is real affection and understanding and imagination on the part of both parents and children in a family the matter of rules will not be a perpetual battleground.

The golden rule which was golden two thousand years ago is still golden in the twentieth century. Therefore all things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them." The tragic thing is that it is so seldom the guiding light in relations between individuals even in a family. As a modern observer has pointed out "The way of life has not been tried and found to be a failure it just hasn't been tried!" What better place is there to try the golden rule than in your home?

Teen-Agers Name New Executive

TRENTON—Close to 100 teen-agers from Middleton Park and South Station held their first meeting of the current season in the auditorium of A.C.M. Breadner School on Thursday, and elected their executive for the ensuing year.

The retiring president, Ed Jolley, reviewed the events of the past season and called on the general membership to appoint a completely new executive in order to give a wider number of the members experience in running the affairs of their organizations.

It was moved from the floor that a vote of thanks be extended to the members of the retiring executive for their good work in originally organizing the teen-agers and then keeping the group in the vigorous state of activity as evidenced by the good turnout on Thursday. Beside the president, Ed Jolley, other retiring executive members were Marion Mason, secretary, Beverly Brown and Michel Hall.

After nominations and voting was completed, the newly elected executive took over the meeting with Allan Mitchell as president, Sharon Dunn, vice-president and secretary, Yvonne Wood, treasurer, and Bill Hicks, organizer of entertainment and social activities.

The meeting closed with an informal dance concluding at 10:00 p.m.

Public Works To Build Road On Southview

The city public works department will build the roadway on Southview, Hyde Park and Porter Avenues in the Parkwood Heights district instead of having the work done by contract.

Members of the city public works committee approved this action at this week's meeting of the committee and recommended to council that the work be done by public works employees and equipment.

Committee chairman Alderman Bruce Smith noted that tenders had been called for the work but prices quoted were considerably higher than the amount of money appropriated for the job. It was felt the work could be done for less money by the city. Work will commence Monday with a works foreman to be on the job continually.

The three streets on which the roadways are to be built are in the area between the present built-up section of Parkwood Heights and Churchill Heights where new houses are now being constructed by Milton Salz and Son.

First World War Veterans Honor Comrades of the Second Conflict

Veterans of World War I honored soldiers of The Second World War at a banquet of Branch 99, Belleville, of the Canadian Legion, at the Legion hall last night.

Guest speaker was Jack Burnett, regional vice-president Command and mayor of Cobourg. Also present were W. O. Bailey president, Scotty Broughton, district commander and Len Taylor, zone commander. The banquet was chaired by C. F. Leggat.

Citing the Belleville branch at the beginning of his speech, Mr. Burnett told the members: "Your progress has been steady, sure and sound and has been now for a number of years.

At the end of his address he again praised the club for its spirit, particularly in its membership drive.

Said Mr. Burnett: "I am sure . . . that you in Belleville are setting the pattern which might be followed by Ontario and in the provincial command."

He believes that District F right at the present is the leading district in the membership drive," he said.

OFFICERS FRAMED

He gave special commendation to president Bailey, zone commander Len Taylor, and Scotty Broughton and said "you are the kind of men we want."

In his address Mr. Burnett recalled how dubious World War I veterans were of the quality of the fighting men who came after them.

Then came the threat of the second war, "but still we did not have much faith in the youth of the day."

"Then suddenly we were at war. What happened?

The finest young in Canada left their positions, left their education, left their homes and rallied to the call of duty.

In numbers and calibre "the men who went to war were something to be proud of," he said.

They "established a glorious record and wrote another magnificent chapter in the history of Canada."

When they came back the Legion was willing to accept them "and they looked upon them perhaps with some degree of suspicion."

And the veterans of World War I "likewise," he said.

But finally the returned troops "saw that we had something . . . an organization worth perpetuating."

CAME IN LARGE NUMBERS

They came in large numbers, he said while "we of World War I got over that feeling and we welcomed the World War II veterans with the results of the convention last summer."

There I think 75 per cent of the delegates were World War II veterans.

Mr. Burnett said that it is from the younger that the strength of the legion is coming and that is where we have to look for the continued strength of the Legion."

He told the men of World War II "you have a great responsibility and a great challenge before you."

If there is peace then it is up to them to see the nation recognizes the sacrifice of those who served.

But if there is another war they also will have a great challenge to meet, he said.

"We veterans of World War I seem in a great hurry to be able to tell you . . . that we appreciate your work . . . what you have done in battle and what you have done in peace."

Len Taylor introduced the speaker while the toast to Second World War veterans was proposed by B. J. Theobald.

Shopping Mall Will Be Built In Buffalo

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—The city planning commission unveiled a plan Friday which would change a five-block section of downtown main street into a $10,000,000 shopping mall.

The mall would be a two-level affair, said the commission, the top being a garden-like patio surrounded by stores of various types.

The level below the mall would be for buses only. Passengers could leave the buses here and take escalators to the mall on the present street level. Other traffic would be rerouted to other streets.

The commission said the plan is an answer to "downtown deterioration," and added that although the project might be considered radical, "it is necessary for all large cities to restrict certain streets to pedestrian use only if they are to survive the inroads made in the last few years by the suburban shopping plazas."

The plan now goes to the com-

Roses Prove Not Unusual At Present Time

The editorial department of this newspaper has been flooded with calls this morning concerning roses in bloom at this time of year. It seems that when Mr. Thomas Wren reported picking three roses in his garden and it was mentioned as unusual, several people had proof that it was not.

The first call which came from Mrs. R. Mossman of 186 North Front Street, disclosed that she has somewhere in the vicinity of 200 roses in bloom at the front of her house. They are varied in color including pink, red and salmon. Mrs. Mossman insists that these bushes usually contain the beautiful flowers until November.

Another call came from Mrs. Al Shatraw of 63 South Fosier Ave. and she not only has roses in bloom, but both in a plain view of any disbelievers. Her roses include three bushels with blooms and another trio with small buds that will burst into blooms in a very short time. Mrs. Shatraw's garden includes a raspberry cane with small green berries and buds. Mrs. W. C. McCutcheon, 139 Albert St. also has roses in bloom in her garden.

Blooming roses in the fall are not uncommon.

Medical Officer Favors National Immunization Week

Tomorrow begins National Immunization Week across Canada. Sponsored by the Health League of Canada the campaign will endeavor in an all-out drive to strike home to parents the necessity for immunization of children.

Commenting yesterday on the importance of immunization, Dr. A. M. Brooks, medical officer for Belleville and Prince Edward County Health Unit, stated that present day medical opinion favors the protection of all infants starting at three months of age, against small pox, diphtheria, tetanus, whooping cough.

"Procedures used are safe, effective and inexpensive," he said.

"The need for immunization is shown by the fact that, except for small pox, these diseases are still present in this area. There was a case of diphtheria in Belleville in May of this year and in the same month a child died of tetanus in Prince Edward County.

"It is only by providing all children with the protection offered by immunization that outbreaks of such communicable diseases can be prevented.

"I have no hesitation in endorsing the principle of National Immunization Week and in urging all parents to have their children protected in this way."

BELANGER—GALBRAITH

Standards of white gladioli, fern and 'mums formed the background in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel on Saturday, September 11, at 10 a.m., for the marriage of Rosemary Jeanne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur R. Galbraith, 247 Charles Street, and John Roland Belanger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis John Belanger, 238 Albert Street.

Business Women Are Given Report On Convention

The Business and Professional Women's Club held their regular meeting at the YMCA, Campbell Street, on Monday evening.

President Dorothy Brown conducted the meeting and the enthusiasm of all members attending this first dinner of the 1954-55 season augurs well for the active winter ahead.

Mildred Moorman reported on the inter-club visit to Tweed for their charter night of the club there. This new club was inspired by president Dorothy Brown and it was a matter of great delight to her and a delegation of club members to be guests at this important banquet.

Final plans were made for a tea to be held in October at the home of Mrs. Irene Ranger, Hillside Street, which will climax Business Women's Week and great activity is anticipated around the "Talent Table."

During the course of the evening a "survey" contest developed the wits of the members, the prize going to Marjorie Sherman.

In closing, the president gave a brief resume of her delegates' viewpoints at attending the Provincial Convention held in Toronto this summer. In a concise and eloquent manner she brought home to all members the outstanding and far reaching achievements of women and how unlimited their horizons are.

From the inspiring address by Margaret Hyndman, Q.C., to the final banquet and address by Dr. Lillian Gilbreth, noted authoress and industrial engineer, the convention moved at an stimulating tempo and President Dorothy Brown transferred her enthusiasm in no small degree to her interested audience.

Honorary Regent Provincial IODE Guest Speaker

CAMPBELLFORD—Mrs. Cecil L. Brown of Hamilton, Honorary Regent of the Provincial Chapter, I.O.D.E., was the guest speaker at the Bemersyde Chapter, IODE, which was held at the summer home of Mrs. J. O. Befor. A potluck supper preceded the meeting.

The theme of Mrs. Brown's address was "Civil Defence", a topic of vital interest to everybody in these uncertain times. Mrs. Brown explained that she held the position of Provincial Liaison Officer under the Department of Services at home and abroad, and one of her duties was to work with the Department of Civil Defence at Ottawa.

"Civil defence is everybody's business", said Mrs. Brown. It was first organized in Canada in 1948, and in 1951 was placed under the Department of Health and Welfare of the Dominion Government. Its aim is to protect the civil population from disaster and bring relief as quickly as possible whether from peace time fires and floods, or after enemy attack in time of war.

In the event of an H-bomb being dropped on a Canadian city, there would be a vast damaged area bordering on the area of total destruction and the survival of thousands of injured and homeless would depend upon how quickly and efficiently aid was given.

The organization of effective civil defence depends on the co-operation of the Dominion, Provincial and municipal governments. Existing fire fighting and relief services would have to be expanded to meet the need. Thousands of workers would be recruited from local organizations interested in community welfare, of which the IODE is one. Ontario lags behind some of the provinces in its Civil Defence organization and Canada has turned out three outstanding young executives. Each of these girls is a credit to her country, not for her achievements alone, but for herself. . . . There are no finer types of young women for our children to look up to than Barbara Ann Scott, skater, Marion Stewart, golfer and now, Marilyn Bell, swimmer. They are wholesome, modest, loveable girls of whom any mother would be proud.

Copeland's Violet House at Erindale, Ontario, have a fine pamphlet on the growing of African Violets in the home. Some of the points made will be helpful to women new at this popular hobby.

You will have more blossoms; if you keep your plants in as small a pot as possible (two or three inches), according to the experts. Sandy clay pots are the best type to use.

Soil should be coarse enough not to pack down. Coarse loam allows the roots to travel freely. Preference is given to a mixture of three parts loam, one part peat moss and one part of sharp sand. No fertilizer is advised.

More African violets die from over - watering than from any other cause, they say. You should water only when the top soil feels dry to the touch. As long as you use water which is warmer than the leaf, it will not mark, unless of course, the sun shines on the leaf while it is moist.

As for sunshine, early morning or late afternoon exposure is good. Burning noon rays are too strong for violets. Keep the plants away from drafts.

Best plant food suggested is Rapid-grow 15-15-15 liquid plant food: at the rate of a half teaspoon to a pint of lukewarm water every second week for single blooms and every week for double blooming varieties.

GOLD CLEANER

If you have a son in the Boys' Band or a husband in the Navy, or any reason for cleaning the tarnish from gold braid, there's an easy way to do it. Use an art gum rubber on the braid, then brush off the rubber particles with a soft clothes brush.

SYMPATHY

All of us write a note to a friend who has had a death in the family. This is only good manners. But sincere sympathy is shown by the letters a person writes to the friend after the funeral. It is the friends who care enough to keep correspondence that are treasured person later who are the genuine people, the thoughtful ones.

ELDORADO-BANNOCKBURN W.I.

The Eldorado and Bannockburn Women's Institute held its September meeting at the home of Mrs. Beryle Bateman with 15 members and three visitors in attendance. The president, Mrs. Kenneth Bateman presided.

Mrs. Russel Empey took charge of the program. Readings were given by Mrs. Clifford Chambers, Mrs. Empey, Mrs. Cecil Blackburn and Mrs. Bernard Carman.

TRAINED WORKERS ESSENTIAL

For the smooth functioning of this organization trained civil defence workers are essential. To provide this personnel, a college has been established at Arnprior, on a former RCAF station. This college is affiliated with a similar school in Scotland, and many leaders trained during the blitz in Britain are taught the Canadians taking this training. Mrs. Brown said that the Canadian courses she took at this college, one on emergency clothing distribution and the other on emergency cooking. She found the courses intensive and practical, particularly the course in outdoor cooking on improvised fireplaces.

Mrs. E. C. Roberts thanked Mrs. Brown for her interesting talk on this very timely subject.

Mrs. F. G. DeCarrol, Regent of the Bemersyde Chapter, presided over the business meeting.

Mrs. J. M. Ferris and Mrs. Ross Douglas welcomed visitors of the month. Provided the Citizens' Band will co-operate the chapter will present Sunday evening concerts during the coming winter months.

The meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

Regent Mrs. Cecil de Campbellford, Mrs. Cecil L. Brown was the guest speaker at the Bemersyde Chapter meeting, I.O.D.E., held at the summer home of Mrs. J. O. Befor. A potluck supper preceded the meeting.

The theme of Mrs. Brown's address was "Civil Defence", a topic of vital interest to everybody in these uncertain times. Mrs. Brown explained that she held the position of Provincial Liaison Officer under the Department of Services at home and abroad, and one of her duties was to work with the Department of Civil Defence at Ottawa.

"Civil defence is everybody's business", said Mrs. Brown. It was first organized in Canada in 1948, and in 1951 was placed under the Department of Health and Welfare of the Dominion Government. Its aim is to protect the civil population from disaster and bring relief as quickly as possible whether from peace time fires and floods, or after enemy attack in time of war.

In the event of an H-bomb being dropped on a Canadian city, there would be a vast damaged area bordering on the area of total destruction and the survival of thousands of injured and homeless would depend upon how quickly and efficiently aid was given.

The organization of effective civil defence depends on the co-operation of the Dominion, Provincial and municipal governments. Existing fire fighting and relief services would have to be expanded to meet the need. Thousands of workers would be recruited from local organizations interested in community welfare, of which the IODE is one. Ontario lags behind some of the provinces in its Civil Defence organization and Canada has turned out three outstanding young executives. Each of these girls is a credit to her country, not for her achievements alone, but for herself. . . . There are no finer types of young women for our children to look up to than Barbara Ann Scott, skater, Marion Stewart, golfer and now, Marilyn Bell, swimmer. They are wholesome, modest, loveable girls of whom any mother would be proud.

Home, School Group Greets New Parents

Thursday afternoon was "New Parents' Day" at Prince Charles School. Mothers of new students at Queen Mary and Prince Charles Schools were entertained by the Home and School Association executive of these schools and all enjoyed a most happy afternoon.

The guests were welcomed at the door by the executive of the two schools. Mr. H. B. Frink and Mr. J. E. Bateman, and by Mrs. J. Hugh, president of the Joint Home and School group. Each mother was given a name tag and was asked to sign the guest book. If any had brought along a tiny caffeine, for these lucky ones whisked away by senior pupils and kept amused while mother enjoyed a free hour.

Members of the Home and School executive acted as escort for each tour of the classrooms, after which everyone gathered in the auditorium.

President Mrs. Pugh heartily welcomed the mothers and gave an interesting outline of the aims and ideas of the Home and School Association. She explained that Prince Charles branch of the association has its tenth anniversary this year and from its inception has been one of the most active groups in the city. Mrs. Pugh explained that the executive which makes plans for the Home and School Association is made up of mothers and fathers, principals of the two schools and one teacher from each school. Executive members and teachers were asked to stand and were introduced to the guests. Mothers were told that Home and School provides a convenient opportunity to visit the teachers, for learning about how children are taught, what they are taught and how they can help their children grow into healthy, useful citizens. Programs are planned to teach and also to provide entertainment and good fellowship.

Mrs. S. Reid, membership convener, spoke of the fine membership of the Queen Mary-Prince Charles group and urged all the new mothers to become active members.

A contest designed to help the mothers get acquainted with each other and with the teachers and most worth-while organization.

Home and School members was next on the agenda, prize winners were Mrs. MacPherson, Miss Wilson, Mrs. Hodge, Mrs. Sprague and Mrs. Fletcher.

KINDERGARTEN EXPLAINED

Mrs. George Ling introduced Miss Margaret Hillis, kindergarten teacher, who spoke to the mothers on the subject "Your Child's First Year at School." In an interesting and often humorous vein, Miss Hillis told of the beginnings of kindergartens in Europe, first as a private venture and then as a convenience for working mothers during the First World War. The kindergarten now forms a most important factor of the public school system. Of particular interest is the kindergarten-primary program which is designed to prepare children who have been the centre of attraction at home for the changes and adjustment which must be met before they enter grade one. Children learn to share, co-operate with each other, lead and follow. They develop initiative and learn to obey rules as they work at the level top and matching jacket.

The bridesmaids, Miss Mary Lou Cook, sister of the bride, and Miss Beverley Blue wore gowns in aqua blue similar in design to that of the matron of honor's. Their flowers were aqua blue baby 'mums with cream carnations with shrimp markings in them and they were floral headdresses matching the flowers in their bouquets.

Mr. Andrew Guthrie, brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman. Mr. Harry Ashton, Foxboro, uncle of the bridegroom, Mr. Robert Bower, Tweed, cousin of the bride, were ushers.

For the reception in the Parish Hall, the bride's mother received in an imported gown of pure silk taffeta with nylon tulle panniers in a delicate blush beige. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother wearing a lovely gown of chiffon and silk lace in Lavender blue, the bodice accented with iridescent beads. Both were corsaged to match the colors in their dresses.

For the wedding trip to Lake Placid and New York state, the bride donned a turquoise blue striped coat dress with red topand black accessories with corsage of white gardenias and white baby 'mums.

Guests were present from Senora Falls, N.Y., Detroit, Michigan, Toronto, Cobourg, Moose Jaw, Sask., Victoria, B.C., Tweed and Picton.

The girls in the office of Stewart-Warner gave a dinner party in honor of the bride and presented her with a trilight lamp; the office staff of Stewart-Warner made the presentation of a silver gravy ladle and tray and the bride's mother entertained a trousseau tea on Sunday, September 12, at her home.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY GIFT SHOULD BE FO R BOTH

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please settle a discussion my wife and I are having. A married couple, very dear friends of ours, are quite soon to celebrate their Twentieth Wedding Anniversary, and of course we will be invited to the party. This last summer, when we were in town, my wife bought a quite sizable bottle of perfume which, she says, is a favorite with the wife. My wife wants to give her this bottle of perfume as their anniversary present, insisting this is proper. I insist that a present for a wedding anniversary must be something that both can use and enjoy. Who's right about this? — Husband

You are, sir! Of course a wedding anniversary present should be something for the couple. A bottle of perfume for the wife would be entirely acceptable as a present for this occasion.

SHOULD INCLUDE NAME OF HUSBAND IN WEDDING PRESENTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Ever since we have been married, my husband and I have had ways signed both our names to all greeting cards that were sent and we signed both names to the cards we enclosed in wedding presents. Christmas presents and any flowers we sent. Several weeks ago my husband was assigned overseas duty in the Army. It seems all wrong for me to send cards and presents in my name only, and I'd love to include his name, as I always have done. All our relatives and friends know he's abroad, so they would understand. But would it be proper for me to sign his name too? — Wife-Hero of Husband-There

Yes, Ma'am. . .It is entirely proper for you to include his name with yours on all these cards for all occasions. This will give more delight to all concerned with the cards and the presents!

HER HUSBAND DOESN'T WANT BIRTHDAY PRESENTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I would like to give a Saturday evening buffet party in honor of my husband's birthday. He thinks it's a fine plan to have the party, but insists I mustn't tell those I invite that it's to be his birthday, because his would mean that they would feel obligated to bring presents. Should I tell the guests?

— Amy

Better not . . since Your Man doesn't approve. And most men feel the way he does. However, I do think there should always be a birthday cake at a birthday party. At your party this to be a surprise,

DIRECTIONS FOR THE HOME SHAMPOO

With time at their heels and grocery bills out of this world, more women are giving themselves the attention and the care once enjoyed at the beauty shop. Mothers of small children, who have no household help, have small chance of indulging in professional treatments, but they can be well for them to learn the proper routine for complexion care, manicuring and hair-conditioning.

With short hair still the mode, shampooing is not as difficult as it was in the days of the pegs boy or long bob. Yet it is vitally important that it should be thorough, that every particle of soap be rinsed away. Unless that is done, the growth will lack lustre, every shaft will cling to its neighbor, wave lines will do a fade-away, ringlets will go limp. Not only that, but the scalp will be unlavorably affected.

The right medium must be selected. Cosmetic chemists offer special shampoos for oily hair, for dry hair. You have a choice of liquid soaps or creams, which are best for shampoo purposes. If a liquid, dilute it with two-half hot water.

Start with a thorough brushing to remove surface dust. Groom a strand at a time with a rolling motion of the brush. Spread fingers and thumbs over your scalp and friction briskly to loosen any dead skin flakes that my be present. Then work the hair forward from the nape line.

Use the bath spray with water fairly hot. Pour on a little of the liquid soap or rub in a tablespoonful of the cream while holding your head over the wash bowl. Do circles with your fingers along the forward, side and back hair liner. A thorough rinsing with the spray after that.

A second application of the cleansing agent is necessary so that a strong lather will form. Don't stint on time or elbow grease. Don't hurry the second rinsing.

of course, brought in festively lighted, just before you are to serve the dessert. I'm sure your husband wouldn't mind this, since, when the cake is brought in, it'll be too late for the guests to bring presents!

PRESENT TO JOE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Joe and I have been good friends for over two years. Not engaged, not "serious." Now he's entering the Service. Would it be proper for me to give him a "going-away present"? — Elsa Yes! Indeed proper, and a fine, friendly gesture. . .If you choose a gift appropriate to the friendship.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

SOMETIMES THE SMALL THINGS HURT THE WORST

Sometimes it's the seemingly small things that are the hardest to bear. From the letter that follows, I somehow get the impression that, pathetically, the woman who writes it might be able to put up with her husband's infidelity if he ever gave the tiniest evidence that he thought of her occasionally, by buying her a birthday present, or other little gifts.

She writes:

"I have been married for some time and have a large family. My husband's work takes him into different states, and everywhere he goes, he takes up with a woman. He denies this, but after he gets home I often find lipstick on his handkerchiefs.

"About two years ago, he claimed to be in love with a woman near here, and would dress up and go to see her, which was very hard to take. The woman knew he was married and had several children. Finally he quit that, but still has women friends wherever he goes.

"He never tells me he loves me unless I ask him. Then he will say yes. He never gives me anything on birthdays or anniversaries or any other time, and if I say anything about this, he will say 'I give you the money, get what you want.' But you know how much it means to receive a gift that a loved one has selected, especially your husband.

"Do you think he really loves me, or do you think I should give him his freedom? Do you think if I didn't try so hard to be good and kind to him, he would change? I've seen wives treat their husbands very bad, and still their husbands loved them. I've talked to lawyers, but they tell me not to get a divorce because of our children."

Difficult and unhappy as this woman's situation is I still believe she should think a long time before making any decision to leave her husband. She says she has a large family of children and, if she did leave her husband, would she be able to support them If her husband proved unreliable in this respect? She says more on this point, which makes me wonder if it has ever even occurred to her to think about the future from this point of view.

Since this husband is away so much of the time, perhaps his wife could put up with him as he is

QUESTION:

I have a family of one husband and three children and we all enjoy eating chicken with rice soup for lunch. Since the price is 2 tins for 35c it is too expensive for my budget. Could I get a wonderful help to all homemakers . . . here comes my request: Would you send me your recipe for the aforementioned soup?

When chicken is priced at 39c per lb. a lot of soup could be made. I would like to make a batch and save it. If this is not possible then a recipe for small amounts. I tried one recipe which called for 2 chicken wings, 1 potato, 1 carrot, and 1 onion, which when cooked was poured over the rice (cooked) in soup dish. My husband didn't like it. Neither did I. It was slimy. Also I would appreciate having a foolproof recipe for soft cookies with slither dates until the children are old enough to give her some financial help if she finally decides to leave him. In the meantime, she should live her own life as much as she can, and regard her husband, so far as possible, like a boarder in her house at the times when he is home. That is, let her treat him with polite friendliness, but not put herself out for him in any way.

I don't believe it would change him in any way to stop nagging or trying to be "good and kind" to him. I think it would just make matters much worse. And no matter whether or not he really loves her, he could hardly help but care much and treat her as he does. It's likely that he is fond of her, so long as she doesn't interfere with what he wants to do, and he would not want her to leave him because she is useful to him in keeping him comfortable at home and taking care of the children. More than that, would be hard to say.

It might help this wife if she were to have a talk with someone at her local social service agency. Such an organization exists for the purpose of helping people with family problems of all kinds, and the one in her town, would, I am sure, do everything possible to try and find a solution to hers.

If she doesn't know the name and address of the local organization, she should ask her minister or priest, her family doctor or her newspaper. Through some one of these sources, she should be able to get the necessary information.

or raisins or both. My husband likes nice soft cookies and so far I haven't turned any out. Could you also give me the recipe for mest pastries (like are made in the bake shop? Flat, juicy meat with onions, ground which is lovely flaky pastry.—Elsie.

ANSWER:

I can try Elsie.

HOMEMADE CHICKEN SOUP WITH RICE

Stock: Place in large kettle a 5 lb. hen or stewing chicken cut up and cover with 12 cups cold water, cover and bring slowly to boil. Remove scum. Add 1-3 cup diced carrots, 1-3 cup each chopped celery and onion, 2 tablespoons chopped parsley and 2 teaspoons salt. Cover and simmer gently for 3 hours, removing scum occasionally. Strain and chill. The layer of fat on top will help preserve the stock but it should be kept covered in coldest part of refrigerator, but not more than about five days without reboiling. Skim off fat before making 1 quart up into soup this way. Heat 1 quart strained, fat-skimmed broth to boiling. Add 1 teaspoon monosodium glutamate, 4 tablespoons long-grain rice (or more, if desired) and bring to boiling, then simmer until rice is tender —about 20 minutes." Now add 1 cup cooked chicken cut in small dice, reheat. Taste for salt and pepper and add enough to suit your taste. — There are endless variations of this. You might add a small amount of tomato and finely cut celery. At the last minute you might add 1 tablespoon each finely cut green onion tops and chopped parsley.

The leftover fat may be used to make tea biscuits or gingersnaps or cornbread, etc. The leftover chicken meat may be used for chicken a la king or sandwiches. The leftover skin may be used to add to other ground meat for sandwich fillings.

I have never discovered a method of making the following cookies crisp. They always remain soft. I hope your husband likes them.

REFRIGERATOR COOKIES

(Soft.)

In a large bowl mix together 1 cup soft shortening or butter or half butter and half shortening, 1-3 cup each white sugar and light brown sugar, 2 eggs, until thoroughly mixed. Sift all-purpose flour and measure 2 3-4 cups and sift it with 1-2 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 or 2 teaspoons cinnamon, over the creamed mixture and mix in well. Add 1 teaspoon vanilla and 1-3 cup each finely chopped dates and nuts. Chill in bowl until it is hard enough to handle, then shape into two long rolls on two sheet heavy wax paper. Roll smoothly in the wax paper and chill until hard. Cut into 1-8 inch slices and bake on ungreased cookie sheet at 400 deg. Fahr. 6 to 8 minutes. Watch these closely so not one burns. No matter where or how you store them they stay soft.

Sez recipe next Monday for Individual Meat Pies.

Family Lived Ten Days in Car By River Bank

MONTREAL (CP) —A 21-year-old couple and their 3-month-old daughter who have been living for 10 days in a car on a river bank in suburban Lachine, have found a home.

Police said since the couple's plight became known Friday more than 30 offers of accommodation were received. Tom Dean, his wife, Jeannine and little Doreen now are comfortably settled in a flat in downtown Montreal, they said.

Earlier, Jeannine told of the difficulties of living in the cramped, unheated quarters.

"It gets cold," petite Jeannine told reporters. Jeannine and her husband Tom, unemployed for five months, moved into the car 11 days ago with their 13-month-old baby after their landlord decided against children.

Tom said the car wasn't paid for and a finance company representative came around to see him Thursday. The man, after studying the plight of the Deans, told Tom not to worry about the car.

Schroeder of the Supreme Court of Ontario, rejected the demands of Local 200 UAW-CIO for an increase in wages. The union's demand was for wage and fringe benefits equivalent to 51c an hour, or an additional cost to the company of $14,000,000 annually. Subsequently these demands have been reduced to the equivalent of 29c an hour or an additional $8,500,000 annually.*

We believe, and have always believed in good wages, and good working conditions for our employees.

In the past five years, the average cost of an hour of labour in our Windsor plants has gone up 40.7 per cent, an increase of 59c an hour for wages and fringe benefits. Since the last contract was signed on February 19, 1952, Ford of Canada employees, including members of Local 200 bargaining unit, have received increases amounting to 2c an hour, which is equal to about $3,000,000 annually. The latest increase of 2c an hour went into effect on September 19, 1954.

During the past five years, average prices of Ford passenger cars, apart from sales and excise taxes, have risen only 4.8% per cent. Now we are in a position where added cost, in the form of higher wages, without a corresponding increase in productivity, would have to be passed on to the car buying public in the form of higher prices. Higher prices result in fewer sales in both the domestic and export markets. The simple fact is that fewer sales mean fewer jobs. Canada today needs more employment —not more unemployment.

MORE THAN $80.00

The following summary of wage rates and benefits is taken directly from the majority report of the Conciliation Board. Referring to the demands of Local 200 UAW-CIO in Windsor, the report reads:

"Before discussing these demands it will be useful to consider the remuneration and benefits enjoyed by the employees under the existing agreements. It has been established that:

"(a) The employees, after 320 hours of employment, are paid wages at the rate of $1.56 to $2.21 per hour and the average hourly wage is $1.69. (Both figures including a 6c per hour cost of living allowance but not the cost of fringe benefits.)

"(b) The company pays at the rate of time and one-half for all work performed in excess of 8 hours per day and for work performed on statutory holidays, including Sundays. Employees engaged on 7-day operations do not receive time and one-half for work performed on Saturday as such, but receive time and one-half for all work performed on the 6th day of their scheduled work week.

"(c) A night shift premium of 7c per hour is paid for all work performed on the afternoon and midnight shifts.

"(d) Employees are paid 8 hours' pay at their regular hourly rates for 6 unworked statutory holidays, and any employee who may be required to work on such a holiday is paid this bonus in addition to time and one-half for the number of hours actually worked by him on that day.

"(e) An employee with one but less than three years' seniority is given 40 hours' vacation pay annually and one with three or more years' seniority is given 80 hours' vacation pay annually. In 1954 nearly all employees in the bargaining unit will fall within the latter category.

"(f) Employees called in for work but for whom work is not available receive three hours' pay at their regular hourly rate.

"(g) Employees enjoy two ten-minute rest periods for each shift and a five-minute rest period before any over-time period which is expected to exceed two hours.

"(h) In 1950 the company built a commissary building and 18 canteens at a cost of $400,000.00 and endeavored to operate this food service through a caterer at cost, but has so far sustained a loss in connection with this operation.

"(i) On completion of a three months' probationary period of service, each employee is provided with insurance fully paid for by the company affording protection as hereinafter stated.

"(1) Life insurance from $3,600.00 to $7,200.00, according to earnings.

"(2) Hospital accommodation for employees and dependents at $5.00 or $6.00 per day, depending upon earnings.

"(3) Special hospital services such as X-rays, up to ten times the daily hospital benefit.

"(4) Surgical services for the employees to an amount not exceeding $200.00.

"(5) Weekly sickness and accident benefits for employees up to a maximum of 26 weeks of from $55.00 to $30.00 per week, depending upon earnings.

"(6) A monthly pension of $55.00 for each hourly rated employee at age 65 after thirty years of credited service and for a pro rated amount for employees with ten and less than thirty years' service. (Not subject to deduction if pensioner receives Government old age pension.). This pension plan is non-contributory and is provided at the sole expense of the company.

"(7) The president and financial secretary-treasurer of the local are given leave of absence but enjoy full insurance coverage and future service pension credits, while devoting their whole time to the discharge of their union duties.

"(8) The 55 stewards and 14 committeemen are given a maximum time allowance of 2 hours each working day or 3 hours on any two consecutive working days for performing union duties, which time is paid for by the company.

"(9) Five plant committeemen are appointed by the union, two of whom are permitted to give their full time to the discharge of their union duties, one is allowed 4 hours per working day, one 3 hours and the other 2½ hours — all of which time is paid for exclusively by the company.

* "It is pointed out that in the month of March, 1954, the average hourly earnings, including overtime and night shift premiums and the 6c cost-of-living allowances, was $1.74 (the overtime factor in March, 1954, averaged 3.1 cents per hour for each employee, compared with an average for the year 1953 of 3.3 cents per hour). It is estimated that the cost of existing fringe benefits for members of the bargaining unit concerned is 30c per hour, which, combined with the average hourly earnings above mentioned, resulted in an average cost of $2.04 for each hour worked by the employees of this company in March, 1954. Vacations and statutory holidays paid for by the company, together with amounts paid by it for pensions, life, surgical and hospital insurance and other like benefits are direct benefits to the employee and should be taken into account to the same extent as if the cost thereof were actually paid in hand to the employee or placed to his credit in a bank in addition to his remuneration for hours worked. In that view of the matter the members of the bargaining unit were receiving an average rate of $2.04 per hour for the work performed by them in March, 1954."

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

TOPS IN ITS LINE

Sports Illustrated, the newest sports magazine to hit the newsstands, reached Belleville last week and sportdom here immediately placed a general stamp of approval on it. In fact it copies were sold as fast, dealers "run out" practically before the edition was cost.

"Sports Illustrated" takes a rightful place in the "Royal Family" of pictorial magazines. In fact it looks from here as though it will be a king in its own right. It is the type that one does not look aside carelessly after reading, but places carefully away for future reference.

It's easy flowing articles are a pleasure to read. Its art work is an eye-pleasing parade of color and careful selection. It is not cluttered with annoying statistics, nor boring briefs. It is a credit to its publishers and bids fair to take a high place in the minds of a sometimes too-critical public.

FEDDER TO TACKLE BIG SWIM

The following letter to this department speaks for itself:

"Tommy Fedder, 5 feet tall and weighing 145 lbs., will definitely attempt to swim across the "Strait of Juan de Fuca" some time during next August. The husky little swimmer has had plenty of experience and knows exactly what to expect in a swim across there. He knows the ebb tides, the low slack and the high slack and more ebb tides. He also knows that no one has ever been able to swim across there and still has yet quit enough to try it and what's more he believes he will make it.

"Tommy has lots of long swims behind him, the last one was on July 4th when he swam from Belleville to Trenton and back again, a distance of some 26 miles, and of course in 1950 Tommy established in the 15 mile swim at the CNE and as a matter of fact he finished in better condition than any of the other swimmers. You can get verification of that from Eddie Rosch of Toronto, who is the father and coach of Wilma Rosch, the only Canadian to swim the English Channel.

"Tommy plans on swimming outside until the end of October. He then will swim in the YMCA pool until the end of April. Then he will start training outside again in cold water under the watchful eye of his pal and handler, Bill McMurter.

"The two athletes will leave for Victoria about one month before the attempt. They may have to rough it a bit owing to lack of finances, but they are going anyway and they are confident that they will be successful.

"Let's get behind these men. Let's show them that the city of Belleville can and will come through with some financial aid. Let's get a fund underway right now and send the boys on their way in style and give Tommy a better chance."

SATURDAY FUN

Providing there's not ice on the village pond, and weather more conducive to Christmas shopping than diamond sport, there will be three outstanding attractions here this afternoon and evening for the faithful.

Baseball enthusiasts will get another chance to see the Estes in action when they clash with the Oshawa Transporters at Exhibition park in an under-the-lights tussle. The Oshawas won the first of the best-of-three series in a mediocre game on Thursday night, but the Goyermen have the layoff wrinkles out of their systems and are determined to square the series tonight. A win for the Goyermen will put them in the finals for the Ontario senior baseball title.

Along the softball rialtos the upsurging Point Anne intermediate 'A' squad meets a toughie in the Stratford Kroehlers, who were eliminated last year by the Walkerton team in the OASA semi-finals. Walkerton in turn ousted the Oz Foisters in the titular series. Stratford boasts a powerful team and the Ellistmen will have to go all out to cop this all-important first of the 2-3 series. Elliott will likely send at Maracle to the mound in an effort to stifle the bludgeons of the furniture men. Game at Point Anne starting at 4.15.

Here in Belleville a hot Bobcats squad, fresh from a 7-3 victory over the Peterborough "Lunches" take on the Petes in the second game of the intermediate "AA" series. The Cats are hithitting a strong stride since they went into the playdowns and Marse Robert Temple has high hopes of taking this series on straight victories. Game at the CNRAA Recreation Park starting 2.30.

Have Two Games to Crack It After Bowing to Tigers 6-4; Orioles Nip Attendance Mark

By REN PHILEGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Baltimore Orioles end their first season of operation today with a surplus of managers, a shortage of playing talent, a seventh place finish and more than a million customers through the turnstiles.

For their final two games against the Chicago White Sox, the Orioles had four, that's right four, managers—Rogers Hornsby, who hasn't been near the club in two seasons, Marty Marion, who also runs the White Sox, Jimmy Dykes and Paul Richards.

As of Sunday it will be Richards all alone. Hornsby has his last payment on a three-year contract with the old St. Louis Browns and Marion, fired last season, has finished his contract. Dykes, working on a one-year deal, has been replaced by Richards.

ONE NOTCH HIGHER

The seventh place finish is one notch higher than the club finished a year ago when it was clobbered by tonsu rookie Billy O'Dell, his first major league victory.

NEED HITTERS

"If you could just put a couple of good hitters in the lineup we'd see quite a difference," Richards declared.

Baltimore and the White Sox, like the other 24 major league teams, were scheduled to end their season Sunday but the game was moved up to free the park for a football game.

Elsewhere in the majors Friday the Detroit Tigers whipped the Baltimore Orioles, Cleveland Indians 6-4, Philadelphia surprised the New York Yankees 5-1, Washington won twice at Boston, 1-0 in 11 innings and 5-3, Milwaukee flopped in its protested game with Cincinnati and won 4-3, then defeated St. Louis 4-2 in the first three-team doubleheader in baseball history. Brooklyn shaded Pittsburgh 6-5 and the champion New York Giants split at Philadelphia, winning 1-0 and losing 7-2.

TWO GAMES LEFT

Cleveland's loss left the Indians only two games in which to break the all-time winning record of 116 games in the American League. Ted Gray held them to two hits in the first eight innings and a ninth inning rally fell short.

Arnold Portocarrero of the Athletics, one of the only bright spots in the Philadelphia setback, held the Yankees to five hits, his while Jack Littrell and Lou Limmer hit home runs.

Yankees Slap Back At Talkative Lane

NEW YORK (AP)—New York Yankees, a favorite but usually silent target of general manager manager Frank Lane of Chicago White Sox, answered back Friday for the first time.

George Weiss, general manager of the former world champions, called a special press conference and declared: "Lane is throwing up a smokescreen to take the lesson off his own failure."

Weiss took special exception to a recent Lane interview in Cleveland in which the White Sox boss blasted Casey Stengel, Yankee manager, and the Yankee farm system, declaring the New Yorkers "will never dominate the game again as they have for the last five years."

On the contrary, Weiss said, "I'm extremely pleased with our prospects. We have the best batch of players coming out of military service in the next two years of any club in the league. We've got a pretty good nucleus from our farm system right now." He ticked off the names of Mickey Mantle, Yogi Berra, Hank Bauer, Bob Grim, Whitey Ford, Tom Morgan and Gil McDougald.

"We've been building up a streak for the past five seasons, and have been sacrificing young playing talent to keep the streak alive. Now we are in a position to make more rational deals."

Trailermen Make Lacrosse History, Win Mann Cup Four Straight Times

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Peterborough Trailermen have made lacrosse history in achieving a record that will likely stand for years unless some other club comes along to dominate the game.

The eastern champions won the Mann Cup and the Canadian senior title for the fourth straight year by defeating Victoria Shamrocks 19-3 to take the best-of-seven game final 4-1. No other team since box lacrosse was introduced 23 years ago has ever won the title four seasons in succession.

Like all champions the Trailermen showed that moving the fifth game to the indoor civic Arena made no difference. The rest of the series would also have been switched to the arena if Peterborough hadn't wrapped it up Friday night.

The series threatened to develop into a first-class rhubarb after the fourth game when the Shamrocks threatened to withdraw if the remaining games weren't switched from the outdoor Miller Bowl. Rain forced postponement three times before an agreement was reached Wednesday night that the series would be wound up indoors if the Shamrocks consented to playing the fourth game outdoors.

The change of scene to the hardfloor surface of the arena didn't bother the Trailermen Friday night. It took them a while to get going, leading only 1-0 at the end of the first quarter and then being outscored 2-1 in the second quarter.

But the Trailermen then came up with the outstanding rally of the series. They romped in eight straight goals, three in third quarter and five in the final session before the western champions finally managed to get another goal —their final tally.

A crowd of 2,000 saw the Shamrocks, whose only victory came in the first game, collapse under the relentless attack of the Peterborough forwards and the standout defensive contributions of goalie Moon Wooton. Harry Wipper, Jim McNulty, Bobby Allan, Ross Elsler and Tony Longo each came up with two-goal efforts to share the Peterborough scoring. Lou Nickle, Jerry Fitzgerald and McNulty counted two assists apiece.

Pete Landers, Whitey Severson and Bob Monaghan each scored one for the Trailermen and Monaghan and Ferguson also picked up assists.

Victoria, who now has played on five straight Mann Cup, titlewinning teams was presented after the game with the Mike Kelly Medal as the most outstanding player in his team in the series. It was the third time in five years that the big netminder has won the award.

Besides playing on Peterborough's four Mann Cup teams, Wooton also was with Owen Sound when they won the Mann Cup in 1950.

"I buy my insurance from an agent for the same reason that I buy my honey from a grocer rather than a bee. While I might save money by dealing directly with the bee, there's a good possibility that my lack of training, knowledge, and experience would result in my getting stung. Why should I gamble on my own trial and error method when I can secure the services of a man who has devoted years to the study and application of all the different coverages required by all the different people for all their different needs?" So says an insurance buyer.

'Gentleman', Paul End Season In Spectacular Mat Display

By GEO. H. CARVER
(Sports Editor)

Take a man off a steady diet of pork and baked beans, put a nice steak in front of him—and see how he likes it.

That's what happened to the wrestling faithful at Memorial Arena last night. They like both new twist in their menu and almost 2,000 went home smacking their lips.

Head waiter Walt Gerow tabled two tasty dishes in the form of Gentleman Jack Claybourne and Quebec's Paul Baillargeon, and the crowd asked for "seconds".

The "mat meal" ended as it should. It was a draw after both Jack and Paul had worn a full and both being gentlemen, each kicked the other in the pass in a farewell gesture for the count.

Referee Sam Godder never had an easier time. He ran out of the rules midway through bout and once slapped himself in the face so he could get mad at somebody.

He refused to talk back to himself, and stayed neutral in the dressing room on a self-disqualification.

It was clean hard scientific wrestling throughout and the faithful at times sat, stood and crouched in more or less amazement as the wing gladiators struggled in the finest exhibition of "rassling" as it should be seen in many a moon.

CLEAN ALL THROUGH

There was not a "dirty" gesture all night. Both Claybourne and Baillargeon disdained the time-old tactics of dealing "under the table" blows, paper wads, spy punches, hair pulling, and all the tricks known to the "heavy" side of the sport.

They came off the ropes in clean breaks. They grappled in mid-ring in a silence so heavy you could hear the guy in the back seats swallow as he took a sly nip from his "mickey". The faithful purred from amazement and mostly from enjoyment gave both men a rousing ovation as they "broke" cleanly.

To those who like the "blood-and-thunder" type of wrestling, the bout was a keen disappointment. To the greater majority, which although it likes a good fight, delights in the mat menu, appreciates the better style and gave it a vociferous stamp of approval.

Gentleman Jack Claybourne, who has been around wrestling rings so long he is coming up for a Tooney long-service medal next year, has lost none of his speed and agility. He matched it against the brawn and muscles of his much younger opponent who is not averse to tossing a horse out of the way, but he invented four times.

The Redmen fumbled on their first chance in the major league kick-off on their 25. McMaster's Darragh drove deep into enemy side to the five, following the recovery and Pelech carried the ball on the next play to the 2½ where Quarterback Jackson crossed standing up for the first touch of the game.

The Montrealers stunned by the explosive Marauders, came back with a fine passing attack with Quinn going for 55 yards from his own goal. McGill's Redmen found a 15-yard pass to Hutchison bringing the Redmen to McMaster's 21. Two short heaves advanced McGill to the Marauders' one but they failed to score in three tries.

McMaster took the ball on the one and kicked on second down. It was blocked by Temple and Gill and Hern English flopped on it to give McGill's Redmen their first major. Parsenie converted.

The half-time score was 12-6 for McMaster.

McMaster Whips McGill Redmen In Exhibition

HAMILTON (CP) — A polished and passing McMaster University squad whipped Larry Sullivan's McGill Redmen 26-6 Friday night in the first game of a home-and-home series before 2,000 fans in Hamilton's Civic Stadium.

The Marauders scored twice in the first quarter on two flings by McMaster's quarterback Jackson. The Redmen blocked a kick in the first minute but their only major threat all the 25. McMaster's Darragh drove deep into enemy side to the five, following the recovery and Pelech carried the ball on the next play to the 2½ where Quarterback Jackson crossed standing up for the first touch of the game.

The Montrealers stunned by the explosive Marauders, came back with a fine passing attack with Quinn going for 55 yards from his own goal. McGill's Redmen found a 15-yard pass to Hutchison bringing the Redmen to McMaster's 21. Two short heaves advanced McGill to the Marauders' one but they failed to score in three tries.

McMaster took the ball on the one and kicked on second down. It was blocked by Temple and Gill and Hern English flopped on it to give McGill's Redmen their first major. Parsenie converted.

The half-time score was 12-6 for McMaster.

Official Course Record Set By John Serafin

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Setting an official course record over the long 6,906-yard parks links layout, John Serafin of Fox Hill Country Club, West Pittston, Pa., took a three-stroke lead in the $1,500 Niagara Parks Open tournament at the end of the first 18 holes here Friday.

Playing steady and consistent golf, Serafin carded a 35 on the out nine and a 36 coming in for a two-under par 69 in his bid for the $300 top money in the two-day, 36-hole championship. Tied for second place at Jamestown, N.Y., and Lloyd Tucker of Kitchener-Waterloo tied on the runner-up spot on opening day with even par 72s.

Serafin tied the official record set by Dr. Cary Middlecoff and equalled by Julius Boros, former U.S. Open champion. However, their 69s were in exhibition play so the Serafin total goes into the books as the course record.

Moe Norman of Kitchener and Emil Pasnuk of Buffalo led 15 amateurs into today's round with 74s.

In addition to the 15 amateurs, 45 pros will move into today's final 36-hole play.

Many Sportsmen Dislike Walking

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT
(Noted Sportsman, Author and Creator of Sehnar Tables)

Two years ago a friend and I decided to fatten up our meat supply in our freezers by adding to it some venison. Normally I do not hunt deer, but that year our game commission strongly urged the reduction of the herd, so we set out.

We figured it wouldn't be too much trouble to spot our deer from the car, so we cruised for half a day. So, evidently, did most of the deer hunters in the country. By lunchtime we had seen no sign of deer.

Finally, we resigned ourselves to it—we had to walk. Accordingly, we took an old logging road that led up the mountainside. Once on top, perhaps four miles from the car, we set about the serious business of deer hunting. In about an hour we were on the way home with two deer loaded into the trunk.

One of the best trout streams in this section flows through a canyon which allows only three or four places of easy access. These are from two to three miles apart. Within half a mile of these spots there is a well-defined path beside the stream.

Beyond the half-mile mark the path grows faint and finally disappears. That is where I usually begin to fish. As a general rule I have about a mile of undisturbed water all to myself, purely because the average fisherman will not walk that far from his car.

Why the average man is so averse to walking, I'm sure I don't know. Maybe he is so used to riding in his car that walking is a distinct effort. Perhaps he fears becoming lost. The fact remains that the great majority of the hunters and fishermen simply will not walk more than a mile or so from their parked car in the best of sport.

Now don't misunderstand me—I do not like to walk for walking's sake. On the other hand, I think nothing of doing five or five and a half miles incidental to 18 holes of golf.

The same holds true for an undisturbed section of trout stream or an un-shot woodland. Why? I can lose the crowd—not an easy thing to do nowadays—and I will, providing there is the prospect of good sport ahead.

The conservation authorities do what they can to encourage the separation of hunters from their automobiles. There are laws against loaded guns in cars and shooting from cars. In some states a man cannot hunt within a certain distance from the highway.

Be that as it may, a game animal or bird which makes its home several miles from the nearest highway is an excellent insurance risk. Most folks will not walk that far to do their shooting.

BOATS IN TROUT STREAMS

One of the trout streams that I fish a great deal is a large stream as trout streams go. While it is only about 25 feet pronounced "crik" in Pennsylvania) almost anywhere else it would be called a river. In it are one or two pools where I find it impossible to throw a cast to the far bank.

Using breast-high waders, I find that I can cast a fly to almost any desired spot in that stream. Moreover, the wide waters allow freedom for the back cast, eliminating unpleasant complications with streamside foliage.

During the late years the pleasant pools of this stream are being encumbered by boats. Boats! Of all things, in a trout stream! Each season more and more of them appear, to my mind's distress and that of my fellow anglers. Moreover, the owners of these abominations use them and lend them to their friends.

Celeri leads in kicking with 1,637 yards on 41 kicks for an average of 39.9 yards. Jim Burr of Sarnia has an average of 37 yards on 22 kicks for 824 and Turk Obal has averaged only 26.7 yards with 804 yards on 28 kicks.

K-W Dutchmen Leading In All Departments

TORONTO (CP) — The league-leading Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen have taken over practically everything in the senior Ontario Rugby Football Union, including the highest scoring team and offence and penalties.

Statistics released by the union Friday night and covering games to Sept. 19, show the Dutchmen with a 214-average over the second-place Sarnia Imperials and Toronto Balmy Beach Indians. They gained on the ground and in the air, first downs and kicking.

They've gained 1,099 yards on the ground against 867 for Imperials and 507 for Beaches. In the air, the Dutchmen have picked up 1,04 yards against 598 for Sarnia and 216 for Balmy Beach.

65 FIRST DOWNS

They have 65 first downs on rushing and 41 on passing against 51 and 37 by Sarnia and 40 and 20 by Beaches. The Dutchmen have fumbled 19 times against 12 by Sarnia and 17 by Beaches and they've lost 210 yards on penalties against 283 for Sarnia and 166 for the hapless Toronto club.

Sarnia's Jim Lambert leads the passers with 38 completions in 71 attempts for a percentage of 67. Bob Celeri of the Dutchmen, formerly with the Argonauts, has a passing percentage of 54.3 on 56 completions in 103 attempts. Toronto's Vince Drake has a 42.3 percentage on 17 completions in 40 attempts.

Celeri leads in kicking with 1,637 yards on 41 kicks for an average of 39.9 yards. Jim Burr of Sarnia has an average of 37 yards on 22 kicks for 824 and Turk Obal has averaged only 26.7 yards with 804 yards on 28 kicks.

On The Football Fronts

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Eastern Canada football fans get their first real chance this weekend to assess the comparative strength of Big Four clubs. For some fancy schedule-making, today's games mark the first time that each club has made the circuit.

The 1954 Toronto Argonauts make their debut in Montreal against the league-leading Alouettes, their first meeting of the season, and Hamilton Tiger-Cats invade Ottawa for the first time to play the bottom-placed Rough Riders.

In the West it is the usual weekend doubleheader with Saskatchewan Roughriders and Winnipeg Blue Bombers, co-leaders of the Western Interprovincial Union, playing away-from-home games, Roughriders meet the Stampeders at Calgary today and the Eskimos at Edmonton Monday while Blue Bombers play Edmonton and Calgary in their Saturday-Monday encounters.

COULD TIE

Argonauts could tie Montreal for the Big Four leadership with a victory over the powerful Als and Molson Stadium fans are prepared for an aerial duel between their Sam Etcheverry and Argonauts' Tommy Grosz, the under-top quarterbacks.

Etcheverry has receivers having grabbed 66 passes while Wirkowski has sent his receivers scampering 800 yards so far this season. Coaches Peahead Walker of Montreal and Frank Clair of Toronto have been sharpening up their pass defences during the week in expectation of a wide-open running game.

Walker announced Friday night he will bench starry running back Chuck Hunsinger for the game. In his place will be Larry Grieg, back fielder from the University of Oklahoma.

This is a must game for Ottawa with a record of only one victory in five starts. Riders were whipped 34-6 by Argonauts last week and coach Clem Crowe is confident they will make up for their lack-lustre showing against the defending Grey Cup champions who have won only two of their five games.

STAMPS SIDE STRING

Calgary Stampeders will have an intermingled home record of four straight victories riding with them when they meet the Riders at Mewata Stadium. The third-place Stamps, pre-season choice of experts to win the WIFU, have a 4-4 won-lost record and all their losses have been on the road.

Coach Al Sherman is optimistic about his Winnipeg club and predicts Bombers will "really roll" from here in. Eskimos are rounding into form after a long bout with injuries to key players. Only one regular, centre Bill Briggs who suffered the injury Sept. 12, is expected to miss today's game.

Only one senior Ontario Rugby Football Union game is scheduled. The second-place Sarnia Imperials meet Balmy Beach Beaches at Toronto. Beaches have lost all four league starts.

LEAFS SIGN WINGER

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Conn Smythe, managing director of Toronto Maple Leafs, said his club Friday signed left-winger Dave Creighton. All 1953-54 members of the National Hockey League team now have been signed. Creighton was traded to the Leafs from Boston Bruins for Fern Flaman in an off-season swap.

Littler, Furgol Set Pace In Big Golf Match

WASHINGTON (AP) — Young Gene Littler, who turned pro after winning last year's United States Amateur championship, and Manny Furgol, a husky veteran, set the pace Friday with seven-under-par 133s at the halfway mark in the $40,000 "World Series of Golf" tournament here.

Furgol was the only one of the five players tied with 67s for the first round lead Thursday who kept up the hot pace. The Lemont, Ill., pro shot a 66, three-under par, but had to run down a tough 13-footer on the final hole to tie Littler.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP) — In the course of Friday's essay dealing with the coming world series, we presented figures to show that Cleveland's three noted righthanders—Bob Lemon, Mike Garcia and Early Wynn—were something less than sensational this season against the two other American League clubs which managed to keep out of their own way, namely the Yankees and the Chicago White Sox.

Our research disclosed, specifically, that the big three among them ran up an overall record of only 21 victories against 13 defeats in their dealings with the Indians' chief rivals.

For all these reasons, we concluded that the 17-10 official odds favoring the Tribe to whip such a lilting club as the Giants were a lotta way out of line. As added ammunition, we intend now to tell how the Giants' three best—Johnny Antonelli, Sal Maglie and Ruben Gomez—have fared against Brooklyn and Milwaukee, the clubs which chased them to the wire in the National League.

WAY OUT FRONT

The Giants trio, used regularly all the way in every important series against the Dodgers and Braves, fought them off by an adequate margin of 13-10. In other words, the National Leaguers produced the kind of pitching it took to beat the best.

The most impressive record as a stopper was hung up by Maglie. He scored six victories, four of them over the Dodgers, and was beaten only three times.

Gomez was second in effectiveness. He blanked or outdueled threw the Dodgers back by a 4-1 margin and closed at 3-4 against Milwaukee for a winning total of 7-3.

ANTONELLI EVEN

Only Antonelli, the club's biggest winner, failed to show on the winning side. The youthful southpaw managed to subdue his former teammates, the Braves, by 3-1, but lost to the Dodgers by the same margin to break his big six-game streak.

If one should wish to fudge a little bit and ring in Hoyt Wilhelm as an added member of the Giants' shock troops, he could make out an even more impressive case for Dorochester's pitching in the big games. The club's great reliever scored four decisions over Milwaukee and one over Brooklyn. The Dodgers haven't beaten him yet. He runs the full count to 10-5 over Brooklyn and 11-7 over Milwaukee for the quartet the Tribe is going to see a lot of wearing next week.

Bruising Lions Favored Over Chicago Bears

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Football League opens Sunday with a full schedule of six games headed by the defending champion Detroit Lions-Chicago Bears encounter at Detroit.

The bruising Lions are favored by 14 points over the unimpressive Bears. The game is figured to give some insight of just how powerful the Lions are this year. That they will whip the Bears is a foregone conclusion, but the margin of victory will be the tipoff to the rest of the league.

as an added member of the Giants shock troops, he could make out an even more impressive case for Dorochester's pitching in the big games. ## Swim Inspires Quebec 'Fathers' To Action

By GEORGE FRAJKOR
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP) — The feat of Jacques Amyot, 29-year-old swimmer who negotiated 21 miles of the Lawrence river between Ste. Anne de Beaupre and Quebec in poor weather and without much fanfare, has stirred city fathers to action.

From now on Quebec athletes will almost be treated as civic dignitaries if they do anything above their way—and enough money.

Sparkplug is Mayor Paul Mercieu who pushed his favorite project through and was appointed with alderman Emilien Boissicat and Henri Beaupre to a civic athletic committee.

Their idea is to make Quebec a major sports centre in everything from swimming to dog-sled racing and to boost home-town athletes.

"Amyot has brought us much glory to Quebec," said Mercieu, "but what has Quebec done for Amyot? For the past six years he has been taking time off from work and paying his own way to Toronto to swim at the Canadian National Exhibition.

"SEAMINGFULLY IGNORED"

"Our stars have been shamefully ignored despite all they have done. We must get business men to spon-sor our stars. We must get the public to support them."

The committee got down to work. Amyot—who made the swim last Sunday—was taken by city hall Thursday to meet Mayor Wilfrid Hamel and sign the Golden Book. Today he was wined-and dined at one of Quebec's top restaurants.

Next Thursday—"Jacques Amyot Night" the committee will hold its first meeting and open its drive for funds. Prominent sports writers, businessmen and sports promoters have been invited.

"We will appoint at least 20 men to the committee," said Mercieu. "Of course, interested in sports and in Quebec, not politicians or fame-seekers. There will be one sports writer to represent the press, the rest will be business-men and members of service clubs."

Mercieu, a former swimmer himself, has big plans to boost swimming but emphizes that the committee's job will be to push every sport in the books.

SEE TRACK STOCK

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The operating stock of Fairmount Park Raceway, Inc., was sold Friday in a syndicate headed by James F. Edwards and Humbert Fontana. The sale price was not disclosed but it was understood to be in the neighborhood of $2,000,000.

UPSETS DOPE

NEW YORK (AP)—Jan Burke's Martyr upset the dope Friday and captured the $25,250 Jerome Handicap by seven lengths at Belmont Park. C. V. Whitney's Fisherman, the favorite, was second and Wheatley Stable's Full Flight was third.

When I rip the hide off the highest rated masters of bridge play it is because the records show they have it coming. And how they have it coming! Much more than my feeble protests can show.

Of course, even when they do wrong some of them will come out right occasionally. The laws of averages will not let us die that much for them. Even poor guessers can boast of a lucky break now and then.

You need not be much of a bridge player to see how far north and south should go with their hands. In their best contract, which is hearts, they must lose a trick to hearst ace and two diamonds.

Allowing for a lucky finesse in clubs they should still lose one trick in that suit. Except in this particular case. Why? The third and eighth of clubs happen to help save the third club.

To make a contract of four hearts they must find the king and ten of clubs exactly where they are. In other words, game in hearts is possible only with a combination of several lucky breaks.

Making game in no-trump is out of the question against four losers in diamonds and the adverse hearts ace. And no system known will tell the players they have the values for game.

And yet, nine of the 36 tables went to four hearts without any pushing by their opponents. Declarer made it, too. But it does not mean their bidding was right. They were just lucky.

In three hearts were 13 and in two hearts were seven; making with an overtrick or two. One in two no-trump got just enough. But one in one no-trump was defeated three tricks.

One north managed to be in four spades and made it with only three trumps in each hand. The east in four spades went down 900.

To win, those masters have to be lucky.

Actor Who Took Role on Stage Chosen for Part in Film

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Tom Ewell of all people, is playing the lead in the film version of "Seven Year Itch."

This is somewhat odd in Hollywood, where the studios generally consider anyone for a role except the person who originated it on the stage. But Ewell, who played the role 730 times on Broadway, won out over such candidates as Marlon Brando and Gary Cooper. He has the pleasure of appearing opposite Marilyn Monroe in the sexy comedy.

"I never expected to get the part," Ewell admitted between scenes. "In fact, I had already taken a house at Martha's Vineyard for a vacation in September. Needless to say, I'm happy they did choose me."

ONLY OUT TWICE

The actor said he was only out of the show twice during its long run. Once he strained a ligament and couldn't walk for three days. And he took a six-week vacation from the show for a tour of the West Indies.

"It was hard work," he sighed, looking back on the engagement. "It don't mind long runs too much, but in this show I was on stage the whole time. Once you start talking each evening, you know you can't stop."

As those who have seen the show will recall, it is a tour de force for the actor, involving long periods of monologue. Unfortunately for Ewell, the setting of the scene is considerably changed, so he has had to learn more long stretches of talk.

Ewell is living proof of the theory that actors have to go to Broadway to peek their fortune. He spent several years in Hollywood, marking up a number of memorable performances, largely of supporting roles. His last job was in the "Willie and Joe" films. Now he's back as a leading man.

NO ILLUSIONS

But Tom, who has a wry, pinched face and is far from handsome, has no illusions about his future. When I mentioned he was not the easiest actor in the world to cast, he replied: "That's the understatement of the year."

The play is climaxed by having the girl friend upstairs all night with the husband whose wife is on vacation. I wanted to know how this would be handled on the screen. Ewell said I would have to find out from writer-director Billy Wilder. Wilder brushed me off.

Your Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SUNDAY, SEPT. 26, 1954.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Very good indications. Recreational activities can be helpful to mind and health generally. Don't neglect spiritual needs or household duties. Time rightly spent brings blessings.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Inclinations now point to a happy, productive day. Unnecessary worry should be put off to a week day and family, wholesome social activities and church services enjoyed.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Mercury's position now stresses careful examination of papers, contracts, anything to which you must put your signature. Ask someone to church with you and thus gain extra grace.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Some restrictions may be necessary in personal conduct, perhaps desires, but day on the whole is pleasantly stimulating and can be gainful for things that concern the soul and general good.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Not entirely favorable for business transactions, but these should be deferred if possible until Monday or later. Day honors family and social gatherings, prayer, good deeds, wholesome recreation.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—There are tendencies to irritation, making avoidable errors today. But being forewarned should arm you. Take things in stride, don't worry and keep cheerful.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Wisely restrain emotions, be diplomatic and thus keep yourself out of mischief. The right start at church will give you the proper outlook. Necessary duties, chores can be done without strain.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Be inspired to do more than your share of good deeds. Many organizations as well as individuals need encouragement and substantial aid these days and you can be of great help.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—You can gain contentment and have a broader, better outlook on life generally if you forget self and your desires now and give of your fine self to family, church, charity.

December 23 to January 22 (Capricorn) — Wholesale recreational activities, good entertainment, music, reading and essential chores favored. First your church, then healthful diversions from usual routine.

January 23 to February 20 (Aquarius) — The planets do not promise that all wishes will be granted or that all efforts will be entirely fruitful but benefits will accrue from honest, sincere thought and effort.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — The better the deed, you'll step out the day, the better the day.

YOU BORN TODAY are courageous, self-sacrificing, very talented, generally capable, just, reasonable. You may lend at times to be stubborn about having your way. It often pays to try someone else's method, suggestion. We can always learn something new, useful. You have an inborn knack for understanding the workings of many things and naturally know how to do them; but it won't hurt to listen, too. You can be a fine person if living true to your better self.

LONDON (Reuter)—A former British intelligence officer Friday night revealed that the war office has banned publication of his 80,000-word autobiography dealing in part with investigation of German war crimes. The author, Sefton Alexander Scotland, said he had been told by the war office that publication of his book, "The London Cage," would violate the Official Secrets Act. The act makes liable to prosecution persons who

Garden Notes

More About Autumn Planting

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

Even during hot dry summer, nature has managed to carry out her usual planting program. I find seedlings of such annuals as cornflowers and marigolds springing up around the mother plant. The dwarf marigolds will be potted up for a splash of color indoors. The cornflowers will winter over and be ready to start blooming early in the summer. Many of the perenials and biennials do this, too, and one would expect it to happen more often than it does. Perhaps it would if the soil under the plants was covered with a loose mulch. Then the falling seeds could nestle in a cold damp bed and start to sprout. Failing on hot dry soil the natural oils soon dry up and the seed cases burst. But, if these seeds are gathered and planted while they are still fresh they will germinate much quicker than if saved over until the following spring.

Many of the hardier perenials can be planted in open areas in the garden. Scabiosa, hollyhock, dianthus, penstemon, gypsophilia, pyrethrum and the glory vine but treated this way. Hibiscus, anchusa, linum and some of the tender ones may be treated in the same manner. Others may need the protection of a cold frame or hotbed of strong winds.

Planting in the open row does not mean planting the seeds where the plants are to bloom. The seedlings may spread out over the bed the backrow and be moved to the border in the spring, or they may be transplanted while two inches high. Transplanting, if carefully done, will strengthen the plant roots and make a sturdier plant.

Pick a place in the garden which is somewhat sheltered from north winds, and where there is sun for most of the day. See that the drainage is good and that the soil is friable. Additional humus should be mixed into the top six inches. Peat moss is ideal for this. The humus will absorb moisture making it for future use of the seedlings. It will also allow air to circulate in the soil.

Seeds do not need fertilizers to make their first growth, but once the first pair of leaves are developed the roots begin to search for food. Pulverized sheep, or cow manure may be mixed into the seed bed before the seed is planted. Chemical, or other fertilizers should be applied later.

The usual width of commercial seed beds is 40 inches, but 23, or 30 is easier to handle. Where the seedlings are to remain in the bed until spring make the rows four inches apart. Two inch rows will do for ones which are to be transplanted this fall.

If the weather continues warm the seed bed will need watering. The hotter and drier the season the more need of shading. Make the shades of light weight cotton, or loose burlap. Florists make lath shades with the lath nailed one inch apart on wooden frames. These frames stand a foot above the soil. The most important function of the shade is to lower the temperature. Most seeds germinate best in cool temperatures. Then, too, the shade conserves moisture in the soil. Shading cuts down the care of the seed bed, as there is less likelihood of drying out and crusting.

Do not allow weeds to grow in the row, they will rob the needed moisture and plant food, and cause crowding. But, be sure you do not mistake seedlings for weeds. Many of our finest perennials and biennials are slow growing and look quite insignificant for several weeks. Water only if when it is really needed, apply in a fine spray to prevent washing out. The moisture should penetrate four or five inches. Apply no more until the top surface shows signs of small drying areas.

When the seeds are sown in fall, the temperature and moisture are somewhat easier to control. Flats dry out faster, but if you do not have too many you can set the flat in a tub of water two inches deep and wait until the top surface shows moist.

You may sow rows of seeds on the top of the soil in the flats and cover them with half an inch to one inch of vermiculite, or sifted sphagnum moss. The seed flats may be moved around until cold weather sets in, but they should be set in the cold frame.

The seedlings in the open row may be protected when the ground freezes with a light mulch, of non-matting material. This will warn off drying winds, and prevent heaving by frost.

TEST FLIGHT

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—The Bell Aircraft Corporation has successfully test-flown its experimental, jet-propelled vertical take-off aircraft, the Buffalo Evening News said Friday. Neither the company nor the air force, sponsor of Bell's VTO program, has released any details on the craft. But it is believed to look much like a conventional jet airplane, except for multiple jet engines attached to the wing.

DENTAL DECAY

From the outside civilization may look like a garden of roses, but there are thorns on the roses. Alcoholism, for example, is peculiar to advanced civilization. So is polio. But the most costly and most recurrently painful of the thorns in the rose garden is dental disease.

Tooth decay is rare among savages. Farther back in the evolutionary scale, when teeth were weapons of combat, it would have been fatal. A carnivorous quadruped with decayed or missing teeth stands as much chance of survival as a popsicle in a Turkish bath.

Question: "All my life I seem to have had trouble with my teeth. I believe every tooth in my mouth has had to be drilled and filled at least once, and some more than once. I am also a fiend for sweets, although I do eat my share of candies, cakes, etc. What puzzles me is that my cousin who lives on my block eats as much candy as I do, never has had any teeth, and yet he has had only two fillings in 35 years in my knowledge. Is it possible that sweets aren't the answer to what causes tooth decay?"

Answer: Sweets in themselves do not cause tooth decay, but they are essential to the bacteria which are primarily responsible for it. The bacteria in the mouth thrive on high concentrations of sugar which they convert into destructive acids. This is the reason that tooth decay is almost unknown among primitive people who do not know how to refine sugar. The concentrations of sugar in natural fruits are too low to do any harm, though dried figs and dates are exceptions.

As for your cousin, he is probably one of those people who was fortunate enough to be born with this. Dental research will be able to claim a major victory when it comes up with the full answer to the question of why some teeth are naturally less susceptible to decay than others. The morphology or shape of the tooth appears to be an important factor. Susceptible teeth have more pits and striations in them than non-susceptible teeth.

In the meanwhile it is known that fluorine, in proper quantities, can make growing teeth non-susceptible to decay. This chemical incorporates itself into the enamel of young teeth and makes them resistant to acid-etching. The time will come, in the not-too-far future, when the public water supplies of all civilized communities will be "fluoridated," and if it is any consolation to you, your grandchildren will probably not have to undergo the suffering and expense you have had to endure.

Since you are past the age when flooring can have any effect on your teeth, your best bet for prevention of further decay would be severe restriction of sugar consumption, plus a regimen of tooth brushing as soon as possible after eating, to remove carbohydrate debris. Dental laboratories are now investigating tooth pastes which will make a direct attack on bacteria which turn sugar into acid. If those bacteria can be eliminated from the mouth there can be no tooth decay. This is something you can look forward to.

What to do...

FOR BITES OF RABID ANIMALS

Hydrophobia is a dread disease caused by the bite of a rabid animal. Fortunately it is quite rare but may happen anytime and anywhere and epidemics of it have broken out recently in several parts of North America.

The virus from the bite of a rabid animal travels along the nerves to the central nervous system so after a person has been bitten by a rabid animal or one suspected of having rabies, every effort should be made to promote bleeding to wash the wound from within outwards. St. John Ambulance tells its First Aiders to follow this procedure:

1. Call a doctor.

2. Whether a doctor is coming or not, immediately place a constriction (a piece of cord, tape or handkerchief) between the bite and the patient's body tightly enough to cause congestion of the limb and ensure bleeding, but not so tightly as to obstruct circulation. If this happens the limb becomes pallid, the pulse cannot be felt and bleeding entirely ceases.

3. Keep the affected part low to promote circulation.

4. Bathe the wound with warm water to which crystals of permanganate of potash has been added—the solution should be pale pink in colour.

5. Give alcohol such as brandy or whisky (adults: two tablespoons, children two teaspoonfuls) in a little water or black coffee.

6. If it is not possible to obtain the services of a doctor within a few minutes the wound should be cauterized. This is best done by removing the constriction and applying a fluid such as carbolic or nitric acid. To apply it use a match or a piece of wood sharpened to a point. Every tooth mark must be probed and cauterized separately.

7. Apply a dry dressing and retain it in position with a bandage.

Remember however, that all dog bites do not cause hydrophobia. But if there is any suspicion of rabies the animal should be checked by a veterinarian.

SNAKE STRANGLES GIRL

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

RETURN PASSAGE

Bird migration was one of the first natural phenomena to draw the attention of man. Writings on the subject made 2,000 years or so ago have been preserved. Among several references in the Old Testament to the periodic movements of birds is Job's question, "Doth the Hawk fly by Thy wisdom and stretch her wings toward the south?"

Although some of the scientifically minded folk of those far off days were reasonably correct in their theories, there were certain grave mistakes made. For instance, it was thought that large birds could travel long distances on their own power but that this was impossible for small birds, which therefore took passage on the backs of the big birds. Indeed, even in the first quarter of this century the inhabitants of certain districts bordering on the Mediterranean Sea believed that tiny birds waited on the north shore for a live aerial transport plane to carry them to their African winter homes.

Now, however, a great flood of information on the subject of migration keeps pouring into channels where it is sorted and given to the public in the form of books and pamphlets. Both bird organizations and bird sanctuaries are scattered throughout North America. Bird banding is a regular business, and is the source of much detailed data.

We now know which birds actually remain in the same locality where they were born, which move but a short distance, and which move but a short distance, and which fly far. We know the five favorite flyways. Centuries ago the various species chose the routes best suited to their wants, and with few exceptions they have kept to the aerial paths their ancestors used. The Mississippi is the favorite, the Atlantic the second most popular route, because high mountains must be avoided, water courses offer an attraction, and wayside restaurants are a necessity.

The destination of each species is no longer a secret. We know the dates when each species is most liable to start on its way, the height at which the trip is made, the stations at which each is accustomed to stop, and the length of time the journey will take.

We are now aware that some kinds of birds prefer day travel, some night travel, while a few like to vary the hours of flight. Indeed we now have discovered that certain members of some families go alone, and that some kinds are so attached to their close relatives that they always travel "en famille".

We grow neither better nor worse as we grow old, but more like ourselves.—May Lamberton Becker.

Committee Urges Senate Censure Joseph McCarthy

Showed Contempt of Senate, Abused Brig.-Gen. Zwicker

WASHINGTON (AP)—A special Senate investigating committee recommended today that Senator Joseph R. McCarthy "should be censured" by the Senate.

In a report prepared for the Senate, the six-member committee said McCarthy, Wisconsin Republican, had treated the Senate and one of its committees contemptuously. It said further that on another count — his alleged abuse of Brig.-Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker—"the senator from Wisconsin, Mr. McCarthy, should be censured."

As for three other broad charges considered in nine days of hearings, the committee said it feels they "do not, under all the evidence, justify a resolution of censure."

COULD BE REBUKED

The Senate will convene in special session Nov. 8 to consider the committee's recommendations.

Adoption of a resolution of censure would amount simply to a public rebuke of McCarthy and would not, of itself, remove any of his senatorial privileges.

The special committee's report ran to 68 printed pages, a total of about 40,000 words.

The committee found McCarthy guilty as charged in that he was contemptuous of the Senate and of the privileges and elections subcommittee which in 1952 studied his financial operations.

The committee's conclusion on this category was blunt:

"It is, therefore, the conclusion of the select committee that the conduct of the junior senator from Wisconsin toward the sub-committee on privileges and elections, towards its members, and toward the Senate, was contemptuous, contumacious, and denunciatory. Without regard to justification, it was obstructive to legislative processes."

INEXCUSABLE ACT

The committee devoted 14 pages of its report to a detailed discussion of the Zwicker incident and ended this section with these words:

"The select committee concludes that the conduct of Senator McCarthy toward Gen. Zwicker was reprehensible."

The committee said McCarthy knew when he called Zwicker before his sub-committee last February that the general had been ordered to give an honorable discharge of Maj. Irving Peress, the dentist tagged by McCarthy as a "Fifth Amendment Communist."

"Under the circumstances, the conduct of Senator McCarthy toward Gen. Zwicker in questioning and ridiculing him, in holding him up to public scorn and contempt, and in characterizing the proceedings of the executive session in violation of the rules of his own committee, was inexcusable."

The committee denounced as "improper" McCarthy's stand in the dispute over his appeal to government employees to hand him information, regardless of whether it was classified as secret, and accused him of "a lack of any responsibility" in handling one such document.

FIGHT FOR HIGHER TARIFF ON WOOLS OPENS TUESDAY

Canadian Industry Asks For Higher Protection

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's most contentious tariff fight—the battle for the domestic market between the wool textile industries of Canada and Britain—opens before the tariff board Tuesday.

The dispute has boiled up out of the campaign by the Canadian industry to get higher tariff protection against competing wool cloth from Britain.

Involved in the controversy are such major issues as Anglo-Canadian trade, employment in the economically-crippled Canadian textile industry and the price of clothing to Canadian consumers.

The domestic industry is drawing its main support for the tariffs from the textile unions and towns which claim that imports have caused shutdowns, lay-offs, unemployment and recessions in the textile manufacturing areas.

BRITISH SIDE

On the other side of the argument is the British textile industry, which claims that the flood of cheap total wool cloth exports to Canada, if its accepted by the Canadian farmers.

The British industry has argued that a tariff boost may cut Britain's dollar earnings and reduce the ability to buy Canadian goods. Canadian farmers, who sell much of their produce to Britain, fear they will lose some of the market if a tariff rise through lower exports and higher clothing prices in Canadian shops.

The main job of the three-man tariff board is to hear the various views of opposing parties and prepare a report to the government before the end of 1954. The government will use this report in deciding whether a tariff boost is warranted.

There is some question whether the government would be prepared to increase tariffs. It has been making vigorous efforts to get tariff cuts in other countries.

HOME QUOTA

The view of at least one cabinet spokesman, Trade Minister Howe, is that Canada has a favorable trade curbs. About 10 days ago, he told the Guelph, Ont., Board of Trade that Canada followed a policy of restricting imports, "then we turn around and attempt to face the loss of markets for our traditional exportable surpluses."

"Such a policy in the long run would lead to the concentration of our economy in less export-minded areas. A country with Canada's unique resources can ill afford to forego the advantages to be gained from the international specialization of production."

However, the Canadian textile industry may be an unusual case. A wide percentage spinning and weaving and ridiculing him, in holding him up to public scorn and contempt, and in characterizing the proceedings of the executive session in violation of the rules of his own committee, was inexcusable."

The committee denounced as "improper" McCarthy's stand in the dispute over his appeal to government employees to hand him information, regardless of whether it was classified as secret, and accused him of "a lack of any responsibility" in handling one such document.

Duplessis Says 'Never' To Federal Taxation Subsidies In Answer to Prime Minister

By RICHARD DAIGNEAULT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VALLEYFIELD, Que. (CP)—Premier Duplessis today said he will "never" to federal taxation subsidies accepted by all Canadian provinces but Quebec. He described a recent speech made by Prime Minister St. Laurent as "an insult" to him and his French-speaking compatriots.

In a 1½-hour speech, which contained no indication of any change of policy by the Quebec government, Mr. Duplessis reiterated the provincial rights doctrine that sparked return of his Union Nationale party to power in 1944.

He described Mr. St. Laurent's view that Quebec is like other provinces as "an encouragement to assimilation" and asked if the Canadian prime minister is "convinced to raise up the other provinces against Quebec."

Mr. Duplessis made the statement during extemporaneous remarks in connection with the inauguration of a $9,000,000 bridge spanning the St. Lawrence river between Coteau Landing and Valleyfield about 35 miles west of Montreal.

His speech was in reply to a speech made in Quebec City Sept. 18 by Mr. St. Laurent who said he favored a strong, united Canada and rejected any view that Quebec "cannot be a province like the others."

In that speech Mr. St. Laurent said the federal government will continue to spread the wealth across Canada by means of taxation subsidies unless some better system is found.

The Canadian prime minister's speech was seen as the signal of a clash with Mr. Duplessis to break a 10-year deadlock that has kept Quebec out of federal-provincial agreements and caused the construction of a trans-Canada highway, grants to universities, and has left unsettled such questions as joint development of hydro-electric power with construction of the St. Lawrence seaway.

Now political observers see in the new effort to bring the issue anew before Quebec voters with Mr. St. Laurent and Mr. Duplessis both taking part in the political battle.

The provincial election in Quebec is expected before 1956.

Mr. Duplessis Sunday outlined his policy this way:

1. Quebec is humming with activity. Its industrial development is making "gigantic strides."

2. Development has created large needs for schools, hospitals, roads, social legislation and universities.

3. Quebec needs revenues to meet increased expenditures. To get the revenues Quebec must have provincial autonomy. "needs to exercise its taxation rights."

British Labor Party Split Over Rearmament of Germany

SCARBOROUGH, England (CP) Britain's Opposition Labor party opened its annual conference today on a note of unified friendliness toward Communist Russia, but the show of unity is regarded as a prelude to serious divisions later over the issue of rearming Germany.

Main business at today's opening session was discussion of the recent visit to the Soviet Union and Red China by the party's moderate chief, former prime minister Clement Attlee, his bitterest rival, left wing leader Aneurin Bevan, and six other party leaders.

The visit set the tone for the party's approach on Red China at a rally Sunday night, when Attlee had called for immediate admission of the Peiping regime to the United Nations.

The West, he declared, must "keep out of establishing with the Communist world, for the only alternative to co-existence is co-existence or a universal war."

Because it links peoples of both the East and West, the Commonwealth has the unique duty of trying to find the road to peaceful co-existence with the Reds, Attlee declared.

Representative of the party's general approval of this approach to the Reds were the cheers when Dr. Edith Summerskill, party woman member of the touring group, announced she has invited Russia's Premier Georgi Malenkov and the Chinese premier, Chou En-lai, to visit Britain.

WEST EUROPE'S FATE DEPENDS UPON PARLEY

German Arms Question One 'of Life or Death'

By REYMOUR TOPPING

LONDON (AP)—The key foreign ministers of the free world gathered today for a momentous conference on German rearmament that may decide whether western Europe can stand unified in the face of Communist danger.

The west European peoples look to Tuesday's opening of the nine-day meeting with a grim conviction that their security is in the balance.

Today's Liberal paper, the News Chronicle, sets the tone: "Upon the success of the conference is a "matter of life or death."

State Secretary Dulles of the United States flew into London Sunday night and urged the West to move quickly in bringing West Germany into the Atlantic alliance.

COULD FALL APART

"If we don't move rapidly things could fall apart," he said, adding: "We come here hopeful of good results because it is imperative there should be." Four days after Dulles. "I am quite sure we will do very good and useful work at the conference," the French leader declared.

West Germany's Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, also his own foreign minister, was due today from Bonn. Canada's L.B. Pearson was first to arrive, flying in Friday from the United Nations Assembly in New York.

Soon after his arrival Dulles conferred for three hours with Anthony Eden, the host premier, seeking secret plans at the home of U.S. Ambassador Winthrop Aldrich.

He arranged a meeting this afternoon with Mendes-France in an effort to bridge the gap between Washington's and Paris' thinking on bringing West Germany into the Western defence camp.

ALMOST ISOLATED

Mendes - France stands almost isolated from the eight other West. The U.S., Britain, Canada, the U.K., Britain, Canada, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg want quick rearming of the West Germans within the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, with NATO imposing some checks on German forces and weapons.

Mendes-France, whose political life probably hinges on the outcome of the conference, has proposed instead creation of NATO to exercise control over German army.

In arranging a preliminary conference with Mendes - France, Dulles warned the premier he must down French conditions for German rearmament and as insurance against the grant of sovereignty to the German federal republic.

The U.S. secretary also hoped to dispatch the feeling that Washington has been snubbing Paris since the French Assembly's rejection of the European Defence Community.

Will Not Allow Parley to Fail Pearson States

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Canada's External Affairs Minister Pearson, on the basis of conversations here on Germany, today said the meeting is of such decisive importance "it's just not going to be allowed to fail."

"I don't believe I have ever approached a conference which — in the long run or the short run — was of greater importance than the one which opens here Tuesday," he said.

"The issues confronting us are of such significance it's just not going to be allowed to fail."

Pearson, who arrived Friday from New York, made the statement in a talk with Canadian reporters at Canada House.

Attlee Urges Giving Formosa To Chinese Reds

SCARBOROUGH, England (CP) Socialist leader Clement Attlee opened the annual Labor party conference today with a call for the delivery of Formosa to the Chinese Communists and the exiling to a "safe place" of Nationalist leader Chiang Kai-shek.

The 3,000 delegates and alternates applauded the 71-year-old parliamentarian, former prime minister and elder statesman.

REJECT MOTION

By vote of 4,238,000 to 1,822,000 the conference rejected a resolution calling for the withdrawal of American air bases in Britain. The resolution charged the bases "impede the growth of civilian population of these islands."

Thousand Killed As Huge Seagoing Ferry Capsizes

Fire Virtually Wipes Out City of 23,000 People

TOKYO (AP) — An estimated 1,500 persons perished in a howling typhoon which struck northern Japan Sunday night, including nearly 1,000 who died when a huge seagoing ferry capsized.

A Canadian missionary was listed among the known dead.

Authorities today said 500 bodies have been recovered, including those of 14 Americans. Another 943 persons are missing, among them 44 Americans.

The Tokyo Christian Press listed Rev. Alfred R. Stone of Toronto, Ont., deceased missionary, as a known fatality.

The great storm, generating winds up to 110 miles an hour, apparently hit without warning, into the Sea of Japan when suddenly it curled back and struck the northern island of Hokkaido almost without warning.

The result was Japan's worst maritime disaster.

Giant waves in Tsugaru straits sank five big ferries, four of which carried no lifesavers, and hundreds of small craft.

A fire virtually wiped out Iwanai, a city of 23,000 on Hokkaido's west coast, and police reported disastrous inundations and floods throughout Hokkaido.

Communications and power lines were wrecked. Rail lines and highways were blocked.

The most terrible disaster occurred in Hakodate harbor, where the big steam ferry Toya Maru, carrying 1,252 passengers and crew, smashed into rocks and turned turtle.

Forty-three railroad cars were buried about inside the hull.

A survivor described the stricken vessel as "a hell on earth."

The first reporter to reach Hakodate harbor used a similar phrase in describing the sea at its hell."

The sickle-shaped harbor and its mile-long coast today resembled a great naval disaster scene of the Pacific war. Wreckage of five ships and hundreds of small craft littered the beach.

The sand was dotted with bodies many wearing life jackets which had failed to save their lives in the raging surf.

Smashed lifeboats, shattered timbers, oil and all the flotsam and jetsam of a sea disaster covered the beach.

"It's not a terrible thing up there," said Col. John C. Randolph commander of the United States air base at Misawa, who flew over the scene.

In Iwanai, 90 miles north of Hakodate, 32 persons died in a fire which destroyed 3,000 of the town's 4,500 houses in a few minutes. Forty-four persons were injured and others are missing.

SAILING POSTPONED

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng. (AP)—The Cunard line postponed a scheduled sailing to New York of the liner Mauretania for 24 hours today into drydock Sunday night for examination of the starboard propeller. A company official said the propeller showed signs of being loose on the Atlantic crossing. It ended Saturday, and added that the liner might be held up 48 hours.

Toronto Minister Among Victims Of Jap Typhoon

HAKODATE, Japan (Reuters)—A Toronto missionary, Rev. Alfred R. Stone, was listed among the 1,000 victims of the ferry disaster here Sunday night.

The 53-year-old Canadian minister was drowned when the train ferry Toya Maru foundered in typhoon winds.

Mr. Stone was born in Highgate, Ont., 20 miles from Chatham, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Stone. He received his education at Ridgetown and graduated from Victoria and Emmanuel colleges at Toronto.

He had been a missionary in Japan since the United Church of Canada since 1926, except for his return to Canada during the Second World War.

He is survived by his widow and two sons, Robert and Donald, in Toronto.

Will Quit If Plan Is Rejected

PARIS (AP) — Premier Pierre Mendes-France has declared he will resign if the French Parliament rejects whatever proposals he takes with him to the end of the nine-power London conference on rearming West Germany.

"The life of any government will be connected with this debate," he says in a copyrighted interview with Robert Kleiman, Paris correspondent of the weekly U.S. News and World Report. "And I will not stay in office if the proposals which I make . . . are not accepted."

$100,000 Blaze At Gananoque Burns 3 Stores

GANANOQUE (CP) — Fire today raged through the Goldstone building in the business section of this St. Lawrence river town, 28 miles east of Kingston, damage was estimated at $100,000. Two firemen were injured.

The fire broke out around 9 a.m. Firemen said an oil burner is believed to have caused it.

The flames swept into a jewelry store, a clothing store, and upstairs offices. Smoke also poured from the branch office of the Kingston While & Ault and a gift shop.

Firemen from Kingston were called in to assist and eight hose-men trained on the blaze, described spy "stubborn." They brought it under control around noon.

Mayor Don Carmichael issued a plea for oxygen masks after volunteer fireman Leslie Andrews was overcome by smoke. Two officials of the Goldstone Investment Co. answered the call, followed quickly by Kingston fire chief Victor Brightman and a doctor.

Volunteer fireman James Gulid suffered a badly cut hand when glass from an upstairs window fell on him. He was given first aid treatment at the scene.

Most of the damage was to the jewelry store and to stock in either side. Damage to the upstairs offices was also heavy.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: A disturbance centred over Lake Superior is moving rapidly towards southern Ontario and will cause cloudy skies and a few showers by this evening. Tuesday promises to be a sunny day with continuing mild temperatures.

Northern parts of the province will remain cloudy today and Tuesday with scattered showers, and afternoon temperatures near the 60 degree mark.

Vengeance From Past May Have Overtaken Woman Killed in Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Police said today vengeance from the past may have overtaken Mrs. Mary Kopowicz, 46, whose nude and strangled body was found at dawn Saturday in a room allegedly near her home in west-central Toronto.

The motive for the killing continues to puzzle police.

The woman was sexually attacked and she carried little money.

Investigators said one theory is that the Ukrainian-born woman was slain by an immigrant nursing a grudge against her over her reported friendships with Nazis in Germany during the Second World War.

Police said another possibility was that a jealous suitor she may have illied in Europe followed her to Canada and waited for her as she returned home at midnight after a night out in a downtown hotel.

Still another theory was that she was slain in reprisal for anti-Communist propaganda work carried on by her husband, John Kopowicz, John. The husband told police he was questioned by the Canadian government-in-exile and has been writing articles for the organization's magazine.

However, police said Mrs. Kopowicz apparently did not share her husband's hatred for the Communists. They said they did not share the view that the couple's home a picture of Lieut. Lyudmila Pavlichenko, famous Russian sniper of the Russian army.

Will Call for Ban on Horror Comics If They Are Cause of Vampire Hunt

GLASGOW (Reuters)—A woman member of Parliament declared today that she will call for government action against horror comics as a result of a weird frightening craze for hunting vampires which has gripped hundreds of children since last Thursday.

Meanwhile, dwindling but excited crowds of children continued Sunday to press the search for a "vampire" who was "strangled and stabbed two little boys in the cemetery"—according to a story which has been circulated by hysterical grade school girls.

Police reported that parents have discovered the weird fables frightening real to their over-excited children, many of whom refused to go to bed at night unless accompanied by the mother.

The story brought hundreds of children armed with sticks and stones to the cemetery in the first demonstration last Thursday, and caused another heavy turnout of youngsters Friday. They kept coming Saturday and Sunday, though in smaller numbers.

City education officers blame horror comic books and a horror movie recently shown in the city. News dealers in the nearby town of Crieff have already agreed among themselves not to sell any more of similar material.

Object of their search was a ture.

All Members Urged to Take C.L.U. Degree

The first meeting of the 1954-55 season was held by the Quinte Life Underwriters Association on Friday evening, in Lattimer's Town Room with twenty-four members in attendance.

President Harold Carruthers, C.L.U., asked all members to remember the Regional Convention to be held in Kingston Oct. 20th. All members not having their C.L.U. degrees were urged to take up this course of studies.

Harold Carruthers, C.L.U., introduced Elwood Kirkham, Kingston branch manager of the North American Life, the guest speaker for this meeting.

Mr. Kirkham's topic was "Ideas that Work". The main theme of the talk was "Service Calls" and their importance in the Life Insurance Business. He also quoted figures to show that 70 per cent of all new business was written on the first interview, 23 per cent on the second and only 7 per cent on subsequent calls.

Charles Lemay, C.L.U., thanked the speaker and presented him with Belleville Cheese as a memento of his visit.

Chemical Intoxication Tests Dangerous If Wrongly Used

Improperly used, as they are in a very large number of cases today, chemical tests to determine when a man is intoxicated can lead to grave injustice, Mr. K. Rabinowitch told a gathering of lawyers in the Hastings County Court House on Saturday afternoon.

Dr. Rabinowitch is a former associate professor of medicine at McGill University and lecturer in medical jurisprudence and toxicology. He recently retired as director of the department of metabolism of the Montreal General Hospital. His audience was composed of about 80 members of District No. 6 of the Federation of County and District Law Associations. Present were members from throughout the counties of Hastings, Prince Edward, Northumberland and Durham, Peterborough, Victoria and Haliburton and Ontario.

Dr. Rabinowitch dealt with types of tests, their validity, urine tests, saliva tests and breath tests. "Saliva and breath tests have no place in a court of law," he said. He dealt with the blood tests, the most widely used test. Most of his address, however, was devoted to blood tests, as the most reliable of the four types.

INDIVIDUALS VARY WIDELY

Or all four types he said that, where results were reliable, conclusions which were reached were only true as an average, while courts were dealing with individuals. He quoted a committee of the British Medical Association as finding that "the responses of different individuals with the same concentration of alcohol in the tissues varies widely."

Among his most telling points were the following, that all tests were:

Whether a person is or is not intoxicated does not depend on the alcoholic content of the blood, but on the alcoholic content of the brain and experiments have shown conclusively that the alcoholic content of the blood does not always, under all conditions, indicate the alcoholic content of the brain.

If A. A person whose alcoholic blood content is rising, as alcohol is being absorbed from the stomach, will reach at a certain point when the concentration is increasing at the maximum rate. The concentration is decreasing will sober up when the alcohol in his blood is actually at a higher point than that at which he became intoxicated. It is important to know whether the person's blood alcohol content is increasing or decreasing at the time a blood test is made.

DISPUTES STANDARD

Dr. Rabinowitch quoted three expert witnesses who had stated that the presence of 0.5 parts of alcohol in the blood of 1.5 parts of alcohol per thousand was "conclusive." Dr. Rabinowitch "finds little in all circumstances' as evidence of intoxication. He disputed the accuracy of these statements and quoted independent studies by different authorities to support his contention that the tests of these three expert witnesses were without foundation in theory or in scientific fact. He also mentioned the fact that one man may stimulate alcohol from his body much faster than another.

The speaker contrasted the views of the Canadian Safety Council of the United States, which endorsed the 0.15 parts per thousand in the blood as a standard by which to judge intoxication, with the recommendations of the British Medical Association, which completely opposes such a view. Later, he contrasted the personnel of the committees which presented these findings. The British Safety Council group, he said, was made up of lawyers, principally one of whom was a physician and that one, though an orthopaedic specialist, was not an authority in the field of metabolism. The American group, on the other hand, consisted of 18 persons, including 15 physicians, all specializing in the field respective fields.

The situation in Canada is not as serious as that in the United States, but that is not to say that it is not serious," observed Dr. Rabinowitch.

ERRORS MADE

Dr. Rabinowitch told the lawyers that a study should subject expert witnesses to searching cross-examination. Many witnesses, he said, being neutral should not object to this and it was justified. He declared that serious mistakes are sometimes made in even the best laboratories occasionally and, even without mistakes in the chemical analysis, it is possible to arrive at false conclusions from the same data. He illustrated this by telling of the time he was in the course of his address, repeatedly questioning conclusions arrived at by witnesses in support of the contention that any person with 0.15 parts of alcohol in the blood is certain to be intoxicated.

One point about which he asserted could save the fact that medico-legal experts do not seem to appreciate the individual phenomenon. This phenomenon, he explained, is the fact that a man may be definitely sober with a high concentration of alcohol in his blood, while another man with only a trace of alcohol was definitely intoxicated.

EXTREMES WIDE

These extremes, however, showing how easy it is to err in calculation as some others quoted by Dr. Rabinowitch, using data from the same experiments, arrived from other experts. A National Safety Council report set a blood content of 5.5 as fatal. But Dr. Rabinowitch said he knew of cases where the blood content was 5.5, 8, 9 and 15 parts in a thousand and where the man, though he intoxicated, were not even unconscious. He quoted many instances of a man had been killed with a blood content more than twice the 5.5 standard agreed upon by the National Safety Council as proof of intoxication.

With respect to the differences in the alcoholic content of the blood and urine, Dr. Rabinowitch said that comparisons between blood tests and tests of the brain had shown that sometimes the alcohol content of the blood was twice that of the brain fluid. He showed charts to illustrate this point. These charts indicated that, while the alcoholic content of the blood may increase very rapidly, there may be quite a marked lag before the alcohol in parts of the brain reaches as high a level as that in the blood. Also at other times, there may be more alcohol in the brain than in the blood. Autopsies, he said, had shown alcoholic concentrations in the blood two or three times that in the brain.

OTHER FACTORS IMPORTANT

The speaker also emphasized the importance of such factors as the speed with which drink was consumed and whether the person drinking had an empty stomach or had recently eaten. Even the type of food eaten may have an influence on the rate at which a person will or will not become intoxicated.

With respect to saliva and urine tests, he said that the physical reasons it is impossible for the alcoholic contents of urine and saliva to be the same as that of the blood if the saliva or urine is collected at the proper time, because the extent to which alcohol enters into these substances depends on the amount of water in them and there is less water in blood than in either urine or saliva. In the case of urine tests, he also said that the arterial blood carries the alcohol to the kidneys, while blood tests are made on blood taken from veins, and until the alcohol from the stomach is all absorbed by the organs of the body the alcoholic contents of the arterial blood may be two or three times as high as that of the venous blood.

As for breath tests, he said that they were based on four as assumptions, all only partly true, and that in cases where a man was forced to take such a test and struggled during the test these respirables showed "a criminal ignorance of the physiology of respiration," since the man's struggles would automatically result in a higher reading than would be shown by a blood test.

Rosh Hashanah Marks Creating Of World for Jewish Faith

Tuesday, September the 28, and Wednesday, September the 29, Jews all over the world will again celebrate New Years.

This holiday which marks the anniversary of the creation of the world, according to Hillel chronology, will be celebrated this year for the 5,715th time.

While the various Jews holidays, festivals, commemorate historic events, Rosh Hashanah, the new Year and Yom Kippur, the day of atonement, are purely religious occasions, devoted to prayer and serious thought, that involves the individual, his own conscience, spiritual integrity and moral responsibilities.

The days from Rosh Hashanah until Yom Kippur are called the Ten Days of Repentance. The Ram's Horn is sounded in the Synagogue on Rosh Hashanah to remind us that it is a day of judgment, a day when all living things pass before God like sheep before a shepherd, to stand in judgment for their deeds of the past year. This day one looks to the Maker. We pray to God for forgiveness of sins through the repentance. But repentance is more than a reconciliation with God. Our sages have taught a deeper meaning to repentance.

According to the rabbis, God forgives only those sins which have been committed against Him. He does not forgive wrongs committed against one's fellow man until such forgiveness is first asked and obtained from the person wronged.

PRAYERS IN PLURAL

The high holiday prayers are for the most part in the plural. The prayers are for the community of mankind. In these prayers the Jews pray for a better world, for the rule of justice, for the destruction not of the wicked, but rather, of wickedness, evolution, not revolution.

The sounds of the Ram's Horn are a clarion call giving Jews hope for the future, a new start in life and a more perfect life for all peoples. In the late afternoon of Rosh Hashanah the Jews are to the nearest river for Tashlich, which means "thrown" and is a ridding oneself of one's sins. In a small Jewish community the beautiful custom passes unnoticed but in bigger cities multitudes of the pious Jews are drawn to the rivers or lagoons, where they pray for a short time. After is a symbol of cleanliness and purity. Since Rosh Hashanah is a day in which we make resolutions for a clean start, we go to natural bodies of water that are the symbols of cleanliness, and we recite fitting prayers.

YOM KIPPUR

On the Day of Atonement we sit the whole day in the Synagogue and pray with a humble spirit.

Before the day is over we come to a perfect understanding. We know exactly what God expects of us and what we have promised Him.

We do not eat or drink for 24 hours, in the spirit of the commandment to "afflict the soul." We shall make this a day of self-discipline". Numbers 29:7. It is a splendid thing that our religion demands that we fast a day. It is a very effective reminder of what an empty stomach feels like, so we may remember to feed the hungry people.

When the day is beginning to pass and the sun is going down we are still asking for forgiveness.

The last prayer called Neila "before the gates of the heaven are closed" brings us to the high point of religious feeling. Yom Kippur Services are concluded with a long single blast of the Thofar Ram's Horn. This is taken as a symbol of victory and in God's mercy over His children. There is a feeling that all are sharing God's blessing to all people and to all mankind.

Patsy Reid, 11, Dies in Hospital After Being Injured in Crash

Patsy Reid, 11, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Reid, Halloway, died in Belleville General Hospital early this Monday morning after sustaining injuries in a two-car collision on the 4th concession of Tyendinaga township, on Sunday afternoon. The parents are in hospital with a fractured shoulder and concussion, two other children, Ellen, 8 and Floyd, 6, are in the same hospital with what were said to be serious injuries.

The Reid family were eastbound on the 4th concession of Tyendinaga about four miles east of the Shannonville gravel, when their car was in collision with a southbound vehicle driven by Lynn Cole, 24, of Shannonville.

The Reid car rolled over, throwing the three children out, and then caught fire. A passing motorist, Lt. J. Farrell, of North Park street, Belleville, pulled Mr. and Mrs. Reid from the blazing car. Mrs. Reid had been knocked unconscious.

Driver Burned As Transport Catches Fire

Felix Michel, thirty-eight, of Montreal, was pulled from the burning cab of a transport Monday afternoon when a man is intoxicated can lead to grave injustice, Mr. K. Rabinowitch told a gathering of lawyers in the Hastings County Court House on Saturday afternoon.

Cobourg Man Named President By Barristers

J. C. M. German, Q.C., of Cobourg was re-elected president of District No. 6 of the Federation of County and District Law Associations, when that body held its annual meeting here on Saturday.

Other officers re-elected were: first vice-president, Neil Fraser, Q.C., of Oshawa; second vice-president, Robert Pringle, Q.C., of Belleville; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Thelma Thompson, Q.C., of Lindsay.

A meeting at the court house in the afternoon was followed by dinner at the Queen's Hotel. President at the dinner was 35 members, from the counties of Hastings, Prince Edward, Northumberland and Durham, Victoria and Haliburton, Peterborough and Ontario.

One resolution passed established a committee which will seek to enlist the support of the Federation of County and District Law Associations in an effort to have the Real Estate Brokers Act amended in a manner which will speed the process of checking fraudulent practices.

Another resolution urged that when Local Registrars and County Court Clerks are appointed the appointees should be barristers of at least three years standing.

A new tariff was presented and was adopted with one amendment, this amendment setting the fee for the vendor's lawyer at the same rate as that charged by the purchaser's lawyer.

Mayor John Bolt was a guest at the dinner and greeted the visiting lawyers in the name of the city.

Next year's annual meeting will be held in Peterborough on the last Saturday in September.

Cars piled up and that broke down on the bridge made things worse. At one time vehicles were held for six miles along the high way.

WHERE ARE THE COURAGEOUS?

Dr. Sidney Smith, president of the University of Toronto, addressed the students and staff at the opening of the fall term of the university last week.

In the course of his speech he declared that "One of the most distressing problems is the prevalence of fear."

On the other hand, he continued, courage imparts the spirit of adventure to men and nations. We applaud both physical courage and intellectual and spiritual courage.

Then he made the following observation:

"Recently it was written of Sir Winston Churchill that he displayed that courage which is 'a man's deliberate refusal to shirk saying things he feels to be true, even though no one wants to listen, on his future even though no one wants to listen, on his future action.' It is something more than sincerity: a man can be sincere in everything he says and yet take care not to say anything which will disconcert his potential supporters."

Read that statement over again.

Then compare it with the advice of the Dale Carnegie school of success-seeking, the experts who have discovered how to win friends and influence people.

Quite a contrast, is there not?

Compare it now with your own attitude.

Again, (unless you are in the idealistic teens or still clinging to teen-dreams in the twenties or even later), there is quite a contrast between Churchill's type of courage and your instinctive desire to get along with people, to be a "good Joe", to keep peace in the family, is there not?

Well, if there is not, you are fortunate—maybe. You are, either unusually courageous, or unusually cantankerous.

By that statement we are not hinting that the two attitudes are the same, or even that they are really similar. Courageous political courage is, however, unfortunately sometimes mistaken for cussedness.

We ought to remember that the next time we feel annoyed at some youngster, or the boss is not trying to be difficult, but merely displaying that courage which we all possessed in some measure when we were young —and which so few of us retain as advancing years decrease our faith in our ability to change the world and increase our desire to achieve comfort and success in the world as it is.

CHANCE FOR A FORTUNE

Edgar Wallace would have loved this day!

An eastern idol, one with a grin, is casting a drizzle of near-horror over a quiet English town, and the local baronet blames it for the death of his five titled predecessors.

The town is Braunton and the family on which the idol is reported to put its evil eye is that of Williams, whose present scion, Sir William Williams, wants to get rid of it, presumably before it looses its hounds of destruction upon him.

Braunton has entered into the spirit of the thing. Its town council refused to let Sir William erect the idol in the town park and ordered that it be destroyed with a hammer, eye the evil one of the little god. So now the scourge of the Williamses lies in a local garage, while, presumably the whole town waits in trepidation expectancy for sinister events to materialize on its doorsteps.

Obviously something must be done or Braunton may be in danger of becoming a ghost-town.

It appears that the ghost of the Williamses has poor business sense for a modern British blue blood and does not appreciate a potential moneymaker when he sees one. Any of the realm's dukes, viscounts or earls would probably tell Sir William to trade with his idol, is well on the ermine-train, provided, of course, he was introduced first.

He has the idol, and it does have a grin. All that he needs now is to grow some poison ivy around the walls of the family keep, lock a hound in the basement, hire an ex-convict as butler, and he stands to make a fortune from the curiosity-seekers.

That way he may soon wipe the grin off the idol's face for it is debatable whether any self-respecting Anglo-Eastern idol will pander to the extent of being malicious for the benefit of an audience which has paid a half-crown to witness such a thing.

Especially before Americans. After all there is a British tradition to uphold.

TURN-TABLE FOR BANK CUSTOMERS

Motor customers using the drive-in window at a Waterbury, Conn., bank drive on to an automatic turn-table to get around a tight turn. The turntable is electronically controlled by three photo-electric cells. The motorist drives on, waits a few seconds, and then drives off straight to the drive-in window. Copper tubing installed under the driveway and the turn-table—which is 25 feet in diameter—melts snow and ice in winter. (Marketing, Toronto).

WEDDING

I'm invited to her wedding and
I'll shed a tear or two
When the vows are being spoken,
because that I always do.
When the ritual is ended and they're standing side by side,
In sad my reception line up I shall wait to kiss the bride.

I'll not be the fancy dresser which the women folks admire,
I am ill-at-ease and awkward rigged in swallow tail attire.
I sweat a shiny silk once in Nineteen Thirty Six,
But I gave it in a youngster who would use it doing tricks.

I shall shower rice upon them, for that's what they did to me,
Though I never learned the reason just why that should be.
I'll behave the way I ought to,
and though strange the customs are
I may even tie a tin can to the bumper of their car.

I am going to the wedding. From the feast I plan to take,
For sleeping on and dreaming on,
a small piece of cake.
To the bride and groom departing I shall shout a loud: "Good bye."
But no one there will wish them more of happiness than I.

A REAL ESTATE RULE

"Always sell a house while your furniture is in it." a real estate man once told me. "Don't always buy a house when it is empty."

The reason for this, he explained, is that furniture in a house makes a house look more attractive, and also hides small defects that damage. When the house is empty and bare, however, you can easily see the true condition of the walls and floors.

It is probably a good thing that we cannot always see ourselves when we are choosing and evaluating our friends and associates. Certainly most of us do sell ourselves with our furniture in—that is, we do not show all of our best character and personality, but only what we wish to reveal; and we do our best to hide our flaws and defects. But when it comes to choosing friends, we are almost never given that total view with nothing hidden, all faults showing clearly, no flaws concealed. If we were, there would probably be few friendships, and fewer marriages.

In fact, a man might make a good rule to be just reverential to the advice of the real estate agent. Always sell your house with your furniture in—that is, in the best possible light. But for ourselves, always live so that we are not ashamed to let others see the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

JOHN MUIR, LOVER OF THE WILD

For a long time I have been interested in the work and life of John Muir, the man who did so much to save our great forests and interest the masses in the glory and beauty of forest, mountain, stream, and all creatures of the wild.

Now Dr. Muir's life, however, was spent in California, though he was born in Scotland and lived as a boy in Wisconsin. A most interesting life of Muir was published in 1945 by the late Linnie Marsh Wolfe, which was a Pulitzer selection, but a new book has just come to my attention, which I have read with the greatest of interest. It is called "The Wilderness World of John Muir," edited by Edwin Way Teale.

This new book is a gold mine of beauty for the lover of nature, and for the lover of all that John Muir held so dear in life. Nothing mattered to him but to be close to the earth, birds, animals, and to keep diving into the secrets of the earth. He once said that as a boy in Scotland he was "fond of everything that was wild, and all my life I've been grateful for such fond tender of wild places and wild creatures."

This book is a most carefully arranged digest of the many books and writings of Muir, selected by Mr. Teale, with editorial comments. The book is beautifully illustrated by Henry B. Kane. Some of the finest writing on nature in all literature is to be found in this book. Well could John Muir comment: "A man in his books may be said to live his life over long after he is gone."

Muir had an inventive mind and created many things that might have brought wealth to him but he loved nature more. E. H. Harriman had an exhibition in Alaska in 1899 and someone mentioned a great wealth of its sponsor. Said Muir, "Why, I am richer than Harriman. I have all the money I want and he hasn't."

This book in your library will be turned to time and time again. To read it is like walking around in Paradise with John Muir as a guide!

Formosa, Land of Exile

(By Emily Hahn in 'London Calling')

The leaf-shaped island of Formosa, which the Chinese call Taiwan, is a hundred miles off the south-east China mainland. Westerners first landed there in numbers when the Dutch arrived in the early seventeenth century. They formed a colony which was driven out forty years later by the Chinese pirate, Koxinga, the last defender of the Ming Dynasty against the conquering Manchus. He was driven' off the mainland and took refuge on Formosa, where he spent his time preparing for a return engagement. The remarkable parallel between this seventeenth-century incident and the recent career of Chiang Kai-shek will be obvious to all. Koxinga escaped attention, but loyal Chinese Nationalists do not like the comparison too far, because Koxinga never got back. Moreover, the Ming dynasty ended during their fifty years' rule the Formosans became completely Chinese in houses, language, manners, and mentality. Formosan-born Chinese have always considered lords on the mainland, and as a result they were not popular with the Chinese.

When at the end of the last war Formosa reverted to China there was not much enthusiasm for Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek sent over a government of people who were in his confidence, and they set to work plundering the population instead of ruling it. The result was a crisis, slick dealing, and downright oppression were the order of the day. The island should have been used to a severe but orderly government, but it was not, and they did not lie down under this treatment. The riots of 1947 were the result. They investigated and found that the people had ample cause for complaint, but the riots were thereafter better managed. By 1949, when the Nationalists were forced loyal to Chiang fled from the Communists and came to Formosa, they set to work plundering the population instead of ruling it. The result was a crisis, slick dealing, and downright oppression were the order of the day. The island should have been used to a severe but orderly government, but it was not, and they did not lie down under this treatment. The riots of 1947 were the result. They investigated and found that the people had ample cause for complaint, but the riots were thereafter better managed. By 1949, when the Nationalists were forced to leave the mainland,

Parents Presented With TV Set

Mr. and Mrs. Allan R. Wannamaker, Stirling, Ont., recently celebrated their 46th wedding anniversary as guests of honor at a dinner party tendered them by their thirteen children. Mr. and Mrs. Wannamaker are pictured above with their seven sons and six daughters who later presented their parents with a television set. Mr. and Mrs. Wannamaker were married in Bancroft and resided in Hartsmere and Fort Stewart before moving to Stirling nine years ago.

Regional Hospital Conference Held In Kingston

Nine representatives from the Belleville General Hospital, five from the Women's Hospital Auxiliary and four from the hospital staff, were among the 65 persons from eight eastern Ontario hospitals, who attended a regional hospital conference in Kingston last Wednesday.

The conference, held at the Hotel LaSalle, was called to discuss the possibility of inaugurating a centralized microfilming service, and centralized purchasing and collections among the eight member hospitals.

Kenneth Box, administrator of the Belleville General Hospital, delivered a paper on microfilming and purchasing. Conference delegates subsequently agreed to test the feasibility of such a system by acting through a central agency in the purchase of one item. Subsequent savings from quantity purchases will be evaluated as a basis for continuance of the scheme.

Delegates agreed to hold a plan for centralized microfilming in abeyance, and though they agreed to the principle of centralized collections, decided to poll the boards of each participating hospital before attempting centralized collections.

J. Bijger Bronson, of the Rochester N.Y., Regional Hospital Council spoke on centralized collections.

Dr. G. K. Ettinger, Dean of the Faculty of Medicine of Queen's University also addressed the conference.

Women's Hospital Auxiliary representatives at the conference were Mrs. James Forrester, Mrs. J. Buchan, Mrs. W. C. Mikel, Mrs. J. Marshall and Mrs. L. M. Ponger.

Those from the hospital, in addition to Mr. Box, were Miss Jessie Finlay, C. C. White and Len Burfoot.

MAO ELECTED CHAIRMAN

HONG KONG (Reuters) — Mao Tse-tung today was elected chairman of the Communist Republic of China by the National People's Congress, Peiping radio announced. Formerly Mao's official title was "chairman of the Central People's government council."

Mr. Wilby, who has been with Stelco for 29 years and who has had wide experience in that company's export and domestic sales division, will speak on "How Our Business System Operates". His address will be illustrated by the flannel board technique which he introduced to Canada.

In addition to club members, foremen and members of higher management of local industry who are not members, are being invited to this meeting to hear Mr. Wilby.

Seven Boys, Six Girls Help Parents Celebrate Anniversary

The number "thirteen" may be adjudged unlucky by some people, but Mr. and Mrs. Allan R. Wannamaker, Stirling, Ont., who recently celebrated their 46th wedding anniversary won't agree.

And to prove it they had thirteen sons and daughters, healthy and happy, join the festive board to help their parents mark the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Wannamaker raised their family after the pioneer style in a log cabin on the environs of Hartsmere and Fort Stewart in the North Hastings highlands.

"The entire family was brought into the world without the benefit of a doctor," Mrs. Wannamaker said, "All we had was a midwife."

The Wannamakers, seven boys and six girls proved that it does not necessarily mean that electrical appliances are necessary to the upbringing of a healthy "flock". Mrs. Wannamaker bakes her own bread and did the washing and other family work now made easy by electricity, the hard way.

It was 46 years ago September 9 that the Rev. R. Roughley performed the wedding ceremony for Mr. and Mrs. Wannamaker at Bancroft. A few of the early married years were spent at Hartsmere and the most of the remainder at Fort Stewart, where the Wannamakers operated a farm. Nine years ago they moved to Stirling after retiring from active farm life.

The thirteen children are: Guy, Casinilton; Bert, Foxboro; Lloyd, Madoc; Leo, Stirling; Mrs. Mickey (Myrtle) Mallory, Mrs. William (Violet) Cairns; Mrs. Gerald (Isabel) Towns, all of Stirling; Mrs. George (Vera) Connors, Toronto; Cecil Orval Frankford; Cecil (Goldie) Towes; Mrs. Clarence (Shirley) Towes of Frankford; Eskart, Bancroft; and Arnold of Belleville.

The children with 29 other members of the family tendered their parents a celebration dinner in the Foxboro school on August 29th, while on the afternoon of the anniversary they presented them with a television set.

Kiwanians Play Host to 4,000 At Second Annual Kids' Day

An estimated 4,000 school children and their parents jammed the Fair Grounds Saturday as the Belleville Kiwanis Club staged the annual Kids Day for pupils of public and separate schools in the Belleville district.

Some 460 young athletes from 10 schools, ranging in ages from seven to 15 years took part in the finals of 25 track and field events.

Kiwanis president, Lawrence Kells, welcomed the children and their parents to the club's second annual Kids Day. Responsible for the handling of the mammoth gathering of the moppets was the Kiwanis Sports committee, under the direction of Addison Lloyd and Ralph Clapp, with the full co-operation of Lloyd Doran, manager-director of the Belleville Recreational committee. Some 40 Kiwanians also were on hand to help direct the event to its successful conclusion.

Top honors for the winners of the various events were awarded to the following girls and boys:

Age group, 7 to 8 yrs. — Carol Davis, Prince Charles School; Andrew Haig, Queen Alexandra; 9 to 10 years, Stephanie Dahl, Queen Alexandra; Stuart Muirhead, Queen Elizabeth; 11 to 12 yrs, Judy Mott, Queen Alexandra; John Mossman, Prince of Wales; 13-to 15 yrs, Carole White, King George; Barbara Simpson, Queen Mary; Billy Dafoe, Prince of Wales School.

The race for free Coca Colas and Borden's ice cream was entered by all with awards going to over 4,000 contestants.

The final event, a relay race around the track, brought the day to a close. First place was captured by Barry Simpson, Stuart Muirhead, Barry Roberts and Doug Johnson of Queen Elizabeth School. Second place was won by John Lewis, Graydon Scott, Peter Annis and Dale Archer of Queen Alexandra School with John Mossman, Doug Rose, Barton Durante and John Olive of the Prince of Wales School running a close third.

Half of Family Of Skunks Gone In Smelly War

TRENTON (Special) — George Barr figures he's rid the neighborhood of half of the family of skunks that made a home under the ground floor of his house on Stanley street.

On Saturday residents in the vicinity thought the whole colony was dead—and awfully long dead at that—when skunk No. 4 poured out a great quantity of fetid-tale scent in the general direction of a dog trying to harass the striped bushy tailed animal caught in a muskrat trap.

When the skunks persisted in exercising squatter's rights on Barr property early this year, members of the Barr family took down their welcome sign and declared war on the potent little creatures. From a safe observation post no less than eight skunks were counted utilizing the cover of darkness to forage for food. One by one the Barrs wrote off their unwelcomed guests and although the process is extremely painful at times the attackers have the greatest confidence that the defenders will be finally routed despite their lethal stomizers and unusually straight shooting.

Two Babies Escape Death By Asphyxiation

TRENTON, (Special.) — Two babies narrowly escaped death by asphyxiation about 11.00 o'clock this Monday morning when two cardboard boxes filled with baby clothing caught fire in the bedroom in which they were sleeping filling the room with choking smoke.

Wanda Badgero, one-year-old daughter of Pte. and Mrs. Lloyd Badgero, and Deborah Clark, four-months-old daughter of Mrs. Lena Clark, were in the bedroom of lodgings occupied by Mrs. Badgero at 25 Bay Street.

Their clothing, stored in two cardboard boxes, was believed to have taken fire from a large wood stove used to heat the bedroom.

Mrs. Badgero, who was caring for the Clark baby, while her mother was working, was writing a letter to her husband, Pte. Lloyd Badgero, who is in service with the Army Service Corps in Korea, when she noticed smoke curling under the door to the bedroom in which the babies were sleeping.

She rushed into the bedroom which was filled with smoke, gathered up the two infants and made her way outside.

Trenton firemen rushed to the scene and doused the blaze which was eating into the bedroom floor.

Two other Badgero children, Bonnie 3, and Marvin, 2, were playing outside at the time and were in no danger.

Youths Injured As Car Is Upset

TRENTON (Special) — A youth from Cobourg and one from Colborne landed in the Trenton Memorial Hospital for the week-end. The car in which they were riding went out of control and rolled over in the ditch at the turn from the causeway on the Presqu'ile road to Ontario street, Brighton, in the early hours of Saturday morning.

Injured and admitted to the Trenton Memorial Hospital were Jack Douglas Baker of Cobourg, suffering face cuts and shock, and George Rice of R. 4, Colborne, suffering an injured left knee. Douglas Jackson of Toronto, the other occupant of the car, received treatment for face scratches and was allowed to return home.

The car was damaged extensively.

Replaces Cairn With Two Others

TRENTON, (Special) — A cairn erected by Henry Burton in memory of his wife, Jules Burton, who willed her body to Queen's University for cancer research, has been torn down and the 79-year-old Trenton widower is replacing it with two smaller ones.

The original monument, containing letters, newspaper clippings and pictures pertaining to Mrs. Burton's unusual request, stood in the grounds of the old Trenton Memorial Hospital. It was "V" shaped and held a concave replica of the cairn. An engraved plaque denoted its purpose.

Hospital authorities decided the cairn was out of keeping with the general landscaping of the spacious grounds. Mr. Burton agreed to transfer it to more suitable locations. He decided to make two cairns out of the colored stones from the first cairn. The contents from the original cairn will be divided and placed in both the new ones.

Driver Fell Asleep

TRENTON (Special) — George Moore, 23, of Trenton, told police he fell asleep at the wheel of his car which crashed into a utility pole opposite 25 College street on Saturday night. There was no damage to the pole but the front of the car needs an $85 repair job.

Passengers Donna Moore, Walter Belnap of Trenton, and Sheila Berry of Shannonville nor the driver suffered injuries.

Police Blotter

A 17-year-old Belleville girl was reported to have left home and a search was on for her when returned to his parents during a week-end of comparative quiet at the city police station.

Police reported that Neille Van Olden, Dunbar Hall, and Mrs. M. Van Orten, Dunbar street, had not been seen since she left home Sunday evening. The petite girl described as appearing 19 or 20 years old. She has dark complexion, dark brown hair, brown eyes and is five feet five inches tall. When last seen she was wearing a green dress, brown shoes and a white hat.

An East Hill resident reported that a 13-year-old Napanee boy car was stolen from a parking lot from the eastern town. The boy was taken to the police station, where he was picked up by his parents and returned home.

Two members of the RCAF collided, while driving on Dundas West, early Sunday morning. Cars driven by Joseph E. Gauthier, main station, and Malcolm Hesford, No. 6 R.D. sideswiped causing 100 damage to one vehicle and $300 to the other.

Choosy Female Will Have Big Selection

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Practically everything a choosy female could want in the line of fashion is offered by British wholesalers for the retail market this winter.

Outstanding lines shown in the Paris and London collections are pleasing — sometimes exaggerated, often modified for the woman who wants a "good" suit to last more than one season.

There's the tweedy look in suits, with the big, loose jackets in boxy suits with slim skirts and waistless jackets, and in big, dotted redingotes. In dark tweeds with gay red and tan checks as used for classic fitted suits. Knobby tweeds give a wide range of office dresses and slick afternoon numbers with removable jackets.

Even the old favorite, the jersey dress, has been given a tweed face lifting. Tweed-finish jersey is prominent in many fitted suits with velvet collars and pleated skirts.

The long torso look in suits is at its best in smooth-finish fabrics, the material looking much like grandmother's "good black." One of the fashion leaders has box jacket, slim skirt and white fur blouse. The fur cuffs and collar are the longer fur to be part of the suit jacket.

Smart suits in fleck tweeds with Paris' latest S-line have blouse-back jacket with short peplum fastened in front with a huge buckle. The skirt is straight with slight front fullness and a back slit.

TIGHT ROPE DANCER

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Edward Vesslen, Swedish restaurant worker, today claimed the world record for tightrope dancing—31 hours, 30 minutes on a wire near his home in Lidingoe, a Stockholm suburb. The old record of 31:04 was claimed by a Swede named Lundberg.

Mr., Mrs. A. Nayler Celebrate Their 40th Anniversary

On Thursday, September 23, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Nayler, 290 Bleecker Avenue, celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary.

During the day, many friends dropped in to congratulate them. They had numerous telephone calls and were surprised many times with deliveries of a present or of flowers.

In the evening, they entertained their bridge clubs and relatives for bridge.

There were beautiful homegrown dahlias arranged artistically around the rooms, also a basket of pink and white gladioli and red roses.

For luncheon the tables were arranged in T shape. The head table was appointed with white damask cloth centred with white and rose dahlias and rose candles with two green and white anniversary cakes centred with a red floral arrangement, placed in front.

The sumptuous luncheon was served and replenished by Mrs. R. Slavin, Mrs. T. Wrenshall and Mrs. E. Wilson.

Mrs. Maude Elliott, a lifetime friend, poured coffee; Mrs. C. N. Whiteman poured tea.

Mr. A. McGlashan briefly commented on the esteem in which Mr. and Mrs. Nayler are held by their bridge club and friends and on their behalf presented them with a silver chop dish.

Mr. Percy Nayler related past experiences and, on behalf of his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Ted Nayler, presented the couple with a table lamp.

Mr. and Mrs. Nayler responded both reminiscing on 40 years ago, and the binding love which goes with true friends.

Mrs. Nayler also mentioned how pleased she was that her sister, Mrs. Darrah, and her brother, Percy Alexander, could be with her at this time.

Mr. Alexander was best man, and a niece, Mrs. Helen Large, who was in attendance, was their flower girl.

Everyone sang "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows". There was a sing-song and Mrs. M. Davidson rendered several solos.

Everyone was reluctant to leave such a happy occasion, but in doing so, wished Mr. and Mrs. Nayler many more happy anniversaries.

Following the First Aid lecture, R. D. Knox, doctor of Chiropractic, gave an interesting lecture on bone structure and joints, stressing particularly the function of bone and the structure and function of the spine.

Appreciation for this splendid talk was voiced by Mrs. M. Macriott.

After a talk on bandages by the class instructor, Mrs. McLuskie, the class prescribed folding bandages, making bone splints and applying a St. John sling.

Dr. Winnifred Bryce Discusses India's Revolution of Caste System

The September meeting of Tabernacle United W.M.S., was held in the church parlors, with the president, Mrs. Mary Wilson presiding, and Mrs. M. P. Duff at the piano.

Mrs. May conducted the business meeting. The roll call showed eleven members present, also two visitors. The treasurer reported $215 of the minimum objective $500 had been raised.

Mrs. May announced the East Bellevile rally will be held in Bridge St. United Church Belleville, Oct. 29. The guest speaker at the evening service will be Mrs. K. Marsh from India.

It was moved by Mrs. Skaggs that a committee of three, Mrs. May, Mrs. Fisher and Mrs. Archibald be formed to arrange a Sunday morning service of the W.M.S. Auxiliary in Tabernacle Church on October 17 and to arrange for special speaker and other details pertaining to the service. Also announcement for an executive meeting held on September 24 at Mrs. May's home.

She reported a large number had attended the school: 114 for full time; 13 part time; 97 day students, with 11 of the staff. Total 235.

The dean of the school, Mrs. F. W. K. Harris welcomed the delegates.

Mrs. Stewart had morning devotions each morning. Taking as her theme for each morning, Faith, Prayer, Love and Peace.

Mrs. Seymour, who has attended all 21 "School for Leaders" led the girls in gymnastics and swimming.

GUEST SPEAKER

Dr. Winnifred Bryce, who spent 40 years in India, was guest speaker. She told of India's problems and the solution as she saw it.

The old culture and new ideas. There are six or seven distinct races. In the caste system a person of one caste would not drink water from a well where one of another caste had drunk.

In 1947, India became independent. They do not want other ideas; they want to work things out for themselves; they do not want to become involved in other countries in case of war; they think they can be neutral. Now different castes are allowed in stations. There is no discrimination.

Mrs. May, who had also attended the school, spoke of Dr. and Mrs. Chisholm, the host and hostess of the college, who are so gracious in that capacity.

Mrs. Frost thanked Miss Horton for her report.

Mrs. Geraldine and Mrs. G. Brickman gave a dialogue representing two ladies, Mrs. Rightway and Mrs. Sociable on the chapter of the study book on India.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DOES HER HUSBAND LOVE HER?—OR ANOTHER WOMAN?

Happily married, or so she thought, for 29 years, one wife suddenly discovered that her husband "has another woman and doesn't have the courage to, give her up.

"He has been seeing her for over a year on 'weekends,' " she continues, "staying at home, which is out of town. She is unmarried, unattractive and about 50 years old. I am 51 and attractive, so they say, and my husband has always been proud of me.

"My husband is 53, and he tells me he will love me until his dying day, but he also tells this other woman he loves her, too. This I do not understand. Can you enlighten me?

"My friends tell me to leave my husband, but I cannot do this because, after so many years, I think so much of him. My doctor tells me it is an infatuation which will pass, but will take time.

"Do you think I should leave him, or try to put up with it a little longer?"

Doesn't this wife think she has already answered her own question? She says that although her friends advise her to leave her husband she cannot do it because he means so much to her. It seems to me she has already made her decision.

It is not at all uncommon for an unfaithful husband to do exactly what hers is doing that is, tell both his wife and the "other woman" that he loves them. And he believes firmly that this is true. However, her doctor almost certainly is correct when he says that what her friend feels is infatuation, not love, in which case, hard as it is for her to believe now, she can have confidence that it is she he really loves. Moreover, again as the doctor says, the infatuation will pass in time. Not only will it pass, but I think she will find her husband deeply remorseful, and anxious to do everything he can in future to atone for the wrong he has done her and the hurt he has caused her.

This woman may have heard that most of her husband's ago very frequently pass through a period of great mental and emotional confusion, in the course of which they all too frequently do things that, once the period of stress is over, they bitterly regret. Like a woman of the same age, a man suddenly realizes that he has left youth behind, and is greatly upset by the sudden realization. He knows that youthful pleasures are gone for good, but instead of accepting that fact, and adjusting himself to the pleasures of maturity, he may make a frenzied attempt to recapture the spirit of youth, and delay its passing, by going out after new adventures, particularly amorous ones.

Women, on the other hand, may feel just as keenly the sadness and regret of knowing that youth is gone, but it is only the exceptional one who resorts to such violent expression of resentment against the inexorable march of Time.

What all this boils down to is that the husband in question is practically certain eventually to tire of, or become disgusted with, his illicit love affair and be eager to return to the happy relationship his wife says they had before he lost his perspective in a way that is so hard to bear. And, since she really does not want to leave him, I think it would be extremely foolish for her to do so. She may believe now that she can never feel the same about him again, but it is entirely possible that, together, they may build their happiness anew, if they both go at it with a real desire to do so.

In the meantime, while waiting for the day when he comes to himself, she should try to fill her life and mind with as many interesting things as she can, instead of devoting herself to brooding over her present unhappiness. And she should remember that many, many other women have lived through a crisis of this sort and come through it successfully. So, almost surely, will she, too.

EVEN old-fashioned bureaus with deep, wide drawers can be made easy for your child to keep neat. Give each kind of clothing its own special "stall" by dividing the drawer with strips of wood. Open boxes will do the trick, too, if they fit without sliding around.

Cake Decorating Lucrative Hobby

ST. LAMBERT, Que. (CP)—The polite housewife named Miss Icein-Cake of 1954 at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto has made cake decorating a lucrative hobby.

In an interview at her home in this Montreal suburb, Mrs. Helen MacKenzie said cake decorating is a much neglected art because so few schools teach it.

Mrs. Mackenzie, interested in cake decorating all her life, said that when she was young she would look into the big windows of a bakery near her home in Glasgow, Scotland, and memorize the patterns on the cakes. Then she would buy a plain cake and decorate it herself at home. She said she is not a professional cake-icer but is kept busy filling the orders of relatives and friends.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

SHOULD SHE SEND WEDDING GIFT?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have been invited to attend the wedding reception and dinner of my boyfriend's best friend. I have never met his boyfriend. What should I do about a wedding gift? Am I to buy a gift, or do I leave that up to my boyfriend? —B.

Since this is a very important invitation you received, when you are directly from the bride or her parents, or indirectly through your boyfriend, my advice is that you send a wedding gift in your name to the bride-to-be. The gift you choose may be something simple, not expensive, but thoughtful.

FATHER UNNECESSARILY "UPSET"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I'm the father of a 16-year-old girl, and I arranged a "Sweet Sixteen" birthday party for her. Recently my daughter-in-law was asked by the boy my daughter has invited to be her escort whether or not I was planning to give my daughter flowers, and he said that if I weren't going to send her flowers he would like to send them to her. My daughter-in-law told him she did not know what my plans were about flowers. Then he asked me the same question. His question upset me very much, and I discussed the situation with my family. They think that the boy was right, but I disagree with them and would like your opinion, please. Father

I agree with your family that this polite young man was simply trying to make a thoughtful and courtly bow to your daughter on this important occasion, and particularly as the invited him to be her escort. However, he had the grace to realize that you were likely devoted to your daughter and so might want the privilege and honor of sending her the flowers she is to wear at the birthday party you have planned for her. I'm sure, dear sir, that on second thought you will admire his generous thought, and his straightforwardness in asking you your plans. All he wanted was your answer about your plans, and I'm sure he would have understood if you had told him you were going to send birthday flowers to your daughter.

Little Meat Pies

By Mary Moore

Elsie asked for "meat pastries like are made in the bake shop. Flaky juicy meat with onion, around which is lovely flaky pastry."

It isn't simple Elsie but I'll tell you what I do. First the pastry.

LITTLE MEAT PIES

Flaky Pastry: 3 cups pastry flour (unsifted), 1 cup best quality shortening, 1 1-2 teaspoons salt, 1-2 cup (scant) ice water.

Cut shortening into flour and salt with pastry blender. Sprinkle water over, 1 tablespoon at a time, cutting it in a little with a knife as you sprinkle. Do not overwork —just barely enough to pack the dough together between palms. Chill the dough and leave it in refrigerator overnight. Remove from refrigerator 2 hours before rolling out. Roll out half of the dough to use for bottom crusts and cut into rounds the size of your individual pie tins, and line sides and bottom with the rounds, having cut edges come right up to the top.

Roll out second half of pastry and spread half of it with 1 tablespoon soft butter. Fold unspread half over buttered side and fold ends of pastry to centre, then fold once more, which will give you 8 layers. Carefully roll out. Repeat the buttering and fold'ng once more, using 1 more tablespoon soft butter—that is 2 tablespoons in all. Roll out to 3-16 inch thickness, and cut out in rounds to fit top of your individual pie tins, making a slash at centre of each.

Filling—You need 2 cups cooked meat cut to 1-2 or 3-4 inch cubes. This may be chicken, beef, veal, pork or ham. In 3 tablespoons hot butter gently saute 2 tablespoons greated onion until transparent, but not brown. Stir in 3 tablespoons flour and when blended 1 1-2 cup boiling water (or, in the case of chicken, hot skim milk), stirring until thick. Add 1 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 1-4 teaspoon monosodium glutamate, and if desired 1 tablespoon each chopped parsley and cooked green peas. Stir in the cubed meat. Spoon this into the pastry-lined pans—but do not fill them too full. Moisten edges of pastry with water and seal on upper crust. Bake at 500 deg. Fahr. for first 10 minutes, then reduce heat to 400 deg. Fahr. for another 10 or 15 minutes.

There are dozens of ways of making these delicious little morsels. An entirely diff . t version is

BEEF PASTIES

Make pastry as above and line individual tins with the first amount of unfolded pastry. Spoon into them this uncooked combination (the juices extracted by cooking will moisten this sufficiently; 1 cup diced raw potato, 1-3 cup each diced raw carrot and turnip, 1-4 cup minced onion, 1-2 lb. raw steak chopped (this must be tender meat), 2 slices of minced bacon, about 1 1-2 teaspoons salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper. Seal on tops as above and bake at 450 deg. Fahr. for first 5 minutes, then reduce heat to 375 deg. Fahr. and bake about 33 to 40 minutes, or when tried through gash with toothpick, meat and vegetables are tender.

Note—The same filling as for Beef Pasties may be used in a large meat pie but double the quantity of the vegetables and increase the amount of salt and pepper.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

SUPERFLUOUS HAIR

The medical profession offers no explanation for the appearance of an incipient moustache on a woman's lip or coarse bristles on her chin. It is thought that this distressing condition may be caused by some slight glandular disturbance, but that is only a guess.

Hereditary factors may account for some cases. If both parents have an over-abundant growth of coarse hair, it is possible that daughter may develop a superfluous growth. That is a result of a survey recently made by specialists.

Age seems to have little to do with it. A growth may appear when a girl is nearing her teens. Or, her skin may be flawless until the approach of old age. No matter at what period it descends upon one, it is a situation that is hard to bear.

There is no trustworthy evidence that oily cosmetics promote a growth, as some women are inclined to believe. Oily skins of coarse texture are more susceptible to hairy growth than dry ones, however.

There are various methods of removal. One's family physician will recommend a reliable operator. Or, if he hasn't one in mind he will consult a dermatologist who will have the desired information.

A method that has been used for many years is the electric needle. It is placed beside the hair shaft, pressed down gently to the papilla which the current destroys. With the papilla out of business no new shaft can emerge to take the place of the old one.

To remove fuzz from the legs depilatories are satisfactory. If you are about to experiment along these lines, give yourself a test treatment, covering a small area with the chemical.

DUPLESSIS SAYS

Mr. Duplessis enumerated sums spent for farm loans, housing, rural electrification, schools, hospitals, grants to universities and classical colleges, and the construction of specialized technical schools.

"We have more needs and to meet them we need revenues, as the father of a family needs revenues."

Mr. Duplessis described the Quebec-Ottawa dispute as a "matter of life and death" for Quebec.

This was "all the more" because of "regrettable words" and "excessively dangerous attitudes" expressed by Mr. St. Laurent and his Quebec speech.

The premier said Mr. St. Laurent had "humbled" him. "I don't care about that, really," he added.

WILL ANSWER

He said "some of Mr. St. Laurent's statements contain inaccuracies" while "others replete truth with insult."

Mr. Duplessis said he would answer Mr. St. Laurent on these points—presumably those touched on provincial administration—"at the appropriate time and place."

At this time, he said, he only wanted to speak of the dispute over taxation rights. Persecution was embraced, he said, by Quebec's forefathers to secure the right to speak French, to have Parliament administered by elected representatives.

"Today some want to go back to the system of English governors unchecked by law."

"We do not want (federal) subsidies because they are anti-parliamentary, anti-democratic and anti-Canadian."

WERE JOINED

Quebec and Ontario were joined under the 1940 Union Act but it had not worked out. If two provinces could not be joined how could 10 provinces be brought together under a single government?

"Canada is an immense country and there is no single government that can settle all the problems because of the extent of its territory.

"Confederation is indispensable while centralization leads to bureaucracy and bureaucracy to dictatorship."

Mr. Duplessis said "Quebec's fight protects the other provinces although they may not see it." A single government, he said, becomes "Socialist or Communist" but that could not happen as long as there were 10 provincial governments.

Quebec wanted "only recognition of its rights" Mr. St. Laurent's words that all provinces were "alike" were "distressful and pathetic."

WRITE RIGHTS

Quebec does not "seek special privileges," he said, "but only what it was granted under the constitution, the right to speak French, to have its Catholic schools."

Had any English-speaking Canadian ever been heard to say Quebec was like other provinces?

"To pretend that Quebec is like the others is an encouragement to assimilation."

Quebec's traditions were maintained in its schools. If Quebec had no money could the province "be sure" of Ontario's aid.

"Show me one province where the minority is as well treated as it is in this province . . . that is why the constitution granted the field of education to the provinces, but stop.

Mr. St. Laurent does not know that: DISTRESSFUL POLICY

"We have better guarantees with a (provincial) government where we hold a majority. So you see that there would be greater security in a (federal) government where we are in a minority."

Mr. Duplessis said Mr. St. Laurent had outlined a "distressful policy."

"Mr. St. Laurent's principle is that under confederation Ottawa has all and the provinces have the rest. I say this is not just, is against the pact and is unconstitutional . . . It is a principle we will never accept, though it would be redress for handcuffs, the vast Quebec hortmens for a federal oxygen tent, our right of speech, the certitude of tenancy."

Mr. Duplessis said Mr. St. Laurent had "challenged the province" to accept his view or vote against his federal party.

"I regret the attitude of Mr. St. Laurent, for his sake, for the sake of the province and of the country. I do not understand why he became angry . . . I would be guilty of disowning his race and its rights based on justice."

"INJURIOUS WORDS"

"His flung injurious words at everyone to prove that his (their) was a good one, even at the clergy and the judges. . . ."

Mr. St. Laurent had said the federal government taxed 17 per cent more than it needed in order to be able to pay subsidies to the provinces. Mr. Duplessis compared this to a man who stole to give part of disowning his race and its rights based on justice.

The U.S. army said its personnel included 41 soldiers, two soldiers' wives, one army civilian employee, one child, two army postal clerks and servicemen on leave or being transferred.

The other four ferries lost in Hakodate Bay had gone to sea when the typhoon struck, in an effort to avoid being battered to pieces at their piers.

Of the men aboard, 26 are known to be dead and 348 are missing. Only 31 were rescued.

THOUSANDS KILLED

All Hakodate now is without light or power. Emergency generators were put into operation Sunday night to floodlight the disaster scene but the southwestern part of the city of the Toya Maru remained visible above the rising waters.

Japan's maritime safety force reported one other ferry is feared lost, others grounded and one damaged in the storm. More than 1,100 persons are mostly fishing boats, were lost, beached or damaged.

Twenty-seven patrol boats, six landing craft and three mine sweepers, all Japanese, combed Hakodate bay today for bodies and possible survivors. They were assisted by U.S. air and naval units.

AMERICANS MISSING

The U.S. Far East command announced that 37 American military personnel were aboard and that one is known to have survived. Two American civilians were listed as missing and presumably drowned. Another, Cliff Ferguson of Hokkaido, was identified as a survivor.

The U.S. army said its personnel included 41 soldiers, two soldiers' wives, one army civilian employee, one child, two army postal clerks and servicemen on leave or being transferred.

The other four ferries lost in Hakodate bay had gone to sea when the typhoon struck, in an effort to avoid being battered to pieces at their piers.

Of the men aboard, 26 are known to be dead and 348 are missing. Only 31 were rescued.

Ted Williams Will Hang Up Spikes? 'Not Kidding' Says Boston Slugger

By BOB HOOBING

BOSTON (AP)—"It's the same as I said last spring, only more so—I'm through."

Thus Ted Williams, one of the greatest hitters in baseball history, apparently wrote finis to his playing career in a clubhouse statement Sunday after hitting his 29th home run of the year in Boston's 11-2 triumph over Washington.

Was this the final word of a Williams determined to quit while still on top? Or was it the expression of an obviously fatigued player at the end of a trouble-plagued season, who might reconsider after a winter's rest?

To the writers crowding around his locker as he hung up old No. 9, ostensibly for the last time, and to those teammates nearby, Williams tried to dispel all doubts.

"You think I'm kidding, but I'm not. I've never wavered from my original announcement."

Part general manager Joe Cronin's reaction expressed a common sentiment. "It's a long time between now and spring training."

Field manager Lou Boudreau added "I hope it isn't true."

Red Sox owner Tom Yawkey, reached at his Georgetown, S.C., home by a local writer had this to say:

"So, he said he was through, huh? Well, ever since he came back from Korea, I've let him make his own decisions on when and if he wanted to play. So we'll just let things rock along for a little while and maybe we'll be hearing differently."

Williams, at 36, almost won the American League batting championship despite a broken collarbone which kept him sidelined until May 13, a virus attack in June and a rash of 136 walks handed him in his 117 of a possible 156 games. Ted hit .345 on the basis of his 386 at bats. To qualify for the American League crown a batter must have 400 official trips.

Quit or not, Williams' less of the title, considered by many as unfair, may be remedied by a proposed rules change which would make the basis of the title 450 times up including walks and other unofficial times at bat.

WINS JOCKEY CUP

TORONTO (CP)—Unbranded, an 11-to1 shot, won the $10,000 added Jockey Club Cup Saturday. The three-year-old, owned by Yonzy Starr of Peru, paid $24.80, $8.40 and $5.50.

Unbranded won it in a photo finish over Sampan, owned by Sol Rosenberg of Toronto. The Mc-Macher-Stable's Kasco Knight was third.

Chain Reaction, pre-race favorite, entered in the six-furlong dash, had shown lame in the parade to the post and although it started, the horse was declared scratched by the stewards as the gates flew open. Money which had been bet on Chain Reaction, totalling $13,000, was refunded to bettors.

'Peg Monarchs Fire Coach

WINNIPEG (CP)—Walter Monson, who coached Winnipeg Monarchs for the last eight years and guided them to their last Memorial Cup championship in 1948, was fired Sunday night.

Monarch manager Pat Lyons announced that Ross Nicholson, former Brandon Elks mentor, would replace Monson. Lyons said the move was made to cut expenses.

Monarchs captured the Memorial Cup in Monson's first year as coach, beating a strong Toronto St. Michael's club in the 1946 finals.

He took the Toronto Maple Leafs-sponsored Monarchs to the finals again in 1951, only to lose out to Barrie Flyers.

TAKES IRISH TITLE

DUBLIN (AP)—A crowd of 75,375 Sunday watched Meath capture the all-Ireland senior football championship by defeating Kerry 18-10.

Gerry McNeil Quits Hockey

MONTREAL (CP) — Gerry McNeil, diminutive goaltender with Montreal Canadiens for the last four National Hockey League seasons, said Sunday night he is quitting hockey.

"I just figured I had enough and decided to stay home with the family," he said in an interview.

"Hockey had to come to an end for me sometime and I thought I might as well get out while I had my health. Sometimes it's a lot tougher than people think it is."

Club officials would not comment on the 26-year-old goalie's announcement.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

BATAS SQUARE IT!

The Batas squared the Eastern Ontario Senior Baseball championship best-of-three series here Saturday night edging the Oshawa Transporters 10-8 in a free-swinging contest. The third and deciding game is scheduled for the Exhibition Park tomorrow night starting at 7.30. Art Wright tolled fly and one-third innings to cop the win before giving way to reliefer Bobby Bandas who let the Transporters down with two hits over the rest of the route. Jack Durston started for the Transporters but gave way to Macson in the third when the Batas pushed over a half dozen runs to nail away the verdict. A deserved laughter last-off may await the winners of this series since, it is understood, the western Ontario title may take some time to decide a claimant. Cleveland Stones and Niagara Falls are battling out a 4-7 series, the winners to meet the Petrolia-Oakville Oaks victors, before crossing diamond rapiers with the eastern title-holders.

EYES ON TITLE!

Bob Temple's "chips-down" Bobcats bared their claws here Saturday to sweep the best-of-three Intermediate "A" softball series with the hard-fighting Peterborough "Lancers." "Bonk" Young's 4-hit hurling backed by outstanding fielding and some clutch clouting snared the win for the Cats who won the right to enter the provincial finals against either New Toronto or St. Catharines. The Cats' pitcher, Peters, deserved a better fate since he held the Cats to four hits, but wobbled a bit to walk Cat runners when the Belleville squad was in scoring position. It was a good series and the Cats are in line for the first softball crown since the Glen Boys won the Junior "A" all-Ontario bauble a few years ago.

CLOSE ONE!

Jack Elliott's Point Anne squad rap into a fourth seat at the Palm on Saturday when they bowed to the powerful Stratford Krechlers by a 4.2 score. One of the largest crowds of the season was on hand to see the Ox Point ace, Pat Mancuso, battle for his fourth straight victory, but it was not the Point's day and they ran into one of the best intermediate "A" pitchers in Ontario. Ted Geerts, a smoke-ball hurler, tossed strikes past nine Point hitters in a classic packed around only six safeties. He allowed only four hits while Pat gave up but six, while whiffing seven. It was a nip-and-tuck battle all the way with Johnny Green getting the heave-ho from the umpire after a plate altercation. The teams play the second game of the series in Stratford today.

WELLINGTON COMES THROUGH!

Johnny Mowat's Wellington midgets are just a game away from the first OBA championship to come to the village. Paced by Johnny Purtelle, Mowat's moppets defeated the strong Millcroft, Ont. Intermediate "B" champs 11-7 in the first score, with the young Iron Dukes displaying championship form all round. The teams play the second of the best-of-three series for the title in the village park next Saturday afternoon starting at 3.30.

Purtelle came up with a dazzling individual performance. The sixteen-year-old who gets his mail in Bloomfield, smashed out a homer, two triples, a double and a single for a perfect day at the plate besides accepting eleven chances without a miscue. He was the toast of the baseball village over the week-end.

Race Tightens In Western Grid Union

By the Canadian Press

By the time the final whistle blows tonight's Western Interprovincial Football Union games at Calgary and Edmonton, the loop teams can be tied for first place with a fourth only two points off the pace.

Tonight Winnipeg Blue Bombers invade Calgary where the Stampeders humiliated them 41-0 in their previous meeting there, and Saskatchewan Roughriders tackle the Eskimos in Edmonton. Home wins would move Stampeders into a first-place deadlock with Bombers and Riders and leave Eskimos only two points behind.

The fourteam race for the three playoff berths, now past the half-way mark, tightened Saturday when Stampeders whipped Riders 18-10 at Calgary and Eskimos subdued Bombers 12-8 at Edmonton.

Panthers Win

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Panthers rolled to their fourth consecutive victory by battering Stratford Rams 41-7 in an intermediate Ontario Rugby Football Union game here Saturday.

Quarterback Glen Dawson threw three touchdown passes, scored another major himself and missed only one convert in five attempts.

PATTY BERG WINS

ARDMORE, Okla. (AP)—Tournament-tough Patty Berg of St. Andrews, Ill., shot one-under-par golf on the final three holes to win the Ardmore open women's golf tournament Sunday with a 72-hole score of 299, three over par. The victory was worth almost $2,000.

Champions Meet in Big Series For First Time Since 1931; Karl Spooner Whiffs 12 Bucs

By Jack Hand
Associated Press Sports Writer

For the first time since 1931, the two league batting champions will meet in the world series with Willie Mays (.345) of the New York Giants and Bobby Avila (.341) of the Cleveland Indians topping the hit parade.

Mays beat out teammate Don Mueller and Brooklyn's Duke Snider with a three-hit outburst on the final day of the season after trailing both Saturday night. Willie tipped into Philadelphia pitching Sunday for a triple, double and single and a final .345 average. Mueller wound up at .342 and Snider at .341.

Avila's triumph in the American League is bound to stir up some off-season talk. Ted Williams actually had a higher average, .345, but he didn't have the required 400 official at bats, only 386. If the statisticians gave him 14 hitless trips to boost his at bat total to 400 he would have finished at .333.

TED'S LAST?

Williams' fans point out that the Boston slugger was walked about 136 times, purposely intentional, and the rules should take such a situation into consideration. Unless Williams changes his mind in the off season, this was his final season.

The last time two batting champs met in the world series was in 1931—Al Simmons of the Philadelphia A's and Chick Hafey of the St. Louis Cardinals. The only other time it happened was in 1909 when Honus Wagner of Pittsburgh and Ty Cobb of Detroit were in the lineups.

As Cleveland had clinched the American League pennant a week ago Saturday and New York eliminated Brooklyn a day later, the chief interest in Sunday's final games was a scrap for fourth place—and a chunk of world series cash—in each league.

The Boston Red Sox, helped by Williams' 29th homer in a five-run seventh, sewed up fourth in the Washington 12-2. Detroit, with a chance at fourth place if Boston had lost, toppled Cleveland 5-3 in 10 innings as Ned Hatfield's two-run homer off Ray Narleski.

RUGGED TUNE-UP

Mike Garcia, likely Cleveland starter in the third series game, pitched 12 innings against the Tigers in a rugged tune-up.

Philadelphia wound up fourth in the National despite a defeat by the New York Giants, 6-5 in 11 innings. Cincinnati, needing a victory to tie the Phils, lost to Chicago, 5-2.

Karl Spooner, Brooklyn's brilliant rookie southpaw, proved his 15-strikeout job against the Giants Wednesday was no flash in the pan. The 22-year-old Fort Worth grad fanned 12 Pittsburgh batters for a National League record of 27 in his first two starts. Gil Hodges' 42nd homer gave Brooklyn a 1-0 edge.

Wally Moon's 400-foot home run gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 4-3 victory over Milwaukee in 11 innings.

Casey Stengel popped up with his new "power" infield—Yogi Berra at third, Mickey Mantle at short and Bill Skowron at second—only to see the Philadelphia A's mock off his New York Yankees 8-4. Berra went hitless, losing his last chance to beat out Larry Doby for the league runs batted in title.

CAPTURES PARKS GOLF

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Lloyd Parkes of Dundas Rockcliffe Rock away walked off with top honors at the $1,500 first annual Niagara Parks commission golf tournament Saturday, one stroke ahead of John Serafin of West Flamboro. Pa.

Tucker put together rounds of 73-71-72-72 over 54 holes for the $300 first prize. Serafin, who tied the course record with a 69 for the first 18 holes Friday, had to twin 75s Saturday for 223 and $300 for second place.

Moe Norman of Kitchener tied with Serafin at 223 and was top amateur in the tournament.

Bobcats Defeat Peterborough 6-2 To Reach Intermediate AA Finals

Playing flawlessly behind "Bunk" Young's seven-hit pitching Bob Temple's Bobcats swept aside the last barrier to the OASA Intermediate "AA" finals here Saturday, defeating the Peterborough "Bill's Lunch" squad by a 6-2 score.

The win was the second in a row for the Cats and they now meet the winner of the New Toronto-St. Catharines series for the provincial title.

Young bowled up with Ed Peters, Peterborough ace righthander in a stirring mound duel. Peters allowed but nine hits, one of them a two-run triple by Doug Bone and walked Ray Bebenek, two of the seven batters sent down two by the strikeout route.

SCORE IN FOURTH

The Cats scored two runs in the fourth, followed with a single in the sixth and pushed across a trio of insurance markers in the eighth. Doug Lundeen scored a single in the fifth and came within a 3-2 striking distance when Bloom blasted a double, simply homer in the seventh.

They threatened on two occasions to unleash a scoring surge but par fielding and fine clutch hurling by Young choked off the rallies. They loaded the bases in the first with two out but Young forced Davis to ground out to retire the side.

Geet Donovan drove in the third Cat run in the sixth with two men out. He scored after going end-out and Doug Bone drew a stroll. He went to second on Fitzpatrick's sacrifice and raced across the plate when Donovan drove a clean single to centre. McBride grounded out.

The Cats opened the scoring in the fourth, Donovan hit safely and Peters weakened to walk both Wardhaugh and Bone. Long flies by Fitzpatrick and Donovan scored two runs and McBride popped out to retire the sequence.

Bloom's single drove in Pagett who had tripled for the Lancers first run in the fifth and Bloom's round-tripper in the eighth ended the scoring.

The Cats roared back with three runners in their half of the eighth. Duesbury was errored to first and Wardhaugh cracked out a single. Both runners scored on Bone's long triple with the big catcher scoring the third tally on Donovan's long fly to left field.

Pagett led the Peter' drive with a triple and two singles with Bloom hitting a homer and single. Briefly and Petes accounted for the other two Peterborough clouts.

Bone's triple paced the Cats offensive with Duesbury, Donovan and Wardhaugh getting the rest of the Cats four hits off Peters.

The teams:

Peterborough — Gaskill, Pagett, Bloom, Evans, Wilson, Davis, Briefly, Davis, Peters, Bradley, Sanderson.

Bobcats — Hatfield, Duesbury, Wardhaugh, Bone, Fitzpatrick, G. Donovan, McBride, Logan, Young.

The score:

Peterborough 000 010 010—2 7 1
Bobcats 000 201 03x—6 4 0

Young and Bone; Peters and Briefly.

Umpires: O'Donahue, Whalen.

Larks Swamp Argonauts 28-7 As Tigers Claw Ottawa 38-12; Stamps, Eskys Win in West

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

It hasn't taken Ottawa fans long to sour on their Big Four caller-dwelling Rough Riders. They showed their displeasure where it hurts most—at the box-office.

A crowd of only 9,300 turned out at Lansdowne Park Saturday, the smallest in the union in years. It was the most significant aspect of the crowded professional football weekend in the East and West and it brought into focus the dwindling spectator interest in every Big Four city except Montreal this season.

Saturday's lure was the initial 1954 appearance of Hamilton Tiger-Cats, defending Grey Cup champions, but Ticatdom decided to sit this one out. And it was probably just as well because Riders were humbled 38-12, the worst drubbing any Big Four club has taken this season.

SEEN AT START

A decline on crowd figures at Ottawa was apparent, from the Sept. 4 opening league game when about 13,000 turned up at 17,000-capacity Lansdowne Park to see Riders' clash with Montreal. Their second home game, Sept. 18 with Toronto Argonauts, drew Stadium's first crowd under 11,500.

Apart from Ottawa's attendance figure, Montreal Alouettes demonstrated they were the class of the East with a 28-7 victory over Argonauts to put them four points ahead of the runner-up Double Blue bearing the half-way mark of the schedule. A crowd of 18,104 was on hand at Montreal Stadium as Montreal and in the park, for the first Argonauts game of the season.

Things were different in the free-wheeling Western Interprovincial Union. Saskatchewan Roughriders and Winnipeg Blue Bombers, both leaders of the union, played away from home before near-sellout crowds and the lost to make it a tight championship race between four of the five teams.

GOOD CROWDS

A crowd of nearly 15,000 watched Calgary Stampeders maintain their unblemished record at home this season with an 18-10 victory over the Roughriders and Edmonton Eskimos dumped the Bombers 13-6 before 17,841 fans.

An early-morning rain that fell until shortly before game time may have scared away some fans at Ottawa but this is doubtful. It was a close game for the first half with Tiger-Cats ahead 14-6 but a long touchdown third-quarter splurge sent Ticats well on the way to their third victory of the season.

Tiger-Cats scored six touchdowns —two by Bernie Custis and the other three each by Merle Hapes, Lou Kusserow, Ray Ramsay and Vito Ragazzo. The Rags converted all six to run his string of consecutive points-after-touchdown to 99 in league and playoff games, a Canadian record.

TWO CONVERTED

Bobby Simpson, Canadian-born star of the Riders, scored a major in the second quarter and Boris Kotoff went over for another late in the game. Both were converted by Gene Roberts.

The crowd at Montreal ignored a muddy field and a light rain to watch quarter Sam Etcheverry pitch Montreal to victory. Two of his passes went for touchdowns and a third was good after he moved the team inside the Toronto 10-yard line with his accurate throwing.

Alex Webster was the Als' leading scorer with two majors. Tex Grigg, first-year import from Oklahoma, and Montreal-born Joey Sternaman each scored one touchdown while end Ray Poole kicked a field goal and four converts.

TORONTO POINTS

Dick Shatto scored the only Toronto touchdown in the second quarter. Norb Hecker added the convert and Alex Fonteno kicked a single to account for the other Toronto points.

Only one game was played in the Ontario Rugby Football Union and it ended with a 6-1 victory for Saints Imperials over Balmy Beach, at Toronto. The triumph sent the Imperials to within two points of the league-leading Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen in the three - team league.

Mountie Dies In Far North

OTTAWA (CP)—The RCMP reported Friday that constable Douglas E. Ferguson, 36, of Malmotown, Ont., died of carbon monoxide poisoning Sept. 17 while on a small Hudson's Bay Company boat on patrol from Cambridge Bay to Saltwat Islet, N. W. T.

The force said constable Ferguson died accidentally but full details are not yet available.

Notre Dame Whips Texas 21-0

NEW YORK (AP)—Notre Dame, apparently headed for new glories under young Terry Brennan, is not just stand aside and watch other top contenders for national football honors lift off themselves.

With the season only two weeks old, four teams picked to challenge the Irish for the coveted No. 1 role—Texas, Illinois, Michigan State and Georgia Tech—already have been beaten.

Another, Oklahoma, has had a tight go-round, having to screw twice in the fading minutes to beat Pittsburgh 20-19, but the Big Seven Sooners may not be as fortunate Oct. 9 against Texas at Dallas.

For those who might have been skeptical that the 26-year-old Brennan could step into the shoes of Knute Rockne and Frank Leahy, the Fighting Irish had the answer Saturday in a 21-0 triumph over a big, strong Texas team which had been rated the best from the Southwest in years.

While the fast-charging Irish line held the Texans scoreless for the first time in nearly a decade, quarterback Ralph (Bucky) Guglielmi scored two touchdowns and passed to the third for Notre Dame.

Guglielmi, who was stunned by Penn State, 14-12, Michigan State, 9-6 and 1954 Rose Bowl champions, fell before Iowa, 14-13; Georgia Tech, 20-6, and Duke 21-14 rated No. 7 before the season began, lost to aroused Florida, 13-13.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—Our nomination for the most unpublished to have the greatest influence on the destiny of baseball since Babe Ruth is Wilhelm, the knuckle-balling relief specialist of the Giants.

Without Wilhelm, the Indians the way he has baffled the best hitters in the National League all season, the Giants will probably win the set. By the way, you've got it, Cleveland's chances.

The righthanded North Carolinian has been a sensational starver around today. There might not have been a better one. He could be in there nearly every day the playoff jazz, because he needs no rest between performances.

In the course of the season Wilhelm has come in approximately one out of every three Giants games and scored 12 victories against four defeats. His earned-run average was an amazing 2.15 for the year. He has not lost a game since July 23 though he has pitched 21 times in the period.

THERE IS HITTER

The Indians have seen less of Wilhelm than any other Giants pitcher. Durocher used him sparingly in spring exhibitions. Our Cleveland informant says the Tribe batters are more jittery at the prospect of facing Wilhelm than Sal Maglie or Johnny Antonelli.

Millions of television fans will see for themselves what it means to catch the knuckler that Wilhelm throws, much less hit it. They will see catcher Wes Westrum hipping about just to block the thing and avert a perhaps costly passed ball.

Wilhelm serves his specialty with the same motion and with much the same speed as his fast ball. So the batter can't tell which he's getting until it's too late to do anything about it. Not even the pitcher knows which way the knuckler is going to break.

Dutchies' Protest Tossed Out

TORONTO (CP) — A protest lodged by Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen after they lost 12-12 to Sarnia Imperials Sept. 11 was thrown out Sunday night by officials of the Ontario Rugby Football Union.

Imperials won the game with a touchdown on the last play of the game. Kitchener protested, charging that through a mixup on a play earlier in the half the official time clock had not been started. Dutchmen officials said the alleged oversight gave Imps the necessary time to run the last play.

League president Don Downey said the protest was turned down because of conflicting reports and insufficient evidence to support Kitchener's claim.

Detroit Wings Good as Ever Says Skinner

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (CP)—Detroit Red Wings' broken training camp Sunday, confident of another hot year in the National Hockey League.

Jimmy Skinner, who took over from Tommy Ivan this year as coach of the defending Stanley Cup champions, said the club will be as good as the one that took all the honors last season.

There will be a couple of new faces when the Red Wings open the 1954-55 season against Toronto Maple Leafs in Detroit Oct. 7, Skinner said he is keeping Al Arbour as a fifth defenceman. Arbour will work with holdovers Red Kelly, Marcel Pronovost, Bob Goldham and Benny Wolf.

Skinner said he can get plenty of help from Johnston Flyers of the Western Hockey League if "any of my guys fail to live up to expectations." The Flyers are in the Detroit farm chain.

Wellington Wins First Game Of Titular Series

WELLINGTON (Special)—Paced by the brilliant individual performance of fifteen-year-old Jacky Purtelle, The Wellington midget baseball team reached within a game of the Ontario championship Saturday, defeating the Mitchell, Ont., youngsters 13-7 on their own diamond in the first game of a best-of-three titular series. The second game is slated here on Saturday, Oct. 2 at 2.30.

Purtelle came up with a sensational effort both defensively as well as at the plate. He smashed out a homer, two triples, a double and a single in five times at bat, and accepted eleven chances at short without an error. He drove in eight of the eleven runs.

Other Wellington players were not far behind the young Bloomfield star. Platt and Carson each had three for five while Easton came up with two doubles and two singles as his share of the 18 safeties collected by the Wellington bludgeons.

O'Callaghan went the route on the mound for the winners giving up eight hits and was in control all the way with the exception of the third when the Mitchell hitters reached him for four hits for as many runs. Both teams miscued three times.

Wellington tied it with a quartet of markers in the top of the third with both teams scoring singles in the fifth. The little "Purtes" shoved across a pair to take the lead in the seventh and added four more in the ninth for insurance Mitchell rallied strongly in the bottom of the last innings but it was too little and too late. The splurge was stopped after two runners crossed the plate.

Favorites Win Pro Grid Tilts

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Football League began operations Sunday and all six games came out strictly according to expectations.

The champion Detroit Lions pasted Chicago Bears' 42-21 with a touchdown by fullback Bill Bowman, contributing greatly to the cause by scoring two majors.

Philadelphia Eagles, possibly the class of the eastern division, turned back Cleveland Browns 28-10. San Francisco and Los Angeles also scored convincing victories. The 'Gers whipped Washington Redskins 41-7 while the Rams slaughtered Baltimore Colts 48-0.

The New York Giants overcame Chicago Cardinals 24-20 and Pittsburgh Steelers edged Green Bay Packers 21-20 in other action.

Batas Triumph Over Oshawa In 2nd Game OBA Playdowns; Deciding Battle Here Tuesday

By GARRY ALEXANDRE

The Belleville Batas overcame an early 4-0 deficit with two big innings and then went on to edge the Oshawa Transporters 10-9 on Saturday night to even their best-of-three O.B.A. Senior Baseball Series for "B" finals at one game each. The third and deciding game of the set will be played here tomorrow starting at 7.30 p.m.

The Transporters jumped into their 4-0 lead with two runs in each of the first two innings before the locals unleashed their attack in the third. They sent six markers home in this frame and followed up with another trio in the fourth for a 9-4 lead. Oshawa narrowed the margin to 9-8 in the sixth but Belleville they drove Art Wright from the hill but Bob Bunton quelled the rally the rest of the way and also tripled in the eighth to pave the way for the victor's insurance tally.

Wright gained the victory in his 5 2-3 innings pitched while allowing all eight runs on seven hits off eight hits. He whiffed five and walked two. Bob Bunton was the lowest of seven hurlers to see action, giving up but two hits while fanning a pair and walking one batter.

"Lefty" Jack Durston started for the visitors but gave way to Bunny Masson in the second, the latter taking the loss. Masson w s touched for five runs in six frames of relief while fanning two and walking five. Durston gave up four hits besides the two runs in the first frame while fanning none and issuing free passes to three.

Town 'Atomized' In NATO Tests In West Germany

SENNELAGER, Germany (Reuters)—A West German town of 40,000 inhabitants was ruled "atomized" by a single mock shell from an American atomic cannon.

Umpires judging the eight-day NATO manoeuvres "Battle Royal" Sunday ruled the city of Lippstadt out-of bounds for six hours "because of atomic radiation" after hard-pressed "Southland" army trailed their atomic artillery on it to halt a swarming "Northland" advance.

SEVENTH SHELL

British and Dutch Northland tanks were forced to by-pass the city as they pushed south against Southland troops, who are theoretically heavily outnumbered but superior in atomic firepower.

The simulated shell was the seventh mock atom weapon Southland troops have used in their effort to stem the Northland drive.

Northland bridges swooped down and "bombed" one of the 12 American 280-millimeter atomic guns laying down the make-believe atom barrages, but umpires ruled the gun escaped damage.

ENDS TODAY

Gen. Alfred Gruenther, Supreme Allied Commander in Europe, is on a two-day tour of the exercise, in which 157,000 British, Dutch, Canadian, Belgian and United States troops are taking part.

Gen. Sir Richard Gale, commander of the manoeuvre, was expected to close it officially this afternoon instead of Wednesday as originally planned. He will probably sum up the lessons learned at a press conference Tuesday.

Stratford Kroehlers Edge Point Anne In First Game Intermediate A Series

BY GARRY ALEXANDER

Three runs in the sixth inning backed up by the fine hurling effort of Ted George gave the Stratford Kroehlers a close 4-2 decision over the Point Anne Cementmen on Saturday afternoon in the first game of their third-round O.A.S.A. Intermediate "A" playdowns. The second game will be played tonight at 7:00 p.m. in Stratford with the third game, if necessary, likely coming on Wednesday's proposed grounds.

Stratford were never behind as they went in the lead in the third frame on a fluke triple and an error for one run, while sewing up the victory in the sixth when they massed three of their six hits. Jack Mulholland netted two of their markers in the seventh on a home run but they were unable to tonight the score in the ninth.

The stocky right-hander buzzfailed his way to a neat four-hit triumph over the usually hard-hitting Cementmen while getting perfect support from his mates. He blasted three strikes by nine of the Pointers while walking only two.

Pat Maracle suffered his first defeat against three victories in O.A.S.A. playdowns this year as he sweated the distance, allowing six hits. He walked seven of the visitors and walked four, while an error netted one run against him.

Whitehead paved the way to the Kroehler's third-frame run when he smashed one of Maracle's pitches down the left-field line. Sam Mulholland went back fast and appeared to have the ball when he ran into the foul-flag and fell with the ball going for a triple. The Pointers claimed that the ball was foul but the umpires held a conference and declared it fair. W. Kunder then hit a groundsider to short with Hall attempting to hold the runner and then throwing wild to first and the ball scored.

D. Harmer ignited the winning rally with a bunt single, Hutchison also singled, sending the runner to second and he reached third on a wild throw. Kunder sacrifice and was safe on a fielder's choice as Harmer attempted to out the run off at home but failed. Whitehead then singled to center, scoring both runners with the ball while John Green was ejected from the game for disputence at home. Vern Goyer took over the catching duties for Point Anne.

A walk to Sam Mulholland in the seventh was followed by a long home run by Jack Reid deep fence by Bob Strahan and put the Cementmen right back in the game. Phil Lott tried a little strategy in the ninth when he sent Lee Goyer in to bat for Maloney and Jack Elliott to hit for Mulholland but both failed as Maracle bore down. Vern Goyer did keep their hopes alive with a timed double to right-centre but he died there.

G. Whitehead led his team at bat with a triple and single while R. Hutchison poked a duo of base-hits. The others went to Harper and P. Goyer.

Bob Strahan's four-base blast was the only important blow for the Ox-men while John Green and Vern Goyer had doubles and Pat Gilmour singled.

The teams:

Stratford — W. Kunder 2b, W. Templeton lf, T. Smith 3b, D. Harmer c, P. Ebel rf, R. Hutchison ss, D. Kunder cf, G. Whitehead 1b, T. George p.

Point Anne — Wardhaugh 2b, Hall ss, Maloney rf, Green c, V. Goyer c, Wade cf, Mulholland 1f, Bob Strahan 1b, Gilmour 3b, Maracle p, L. Goyer batted for Maloney in ninth, Elliott batted for Mulholland in ninth.

Child Taken On Last Run By Conductor

BRANTFORD (CP)—No one objected when the Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo Railway decided to discontinue its one daily passenger run from Hamilton to Waterford through here—except five-year-old Alan Burroughs.

Alan made regular nine-mile trips on the train to visit his grandmother, Mrs. J. C. Glaves, at Scotland Village.

The boy was at the station for the last run Saturday. The train was late. That's when Alan sobbed, howled and muttered threats. He thought maybe the railway had pulled a fast one and ended the service Friday instead. His tears turned to a big smile when the train finally arrived and the conductor, as usual, carried him aboard.

Little Benny's Notebook

The paper boy threw the paper on the front steps, and I took it in and started to look at the comics on the living room floor, being something I'm not especially supposed to do before pop has read the paper,on account of him not enjoying it after it's mussed up or when fi even looks as if it's been mussed up, and I heard pop coming in the front door, and I thought Heck, I better fold it up quick.

Which I quick started to do in such a hurry I tore a whole hunk off the front page, but I quick stuck the hunk in my pants pocktt and hid the rest of it behind the sofa cushions to give me time to think of a good excuse, and then I forgot all about it, and pop came in,ner pop started to look around the living room, saying, Where's the paper?

Me thinking, Heck. And I said, The paper, pop?

Yes, yes, have you seen it? pop said, and I said, Yes sir, something funny happened.

Produce that paper, or something will happen that wont be funny, pop said. Where is it? he said, and I said, In my pants pocktt.

Be careful or you'll get too funny, pop said, and I said, I'll prove it, pop.

And I took the torn hunk out of my pocktt, and pop said, Is this where I'm suppose to laif?

Yes sir, no sir, here's the rest of it, I said, and I got it from in back of the sofa cushions and told him what happened and pop said, Before we go any ferther, did you finish reeding the comics?

No sir, I said, and he said, Then you will hurry take a solfen vow never to finish them, even if you come across them 90 years from now in the condition of a wrecked bilding.

Being the sad ending.

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR TUESDAY, SEPT. 28, 1954.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Possible restrictions, especially in the am. Don't fly off the handle at provocation; it won't help. Look on the humorous side; grouches impede progress.

April 21 to May 20 Taurus) — Pause to think before acting on new ventures. Important deals, work. Irritation and impulsiveness could react adversely. Good results if you act calmly, accurately. You can do it!

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Stars more than generous in your sector. Business, employment generally should pick up, private interests move forward to gains. Keep in cheerful vein; be original.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Better, quicker achievement now if you are quick to adopt newer, more efficient methods, devices, equipment. A sincere show of initiative, and confidence will carry you to fresh success.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Self-control important—particularly now. Idleness taboo. Good headway for chemists, dealers in foods, beverage oils, medicines, general merchandise. Think twice before making changes.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo)—Your planet Mercury in splendid aspect promises a big day; really encouraging. Take full advantage now. Journalism, writers, tours, teaching, masonry, carpentry especially favored. Some good news.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Among favored activities today: Law, contracting, building, remodeling, organizing, recruiting; agriculture and mining. Caution urged in finances.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Individual conduct a vital factor in winning laurels. Accept new duties with your innate philosophy. You are capable; keep usefully occupied and a m i l e happily.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Personal advancement, stabilizing present position, holdings in order. Diplomatic problems; military, naval, air manoeuvres, production need attention. You can get ahead.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Matters close to heart, daily routine. Also new, difficult projects on most favored list. Blessings from unexpected quarter. Continued industriousness will pay off.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius!)—Imagination, dexterity at peak. You should accomplish a great deal if you use your talents properly. Orators, writers, military leaders can win confidence, successes. Indecision, lack of coordination are enemies.

February 21 to March 20 Pisces)—Today tops for the right sort of aggression, acquisitiveness. Don't lack faith in your own ability. You can do what you earnestly and continuously try. Influences will help.

YOU BORN TODAY are amenable, kindly, and often over-generous with your money and time. Remember, the results of any effort depend on how well you prepare, the research you do before starting tasks. Don't neglect the little things but don't fuss. You are a good reasoner, also able at debating, but dislike discord and contention. You can do well at salesmanship; as lawyer, teacher. You have a fine opportunity to advance now, so get down to work and aim to achieve worthy goals. Birthdate of: Geo. Clemenceau, Fr. statesman.

Motorcycle Cop Fast Disappearing From Highways

By HAL BOYLE

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP)—The motorcycle cop, long regarded by motorists as a kill-joy, isn't yet as rare as the cigar-store Indian, but he is rapidly disappearing from the great highways.

"We don't use motorcycles at all," said Brig.-Gen. W. D. Wannamaker, executive director of the 18-mile New Jersey Turnpike. "They're too dangerous and they couldn't do the job for us anyway. His force of 76 state cops all use patrol cars. The Jersey Turnpike as a result now is the most heavily policed as well as the heaviest travelled road of its kind. It is also one of the safest now.

"This year we have reduced traffic fatalities 8.43 per 100,000,000 vehicle miles," said Wannamaker, "as compared to a rate of 6.6 for national public highways.

MORE PUBLIC SAFETY

"The improved safety can be explained by two things—better policing and the fact the public is showing more sense. They have learned how to drive more like human beings and the novelty of using them as racetracks has worn off."

The modern highway cop would like to be regarded more as a Good Samaritan than a traffic cop rather than as a guy who does nothing but ambush speeders. The figures bear them out.

"Last year we gave 15,339 summonses for speeding," said Lieut. Joseph W. Mack, 42, a state policeman for 25 years." But we helped 42,112 motorists who were in trouble. For example, we had to arrange 15,000 towings, and 9,485 motorists with flat tires, 9,050 who had run out of gas, and put out 37 car or truck fires.

"Our maternity record is perfect. Nobody has delivered twin babies, and never lost either a child or a mother. That's batting 1,000 per cent."

ONE HORSE-POWER

In his quarter-century of police work Mack has gone from the horse to the motorcycle to the patrol car.

"I spent 10 years on motorcycles, and had about 100 spills in that time," he said. "With the patrol cars we have the equipment to do things that were impossible for a motorcycle cop."

Tax Policies Keep Industry Out Says Lapalme

IBERVILLE, Que. (CP)—Georges Lapalme, leader of the Quebec Liberal Opposition, said Sunday Quebec's tax policies are keeping foreign industry from the province.

Addressing a Liberal rally in this town 200 miles south of Montreal, he said 15 British firms recently opened plants in Canada and all but one chose Ontario.

"Only one came to the province of Quebec and the reason isn't because conditions here are so inviting," he said. "It's because this firm needed Quebec's abundant natural resources."

Firms that did not need natural resources avoided Quebec and it was almost certain that figures quoted for the British companies would be applicable in the same ratio to United States firms, he said.

Mr. Lapalme, in what was taken as a reference to Premier Duplessis, said no one can set himself up as a saviour on a race, religion and tradition. These had been guaranteed French-speaking Canadians and were being established in Canada.

The world would not been settled and there was peace. He could not understand why the question of federal-provincial relations could not also be settled.

HOLD LEGAL SCHOOL

HAMILTON (CP)—Labor leaders are often a little befuddled by lawyers and their "legalisms." So, the Ontario Federation of Labor is holding a weekend school here next month to instruct its members in what the lawyers are talking about. The three-day course will be on collective agreements and contract clauses.

Union Head Warns Some Employers Can't Raise Pay

TORONTO (CP)—A. R. Mosher, president of the Canadian Congress of Labor, today warned workers against making pay demands employers can't afford.

The 73-year-old leader, opening the CCL's annual convention, said if wages are inadequate in some industries but cautioned unions to watch the economic situation in their claims.

President Mosher, whose own Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees is in a fight with the railways for more pay, said: "In some industries are uneconomic and create a serious problem on wages.

While Mosher said it is far from true that every employer pleading inability to pay higher wages is justified, he added:

"The fact remains that circumstances can and do arise which create this dilemma.

"No private industry will stay in business for any length of time unless its products can be disposed of at a profit, but unfortunately on occasion we have labor leaders that are not satisfied with a reasonable profit on the capital invested in them."

Mr. Mosher said higher wages, whether obtained by pleading higher prices, do not of themselves ensure higher standards of living. "This is particularly true," he said, "in view of the fact that wage increases are usually nullified and are not available at the same time to all the workers in the industry.

"We must therefore turn our attention to other means of improving these standards such as to secure and maintain a proper balance between wages and prices or in other words, an equitable distribution of the things we produce.

"Enlightened self - interest demands that collective bargaining be placed on a higher plane, and that management and labor approach this problem with frankness and honesty, each trying to develop a partnership of mutual confidence with full appreciation of responsibility to each other and to those they serve.

"We cannot have what we cannot produce; but we can produce what we have, and failure to do so will, in due course, bring merited retribution."

Want Participation

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—The Federation of British-Canadian Veterans of Canada, at its annual convention during the week-end, passed a resolution urging that immigrants be allowed to participate in the Veterans Land Act. The resolution will be sent to Veterans Affairs Minister Gunn pointe.

Ellis Kelly of Toronto was elected president, succeeding Clifford Gregory of Niagara Falls who was named to the honorary committee. Other officers: vice-president, V. Bishop, Hamilton; secretary, H.E. Woodhouse, Niagara Falls.

Oakville Ford Workers Favor Staging Strike

OAKVILLE (CP)—Auto workers at the main assembly plant of the Ford Motor Company of Canada here have voted overwhelmingly in favor of a strike unless their contract dispute, which hinges on a pay increase, is settled.

More than 1,000 members of Local 707 of the United Automobile Workers Union (CIO-CCL) voted Sunday in favor of striking to get a new contract. Union officials said the lead of 2,700 union members at Ford's main depot in the Toronto suburb of Etobicoke.

Nearly 2,000 of the 3,000 members in Local 707 voted. The union said 88.5 per cent were in favor of giving the bargaining committee power to call a strike if further talks do not produce a contract. Union officials declined to say the voting results in figures.

The strike vote follows the same pattern set in Windsor last week. Union leaders there are backed by 8,000 members of the C.I.O.

The union seeks an hourly increase of 15 cents, including fringe benefits. The basic rate is about $1.70 an hour. The employer's fringe benefits bring rates to $2.04 an hour. Several non-economic issues have been settled in the protracted negotiations but the company has offered no improvements which would cost money.

The strike vote faced the company with a stoppage at its most vital plant, where cars are completed and delivered to customers and dealers. It did not, however, signal the end of negotiations. The Oakville local was scheduled to go back into session early today and give the company formal notice of the vote.

HANDS ARE SMALLER

LONDON (Reuters) — British women's hands are getting smaller, says jewellers, and they can't explain why. The size of engagement and wedding rings they sell now is well below the average of several years ago, "and that applies to agricultural areas, too, where women have bigger hands than city women," said official of the Jewellers' Association said.

NEW BEER KING

TOKYO (Reuters)—A 30-year-old company director, Tetsuo Wakuda, won the title of Japan's "King of Beer" when he drank three quarts in eight minutes at a national drinking championship here. In addition to the title, he won a crown, scarlet robe, 300,000 yen ($840) and 365 bottles of beer—one for each day of the year.

18 Meet Death In Accidents, Half on Highways

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

There were 18 violent deaths in eastern Canada during the week ended. Nearly half were caused by highway accidents.

Traffic mishaps claimed the lives of eight persons. Four were drowned and two were killed in accidental shootings. A woman was strangled to death, a man was asphyxiated by gas fumes, another died when he fell from a tree and a pilot was killed in a plane crash.

Ontario topped provincial totals with 13 fatalities, a Canadian Press survey showed. Four persons were killed in Quebec and one in Nova Scotia. No accidental deaths were reported in New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island or Newfoundland.

The following were killed on Ontario highways:

Frederick G. Johnson, 22, and Beverly Oldham, 23, both of Guelph, when their panel truck crashed into a post on the Queen Elizabeth way near Niagara Falls; Cheryl Lloyd, 2, when she fell beneath the wheels of a baker's truck near her Toronto home;

Oliver Hughes, 18, of the Toronto suburb of Weston, when his car overturned near Malton; James Reilly, 22, when his car shot off the highway and plowed through a cemetery near his home at Port Dalhousie near St. Catharines; Roger McLeod, 9, of Batteaux, when struck by a car while riding his bicycle near Collingwood.

Mihalie Inteisano, 5, was drowned when he fell into the Welland ship canal near his home at Port Colborne. Johnny Osborne, 3, was drowned when he fell into a cistern in the backyard of his home at Kirkfield, 22 miles east of Orillia.

F/O. James Arthur Foot, pilot of a Mustang fighter plane in a London, Ont., squadron, was killed when his plane crashed near the RCAF Upland base at Ottawa.

Police said Mary Lipowecky, 46-year-old hotel salad-maker, was strangled to death by "a man with an iron fist." Her body was found crammed in a narrow alleyway near her west-central Toronto home.

John Stout, 32, of Bowmanville was asphyxiated by carbon monoxide fumes while working on a car in his garage.

Harry Foy, 49, was killed when his shotgun discharged as he was putting it away after hunting ducks near his cottage at Prescott.

Edward Walker of Welland was killed when he fell from a tree. It was believed the middle-aged man was trimming trees and slipped.

Premier Named Honorary Chief Of Six Nations

BRANTFORD (CP — Premier Frost was named an honorary chief of the Six Nations Indians Saturday in a ceremony at the Indian fair at nearby Ohsweken.

He was given the name "Handsome Lake," because Ontario in the Indian tongue translates that way.

After receiving a colorful headdress from a woman of the interesting tribe the premier took part in the welcome dance before the grandstand.

Earlier, in a speech to a small group in the Six Nations council house, Mr. Frost promised that the Indians will lose none of their treaty rights.

He referred to the granting of full citizenship rights to Ontario Indians and said this was not a case of giving with one hand and taking with the other. He said treaty rights will be strengthened "if at all possible."

He referred to Harry Nixon, Liberal member of the legislature for Brant for 35 years, as one of the men who had done much for the Indians.

"Once Mr. Nixon decides to retire in 25 years or so, his successor might be one of your people."

Former Toronto Mayor Ordered To Pay $40,000

Lamport Guilty of Slander In Speaking of Taxi Owner

TORONTO (CP)—Former mayor Allan Lamport of Toronto has been ordered to pay $40,000 to taxi owner Thomas A. Ross for libel and slander.

Mr. Ross sued Mr. Lamport, now Toronto Transit Commission vice-chairman, for comments made to two newspaper reporters last Oct. 30. He was reported to have said that Mr. Ross was trafficking in taxi licences and that "there never has been a more flagrant case of trafficking."

The jury awarded Mr. Ross $2,500 for the former mayor's remarks to Grey Hamilton of the Globe and Mail and $2,500 for those to Lee Belland of the Toronto Star.

For a story printed in the Globe and Mail, the jury assessed Mr. Lamport $25,000 and for one in the Toronto Star, $10,000.

CAN APPEAL

He has 15 days in which to lodge an appeal.

Neither newspaper was a defendant in the case.

In the verdict were the answers to eight questions put to the jury by Mr. Justice J. C. Mc-Ruer.

1. Were the words complained of spoken to (A) four Globe and Mail reporter (B) Lee Belland, Toronto Star reporter? Yes.

2. Did the defendant authorize or intend the publication of the words complained of to (A) the Globe and Mail (B) the Toronto Star? Yes.

3. Do the words refer to the plaintiff in the way of his trade or calling? Yes.

4. Are the words defamatory of the plaintiff (A) in their natural and ordinary meaning (B) in the innuendoes which may be taken from them? Yes.

5. Are the words in their natural or ordinary meaning fair comment on a matter of public interest or in fact? No.

6. Are the words fair comment on facts which were truly stated? No.

7. Was there expressed malice on the part of the defendant? Yes.

8. The eighth question was that of the amount of damages.

Mr. Ross was refused a taxi licence two years ago by the then Toronto police commission, of which Mr. Lamport was chairman. Mr. Justice A. M. LeBel then ordered the commission to grant a licence to Mr. Ross but the commission refused. Chief Justice J. C. McRuer reaffirmed Mr. LeBel's order and said the commission was depriving the man of a living.

However, in giving judgment, Mr. Lamport charges that the plaintiff "failed to read the evidence" and that his statement showed favoritism.

Senator Salter Hayden, counsel for Mr. Lamport, said the former mayor did not speak to the reporters, and did not know, intend or authorize publication. He said there was no allegation of dishonesty in the term "trafficking" or malice expressed.

R. N. Starr, counsel for Mr. Ross said Mr. Lamport's statement was "deliberately designed and calculated to destroy Ross.

"One would not expect that a man occupying a position of responsibility and trust would have gone to the length he went to in order to discredit a man," he told the jurors, and did not know, intend or authorize publication. He said there was no allegation of dishonesty in the term "trafficking" or malice expressed.

ANDREI VISHINSKY PREPARES TALK ON ATOMIC PLAN

General Policy Speech To UN Body Awaited

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) Russia's Andrei Vishinsky worked busily today on his general policy speech to the United Nations General Assembly as delegates awaited Soviet reaction to his American "atoms for peace" proposals.

A hint of the line he might take was given Saturday in the publication of Secretary-of-State John Foster Dulles' turned down invitation to Communist China to attend the Security Council—in which she has veto power—to have authority over any international atomic agency.

Vishinsky has indicated he will speak on the disarmament problem when he addressed the assembly.

Some delegates speculated that Vishinsky's timing his speech to coincide with the nine-power conference on German rearmament which opened in London today. Although that parley is not in connection with the atomic issue, the Russian delegate is expected to make some comment.

WANT UN CONTROL

So far all delegates who have spoken in the debate preliminary to the current assembly debate have lined up with the U. S. plan, but some, like Carlos P. Romulo of the Philippines, have insisted that atomic energy pool be under UN direction. The U. S. has shown no willingness to place the proposed American atomic energy pool under UN control.

Britain's Selwyn Lloyd is scheduled to make his debut speech Wednesday. Lloyd already has said Britain favors the plan and will take part in any international agency.

Restaurant Owner Admits He Refused to Serve Negroes

DRESDEN, Ont. (CP)—A restaurant owner said Monday he knew he was breaking the law when he refused to serve Negroes and declaration along with the Western powers. Dulles turned down Soviet participation by the Chinese Communists.

Another hint of Vishinsky's expected strategy was given just before Dulles pushed the four-point Council—in which she has veto power—to have authority over any international atomic agency.

Where Chopin Played for Royalty, Diplomats Study Arming Germany

LONDON (Reuters) — Foreign ministers of nine countries gathered today in one of the grandest of the atomic age in a gilded music room where in quieter days Frederic Chopin played for royalty and mazurkas to entertain Queen Victoria.

Security officials paced through the carpeted corridors and high ceilinged halls of Lancaster House as the statesmen tackled the problem surrounding German rearmament. Plain-clothes officers patrolled the palace grounds outside while the stately regency building returned briefly to the spotlight it had occupied as the scene of Saturday night life of the Victorian era.

In the music room for the statesmen assembled around a bolster square of blue-topped tables beneath a huge glittering chandelier. Facing each foreign minister were a microphone and earphones geared to a simultaneous translation system in German, French and English.

Each minister has been allotted three seats for his leading advisers, but it is likely that more room will be made to accommodate most of the 150 delegates attending the parley. Queen Victoria created the biggest accommodations for her ministers with 28 officials—biggest delegation at the conference.

From the decorative music room the ministers will gaze out on an ancient sunken yard, once the royal mews to nearby St. James's Palace.

On one side of the conference table, between towering gold and crystal candelabra, stretches a glass-fronted box-like office where a team of interpreters will work. On the other side of the table six high-speed shorthand experts will record the thousands of words which the ministers will speak during the five-day conference.

The delegates will be able to relax during intervals in the famous picture gallery with 200 renowned Orleans collections of paintings.

had told him "on plenty of occasions" that if he served Negroes they would not enter his restaurant. He said he had no other reason to refuse service to Negroes and said "at least 10 colored people come in each day—for pie a la mode and food to take out."

Mr. Emerson said he has refused to serve Negroes a number of times because "we know if we mix white with colored people it would be detrimental to our business."

David Lewis, counsel for the Negro complainants, asked that the complaints be treated as a request to prosecute.

"I wouldn't mention prosecution if McKay hadn't seen so defiant about the law," he said. "If this report is made and nothing done for three or four months then this statute will become a farce in the eyes of the public and especially the colored people."

Judge Schwenger said decision will be reserved until he reports to Attorney-General Charles Daley. He did not say if it will be made public.

53 ARE KILLED, TRAIN PLUNGES INTO INDIAN R.

600 Passengers Asleep Or Dozing on Train

BOMBAY (AP)—An Indian express passenger train plunged into the icy waters of a flooded river 50 miles east of Hyderabad early today, and at least 53 persons were killed or given up for lost.

Officials said it was one of the worst disasters in the history of India's railroads.

Eighteen bodies were recovered by this morning and hope was abandoned for eight railwaymen and 27 others listed as missing.

Officials said they feared the toll would rise even higher as the wrecked passenger coaches were pulled from the river.

Thirty passengers were taken to hospitals with injuries. The condition of five of them was listed as serious.

About 600 passengers were asleep or dozing aboard the eight-car Hyderabad-Guntakal express just after midnight when a bridge near the little station of Aler, weakened by a flood, collapsed beneath the weight of the train.

Seven of the eight cars plunged into the water. The coaches telescoped one into another trapping many under the tons of twisted wreckage.

Relief operations were hindered by the flood waters. One of the wrecked coaches was carried 300 yards downstream before it sank.

Among the known dead was M. R. Krishna, a member of the Indian Parliament.

Boat Officers Did Not Foresee Catastrophe

TOKYO (AP) — None of the officers on the Japanese freighter Toya Maru, which sank Sunday night with a loss of 1,172 lives, "had any possibility of capsizing," the second mate said today, but he admitted "we might have underestimated the typhoon."

Kyoji Abe, the mate, said the ship's officers discussed landing the 1,307 passengers Sunday evening, but "we did not believe" they thought the storm was dropping.

Five hours later the Toya Maru was upside down in Hakodate harbor. Her keel was up. Most of the passengers trapped inside her big black hull. Bodies are still floating up on beaches.

CNR Gets Offer For Four Hotels

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadian National Railways today announced receipts of "one unsolicited" purchase offer for four of the company's hotel—the Prince Edward in Brandon, Man., the Prince Arthur in Port Arthur, Ont., the Lord Nelson in Halifax, N.S., and the Pictou Lodge in Pictou, N. S.

In announcing the offer, the CNR invited interested parties, particularly hotel operating interests, to submit other bids.

The announcement said:

"Recognizing the interest of the public in the possible disposal of these properties, the railway, before considering the proposal now before it, would like to give all interested persons or groups an opportunity of submitting other offers for the purchase of these hotels, either separately or collectively."

British Labor Backs Attlee On German Rearmament

SCARBOROUGH, England (AP) Britain's Labor party today approved Clement Attlee's call for safeguarded German rearmament —but by the tiny margin of only 246,000 votes out of 4,292,000 cast at the annual party conference here.

The vote backing continued efforts to enlist West German troops in Western defence was 3,270,000 to 3,022,000.

The delegates, by a similar slim majority, then defeated a motion backed by the left wing leader, Aneurin Bevan, calling for an absolute ban on German rearmament. The vote on this resolution was 3,210,000 to 3,281,000.

In the debate before the vote, Attlee, 71-year-old former prime minister, staked his prestige as party leader on a declaration that opposition to West German rearmament would be a "sterile and negative" course.

The resolution endorsed by Attlee and the party's executive committee calls for consultations with other European Socialist parties on how West Germany can best "contribute to collective security in accordance with the principles of the United Nations and in a way which would preclude the emergence again of a German military menace."

The nine-power foreign ministers' conference next meeting in London is seeking a formula to achieve that end.

Before the debate began, Bevan lost his fight to become party treasurer, a post which carries an automatic seat on the policy-making executive committee.

The Welshman bowed to Hugh Gaitskell, former chancellor of the exchequer and a leader of the moderate wing. The defeat had been expected, although Began gave up his present assured seat on the executive to campaign for the office.

He will step down from the executive at the end of this conference. Long rebellious, Bevan today gave every evidence of being ready to make a career of serving one more tie with the party's official leadership. Apparently he prefers to make his fight to supplant Attlee as one of the rank and file.

Higher Speed Limits on Good Roads Urged

NORTH BAY (CP) Higher speed limits were urged Monday night by police and municipal officials at a sitting of the provincial legislature's select committee on highway safety.

Civic officials, club men and police recommended that the speed limits be raised on highways in good condition. There was no opposition.

The committee, 11 members of the Ontario legislature, is on a tour of the province to investigate highway traffic conditions at the municipal level.

The committee said drivers are usually allowed a 10-mile leeway over the speed limit.

Other suggestions included intensified driver training and testing stiffer penalties for infringements, a limit on borse power of engines, use of safety belts, additional traffic lights, and a stepped-up campaign to stress highway safety to the general public.

U.S. and USSR at Last in Agreement Will Not Sign World Bill of Rights

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) A new world bill of rights for the human race is not going to be prepared for signing at the United Nations this afternoon, the delegates of the United States nor the Soviet Union are participating.

The 1,800-word document is the "convention relating to the status of stateless persons." It aims to benefit an estimated 40,000,000 such people the world over.

The agreement was drawn up in a 10-day conference which ended here Friday. The convention will take effect 90 days after six countries deposit with the UN they have ratified it. Additional signers can endorse the pact through 1955.

Twenty-seven countries took part in the conference's two preparatory conventions. Nineteen voted in favor of the convention in its final form Thursday, nine abstained and one, Israel, voted against.

The agreement says the signers agree that stateless persons are entitled to:

1. Go on public relief, get social security payments and draw their shares of any rationed foods if they were citizens;

2. Acquire property, hold jobs, engage in professional work or copy public housing and get unemployment relief if they were foreigners of definite nationality.

3. Be issued travel documents to serve in place of passports.

9-Power Parley Off to 'Good Start' Say Delegates

Eden Elected Permanent Chairman of Conference

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP)—The nine-power conference on freeing and rearming West Germany convened today, and after a 90-minute session delegates said they were off to "a good start."

"It started very well but it is too early yet to predict any results," Belgium's Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak told reporters at the lunchtime adjournment.

R. B. Pearson, Canada's minister of external affairs, said "we are off to a very good start."

Anthony Eden, as host foreign minister, was elected permanent chairman of the conference. He immediately proposed a streamlined timetable to win agreement within 30 days of setting West Germany free and enlisting her troops in the defence of West Europe.

Eden urged two simultaneous sets of talks: One by the United States, Britain, France and West Germany to restore German sovereignty and the other by all nine powers to work out plans for getting Germany rearmed.

Whether Eden's plan won hard approval was not immediately clear.

However, the delegates met in an atmosphere of urgency, and any delay in getting action was sure to be greeted sympathetically.

As the delegates met the U. S., Canada, West Germany, France, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg met with three British hosts, outside observers gave their deliberations perhaps a 50-50 chance of success.

NO QUICK ACTION

A long-time move by France apparently dashed any hope for a comparatively smooth resolution of rival plans to bring West German troops quickly into the defence pattern of Western Europe.

The stumbling block raised by the French involved the disputed Saar territory, which West Germany but now tied economically to France.

West Germany had offered to abandon its claim to this rich coalproducing and industrial area at the French-German border if it were administered by the 15-country Council of Europe. Both France and West Germany are members of the council.

The French let it be known Monday that they prefer to see the Saar administered by the expanded Brussels Treaty Organization powers instead of the plan proposed. That organization includes Britain, France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands Luxembourg.

The French want agreement on this point before they approve West German rearmament. Failure of the Germans seem certain to turn this idea down. There was some suggestion that the Saar problem raised the issue chiefly as a bargaining weapon in the negotiations on other points.

As the conference opened, the nine powers were agreed in principle to inclusion of West Germany and Italy in the Brussels alliance and to admission of West Germany into NATO at the same time. Agreement on the Saar would clear the 'main point still at issue was French insistence on strong safeguards to prevent any new German army from dominating the continent.

The French have proposed a detailed system of Allied military control aimed at keeping the German military machine from outstripping the forces of its partners. It also would enable other powers to keep a sharp eye on Germany's manufacture of military equipment.

Prince Finds Vanishing Ink' Hugs the Rug

IVER, Eng. (Reuters)—Mothers, even when they're duchesses, take a dim view of offspring who sprinkle ink on rugs.

Just before the Duchess of Kent and her daughter, Princess Alexandra, left on their Canadian tour, the duchess' 21-year-old son, Prince Michael, picked up some "vanishing" ink at a magic store.

To show how well the stuff worked he sprinkled it all over a beautiful beige rug at the family mansion here at a party.

While horrified guests looked on he announced blithely that it would disappear in a few minutes—only it didn't.

The man who sold the stuff swore by his product. It always vanishes, he said. Someone, he claimed, had switched bottles on Michael.

Mother's expert rug cleaners were called and worked on the spots before the duchess returned home. She was due later today.

Freshman Put To Work In Initiation Prank

TORONTO (CP)—The 250 freshmen at Victoria College were initiated Monday, but no one got into any trouble. They were working.

Initiation ceremonies were at the Caledon hills farm 25 miles northwest of here. The 150-acre farm is owned by Hart House, the University of Toronto men's club. It is used by club members and other campus organizations.

The Victoria students had to cut wood for Hart House fireplaces, do some painting, clean up the barn and dig holes for a grease pit. Lunch was in the farmhouse kitchen. Three portable wireless sets were used to herd the freshmen from job to job.

STAGE DEMONSTRATIONS

SEOUL (AP) — Thousands of South Korean laborers and disabled veterans rearmament demonstrations against the withdrawal of United States troops from Korea. Each group carried a coffin bearing a sildcwg strike in front of the American embassy where another 100 shouted anti-withdrawal slogans, at the gate of the foreign correspondents' quarters.

Council in Session Well Past Midnight Hour to Transact Heavy Agenda of Business

Discussion on the sale of four city-owned lots in Bayview Heights and Bayview Heights areas to Jack Both Ltd. took up the most time at a special meeting of night's council meeting when aldermen burned the midnight oil in considering business of a routine nature.

It was 2 minutes past midnight when councillors wound up their business and finally called it a day—night. Spectators had long since departed for home and councillors, press and radio representatives left the chambers to themselves, when the meeting was adjourned.

Discussion on the sale of the four lots was centred around whether or not all who had placed offers of purchase had been aware that the price on the lots of $375 each had been increased by 25 per cent since August 20th.

Offers for the purchase of two lots in Bayview Heights from A. Pallitto and Mrs. Mary Mackenzie had been received by the city assessment department prior to August 19 and 31 but were for the former price of $300. The offer from Mrs. Mackenzie, said, was for $400.

Mr. Rollins told council that he had not been informed by the assessing department, that the price of the lots had been increased, and therefore, the representation of the property committee said it had been under the impression it had been so notified.

Council decided 8-5 to sell the two lots in Bayview Heights to Jack Both Ltd. for $375 each, and refused to sell the lots in Parkwood Heights for $190 each.

TAKE NO ACTION

Council took no action on a request from the H. J. McFarland Construction Company for payment for the cost of a sidewalk fronting the latter from the construction of the new Bleecker Ave. sewer, following issuance of a writ unless the account was paid.

Alderman Argue declared that the letter was in very poor taste and that the city could proceed with a writ, while Alderman Argue suggested it was time the city started collecting for another contractor.

Alderman Ellis, as member of the public works committee, noticed that the McFarland bill had been incorrectly sent to the committee because of what was felt to have been poor work on the resurfacing job and also because of an item of $682 for pea gravel, which had been supplied free by the city. Mayor Both noted there had been no authorization given for the purchase of the pea gravel, which had been stockpiled.

The matter was referred back to the public works committee to await the report of the engineer retained to give an opinion on the street resurfacing job done by McFarland's. At a previous council meeting it had been said the job was unsatisfactory.

The City Controller noted that the report of engineers, Lee and Brooks, on sidewalks laid by the Pathan Company this year will be received within a few days.

CITY WILL GET PARK

The Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation will deed over to the city certain property in the Pine Street and Mikel Ave. areas for use as a city park.

Council will take action to expropriate certain property owned by Alderman Rose in the widening of College St. Authorization for a survey to be made was voted on by council.

Options on property required for the widening of College St. had been secured by the city, with agreements reached with all but owners accepting Mr. Jackson, whose refusal to come to terms was said to be holding up plans.

Alderman Thomas said the present narrow condition of College Street was dangerous for school children, and should a child be killed, the blame would be laid to the inactivity of council.

Alderman Keegan noted that the delay in holding up construction of telephone lines and removal of poles at a later date would cost the city money.

Mayor Both was opposed to expropriating, noting that this always "left a bad taste." He was confident that Mr. Jackson was willing to negotiate with the city and all he asked was to be used by the city the same as he was by the township.

He said he had no interest in the Bell Telephone Company, and the city was willing to negotiate the company with a right of way for its poles.

TO HIRE CONSULTANT

The city will spend up to $100 for the services of a consulting engineer to give advice on what annexation might prove advantageous to the city.

Mayor Both was opposed to any annexation at the present time, noting the city had not yet gotten over the aches and pains of the last annexation in the east end of the city which saw about 300 acres added to the city's area.

But Alderman Argue declared that annexation was necessary and would eventually put the city out of its financial troubles. "We must plan now for future schools, roads and services outside our present boundaries," he said.

The mayor replied Belleville did not have the industry to warrant annexation. If industry did locate outside the city, then annexation would benefit without annexation, he declared. "Annexation is a splendid idea when the time is right, but the time is not right," he said.

Alderman Argue summed the matter up by pointing out there was no annexation involved, that the recommendation — merely the expenditure of $100 to get advice. Only a recommendation to acquire the services of the engineer was carried.

The attention of city council to the financing conditions of two apartment dwellings, one on Station Street and the other on Coleman Street, was brought to council through a letter to the medical officer of health and the city sanitary inspector. It was urged that some action be taken toward getting repairs and improvements or accommodation or costs for such welfare department would soar this winter.

ONLY ONE TENDER

The city public works department will estimate the cost of repairs for Coleman Street to see if the job can be done cheaper than the tender price of $13,882.50 submitted by the H. J. McFarland Construction Company. Only one tender for the job was received.

An amendment to the city council-procedure by-law relating to city engineers to secure permission in writing to engage in work in connection with subdivisions was turned down by council when the matter came up under by-laws.

The amendment saw full discussion by council as a recommendation, but was defeated 9-4 when the by-law came up for passing.

"Council approved the purchase of a combination pumper aerial ladder for the city fire department at a cost of $19,045. The unit will not be purchased through the Safety Supply Company of Toronto.

Tenders will be called for the sale of the old fire hall property and also for repairs to the city hall roof.

Two Additional No Parking Areas Are Approved

Two additional no parking areas in the Pinnacle-McAnnany street district were approved Monday evening by city council, when members ratified recommendations from the city traffic committee.

No parking was approved for the north side of McAnnany street along the police station, and also the east side of Pinnacle street from the Loblaw groceteria to the C.N.R. express office.

Alderman Argue, chairman of the traffic committee noted that no parking on McAnnany street by the police station would facilitate traffic getting out onto Pinnacle street, while extension of the no parking ruling south along the east side of Pinnacle street would prevent that line for northbound traffic.

Alderman Argue disagreed with the Pinnacle street proposal and said in his opinion the no parking should be carried all along Pinnacle street to Dundas.

Mayor Both said he did not want to object but noted there was criticism of the regulation allowing cars to park on Pinnacle street at the Front and Bridge street intersection, while ordinary motorists were not even given that privilege. The no parking on Pinnacle street would be the same logic.

ONE ALDERMAN SKEPTICAL

Alderman Safe was also skeptical of the wisdom of the recommendation pointing out that this was where the O.P.P. parked their cars.

"Police cars will be cut out the same as others. If this recommendation passes," observed Alderman Argue.

When the recommendation was carried on only Alderman Argue failed to support it.

Council also approved for the traffic committee to get quotes on a flasher signal for erection at the Bleecker Ave and Bridge street intersection. Alderman Temple said the flasher was expected to cost around $600 but quotes and tenders would be called for the installation.

He noted that the above intersection was an extremely dangerous one.

Alderman Tice declared that Coleman and west Moira streets was a more dangerous intersection than the one under discussion and urged that a traffic light be placed there.

Another bad situation on John street declared the alderman where school buses all but blocked traffic when they picked up students following school hours.

The mayor replied Belleville did not have the industry to warrant annexation. If industry did locate outside the city then annexation would benefit without annexation, he declared. "Annexation is a splendid idea when the time is right, but the time is not right," he said.

Alderman Argue summed the matter up by pointing out there was no annexation involved, that the recommendation — merely the expenditure of $100 to get advice. Only a recommendation to acquire the services of the engineer was carried.

Two in Crash Still Unconscious In Hospital

Two of the teen-agers critically injured in the highway crash five days ago who sent 4 local young people to hospital are still unconscious although doctors feel they are making progress.

Mary Ann McNeilly, 18, and Norman "Bud" Batchelor, 19, were still unconscious Monday evening but doctors were optimistic that both would come out of the coma which they have been in since the accident.

Showing most improvement is Margaret Royal, 17, who has returned home from the hospital. Johnny Meyers, 4th member of the party involved, when their car crashed into a tree near Millbrook, has shown improvement despite his two operations on his broken back. As there is no specialist in Belleville he is under the care of Dr. Melvin of Kingston and it is expected he will be taken to Kingston for physiotherapy treatment.

Police Court

A local driver convicted of drunk driving was given the conventional seven days in jail, while another man recently convicted with obstructing a police officer was fined $25 and costs.

'Fighting Twenty-First' Batt. Enjoys 36th Annual Reunion

The chain of comradeship forged on the bloody fields of France and Flanders added another memorable link in Peterborough over the week-end with the 36th reunion of the "Fighting 21st" Battalion of Canada's World War One Expeditionary Force.

They are proud men, these "Twenty-Firsters." They belong to an exclusive fraternity which accept new members. Each year finds the "ranks" depleted. Each year, time takes its inevitable toll.

But these grey-thatched, aging war veterans accept the inevitable with the same gallant spirit that characterized their fighting qualities in the years when they, with other gallant Canadian comrades, wrote glittering pages in Canada's golden book of history.

They are getting old. They know it. But age has not dimmed their spirit. It is that spirit that carried them not only through the bloody years of war, but through the days of all first-war organizations, welded them into a powerful fraternity that is exemplified in the fact that this is their 36th reunion in unbroken line. Each unit can match.

They came from all parts of the province, country, and the U.S.A. The 650 proud ex-footsloggers that registered for this reunion 36 years ago in Kingston have seen their numbers thinned by unremitting years. Veterans, who could not attend, wired their "feelings" and their "regards" from Buenos Aires. Telegrams came from ex-members in Hawaii, Montreal Military Hospital, Toronto.

RE-LIVED OLD DAYS

They re-lived the muddy duckboards of Passchendaele that first saw the "dead horses" in Cathcart Square" in "Wipers" and the dugouts "Tin" Jordan behind the lines in the famous salient. They heard the names of years uttered the estaminets in Bailleul, and other famous places of Great War One. And they recalled with poignant memory, those gallant men who "rest in Flanders Fields."

The reunion was featured by a banquet at the Empress Hotel on Saturday night and a parade to divine service at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

Arthur R. Cousins, Toronto was re-elected president of the battalion association, while also continuing in office are Lorne Mackenzie, Belleville, vice-president; W. S. Taylor, Kingston, secretary-treasurer and Fred Hart, of this city, editor of the battalion's publication, "The Communique".

Comrade George Melton, who was in the chair at the banquet, told the "Twenty-Firsters" that its renew old comradeships. We are an organization who can't join with either belong, or you don't. We are not concerned with ethics or uplifts, we leave that to other service clubs, but we affirm the principles of our motto, Loyalty to law and order and we can be depended upon to uphold freedom of thought, which is real democracy."

WELCOMED BY CITY

The Twenty-Firsters were given a warm welcome by Peterborough, through the media of acting mayor Col. J. A. Dewart. He said "your presence indicates a tremendous esprit de corps, that must have existed in the battalion and that must have been brought about by wise, just and able leadership".

The chairman proposed the toast to the guests with the response by Lieut.-Col. H. R. Hammell, officer commanding the Queen's Own Regiment. The toast to the battalion was proposed by Judge J. A. McKibbon, Lieut.-Col. Hammell and H. R. Pense, of Kingston, the last battalion commanding officers responding.

The toast to "Departed Comrades" was given by Lieut.-Col. Canon W. E. Kidd, Brockville, war-time padre of the battalion.

Judge McKibbon said that Christianity as a living and revolutionary force alone can save the world from Communism, the greatest destructive force, the clouds on.

Canon Kidd deplored the dropping of the word "Dominion" from the names of institutions that exist in this country. Whatever the reason may be, he said, "should retain the three crosses, St. George's, St. Andrew's and St. Patrick's — symbolizing the religious basis of the national emblem."

The veterans formed up at the Peterborough Armouries, where the reunion parade was held and marched to the Empress Hotel to the tune of Commemoration by the Peterborough Sea Cadets bugle band.

St. John's Church was filled to

Principal Scores Critics of U.N. At Rotary Club

Leslie Reid, principal of Quinte Secondary school yesterday scored critics of the United Nations Organization and said unless it was there there will be no universal peace.

"In this day of atomic bombs and bacteriological warfare some are asking if it (the UN) can survive. Others are asking if it should survive," he told the weekly luncheon meeting of the Rotary Club at the Hotel Quinte.

People are questioning the value of the UN as a security agency, but in his opinion, he said, unless the United Nations, or some such similar world agency exists there can be no such thing as world peace.

"Can we honestly say that the United Nations has failed?" he asked.

"It is easy to point out its failures, but its successes — it is also easy to overlook its successes," he said.

RECORD IS CLEAR

"The record of the United Nations is clear," he declared, recalling the many successful results achieved by the world organization in flame-ups across the world, including the present UN intervention in Korea and the ultimate results reflected there through the efforts of the organization.

The Korean venture 'was the greatest test of the United Nations. Perhaps its greatest triumph," he said.

He called attention to the fact that statistics show that the United Nations Organization is only nine years old "the youngest child in the family with as are as old as mankind itself."

He told the Club when history looks back at this period it will be regarded as one of the greatest in the world.

GOOD GOOD WORK

Commenting on the various organizations set up within the UN such as the World Health, economic, cultural and political problems, he singled out the World Agriculture Organization as one that is doing an outstanding work. "They are streamlining agriculture in the under-developed countries."

He pointed out that although two-thirds of the world's population are farmers more than one-

Three Persons Escape With Minor Bruises

WELLINGTON (Special)—Three persons escaped with minor bruises and lacerations, when a station wagon turned turtle after colliding with a tractor and bailelle north of this village Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Adams, daughter and son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sword of Wellington, were travelling west Belleville on the "Town Line" about six-thirty. Mrs. Mildred Way also of this village, was a third passenger.

Just north of the Mordem farm bridge they met a baler driven by Ronny Snyder of Wellington. Snyder was towing a hay-baler. According to reports from the scene of the accident, Adams, who was driving the station wagon, did not see the baler. The vehicle, it is reported, struck the baler, the impact causing the station wagon to turn turtle in a shallow ditch.

Adams, his wife, the former Mabel Sword, and Mrs. Way received facial lacerations and body bruises. Snyder was uninjured.

The Adams' and Mrs. Way were en route to Belleville General Hospital, where Mrs. Jack Sword is a patient.

$600,000 Set As Fmancial Goal For Campaign

The amount of $600,000 has been set as the financial goal of the Archdiocese of Kingston Maple Leaf Campaign for the House of Providence and St. Mary's of the Lake Hospital, it has been announced by the Most Reverend Joseph A. O'Sullivan, D.D., Archbishop of Kingston.

The campaign, announced two weeks ago, is being undertaken to provide funds to build a new 100-bed wing at the House of Providence and to renovate and fireproof existing buildings of the institution, and to build a 138-bed wing at the St. Mary's of the Lake Hospital. The House of Providence provides care for needy aged and infirm, regardless of race or creed; St.Mary's provides care for the needy chronically ill, without regard to religious affiliation.

The $600,000 sum has been emphasized as "minimum goal" by Archbishop O'Sullivan — the amount absolutely necessary to meet requirements of the two institutions and the long immediate waiting lists which exist at each. General chairman Barry J. Stafford stressed the fact that a substantial oversubscription will be needed to furnish and equip the institutions so that they may properly serve the area.

In conducting the campaign, a total population of more than 3,000 men is being formed in the area—the Archdiocese of Kingston covers roughly the territory from Belleville to Prescott, and as far north as Carleton Place.

Each parish of the archdiocese will have a campaign organization. Gifts will be in the form of subscriptions payable monthly over a 24-month period, and will be welcome from Catholics and non-Catholics alike. The solicitation period of the campaign is scheduled to begin on Sunday, October 17, though special contributions work will take place earlier.

Hasty Pees Start Week-End Training Plan

The Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, under the command of Lieut.-Col. Everett S. Fairman, got its first taste of week-end training under the new militia training scheme when the Eastern Ontario area on Saturday and Sunday.

The Hasty Pees turned out in force for the training held at Barriefield, and were enthusiastic about the new plan. They will hold week-end training once a month.

Training undertaken in instruction in range qualifications for the rifle and Bren gun, and general range instruction.

The weather was not kind to the regiment, rain halting the training on Saturday morning, but the weather cleared in the afternoon.

RAISE HUNTING FEE

LEAMINGTON, Ont. (CP) — Hunters anxious to test their skill against ducks at famous Point Pelee will pay $1 for the right this year, an increase of $5 over last year's licence fee. Game officials said that about 400 hunters use the marsh land on the point each year.

Poisoned Mushrooms

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Dr. W. Booth, coroner, said an autopsy he performed Monday showed that Mrs. Olive Berryman, 59, died from eating poisonous mushrooms.

He said the mushrooms were picked Saturday. Mrs. Berryman and her daughter, Shirley, both ate some. The daughter was slightly ill.

Survivors include Mrs. Agnes Munro of Peterborough, a sister.

Some 25 crippled children of the city and district will leave the city tomorrow morning for Maple Leaf Gardens where they will be guests of the Belleville Shrine Club at the famous Monday Circus.

Members of St. John Ambulance Brigade will accompany the children as will Bush's Ambulance. The cavalcade will return immediately following the afternoon performance.

Council Approves Closing Certain Portion of Street

Approval of city council for the closing of Coleman street between Sykes and College streets to provide room for the building of a running track at the Quinte Secondary School was given Monday evening.

Harold Seldon, chairman of the sites and accommodation committee for the high school board, addressed council on the matter, noting it was only through using part of the unopened right of way on the above section of Coleman street that a track could be economically provided at the school.

He noted that an official quarter mile track surrounding a playing field was being planned.

Placement of the track to the south or southwest of the new school would necessitate a great deal of fill in being the ground up to the proper level.

There was very little discussion of council's decision to okay the proposal and the request was accordingly granted.

PLACED UNDER CONTROL

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — The Chilean government today said the province of Atacama has been placed under military control because of reports that workers at the Potrellos copper mine have been planning secretly to strike for higher wages. Five other provinces already are under military control as a result of the recent mine strike which tied up the country's copper production.

MALAN CLOSES CHURCH SCHOOLS

Missionary schools, which have educated black Africans for more than a century, are reported headed for extinction in the Union of South Africa.

Under a new law, education of all natives will be centralized under government control.

C. P. Prinsloo of the native affairs department says that the changeover "is a logical development in all democratic countries, with the possible exception of education."

He is right.

But can South Africa qualify as a democratic country?

Supporters of the law say its aim is to educate the native for his "proper role" in society.

What Premier Malan and other supporters of apartheid consider the natives' "proper role" is fairly widely known.

The fact that subsidies to church schools are being reduced, as a first step in the changeover, is indicative of the fact that some missionary schools taught a different conception of the role of natives.

The director of Anglican missions in one diocese has said that the reduction in subsidies would strangle the schools. It would be impossible for the missionary bodies to furnish more money.

Here is a real challenge to the church; not only in South Africa but elsewhere. Here is a challenge; too, to those who are outside the Christian church but who share in its vision of the brotherhood of men, of all races.

Nothing can be done to prevent the South African government attempting to teach the native children that their role is different from that of boys and girls with white skins. But it ought to be possible for those who differ with the apartheid policy, be they Catholic or Protestant, Christian or Jew, Moslem or Hindu, to supply enough money so that these missionary schools can provide a sort of extra-curricular or post-graduate course of study.

Malan might then ban them. In that case he would at least be forced to parade in his true colors and his henchmen could no longer describe the manoeuvre as "a logical development in all democratic countries."

HOW TO DISCOURAGE A POLITICIAN

A writer in the London, England, Recorder has come up with a politician's guide which, if proven true, is guaranteed to prove permanently discouraging to most of that country's politicians.

A public opinion survey revealed that the Labor Party held "the tremendous lead of six per cent over the Conservatives."

Conservatives, writes Brutus, are puzzled. They recite a long list of Conservative credits, high employment, more business, shorter working hours, more cars and television sets and washing machines. "What more do the electors want?" they ask.

"It is the fairies who want something," Brutus replies. "They want understanding of human nature. In times of prosperity people tend to go Left. It is dangerous that public opinion and causes them to look to the Conservatives for protection."

That is the view of an ardent supporter of the Conservative cause. If he is right, Conservatives have a well timer in their hands. They cannot win. The only way they can stay in power is by making certain that the country is plagued by unemployment, monetary crises, long hours and short rations.

The Socialists are equally unfortunate. They cannot win, either. For the transition of a free enterprise economy to a Socialist economy is certain to create a dangerous situation. And, according to Brutus, whenever there is danger the people look to the Conservatives for protection.

Perhaps Brutus is right. One may, however, be pardoned for wondering whether this is any more than a plausible story.

IMMUNIZATION IS IMPORTANT

This is National Immunization Week.

Sponsored by the Health League of Canada, this week is set aside to stress the value of immunization procedures in protecting the health—and lives — of children. The Health League wants to encourage everyone to take advantage of the readily available vaccines and toxoids which can provide protection against such diseases as whooping cough, diphtheria, lockjaw and smallpox.

During 1953, thanks to the protection provided by vaccinations, smallpox practically disappeared in Canada.

The record for diphtheria is not quite so good. There were 132 cases, causing 15 deaths. Seventy of these cases, and eight of the deaths, occurred in Quebec. Twenty-four cases, and three deaths, were reported from Alberta. Ontario had only eight cases—and no deaths.

Whooping cough took a much heavier toll. There were 134 deaths—but this record needs to be compared to the large number of cases, 9,387, reported. Quebec had the unenviable distinction of leading in this category, too, with 3,920 cases and 69 deaths. Ontario had 1,570 cases—but only 12 deaths. Puzzling is the record of Newfoundland, with only ten cases but with nine of them ending in death.

VICTORY

Of him all golfers should be proud
Who found when starting out to play
He had more clubs than are allowed
And in the match refused to play.

He told his rival with a grin:
"Just three holes played, I lose; you win."

Perhaps the championship that cost,
What might have been no one can know,
The chance to try for it was lost
And that the record books will show,

But nothing on his trophy shelf
Will show him winner over self

He walked away with head erect.
He'd lost his chance but not his pride.
He still possessed his self-respect
The minute that he stepped aside.

Perhaps, when all is said and done,
His was the greatest victory won

Australia's Flying Doctors

(By Bernard Keelan in 'London Calling')

In the summer London is always full of visitors from all over the world. Not long ago I met a visitor from Australian, but he was no ordinary tourist. His name is Allan Vickers. He is a doctor, and he had arrived in England exactly twenty-five years later than he landed at Perth.

Back in 1929 he had been planning to come from the bush, that vast belt of sparsely settled country which makes up half the Australian continent. Then he realized that the cattle-men and their families needed attention as well as spiritual welfare, and being a man of vision and determination he had begun to practise his profession—medicine, aviation, and radio.

When Vickers began there the medical service had been going for only a year and was in serious difficulties. The pilot who started using in the bush was leaving, and Flynn could get no others. The Vickers told me he had no intention of joining the service, but he had agreed to help over one work temporarily — and he has been a flying doctor ever since.

Vickers was soon convinced of the importance of the work. An emergency call by radio enabled him to fly to the bed of a man who would otherwise have died, and there were many other incidents which convinced him that the service must go on and be expanded. Flynn had died, Vickers very low, and after nine months Flynn came to the medical base in Victoria and told him that the work would have to close down. Vickers, who had gone into the bush reluctantly to fill a gap, would have left then, but Flynn persuaded all the arguments in favor of keeping the organization in being and he argued for hours. At last Flynn said: "Could you talk to a public meeting? I've got a public meeting to-night."

The upshot was a great campaign throughout southern Australia to raise funds. During the meeting delivered a telegram from the Prime Minister of Australia saying that he would address both Houses of Parliament. Two hundred members came to hear him, and Flynn the doctor left the Australian capital with a regular subsidy of 1,000 pounds.

If you had met Dr. Vickers you would understand why the Government were so impressed. He is a man of driving life and early fifties. You would not pick him out of a crowd. He has a long thin face and a disarming smile, but when he begins to talk you realize that he is something very much more than a likeable man: he is a man dedicated to the ideal of human welfare. He believes passionately in the work of the Flying Doctor Service, and you sense at once that for him obstacles are simply a challenge.

His first task was the service on a permanent basis. There are now ten bases, each with its doctor, pilot, and radio operator, covering an area twice the size of western Europe, and they are worked by two 'planes. Last year the flying doctors flew nearly a quarter of a million miles, bringing modern medical science to the remotest farms and homesteads in the Australian bush. The whole scheme is superbly organized, with its own radio network, parachute-carrying aircraft, and bush hospitals. The Flying Doctor Service even has its own factory for making the specially simple radio transmitters that are worked by farmers and their families. There are now a thousand of these transmitters in the bush. Each set has its own regular time for calling in, and it can get help from emergency calls which can be made at any time, and Vickers believes that human beings should be free from fear, worry, and loneliness is the great obstacle to happiness in the mush.

The doctors in the service inevitably have to face a good deal of dangerous kind of flying that they do. The weather is often bad and the landing grounds are made on improvised air-strips. But Dr. Vickers does not minimize the hazards: he is justifiably proud that no patient has ever been lost in the air in all the years. He prefers to stress the routine work, which is the backbone of the service, the diagnosing by radio, and the monthly visits to the small towns and villages. Here, in one, community turns out to meet the doctor who is the only living link with the civilized eye on the general health of the community, as well as immunization against typhoid, and the women ante-natal inspections.

In the past few years Dr. Vickers has himself discovered two early cases of cancer which he was able to have treated if the service did not exist. As it is, Vickers is constantly called to receive medical attention of the same standard as the Government Ministers who are content with an achievement like this, but not Vickers. He is now busy helping to propagate his ideas for an even bolder plan. He wants to help by flying medical services in other countries where great distances make it impossible for people to see a doctor. He has been talking to Government officials, international organizations, and business-men. I shall be very surprised if they are not convinced. Vickers is the sort of man who gets what he wants, because he only wants things for other people.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

LITTLE LEAGUE BAD FOR BOYS, BAD FOR AMERICA.

"Specialists in health and physical education are strongly opposed to high-pressure athletic competition for children of elementary school age, because of the lasting injury to health, and because of harmful effects on personal value patterns and emotional adjustment. . . ."

Dr. Brady

A group representing the organizations listed below (*) made a three year study and concluded: "Interschool competition of a varsity pattern and similarly organized competition under auspices of other community agencies are definitely disapproved for children below the ninth grade."

The American Medical Association supports this stand and a majority of leaders in sports, but also support it, emphatically.

Says the Educational Policies Commission of the National Education Association:

"Recent years have witnessed an alarming increase in efforts to involve young boys in highly competitive sports programs. This unhappy trend should be reversed."

"Highly organized programs in these sports often create social pressures that cause children to exert themselves beyond the point of healthful fatigue to harmful exhaustion.

"These promotional efforts of some adult organizations and business firms to involve boys from eight to twelve, constitute a problem of serious proportions. Coping with this problem is particularly difficult for school personnel because it lies largely beyond the normal jurisdiction of schools. Many such promotional activities are, motivated by the desire to provide adult entertainment, to secure prestige or advertising for commercial enterprises or to gain income from gate receipts. Mixed with such incentives are the good intentions or overenthusiastic adults who believe that such activities are good for the community and beneficial to the participants."

This is a beginning in a soundcar approach to athletics for our growing boys and girls.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

YOU'LL ALWAYS NEED A FRIEND

I have heard people say that they didn't need friends, but there always comes a time when one is sure glad to have a friend. Friends are essential to life as food. They give to the soul what nothing else can supply—love, comfort, and peace.

Material gains can never take the place of spiritual gains that friends alone are able to give. Friends you have to make but be one loyal, understanding, and sympathetic friend to all, and you will find friends and close companions.

With mutual interests we cement ourselves to our friends, and find that likes and inclinations much that needs to be made a part of our own life. The fact of others' faults should be the revealing threads to our own character, our weaknesses and faults. No one has ever know genuine happiness without at least one friend, and that one was his faithful valet, whom he mentioned in his will.

One of the most interesting sidelights upon any character is his knowledge about his friends. Friends are our relatives, so that is known about people know us—often to a greater extent than otherwise would be known. Frank, free, sample, Charles Lamb, the English writer, or Robert Burns, the Scotch poet, or Crane, the author of "The Red Badge of Courage"— you learn largely about them through their friends and close companions.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

One feature of the traffic problem the engineers and experts did not figure on is the rather scary fact that a very considerable percentage of the motoring public is actually like being in a jam.

Our thinking on the problem of the downtown traffic shemozzle has been concentrated on how cities was based on the bland assumption that the people involved in it all hated it, and would do anything in their power to help put an end to it.

It has now been discovered that a very considerable percentage of the motoring public just love being in the thick of traffic and get out of their way to get into it. For every driver who will try to beat the congestion by going around another way, there is a driver will who detour on his way to some destination outside the downtown area, merely for the thrill and entertainment of being involved in the free-for-all. The motor car has probably changed our psychological attitudes. It has merely brought them out, and accented them. And one of the oldest instincts in human nature is the hot desire to get together in mobs. Markets, bazaars are more than ever thing this is offered for sale. They are meeting places where more and more people go to actually like being in a jam.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

PROBLEMS AND PROBLEMS

We shall all be confronted with problems as long as we live, in fact, as we die as our dying is probably be gasping for breath and the effort to breathe will be our problem.

So often we feel that we would be perfectly happy if we could just get our lives of their problems. But would we be? It seems almost unjust that there is another set often not solved, we are confronted with another problem. Yet that is the way of life. We have all seen children think that when these children get a few years older all their troubles will be much easier for the children. But of course, they seldom turn out that way. Problems are always there. Even for the days when their children were safe in bed early in the evening. Their problems are vastly more serious than were the parents.

Problems in the home! Problems in business! Health problems! National and international problems! Thus life goes on from day to day and from year to year and we complain about this sequence. But do we not realize that life is a school and that we are being prepared for eternity? How then shall we meet the daily problems? How will we grow strong in the solution of them?

More, beside the story, believed it, and wrote a "biography" of Richard. It was from this work that Shakespeare got the idea for his school history books took their "facts."

The truth could not be told until after the death of Elizabeth I, for she was the last Tudor sovereign. Then when all was available, the public preferred the untruth; it was more romantic.

Perhaps the shade of Richard III rested easy in his tomb, and for in Memoriam notice which, oddly enough, appears in the same week with one remembering a man named Valentino who also led a misunderstood life. Perhaps both Richard and Rudolph still revel in their stage reputations.

Coffee Addiction

(Stratford Beacon-Herald)

The coffee-drinking habit, because it causes the heart to lose pressure, can reasonably be classified with the other drug habits—addition to opiates, alcohol, barbiutates and nicotine — according to a report built up by Consumers' Research Journal of Medicine. Similarly, an addiction to "cola" drinks, which get the kick also from caffeine, should probably be classified as being addiction, the journal maintains.

Letter to the Editor

Victim of Whirlwind Praises Belleville

September 24, 1954.

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

We are the people (the Gahegans) who were caught in the whirlwing or tornado west of Kaladar on September 13.

We have arrived back in Detroit and I just want to let you, the head of the local paper, know that we are very glad we have one of the finest little towns we have ever been in.

The people in your town, the excellent hospital, the wonderful nurses and doctor—just everything in Belleville is fine.

When people have sickness or serious trouble they need something more than the usual hello and that something more is what we got from everyone in Belleville. I am sure you have a hospital and staff that any city in the world would be proud to have.

Congratulations to you and your people, thanks to all,

Sincerely yours,
Frank Gahegan.

King Richard Victim of Lie

(Hamilton Spectator)

In the In Memoriam column of The Times of London for August 23, appearing modestly between notices for Queen Victoria and Waverley Prendergast, is the following:

"Plantagenet—At Battle Bosworth, Aug. 23, 1485, there fell, fighting bravely, Richard III of England, king, statesman, soldier, gentleman. Deeply mourned.

From distant shores, pale dusty ghost,
One grain of sand alures
your sentiment?

Perhaps nowhere but in Britain where reverence for history is inborn could a person be found to remember, as this announcement one does, year by year, a king who fell in battle almost five centuries ago. As for the Times, in its long history it has experienced all the vagaries of human behaviour so that it will accept almost anything, providing it is not downright ill-bred.

There is, however, especial reasons why a person should be moved to send that notice. Richard There are few characters in history who have been so undeservedly, so brilliantly and so persistently maligned by posterity as he. Shakespeare's play is largely responsible for perpetuating the slander and for making poor Richard one of the most loathsome creatures in drama. The play makes Richard a cunning, ruthless cripple, devoid of mercy or moral principle, who assassinated his friends and murdered his two young nephews in the Tower, while Henry is shown as the hand-

Expect Date For Ford Strikes Will Be Fixed

TORONTO (CP) — The United Automobile Workers (CIO - CCL) called a meeting here today to decide strategy in its wage dispute with the Ford Motor Company of Canada plants in Ontario. Speculation ran high that the meeting will fix a date for strikes in Ford's Windsor and Oakville plants.

Collapse of wage negotiations between Ford and its Windsor employees Monday set the stage for the strategy conference.

The negotiating committee for UAW Local 200 at Monday's Windsor meeting rejected as "totally unacceptable" a company offer of fringe benefits without any increase in wage rates.

The company, in a statement setting out the terms of its offer, described the collapse of negotiations as "serious", and said the deadlock could be broken only by "a brand new attitude and a brand new approach on the part of union negotiators."

ASKS CONDITIONS

Local 200 issued for release early today a statement saying negotiations could be brought to "a peaceful conclusion if the company agrees to meet the union night and day if necessary, and if Ford President Rhys M. Sale joins the company's active bargaining team."

The company delayed negotiations by making union bargaining agents call adjournments to confer with company officials, the union said, adding that delays could be overcome "by continuous bargaining and by having top company officials in during the meetings."

The UAW at both Windsor and Oakville plants have voted their union authority to call a strike if necessary to enforce wage demands.

Campbellford Breeder Tops Holstein Show

WARKWORTH — There was ideal weather and a good sized ringside for the Annual Black and White Day staged by the Northumberland County Holstein Breeders in connection with Warkworth Fair. There were five new exhibitors amongst the 31 breeders who showed 117 head.

N. Craig Nelson, Campbellford, won a total of seven firsts and was premier exhibitor and premier breeder of the show. Runner-up for both these honors was W. A. Pesberick and Sons, Campbellford, who had four firsts including the Grand Champion bull.

The Grand Champion cow was Clara Peach Governor who headed the class for dry cows four-years-old and over, for Lorne Evans and Sons, Warkworth. She is a daughter of the Quinte Unit sire Regaboorne R. A. Royal Governor and at four-years of age is a smooth individual with tremendous capacity. Another cow of great scale was the second prize winner in the dry class, Tootsie Supreme Reg Apple owned by R. Craig Nelson who followed through in the Reserve Senior and Reserve Grand Championships.

The Senior and Grand Champion bull for W. A. Pesberick and Sons, was the first prize winner in the class for bulls three-years-old and over, Almeron Sovereign Supreme. This bull aired the winning Junior get-of-sire and the first prize junior bull calf for Pesberick. There was close competition for the Reserve Grand Championship between the second prize three-year-old and over bull Rockwood Vegatol Rocket owned by Bertram and C. C. Hoskin, Cobourg and the winning two-year-old a son of Fond Hope shown by N. Craig Nelson. The Reserve Senior and Reserve Grand Championship finally went to the Hoskin bull on his greater scale and dairy quality.

Point Anne Wallops Stratford 11-4 In 2nd Game Intermediate 'A' Series

The Point Anne Cementmen gained sweet revenge over the Stratford Kroehlers on the latter's home ground last night by swamping them 11-4 to even their best-of-three O.A.S.A. Intermediate "A" series at one game each. The third game will be played in Toronto on Wednesday afternoon at 4.00 p.m.

Jack Elliott's crew made no mistakes about this one as they pounded a trio of Stratford hurlers for 13 solid clouts, scoring nine runs in the first three frames and adding one in each of the last two. The homesters came back with three in the third and plated a singleton in the seventh.

Pat Maracle hurled his second complete game in three days to gain the victory, a neat four-hitter, striking out eight and walking six. F. McGee started for the losers, giving way to Templeton in the first who in turn was knocked from the mound in favor of Ted George in the fourth. Templeton took the loss while giving up six runs off five hits, walking two and whiffing one.

Singles by Hull, Green, Leo Goyer and a double by Jake Wade sent a trio of markers home in the initial frame while an error, Hull's single and a long four-base blast by Roger Harmer made it 5-0 in the second. A walk, Leo Goyer's single and two errors netted another spot in the top of the third before Stratford broke their goose-egg. A walk, the visitors only error, T. Smith's triple and, a single by Harmer made it 8-1.

Back to back singles by Vern Goyer and John Green in the fourth led to another tally when "Jumbo" stole home. A double by Hull followed by Mallory's single netted their tenth tally with Jake Wade's ninth-inning triple and a passed ball topped the score to 11-4. Two free passes and D. McGraw's one-base blow accounted for the Kroehler's fourth run.

Doug Hull paced the Cementmen at bat with a double and three singles in five trips to the plate. Roger Mallory had four RBI's with his homer and single while Jake Wade blasted a triple and double. Leo Goyer and John Green contributed a brace of singles each with Vern Green-getting the odd one.

D. Harmer was the only loser with more than one hit, punching two singles while Smith tripled and McGraw had a single.

The teams:

| Point Anne: | Hull, Mallory, V. Goyer, Green, Wade, Bill Strahan, Leo Goyer, Bob Strahan, Gilmour, Maracle. | R | H | E |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Point Anne | 332 100 011— | 11 | 13 | 1 |

200 Freshmen At Queen's Stage Snake Dance

KINGSTON (CP) — Queen's University is the latest Canadian college to feel the effect of campus high jinks.

A snake dance by 200 freshmen along the main street Monday night wound up with a raid on a police station when students tried to rescue two freshmen who had been arrested.

The two youths were picked up after a manhole cover was removed on Princess street. They were charged with drinking while under age and with obstructing an officer.

The crowd followed the police cruiser to the station. Students milled around the building. Some pushed a parked patrol car up against the main door, smashing the hinges. Others buried rocks through a window.

Police brought out the fire hoses. Several students rushed at the officers to snatch the hoses, but police kept them off. The crowd broke up.

Earlier, another incident cropped up during the snake dance. A motorist tried to crash the line with his car. The students hauled him out of the front seat, tore his shirt off and slapped mustard all over the car.

The snake dance was believed to have started after an arts freshman winner roast near old Fort Henry.

McCarthy Faces Uphill Battle Against Censure

By G. MILTON KELLY

WASSINGTON (AP) — Senator Joseph McCarthy appears to be facing an uphill fight in favor of a vote of censure when the United States Senate meets Nov. 8 to weigh his conduct.

Some of his associates privately concede as much, but say the Wisconsin Republican will fight vigorously and that the picture may change before the Senate returns nearly six weeks hence.

Thrown into the balance Monday was the unanimous report by three Republican and three Democratic senators recommending that their colleagues officially criticize certain of McCarthy's past actions. The six comprised a special committee set up to study the issue.

McCarthy was silent on the course he will pursue, and his chief counsel, Edward Bennett Williams, today said McCarthy would have no comment at this time on the committee's report, based on nine days of public hearings.

TRIBUNE QUOTES

The Chicago Tribune, however, quotes McCarthy as saying that if the Senate upholds the accusations against him it will have taken a long stride toward "abdication of its constitutional right to investigate wrongdoing in the executive departments" of the U.S. government.

"I do not care whether I am censured or not," the Tribune quotes him, "but I will fight against establishing a precedent which will curb investigative power and assist any administration in power to cover up its misdeeds."

McCarthy, under treatment for a sinus ailment, was described by Williams as in too much discomfort to do much planning now to meet the censure move. Williams said the senator is in seclusion, but declined to say where.

Christ Church E.B. W.A. Plans Activities, Hears Report

Forty members of the Evening Branch of the W.A. of Christ Church met in the Parish Hall on Monday evening for a Dorcas meeting with the vice-president, Mrs. A. Cooper, presiding for the prayer service.

Reports were on the plans and work which is being done in connection with congregational bazaar in November.

The W.A. groups sponsor the Little Helpers and will provide party refreshments for some 400 little ones and their mothers after their annual church service, and presentation of mite boxes, on Wednesday afternoon.

The evening was spent in folding serviettes and making arrangements for this event.

FINE HOSPITALITY SHOWN

Archdeacon J. B. Creegan gave an interesting account of his trip as delegate, in August, to the Anglican Congress held in St. Mark's Cathedral, in Minneapolis. He mentioned that delegates were there from all countries and of the wonderful hospitality and carefully planned arrangements for every detail, worked out completely and of the inspiring services and interesting meetings.

Mrs. Cooper expressed the appreciation of the group and Mrs. P. Smith added her thanks.

It was decided to have another rummage sale this week-end.

Several visitors were welcomed and a social cup of tea was served by Mrs. S. Beggs, Mrs. C. Musclow and Mrs. A. Bongard.

Archdeacon Creegan closed the meeting with prayer.

Association of Consumers Asks For Standard Sizes in Clothes

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Association of Consumers today opened a campaign for better standard sizes in ready-made clothes.

A survey, prepared for the association's seventh annual meeting and based on complaints from some members, said that:

1. Sizes differ from one manufacturer to another;
2. Sizes are larger and better fitting in more expensive lines;
3. Sizes bear little relation to body proportions.

Results of the survey were distributed in advance of delivery.

The report forms the background for a resolution by the Saskatchewan Farmers' Union to be studied Wednesday. The union will ask the association to request the federal government to enact legislation standardizing sizes of clothing. It will also request that garments be labelled as to type of material and shrinkability.

WANTS FIBRE CONTENT

The report, signed by Mrs. M. Humphries of Toronto, chairman of the textiles committee, said that the association wants labelling of garments to show fibre content. However, application of this recommendation by manufacturers would be voluntary.

The committee also recommended that labels carry information as to the durability of materials, how they behave in use and how to care for the garments. This would amount to a "Canada standard" type of performance label.

Here are some complaints drawn to manufacturers' attention, and their comments:

Manufacturers said a suggestion that patching materials be supplied with dresses would lead to unreasonable complications.

Makers of brassieres said slips passed on to their supplies the association's complaint that clips on shoulder straps rust in washing.

NO REPLY

The committee reported no reply from manufacturers' associations to the complaint that sleeves on men's work shirts are too short and the material is not preshrunk.

Two associations of women's dress manufacturers replied that would pass on to their members suggestions for deeper hems and three-quarter-length sleeves in middle-aged women's summer dresses.

The association recommended that standards for measuring cups and spoons be set down in Canada's Weights and Measures Act.

The association said that lower prices for farm products are not passed along to the consumer. Its report on agriculture charged that reductions in prices paid to farmers are being absorbed by processors and distributors.

Although wheat declined in price to $1.86 a bushel from $1.85 during the last year, the price of bread was raised one cent a loaf, the report said.

Prices of farm products, including hogs, poultry and eggs, also declined.

"The buying power of the farmer has been drastically curtailed," the report stated. "This in turn is a contributing factor in lowered employment of workers."

Quinte F. Naturalists Enjoy Field Trip To Crowe Lake

On Saturday afternoon, which turned out to be one of the nicest this month, several carloads of Quinte Field Naturalists travelled to Marmora to meet with the Peterborough Field Naturalists for a field trip to Crowe Lake.

The trip, planned by Mr. Frank Pammett, of Peterborough, proved to be a profitable and thoroughly enjoyable one. About 160 people went first to the iron mine of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, and from the "Lookout" there viewed the tremendous rock excavation made necessary to reach the iron beneath.

Dr. George H. Hammond, an entymologist with the Department of Agriculture at Marmora, and a specialist in research on the spruce budworm, took over and led the procession of 20 or more cars across the river and up the hill to the Provincial Lookout. At this point where the members were soon busily engaged in trying to see many different fossils they could find in the limestone rocks, Dr. Hammond gave a talk.

While there, two members of the party spied a black throated green warbler flitting from branch to branch of a pine tree while others were watching the flight of a great blue heron across the river. A few other warblers were seen later, as the time of the year they are making their way south.

At Dr. Hammond's cottage on the lake shore, in cases beautifully arranged, were fine specimens of many birds, small animals and butterflies. There were hawks stuffed and mounted, laid out for perusal were many interesting and instructive pamphlets on the conservation of pests such as the potato beetle.

All five o'clock the whole party gathered in groups in a sheltered spot at the edge of the woods for a picnic lunch.

Appreciation to the Belleville group for arranging the Peterborough group was expressed by Mr. Pammett. Miss Lillian Hart replied and invited the members to join with Belleville at any of their regular "First Monday of the Month" meetings in the Queen Elizabeth School.

A vote of thanks was extended to Dr. Hammond for his generous hospitality, leadership and excellent arrangements.

The sun beaming down after frosts of rain, the deep blue of the sky, the spots of flame on the maple trees, the bright orange of the bittersweet and the brilliant colors of the sumach, shad-

Ottawa Horsewoman Praises Shows Held in Britain

BY PEGGY THOMAS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Horse-jumping is more interesting and more difficult—in Europe than in Canada, says Shirley Thomas, 19-year-old Ottawa horsewoman.

She has just returned from a two-month tour of European horse shows as the only girl on the four-member Canadian equestrian team sponsored by the Canadian Horse Show Association.

"Horse shows over there may draw as many as 40,000 spectators" she said. "Over here the limit is about 4,000."

SPEED IS FACTOR

The difference, she says, is that the tougher European courses make for more audience interest. The horses have to take more hurdles in one trip, and different kinds of hurdles are mixed up, so they never are in Canada. Also, speed is a factor, unlike competitions in Canada where time is rarely considered.

Shirley would like to see an association formed in this country to look after horse jumping exclusively, rather than having it merely one of the facets of the Canadian Horse Show Association.

This would build up an interesting and interprovincial competitive spirit, she thinks, with perhaps a "playoff" for a national championship developing in time. If the association were built under international rules, Canadian riders would be trained for the European courses, she added.

RODE AT FOUR

The blue-eyed blonde started her riding career at four when her father gave her a pony for Christmas. She now has 19 horses.

On her recent trip she won the Government of Ireland Trophy at the Royal Dublin Horse Show, two ladies' championships for highest accumulated points at Ostend and Rotterdam, and an assortment of seconds and ribbons.

This year she plans to enter the Madison Square Garden and the Royal Winter Fair shows, and may also ride in Montreal and Harrisburg. She would like to be on the Canadian team for the 1956 Olym-

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

READY FOR MARRIAGE? NO YOU AREN'T

Dear Miss Fairfax:

About six weeks ago, I met a young man of 25, and after we had known each other just three weeks he asked me to go steady. I agreed. Now he wants to get married.

My parents say that we haven't known each other long enough, but I think they are wrong. I may be only 18, but I know that I love this boy and I sure do believe that he cares for me. He goes to college, and I really would like to marry him, because I know it would be very hard on us both to be away from each other. I think that we are both ready for married life, and I am quite sure that we would be happy.

We did want to have a church wedding, but since my parents object, do you think I should just go ahead and get married anyway? — R.C.

Dear R.C.: No girl is "ready for married life" who is so immature that she thinks an acquaintance of six weeks is sufficient time for two people to get to know each other well enough for marriage. This is nonsense. Your parents are wise enough to know this, and obviously have said so, and you will be a very foolish girl indeed if you act against their advice.

Added to the objection that you have known each other such a short time, just how do you think this chap is going to support you while he is still in college?

There are a great many more reasons I might mention why marriage now would be the height of folly, but I somehow suspect that you know it yourself and are just trying to get someone to say it would be all right for you to go ahead with your emotional desires instead of with reason. If you really want people to think you are mature, you will have to take an entirely different point of view.

KEEP IT SPARKLING, SIGH: DON'T TRY TO WORK UP A ROMANCE

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a boy of 15 and I love a girl 14, but I don't think she loves me. I don't feel right, because I have lied to her and told her that I got good marks at school when I don't.

Could you tell me how I could get her to love me? — Bob W,

Dear Bob:

Let's talk about your "liking" this girl instead of "loving" her. That sounds a lot more sensible to me, discussing a 15-year-old and a 14-year-old, don't you think?

Next, let me say that it's not very wise for you to try to make too much of a friendship with a girl only 14, and it's not at all impossible that you may be scaring her off by your attitude toward her. If you would be content just to treat her as a nice friend, you'd probably have much more chance of getting her to notice you.

I suggest that now and then you invite her to go with you to a movie, to a ball game, or to some school event of interest to you both, and don't make a big thing of it. If you ask her in a polite and friendly manner, and treat her the same way—and for heaven's sake don't tell her you "love" her — it's likely you'll find her happy to go with you. But don't scare her to death by acting as though it was a big romance.

It's too bad you told her an untruth about your marks at school, but of course you realized that if you were just trying to impress her, you would have a higher opinion of you. A better way to accomplish the same thing would be to make yourself accepted in sport, or other activity, that she would be impressed by your skill in that direction.

Any girl likes a nice boy who shows her she's a friend he admires and respects, so use that approach and things are almost sure to go well.

The new president of the local branch of the Press Club is Dulce ——— young, dearly beloved by all, and determined to do a good job of presiding. She does too—besides being the mother of four, turning out reams of assigned work, and still has thought and time for her sister, crafts-women.

She telephoned to give me a new "dip" for potato chips that she found popular at a party that she gave last Saturday night. She said the men stood around the table and dipped their chips in it steadily until the bowl was empty.

And—a rather special reader says "this salad of mine has never been served without guests asking for the recipe. . ."

These are good tips for you party-minded hostesses.

DULCE'S POTATO CHIP DIP

A four-inch piece of white livercream cheese, approximately 8 oz.), 3-oz. packages plain cream cheese, 1 teaspoon grated onion or 1-2 teaspoon onion salt, and a little chopped green pepper or parsley and a few drops of lemon juice are optional; mayonnaise to moisten enough to make of "dipping" consistency. This must not be too stiff for potato chips are brittle and would break when dipped if filling was stiff.

JEAN'S CARROT JELLY SALAD

(Be sure to see the notes below this recipe.)

One tablespoon gelatin soaked in 1-4 cup cold water. Add 1 1-2 cups boiling water, 5 tablespoons lemon juice, 3-4 cup granulated sugar, dash of salt, and yellow vegetable coloring. Cool and let set partially. Add 1 cup grated carrots, 1-2 cup finely diced celery. (If the host's wife is coming add 3-4 cup shredded canned pineapple—this optional.) If the jelly is going to have to sit a while on the table (or overnight) it will need 1-2 tablespoons more of gelatin.

Jean says "this will draw rave notices." Also "You can cheat by using a package of lemon jelly powder for the lemon. I determine better, especially since I always have canned lemon juice on hand!"

Thanks Jean.

QUESTION:

. . . a year or so ago I clipped out the long-curing process for pickles, and my sweet pickles were grand done that way—very crisp and green.

This year due to the dry season I have been unable to pick cucumbers of the right size at the same time so have been adding little gherkins and the dill-size ones. After brining period, I am I plan to make the small ones into sweet pickles and the large ones into dills. What solution you advise for the dill ones? . . . Also should the first brine solution be boiled and cooled before the pickles are added? My candy pickles are now in their third week.—Marjorie K.

ANSWER:

I enjoy receiving a letter from one who is so careful of details. This pays off especially when making pickles. After the dills have had their 4 weeks brining process drain them and arrange in layers in a jar or crock putting clean grape leaves in bottom. Place layer of cucumbers on leaves, sprinkle cucumbers with dill a few cloves, and pieces of red pepper (if desired a slice or so of garlic). Repeat until the jar is filled. Add 1-3 cup each mustard seed, and horseradish. Use enough of the salt brine in which cucumbers were originally stored, 1-2 cup salt and pour over cucumbers. Cover with cheesecloth. Place a plate on board with light weight on top. Seal over all with thick coating of paraffin until ready to use—about 6 weeks.

Original brine is added cold, but what you did was okay too.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

THE DAILY BEAUTY ROUTINE

There are some demon housekeepers who see that everything in the home is neat and tidy, spick and span — except themselves. They don't realize that the mistress of the home should be its crowning ornament.

We would like to ask these misguided women a few questions: Do they think they are doing right by themselves and their families? Aren't they slipping just a bit each year. Smart women keep half a dozen jumps ahead of their birthdays so birthdays won't catch up with them. There is no virtue in looking unattractive. But there is virtue in putting one's best face forward.

Why scrub and dust and let your nail polish go patchy? Why polish the silver but let your looks go dim and draggy? It's nice to shine up the windows, but it is even better to see the dull finish one one's nose.

The time will come to say women as who neglects her appearance when she will regret that she did not make every possible effort to hang onto the good looks that nature gave her. To fail to keep the complexion lubricated and friction, and to invite wrinkles. And wrinkles come to stay.

After all, good grooming does not take a great deal of time. It doesn't take much money if you know how to select cosmetics and how to use them. A certain amount of beauty work should be a part of the day's activities. It should be a pleasure, too. Sitting before the vanity table, creaming one's face brushing the hair, polishing the finger nails is relaxing, gives one time to commune with one's soul.

By MRS. BEECHMAN

BLACK TIE . . . NEVER WHITE TIE . . . WITH TUXEDO JACKET

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

I'm so sure that you advised in your column recently that with a black tuxedo jacket one wears a black bow tie is correct. Now we're making our plans for our semi-formal evening church wedding the first part of November, and my fiance thinks that he and the best man should wear white bow ties with their tuxedos and that the four ushers also should wear white ties. He says he's seen this done, to distinguish the groom and best man from the ushers. He said that my father, who is to give me in marriage, may wear either a black bow tie or a white bow tie, as he chooses, and that the same choice would apply to his (the groom's) father. What, is really correct about this, Mrs. Beechman? — A.C.M.

A black bow tie is the only correct tie with a tuxedo. A white tie is absolutely incorrect with a tuxedo . . . for any occasion. The difference" may be indicated by the boutonnieres. The groom might wear (it's a charmingly romantic idea; a tiny cluster of white flowers from your bouquet) two or three tiny sprays of lilies-of-the-valley or bouvardia or stephanotis, for example); the best man and ushers and "the father" he wear a smaller boutonniere.

POEM OF NAME IN WRITE-UP ABOUT DECEASED SISTER

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

My only sister, 72 years old, passed on about a month ago. She was married at twenty-five, received a divorce when she was about thirty-five, and as a divorcee always used her name as Mrs. E. Robinson Smith (this is her real name, but is the form I mean.) For the obituary notice in the newspaper, I gave her name as: Smith, Elizabeth Robinson. For the newspaper write-up (she was very prominent in social and philanthropic organizations) I gave her name as she had chosen to use it, Mrs. E. Robinson Smith. Now several relatives have told me that I should have given her name for the write-up as "Mrs. Robinson Smith," not with the initial for her first name. Was I correct, or are they? — Perplexed Sister.

Although generally the form of name chosen by a divorced woman is the combination of her surname and her ex-husband's surname (Mrs. Robinson Smith, for example), your relatives had in mind, it was entirely correct for her also to use the initial of her first name. Apparently your sister has a reason to retain the initial of her first name, and since that was her wish and was correct, it was the privilege of her heirs to use this form of name to the newspaper for the write-up about your sister. (It would also be correct if you had given her name as "Mrs. Elizabeth Robinson Smith.")

Plant Scientist Also Interested In Archaeology

By PEGGY THOMAS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Dr. Mary MacArthur is a plant scientist who is also interested in archaeology, cooking, whodunits and a picturesque old house in Nova Scotia.

At the Dominion experimental farm she is kept busy heading the section which investigates the morphology and histology of plants —or in plainer words, the structure and form.

However, that hasn't been her whole job with the horticultural division during the last 18 years. During the war she was in charge of experimental work in the fruit products laboratory. This has included one of her spare time activities—cooking.

STOVE EXPERIMENTS

"My main interest is trying out new things," she explained.

Scientific training evidently comes in handy because most experiments turn out quite well.

Dr. MacArthur was born in Glasgow, Scotland, but came to Canada as a child. Her family settled in Pugwash, on the Northumberland strait shore of Nova Scotia.

She became interested in botany early in life.

"I can remember when I was only so high noticing the plants in the woods and how they were very different from the ones on the seashore."

RAISE BEEF CATTLE

We're farming the land like mad," says cousin Anita. "It's the only way anyone can keep up a castle nowadays, you know. We raise beef cattle — and my husband's really quite good at it, now that I've got him out of his subarctics."

Anita and King met during the war. She drove an ambulance for five years, first, for the British army in Africa and Egypt, then for the French, and ended the war with a victory luncheon with cousin Winston at Potsdam. Says she:

"It was great fun, you know, winding up in a blaze of glory, because I hadn't seen Winston all during the war. Both of us were pretty busy. But when he heard a cousin of his was with the French forces nearby he invited me to lunch, during the Potsdam conference. I even peeked at Stalin through a hedge."

Anita got the idea of writing the story, of Leonard Jerome while poking about in the attic of her father's castle, where her grandmother, Leonia Leslie, had saved and annotated simply tons of family letters and keepsakes. Including some of the gowns of that glittering era.

FAMILY LOVE LETTERS

She worked for three years, and produced a biography which explains a great deal of the vigor and brilliance of most of the descendants of Grandpa Jerome.

Cousin Anita has written two other books—"Trais to Nowhere," a book about her war experiences, and "Love in a Nutshell," an account of her delayed honeymoon with King in a 51-foot ketch which he built to sail around the world with his bride.

"By the time the boat was built and ready to go," says she, "I couldn't go because I was going to have a baby. So my husband went, and I joined him in the West Indies when the baby was three months old. He learned to swim before he learned to walk, and that's why we named him Tarka—that's Scandinavian for otter, or little water wanderer."

Not Bad Living in Castle If You Know How to Farm

By DOROTHY ROE

NEWTON (AP)—Sir Winston Churchill's cousin Anita Leslie says it's not so bad, living in a castle, if you know how to farm.

The willowy, blue - eyed Anita blew into New York the other day to be on hand for publication of her new book, "The Remarkable Mr. Jerome," a story about Churchill's (and her own) American grandfather, one of Wall Street's earliest tycoons, who also had a taste for fine horses and beautiful actresses.

Grandpa Jerome was a flamboyant character, but so is his great-granddaughter Anita. She is married to Cmdr. William King, who commanded a submarine for six years during the Second World War. She has two children, Tarka Dick, 5, and Leonie, 3. She lives in two Irish castles, one of which, Glaslough, belongs to her father, Sir Shane Leslie, in County Monaghan, and the other, Oranmore, in County Galway, to her husband.

FIRST INTEREST GREW

Her interest grew until, when she entered Acadia University at Wolfville, she had decided to make a career of the study of plants.

She obtained her doctor's degree with Harvard University. Later she taught at a girls' college in Elmira, N.Y.

"Being a Briton, I had no desire to remain in the United States, so I came back to Canada," she said.

EDITS REPORT

Delight in her work is evident as she steps behind about the laboratory, or enthusiastically explains some aspect of research.

At the moment she is preparing the five-year report of the division for publication. She already has described her job in about 25 articles, published in various scientific and technical journals.

In 1952 she was made a Fellow of the Agricultural Institute of Canada, one of the highest honors in her research in the fruit products laboratory.

However, she is not too busy to do a lot of reading, especially mystery stories and books on archeology.

Then there is her house in Pugwash. She and two sisters, both nurses in Boston, acquired the 100-year-old cottage two years ago and they are gradually fixing it up.

Policy-Making Church Organs Need Women

WINNIPEG (CP)—The absence of women from policy-making organs of the church was termed a "shocking" loss by Mrs. Geoffrey F. Fisher, wife of the Archbishop of Canterbury.

Speaking to capacity audiences of Women's Canadian Club and at a rally of Anglican women Saturday, Mrs. Fisher urged women not to concentrate solely on "the household chores of the church" but to use their ability to give of their whole mind and wisdom.

She said women's organizations had become very strong in the last 100 years but still men had a monopoly in the government of the church.

"It means women do the work, yet their wisdom is left out of policy," Mrs. Fisher said.

Denmark Wallows in Financial Morass After Year of Spending

By GUY RETTANY

COPENHAGEN (Reuters)—Twelve months of lavish public and private spending have reduced Denmark from a prosperous little country with a comfortable balance into one which is wallowing in a financial morass and wondering where to turn next.

Increased taxation, unemployment and disillusionment face 4,000,000 Danes. Only a year ago, after five successive years of good harvests and favorable terms for trading, they thought that good times had set in forever.

The Social Democratic government of Hans Hedtoft apparently thought so, too. After it took office in the skeletons of September, 1953, direct taxation was reduced, import restrictions relaxed and abandoned, practically unrestricted foreign currency was granted for foreign travel, unemployment allowed into the country in unprecedented numbers and, simultaneously, the government began a program of building schools barracks hospitals and houses.

Private persons were allowed to borrow money for building houses at two per cent, including amortization repayable over 100 years, out of loans which cost the state between five and six per cent.

Private expenditure, helped by big wage and salary increases last spring, topped all records. Trade boomed correspondingly. Citizens bought new radios, motor bicycles, clothes and furniture, and drank more schnaps and beer.

COFFEE PRICES SOARED

Meanwhile, during the year, trading prices moved against Denmark. Coffee, which Denmark buys in great quantities, soared. Fodder prices, which mean so much to Denmark, also rose.

The national bank's store of foreign currency amounted in September, 1953, to 380,000,000 kroner (about $55,000,000). At the end of last July it had almost vanished, totalling only 23,000,900 kroner (about $3,220,000). At the end of June, it had sunk to 5,000,000 kroner (about $700,000).

During August, the position became even worse. The foreign currency account for the month showed a deficit of nearly 86,000,000 kroner (about $12,040,000).

The man-in-the - street flow is wondering where the money will come from to pay for the foreign imports as the bills become due. The national bank doubtless will draw upon its credits with the European payments union and also upon its dollar assets amounting to about 600,000,000 kroner (about $84,000,000), although its foreign indebtedness at present greatly exceeds this sum.

To make matters more difficult, the harvest is the worst for years and will necessitate large imports to feed the human and animal population. To deal with the situation, the government has announced that it will ask for higher taxation on gasoline, beer, spirits, cigars and luxuries.

New Musical May Answer $64 Question

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP) — Broadway has its own special excitement this week—all because of a new musical comedy and a couple of guys with perfect batting averages in the big league of show business.

The $64 question is: Can they do it again?

The show is "The Boy Friend," a London-born song show that spoofs musicals of the naughty '20s and arrives Thursday, Sept. 30, at the Royale. The guys are Cy Feuer and Ernie Martin, who in six years have achieved a neat record of success.

They have put on two shows previously: "Where's Charley," "Guys and Dolls" and the still-running "Can-Can"—all of which cleaned up at the box office and all of which have been sold to Hollywood for a fancy total of $2,000,000. The $1,000,000 recently paid for the screen rights to "Guys and Dolls" set a high mark for transfer of musical hits.

"We've never looked at the theatre with such sentiment," said Martin the other day.

"We're frankly in this business to make money. It's fun to win prizes but it's more fun to sell tickets."

Martin, 35, and Feuer, 43, both have West Coast entertainment business backgrounds. Martin is a former programming boss for CBS, Feuer as a musical director at Republic Studios. One day they just decided to team up and try Broadway.

Following "The Boy Friend" on their production schedule for this season is "Silk Stockings," a musical version of "Ninotchka" due in December.

Parents Should Teach Children Facts About Sex

MONTREAL (CP) — A Roman Catholic youth organization says a survey has indicated that 75 per cent of Quebec boys who left school before they were 17 obtained their sexual education "on the streets."

Th survey was conducted by La Jeunesse Ouvriere Catholique in 40 Quebec towns, Moncton, N.B., and Cornwall, Ont., in the survey of social habits and job conditions of juveniles, questions were put to 621 boys and 794 girls under 17 who had left school.

Officials of the movement said parents should face their responsibilities and teach their children facts about sex.

"It's a terrible thought that these youngsters must turn to their friends for information, and probably develop a distorted view," said Father Lemieux.

NEED HELP

The officials said many of Quebec's youth will be a burden on society if not helped quickly. They announced a week-long campaign, launched Sunday, to promote interest in youth problems and to help youth face the problems met on leaving school.

The survey showed that 12.5 per cent of the boys questioned and 18.8 of the girls left school before the age of 13 and 43 per cent of the boys and 33.4 per cent of the girls left before they were 14, despite a Quebec provincial law requiring all children to attend until 14.

It also showed most of the youngsters charged jobs every six or seven months. Their salaries ranged from $15 to $25 a week.

Canadian Printer Provides Books For Korea Pupils

SEOUL, Korea (CP)—A Canadian printer, Benjamin C. Rothwell of Ottawa, is giving Korea a big boost towards providing school books for its education-hungry children.

Built with United Nations aid, a printing plant was opened near here this month to publish 30,000,000 textbooks a year. Rothwell, on loan from his job as printing and stationery officer in charge of a unit of the Canadian government's printing bureau, guided the building of the plant from blueprints to the finished shop.

In addition, the 60-year-old Canadian has started training the 250 members of the Korean staff who will operate the shop.

CO-OPERATING PROJECT

Rothwell supplied the specifications for the plant and the Republic of Korea government provided the site. UNESCO and the United Nations Korean Reconstruction Agency gave $238,000 towards the job.

The plant is so modern that a printer from anywhere in the world could take over at a moment's notice. The only difficulty would be the type-setting of Korean characters. Although the plant is highly mechanized, Korean women employees, operate small handstitching machines and check and pack the completed books by hand.

Rothwell has had four Korean workers as assistants in his job of training the printers and setting the machinery running.

"Transportation being what it is to-day, we have something to do with every person in the world, whether we like it or not. If we have this thing called "Eternal Life", we must have a heart with God and ourselves and that bond is love. One way to show our love to nations is to let them run their own household and help them as much as they will let us. Another way is to fight them, but the Christian way is to help them. # Kaibab Deer Herd One of Finest Collections of Big Game Animals

By JAMES CARY

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—High in a land of spectacular beauty, one of the finest collections of big game animals thrives today. The North Kaibab deer herd, living in an isolated pine and aspen forest, roams a range hemmed in by the Grand canyon on the south and by arid desert on the other three sides.

It is here, in a tightly-circumscribed fragment of northern Arizona, that some of the most amazing mule deer antlers in the world can be found. What they lack in symmetery they make up in size. Racks stretching more than 46 inches from tip to tip have been taken, and those with more than a 30-inch spread are not unusual.

They can be obtained with sure-fire ease. Last year 85 per cent of the 8,000 sportsmen granted permits got their deer. This year 12,000 will try in the greatest hunt in the state's history. Each will be permitted, as always, to kill a buck, doe or fawn.

Game management experts are hoping they are all successful. For the prolific herd has been steadily increasing, despite greater hunting pressure each year, and is about to eat itself out of a home. It now numbers about 25,000.

Hunts will be held in two stages, the first from Oct. 13 to 24, and the second from Nov. 19 to 28, both inclusive.

When the hunting season is over in the area, the great bucks search for mates. In the clearings the males rear and plunge in battle for the does of their choice. Sometimes the fight ends in a double tragedy. The antlers lock and the deer die of starvation, unable to free themselves.

The huge, spreading antlers are the one characteristic that set the Kaibab buck in a unique category. The limestone content of the ground is believed to be responsible for those abnormal growths.

BUSH STILL

This huge still is operating right in the open on the property of the Ontario Paper Company near Heron Bay, Ont., but no one is worried about the RCMP finding it. Actually, the still is being used for producing essential oils, the essences used in flavoring extracts and deodorants. The Ontario research council and the province's land and forests department are experimenting with the still to make commercial use of spruce foliage, now wasted in logging operations. # Essential Oils Taken Off Spruce In Experiment by Department

By FRASER MacDOUGALL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HERON BAY, Ont. (CP) — Old time bushmen, who remember wild stories of hidden rifills in lumber camps, are in for a shock if they visit an Ontario Paper Company logging camp in this Lake Superior country.

There, in plain view, is a huge still operating with no thought of secrecy.

The old bushman would get a bigger shock if he sampled the product—essential oils used as essence in making flavorings and deodorants.

OUT OF LABORATORY

The still represents an experiment of the Ontario department of lands and forests and the Ontario Research Council to make commercial use of spruce foliage, now wasted in logging operations.

The two government departments have been at the project in the laboratory for some five years. Now they have established a pilot still to see how it will work out in practice.

They distil the oil from clips and bark as well as foliage. Their still holds roughly a ton of raw material. It is cleaned up and then blown up into the still in a piece of machinery much like a silo filler used on the farm.

Steam, produced in a boiler on the spot, carries the basic and the oil drains off. The waste mash is dumped through an ingenious set of doors at the bottom of the still and the process starts all over again.

GOOD RECOVERY

A. P. Leslie of the lands and forests department says it is hoped to achieve one-per-cent recovery, or 20 pounds of oil from a ton of mash. The oil retails at $1.90 to $2 a pound. It takes about three hours to distil a ton of mash in the present still but Mr. Leslie says with a more efficient boiler it is hoped to reduce the time to an hour.

Experiments indicate the recovery rate varies with the season and will be best in the spring. The still was set up late this summer and in its first experimental runs achieved surprisingly good results. It will be left on the spot over the winter and given another try in the spring.

Mr. Leslie says that the department now is at work designing a more efficient still.

The man behind the project is M. H. Baker of the research council. He hopes that besides oil for essences it will be possible to produce from black spruce an oil useful in making a valuable plastic.

Representatives of pulp and paper companies who visited the operation recently said they are watching it closely in the hope that it will be successful commercially.

RAWDON

Springbrook W.A. Holds Successful Tea, Bazaar

RAWDON—The annual afternoon tea and bazaar of Springbrook Women's Association was held at the Orange Hall Friday.

The day was ideal and guests were in attendance from various churches in Rawdon and Seymour Township as well as the villages of Marmora and Stirling.

Long tables in old-shape held the display of choice articles for sale. Crocheted doilies in various colors; embroidered luncheon cloths; pillow slips; towels; dolls clothes; novel kitchen articles, and children's clothes were all nicely arranged.

DAINTY APRON STYLES

The apron display revealed a large variety of dainty band aprons, pretty patterns in large work aprons, and the plastic variety. Most attended socks and many other attractive articles were soon sold to eager buyers.

The Home Cooking table was laden with a variety of dainty cookies, pans of bakes, attractive fruit macaroons, taffy tarts, and the usual line of cake and pie.

The candy table was filled with maple cream; fudge and a large variety of other sweet confections also ready to eat pop-corn in bags.

The plants, potted and pot plants were nicely arranged and the golden pumpkin, yellow carrots, red beets, white eggs made a pretty picture.

Mrs. Delbert Fleming presided for the afternoon. Following a hymn of Thanksgiving and prayer by the pastor, Mr. Clayton Burkitt, read the Bible passages.

PROGRAM

The program consisted of music and vocal selections by Stirling, W.A.; Wellman's, W.A.; Salem W.A.; Mount Pleasant W. A. and another by Mount Pleasant W. M. S.

Readings were given by Bethel W.A., St. Thomas' W.A., St. Mark's W. A. Stanley W. A. and Ryerstone W. A. There was no number from Marmora W. A. but the ladies were in attendance.

Mrs. Florence McKeown introduced the first speaker, Mrs. J.M. Wood, Belleville, who gave a graphic picture of The World Council of churches which she attended at Evanston, Illinois. She described the building with its seating arrangements and told of the colorful pageant of every one wearing their native costumes. Mrs. Wood read excerpts from the various addresses given at the assembly and then followed with her own impressions. She told how in many ways she had received much benefit and that by her 16 day association with folks from other countries she had learned to love these people and regard them as her brothers and sisters, all belonging to one large family.

Rev. H. Deare, pastor of Springbrook united church, in a brief address, gave some fine pictures of actual happenings in his ministry when Christian people have been intolerant in their dealings with others.

Thanks were extended to Mrs. Wood for her address and the bazaar was opened for trading.

At the close of the sales, the Springbrook ladies served an abundance of delectable sandwiches, plates of cookies and macaroons and a variety of tarts.

Tea was poured by a group of ladies from a central table covered with a lace cloth and decorated with a bouquet of yellow blooms. Dainty cups and saucers were used.

The tea was nicely arranged and the sales at the bazaar were most gratifying. Springbrook W. A. was pleased with the success of its annual venture which is always held the last Friday afternoon in September.

Odds-Makers Rate Indians Solid 9-5 Choice Over Giants In Big Series

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

THIS IS IT!

It's do or die for both the Bains and Oshawa Transporters tonight at Exhibition Park when the teams clash for the third and deciding game of their best-of-three series for the Eastern Ontario senior baseball honors. The game starts at 7.30 sharp, so the OBA has ordered, and if it is rained out, it will be played the following night, and Thursday if necessary. That will be the last chance for a night game here as the kiddies go into winter hibernation on Friday.

Also the powers-that-be, the OBA, that is, has ordered neutral umpires for the trey which should eliminated the "home-umpires" yakking, that was apparent Saturday night.

THE BIG SERIES

Baseball fandom is a funny guy. A few weeks ago a lot of the "tops" in sport in this village were going all out for the Cleveland Indians to halt the victorious march of the powerful Yankees and take back a pennant to the Lake Erie reservation. And headed by that rabid Fistbumber, "Old Pesve," not a few were blowing the foam off beakers tilted to the health and good luck of the "Bums" in a dying effort to overtake their arch-enemies from Coogan's Bluff, and win themselves "dat buntin'."

Now, with the Giants and Indians the respective flag-bearers of their leagues, tickle Joe Fan has taken a turn. Interviewed over the week-end a number of the boys, who were screaming for Lemon scalps, have climbed aboard the Giants' band-wagon, and are rooting the Durocher Dandies home to a world championship.

And they advance different arguments. Some claim the Tribe mound corps will stop the Giant sluggers cold in their tracks while the supporters of the New York hurlers feel that Willie Mays and company have enough bludgeon power to whip the bejabers out of the Cleveland flingtay. But all agree the series will be a long one, with none offering to lay odds on the line it will go four straight.

But don't forget the Indians have a few fancy sluggers, too. Bobby Avila, American League batting champion; Larry Doby, who paced the loop with 32 h'mers; Al Rosen and Vic Wertz are not exactly weaklings when it comes to soaring big balls out into the wild blue yonder.

And by the same token, Sal "The Barber" Maglie, Johnny Antonelli and Ruben Gomez are hurlers of no mean ability, not to mention two sterling relievers, ih the persons of Hoyt Wilhelm and Marv Grissom.

At this time of writing the rival managers, Al Lopez and Leo the "Lip" are as communicative as an Egyptian sarcophagus as regard the starting pitchers. By the time this is read, you probably will know who they are and don't be surprised to see Maglie and Lemon get the nod. And it could be Antonelli and Gomez for the Thursday fray with Gomez and Garcia squaring off for the Friday tussle.

While over 80,000 will jam-pack the Cleveland Municipal Stadium, and over 50,000 will view the struggle in New York's Polo Grounds, millions will have box seats in Operation Television. It is estimated that the toll of grandmothers at funerals will eclipse all former records while illness in the ranks of office boys will reach an all-time high. It is one time of the year when you wish you were the boss.

It is a far cry from sitting in a comfortable armchair watching baseball's three battle for world honor and glory on a screen so lifelike you can count the wrinkles in the "cuds" to the old "head-set" radio reception of not too many years ago.

We can recall donning the mechanical ear-muffs back in 1920 and hearing Graham McNamee announce in a tense baseball world, "Here is baseball drama. It is the seventh inning. Two of the greatest teams ever to grace a diamond are locked in battle. The St. Louis Cardinals and the New York Yankees in the seventh game of the series, the Cards leading 3-2, the bases loaded with Yankees, two out and Tony Crossetti at bat."

You could almost "feel" the hush of tense excitement over the phones as a second later McNamee dramatically announced, "Carl Mays who is coming in. The great Grover Cleveland Alexander. Yessir, Grover who won yesterday's battle, is coming in to stem the Yankee tide. Crossetti stands at the plate. The crowd is breathless, tense."

Those earphones nearly fell to pieces with the shattering roar that blasted the ozone when Alexander the Great struck out the pride of the Yankees and the Cards went on to win the game 3-2 and the world series 4-3. That was the series the Babe hit four homers, three of them in one game. Alexander won two for the Cards, as did Jesse Haines. Herb Pennock won two for the Yankees and Wait Hoyt the third.

POINTERS SQUARE IT:

The batting eyes of the Point Anners which were more or less impotent against Stratford Krechlers last Saturday at the Point, flashed back into effective action in Stratford yesterday. The boys ripped three Stratford hurlers for a barrage of hits that netted them eleven runs and a convincing 11-4 victory over the starry Krechlers to square the OASA Intermediate "A" playdowns at one game each. The teams will play the third game in Toronto tomorrow, according to convener Don Lee.

Pat Maracle had the honorable right flipper working to perfection and allowed only four hits. Messrs. Mallory, et al, backed him up with solid clouting as the Point boys got back into form. The winners of this series enter the southern Ontario finals against Meaford or New Toronto with the winners meeting the north for the all-Ontario title.

Are 6-5 Favorites in Opener Regardless of the Pitchers; Looks Like Lemon and Maglie

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Barring a surprise selection, the 1954 world series will open at the Polo Grounds Wednesday with Sal Maglie (14-6) on the mound for the New York Giants opposing the Cleveland Indians' Bob Lemon (23-7).

Both managers, Leo Durocher of the Giants and Al Lopez of the Indians, promised to make their selections known today. The opening pitchers probably will be announced either during or just after the workouts of the teams. The Giants were to take the field at 10:30 a.m. EST and the Indians about three hours later.

Despite Durocher's known willingness to gamble, it was felt that Leo realizes he must go with his veteran ace, who was his front man in all of the Giants' clutch series down the stretch. Maglie will be fully rested, having pitched only two warmup innings last Saturday.

Lemon also will be fresh and ready. He has not pitched since Friday when he went the distance against the Detroit Tigers. Early Wynn, who had been coupled with Lemon by Lopez as the probable first game starter, may need an extra day of rest. He pitched a "pressure" game against Detroit Saturday, working on a no-hitter until the ninth inning.

FAVOR INDIANS

The Indians, already a prohibitive 17 to 10 favorite, were made an even steeper odd 6 to 5 choice today. The odds-makers undoubtedly count on Cleveland's deeper pitching staff to bring ultimate victory. The Indians are 6 to 5 favorites to capture the opener, regardless of the pitchers.

The weather man so far possess nice weather for baseball. He says it'll be slightly cloudy with the temperature between 65 and 70 degrees when the umpires yell "play ball."

Reserve tickets for the opener and all other games here and in Cleveland long have been sold. A crowd of close to 55,000 is expected for the opener. The second game also will be played at the Polo Grounds Thursday before the scene shifts to Cleveland for the next three, if that many are needed to decide the best-of-seven issue.

Despite the announced odds, the writer believes the Indians will have their hands full in a series going the full seven games. It figures to be a keenly-fought series, dominated by masterful pitching on both sides, with a clutch hit in the late innings deciding each game.

TRIBE HURLERS TOPS

The Giants can't match the Indians' superlative mound staff headed by Early Wynn (21-11), Mike Garcia (19-8), Bob Feller (13-3), Art Houtteman (13-7), and Don Mossi (6-1).

But they have three outstanding hurlers in Maglie, leftsander Antonelli (21-7) and Ruben Gomez (17-9) and they own two of the best relief pitchers in the business in knuckleballer Hoyt Wilhelm (10-4) and curveballer Marv Grissom (10-7). Gomez' screwball, puzzled the Indians in the spring and they regard this Puerto Rican righthander as tougher than even Maglie and Antonelli.

The Giants may come up with a surprise starter, probably for the fourth game, in Don Liddle, diminutive southpaw with a 9-4 record. Durocher has indicated he may use that the Indians may not like lefties.

Figures show that Cleveland's record against lefthanders this season was .244 (38-25) as compared to its .768 percentage (38-21) against righthanders. The shrewd Giant manager also must have noticed that three of Cleveland's last four losses, all in the final week, were inflicted by southpaws.

Series Notes

By BEN OLAN

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Giants showed more power than did Cleveland during the regular season. The Giants rapped 2,216 total bases including 186 homers—the most in the majors. The Indians had 2,098 total bases with 136 home runs.

In world series play, the Giants have won 35 games and lost 41 in 13 classics, of which they have won four. Cleveland has a 5-1 edge and lost record in their two winning series.

The Giants may find it a tough job hitting home runs ofr Mike Garcia. The big righthander permitted only six during the regular campaign, the fewest in either circuit.

The largest share for a winning world series player is Pittsburgh Pirate Babe Ruth's 1927 mark of 280.68 when the New York Yankee received last year. The losing Dodgers picked up $8,176.42 apiece—also a record.

Cleveland pitchers probably will settle for a few one-base hits off the bat of Willie Mays. The "say hey" kid broke the Giants' club mark for extra-bases, pounding out 87 with 33 doubles, 13 triples and 41 homers.

Don Mueller of the Giants was the only major leaguer to hit for the cycle with a single, double, triple and homer this year. He did it in the July 11 game against Pittsburgh. He was the first to turn the trick since Cleveland's Larry Doby did it in June 4, 1952.

The Giants hit seven grand slams during the year and the Indians four. Whitey Lockman (twice), Al Dark, Mueller, Hank Thompson, Wes Westrum and Bob Hofman connected with the bases filled for New York. Dave (Hoot) Philley, Billy Glynn, Bobby Avila and George Strickland—did it for Al Lopez' men.

Ray Poole Leads Big Four Point Scramble

TORONTO (CP)—Ray Poole of Montreal Alouettes, who has scored only two touchdowns in two years of Big Four play—both in 1953—holds the union scoring lead with the schedule nearing the half-way mark.

Statistics compiled by The Canadian Press show the old pro with 32 points on five field goals, 16 converts and one single. He is two points up on team-mate Alex Webster who has scored an average of one touchdown a game for a 30-point total.

Poole, runner-up to Gene (Choo Choo) Roberts for the 1953 scoring championship, picked up seven points in Montreal's 25-7 victory over Toronto Argonauts last Saturday. He kicked four converts and a field goal for a seven-point day. Webster went scoreless for the majors.

SHARE THIRD

Edmonton Eskimos' players, Dick Shatto and Norb Hecker, share the third spot with 25 points each. Shatto, formerly with the University of Kentucky, has scored five touchdowns while Hecker, a pro with Washington Redskins, has scored two touchdowns, 11 converts, one field goal and one single.

Bernie Custis of Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Sonny Simpson of Ottawa Rough Riders hold fifth position with 20 points each.

Paul Amodio, halfback with Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen of Interprovincial Rugby Union, leads the ORFU with 36 points. The former Kent, Ont., player has an 11-point advantage over Cookie Gilchrist of Sarnia Imperials.

Chiefs One Up On Royals

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Syracuse Chiefs are in a position to take a commanding lead over Montreal in the best-of-seven International League final playoff series following Monday night's 2-1 victory which put them ahead by the same margin in the best-of-seven series.

The winner will meet Louisville Colonels, winner of the American Association playoffs, in the little world series.

Jesse Levan's home run in the seventh inning by Woody Smith decided Monday night's game. The Chiefs' catch put them ahead by a hit in the fourth. Joe Lonnett opened the inning with a single but by Glenn Cox, moved to third on an infield out and scored on Bob Mitchell's sacrifice fly.

The Royals outhit the Chiefs 9-5, but Jim Konstanty was tight in the pinches. Montreal's lone run came in the seventh when they bunched three singles.

Chuck' Dressen Back in Major Loop Will Manage Senators for Two Years

WASHINGTON (CP) — Charlie Dressen returned to the big leagues Monday when he signed a two-year contract to manage Washington Senators for a reported $40,000 a year.

The 53-year-old firebrand, who quit his job as pilot of the pennant-winning 1953 Brooklyn Dodgers when the club would not offer him more than a one-year renewal, spent this season managing Oakland Acorns of the Pacific Coast League, raising them from seventh place to third and winning the PCL playoffs.

Dressen told reporters Monday he plans to bring along "my own coaches, including that Cookie Lavagetto, who followed him from Brooklyn to Oakland, is likely to stay with his leader.

The new Washington manager said his sixth-place Senators have a fair nucleus for next season, naming first baseman Mickey Vernon, third baseman Eddie Yost, centerfielder Jim Busby and righthander Bob Porterfield. Their principal needs were a catcher and relief pitching.

TO BUY FIVE

Dressen said he will recommend the purchase of five young players from Oakland to bolster his new club.

Dressen's parting with the Dodgers after winning two straight National League pennants was one of the major surprises of 1953.

After taking the Yankees in the world series for the second straight year, Dressen insisted on a long-term contract for two or three years. President Walter O'Malley of the Dodgers stood pat on a one-year offer. They couldn't agree and Dressen quit the club on Oct. 24.

In his first year as manager with the Brooks in 1951, Dressen barely missed a pennant to the Giants on Bobby Thomson's "miracle" homer in the playoff.

HE'S HAPPY

"I'm very happy I got what I asked for," Dressen said.

"I'd have taken one year," he added. "There was something behind the whole thing in Brooklyn. I wanted more than one year to knock down the rumors by some of those radio commentators who were feeding when I was away."

He didn't elaborate.

Asked his reason for taking the Washington position, Dressen said: "I know owner (Clark) Griffith is a good baseball man and Washington has the nucleus of a pretty good club."

Dressen said he had four propositions during the year from major league clubs and finally settled on the Senators Saturday. He didn't say who the others were.

Leafs 'Nowhere to Go But Up,' Team Said in Top Condition

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP)—This is the season that Toronto Maple Leafs have "nowhere to go but up"; in the National Hockey League standings, says managing director Conn Smythe.

"We should be a pretty good club this year and I figure we might move up one place from last season," is his club prediction after watching his Leafs practice for the first time. Smythe had reason to be optimistic.

OLD WORKHORSE

Ted Kennedy, spark-plug of Toronto Maple Leaf team, will be back in the old stand at training camp when the National Hockey League season opens. Kennedy gave up the game after playing a big-league season but signed a one-year contract in 1954 and returned a personal favor to managing director Conn Smythe. (CP Photo).

Leafs checked into their training camp at this Niagara peninsula city in fine condition and have shown up well in practice. They will start season with practically the same players that gave Leafs third place in the NHL last year.

SEES IMPROVEMENT

"We are starting 25-per-cent better than last year," Smythe said in an interview, "we know a little more about our players. Now we're going with combinations that we know something about. Last year we had to do some guessing."

If the improvement keeper hopes we should be a pretty good club."

And Smythe, one of hockey's shrewdest observers, believes the improvement has spread to the coaching.

King Clancy, who took over the piloting duties last season, has "smartened up."

"A coach has to learn the game as a player," Smythe said. "Clancy learned a lot last season. I think it takes at least two years for a coach to get to know his players."

Another reason for optimism is the return of Ted Kennedy who decided last spring when Detroit Red Wings knocked Leafs out of the Stanley Cup playoffs that 12 NHL seasons was enough. Kennedy, the workhorse of the team, signed a contract contract in July in what he termed a personal favor to Smythe.

EYES ON CULLEN

Possibly the most - publicized player in the Leaf camp is Brian Cullen, 20-year-old junior scandal last year with St. Catharines who signed a two-year Leaf contract. The 164-pound centre led his team to the Memorial Cup title and ended the season with 101 points on 68 goals and 33 assists—the highest in the history of the Ontario Hockey Association.

"Cullen seems to be in this hockey business with the right mind" and body," Smythe said. "But he still has to prove himself as far as we are concerned." Cullen has a tough job—to get the nod over Harry Lumley, Joe Klukay, Bailey or Rudy Migay in a centre slot.

At least one new face will be seen when Leafs open the season at home against Chicago Black Hawks Oct. 9. He is left-winger Dave Creighton, traded by Boston Bruins to Toronto last July for defenceman Fern Flaman and an undisclosed amount of cash.

TOUGH CHORE

Brian Cullen, dubbed as the Toronto property of a new player who has made the big jump—to Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, will start training camp with St. Catharines, Memorial Cup champions' last spring. He is considered a great prospect but must prove himself as far as Leafs are concerned. (CP Photo).

Valdes Top Heavy Contender; Walls Ninth

NEW YORK (AP)—The sturdy forward march of foreign fighters and the decline of American boxers is reflected today in the latest ratings which show half of the 80 contenders are from out of the U.S.

For the first time in 25 years, four foreigners are listed among the top ten heavyweights in Ring Magazine's monthly ratings.

They include the only Canadian in the listings, Earl Walls of Toronto who holds down ninth position. Walls, who will defend his Canadian heavyweight title in Toronto Oct. 25 against James J. Parker of Barrie, Ont., and Paterson, N.J., had the same ranking in the last previous listing.

With the ascension of France's Robert Cohen to the bantamweight throne, foreigners now hold three world titles. Cuba's Kid Gavilan is the welterweight king and Japan's Yoshio Shirai holds the flyweight crown.

VALDES MOVES UP

In the most important division—the heavyweight—Cuba's Nino Valdes broke into the No. 1 contender's spot and England's Don Cockell looked to be played for the following champion Rocky Marciano's eight-round knockout of Ezzard Charles in their title bout, down to third. Germany's Heinz Neuschaefer is ninth.

The foreign influence is felt heavily...as usual, among the middleweight class. Foreigners grab all 10 contending spots in the flyweight division, four in the bantamweight list, and six in the featherweight roster.

But changes are feeling the competition, too, in the heavier divisions. Ten Americans occupy four berths in the light heavy division and four among the middleweights.

Savoie, Howard Fight Tonight

HALIFAX (CP)—The two top contenders for the Canadian lightweight boxing title here Thursday night to decide the championship left vacant when Canadian Boxing Federation dethroned Ll'l Arthur King of Toronto.

Arthur Savoie of Montreal and Dick (Kid) Howard of Halifax decide the title over 12 rounds, the federation made it a title match when King refused to defend his crown.

Both Savoie and Howard relished the opportunity to fight for the battle, their second in three months. In the first Savoie won a technical knockout in the sixth round on the three knockdowns scored.

The Maritime lightweight champion appeared fresh when he gained his feet following the last knockdown and was obviously aroused at not being allowed to continue.

Yankees Missing From Series For First Time in Six Years As Giants, Tribe Join Battle

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Yankees will be missing from the scene for the first time in six years as the Cleveland Indians and New York Giants come to grips Wednesday in what is almost certain to be the richest of all world series.

With two huge arenas — Cleveland's Municipal Stadium seating 86,000 and New York's Polo Grounds seating 52,000—this could produce a record pool for the players with each winning share totaling $10,000 and each loser's share about $6,000. The players share in the receipts of the first four games.

Should the series go the full distance of seven games—each team expects believe it will—an attendance mark is certain to be set. The first two games in the best-of-seven will be played at the Polo Grounds Wednesday and Thursday. All games will begin at 1 p.m. EST.

Then, with no interruption for travel, the play will shift to Cleveland where the third, fourth and fifth games will be played on Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Should the issue still be undecided, the scene will shift to New York for the sixth and seventh games next Monday or Tuesday.

The series should develop into one of the most exciting and closely fought classics, with two of baseball's colorful managers—Al Lopez and Leo Durocher—matching wits and the Giants are both opportunist clubs, featuring standout pitching, tight defence, clutch hitting and the ability to come from behind with last-ditch efforts.

The Indians already have been established as 17 to 10 favorites mainly because of their brilliant pitching of their "Big Eight" that was so instrumental in the record 111 victories American League record of 111 victories.

The American League's only superiority over the National in series competition probably had much to do with making the Indians such a prohibitive favorite. Thanks largely to Yankee triumphs, the American leads by a margin of 33-17. The last National League victory was by the St. Louis Cardinals in 1946.

The Indians' world series record is spotless—two series, two world championships. In 1920, Pete Sparma's Tribe defeated the Brooklyn Dodgers five games to two in a best-of-nine series, in 1948, Lou Boudreau's Indians defeated the Boston Braves, four games to two.

On the other hand, the Giants have appeared in 13 fall classics and won only four. The Giants won another pennant in 1904 but no world series was played that fall.

Durocher likewise has a poor world series record. He has twice to the Yankees, once with the 1941 Dodgers and then with the 1953 Giants. This will be Leo's third world series effort.

Although this will mark the first time the two teams have ever met in a post-season classic, the Giants and Indians are no strangers to each other. Down through the years they have met 263 times in spring training games with Cleveland winning 132 times and the Giants 127. There were four games in ties.

Both managers are confident of victories although neither expects to win early.

Lopez has his hopes on the pitching of Bob Lemon (23-7), Early Wynn (23-11), Mike Garcia (19-8), Art Houtteman (15-7), Bob Feller (13-3), Hal Newhouser (7-5) and Don Mossi (4-1) and Ray Narleski (13-3) and the hitting of Bobby Avila, Larry Doby, Al Rosen and Vic Wertz. Avila's .341 was the league's top mark, Doby paced the circuit with 32 homers and 126 runs batted in and Rosen swatted 24 homers while batting an even .300.

The Giants can't match the Indians' pitching in numbers but they have three outstanding hurlers in Sal Maglie (16-6), southpaw Johnny Antonelli (21-7) and Ruben Gomez (17-6). They've got a pair of aces-in-the-hole, however, in star relief hurler Hoyt Wilhelm and Marv Grissom (16-7) plus a "dark horse" entry in Jaimander Don Liddle (9-4).

National Football League Faces Big Law Suit

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A $2,100,000 anti-trust suit will be filed against the NFL by the Bell Football League and nine of its clubs in the Philadelphia district, Bell football NFL Commissioner Bert Bell said here Monday.

Dallas, Tex., lawyers representing the trustee of the bankrupt Bell Broadcasting System, Inc., walked into Bell's office Monday, gave him a copy of a complaint they will file shortly, planned to file.

Bell said the lawyers "started to talk about making a settlement and I said 'we settle with no one.'"

The contemplated suit charges that the NFL "has illegally acquired and maintained, throughout the United States of America, a monopoly system of authorizing the broadcasting of professional football games in interstate commerce so as to strain trade unlawfully in broadcasting and so restrict the growth of the broadcasting" in the home territories of NFL clubs.

NAMES DEFENDANTS

The suit names besides the NFL, Chicago Bears, Chicago Cardinals, Cleveland Browns, Detroit Lions, Green Bay Packers, New York Giants, Philadelphia Eagles, Pittsburgh Steelers and Washington Redskins as defendants.

The Bell ruling brought on behalf of William Rochelle Jr., trustee of the radio firm which went bankrupt in 1952.

The action was prompted by a decision in a federal district court here last November in which Judge Allan Grim dismissed Rochelle's action on radio broadcasts of league games.

Liberty claims it lost $700,000 from 1949 to 1952 as a result of NFL restrictions. Under the federal Anti-Trust Act, a plaintiff can sue for triple damages which in this case would be $2,100,000.

Canadians Good At Chess

WINNIPEG (CP)—Canada did "fantastically well" in the world chess championships in Amsterdam considering the team's lack of tournament experience, Dr. Max Dlugy, president of the Chess Federation of Canada said here on return of the team, said Sunday on his return home.

Canada finished 14th among the 26 countries in the championships and gained second place in the consolation tournament.

"That's a tremendous show for Canada," Dr. Divinsky said. This is only the second world tournament in which Canada has taken part, while the "European teams have been in tournaments every two years."

Larks Lead In All Depts Of Big Four

TORONTO (CP)—Montreal Alouettes' clear-cut superiority in the Big Four football race is shown in statistics released Monday night. They lead in first downs, both by rushing and passing, in ground gained and in punt-and-kick offensive department.

The first-place Als have made 127 first downs, compared with 106 for Hamilton Tiger-Cats and 99 by Hamilton Tiger-Cats and 97 by the last-place Toronto Rough Riders. Total yards gained gave Als 3,336, against 2,131 by Toronto, 1,932 by Ottawa and 1,883 by Tiger-Cats.

Yards gained by rushing give Alouettes 1,273, Toronto 996, Hamilton 813 and Ottawa 781. On passing, Als have moved 1,243 yards, Toronto 1,007, Ottawa 956 and Hamilton 918.

Defensively, Argonauts have yielded only 740 yards and 43 first downs to opposition rushing compared to Montreal's 858 and 51, Hamilton's 1,063 and 54 and Ottawa's 1,203 and 60.

Bombers, Saskys Win Over Eskys, Stamps

By: THE CANADIAN PRESS

Edmonton Eskimos and Calgary Stampeders have found it's an ill wind that blows from the East.

The clubs picked their first home defeat of the season Monday night at the hands of the Western Interprovincial Football Union's eastern extremities—Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Saskatchewan Roughriders.

The Stampeders, undefeated at home in five starts, were beaten 6-4 by the Blue Bombers while the Roughriders triumphed 8-4 over the Eskimos who were trying to extend their home string to four wins.

Winnipeg and Saskatchewan are still deadlocked for the league leadership with 14 points each. Calgary is second with 10 points while Edmonton is in the basement by a point and the B.C. Lions hold down last spot with a single point.

The two games were similar in pattern. Each visiting team came from behind in the last quarter and there was also a battle against the elements.

SAT IN RAIN

A crowd of about 12,000 in Calgary sat through a driving rain in the first and second quarters as Stampeders hold a 4-0 lead at half time.

But a 45-yard pass from Jack Jacobs to Neil Armstrong late in the final quarter put the game on ice and Normie Kwong after Paul Korchak's attempted field goal earlier in the quarter was good for single.

Calgary got their points in the second quarter on quarterback Ed Lebaron's single an Tom Miner's field goal from the Winnipeg 37-yard line.

The Stampeders had things under control in the second half of the game which featured hard like play and fierce tackling which left spectators in the fiere.

Bill Pullar of Stampeders and Buck Ryan of Winnipeg downs against five for Winnipeg. The Stampeders made 15 yards penalties and 31 passing while the opposition got 109 and 72, respectively.

FIELD GOAL WINS

An Edmonton crowd of 15,000 saw the Roughriders get their winning margin on a fourth quarter field goal by Ken Ploen.

Both teams had to fight a stiff, cold wind for the first quarter and ahead in the first quarter when Rollie Miles made a 19-yard dash for the winning score. Ploen got his 13th consecutive convert.

The game was marred by fumbles. Frank Tripucka and a powerful ground attack combined to send Eskimos deep into Saskatchewan territory. Aguirre's convert attempt was no good.

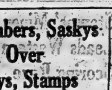
A last-minute field goal attempt by Edmonton was blocked as time ran out.

Saskatchewan gained 172 yards rushing against 149 for Edmonton. Riders completed six of 13 passes for 94 yards while Eskimos connected on three of 13 attempts for 40 yards.

RETURN POOR

PEMBROKE, Ont. (CP) — Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League Monday returned their rights to Pembroke Lumber Kings of the Quebec Provincial Hockey League to trim their roster to 21 players. The club announced at the same time the temporary loss of left winger Pete Conacher, who aggravated a knee injury in practice.

FINE PASSES



Bill Stevenson is one of Coach Bob Masterson's top hopes on the University of Toronto senior intercollegiate football squad this season. Stevenson, brought up from the Varsity intermediates, can throw passes like a professional. Masterson says of Stevenson and Harry Wilson, who will share the signal-spot with Stevenson, are the best passers he has seen come out of Canadian high schools. (CP Photo).

Varsity Freshmen Footballers May Decide College Title

By KEN SMITH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Freshmen players at University of Toronto's senior intercollegiate football squad probably will decide whether coach Bob Masterson will win the championship this year, or look back on 1954 with regret.

If he remembers, brought in to replace veterans who graduated, or left school for the time because of scholastic requirements, five experienced men, the Varsity coach may have one of the strongest teams ever seen in Canadian football.

Masterson's backfield looks, in practices, the best in Canadian amateur ranks, but in the first game against University of Western (Oct. 8), it will be guarded by an inexperienced front wall and guided by a green quarterback.

This year Masterson promises the Blues, who have lost only four games in scheduled play over four seasons, will feature a wide-open offence, with emphasis on speed and passing.

To help this offence, the former Washington Redskin tackle has brought up from the Varsity Intermediates two throwers to replace last year's graduate Ted Shergold, who is not eligible for play this year.

Both Stevenson and Harry Wilson have shared the signal-spot during practices, but Masterson says that both can throw passes like professionals. "They're two of the finest passers I've seen in collegiate or Canadian high schools," said Masterson.

His scoring punch, the "Mop-up Brigade," made up of Phil Muntz, Steve Oneschuk and Bob Pinkney, will be back and rumble. Muntz, a record ground gainer last year, is called "the greatest Canadian-born fullback" by Masterson.

Oneschuk, a triple-threat player who can run, pass, punt and kick a field goals and converts in his spare time, appears to have recovered from the knee injuries that plagued him last year. Pinkney will be featured in a two-season exhibition game last year, will also be back. Another standout in pre-season practices is Varsity Ted Wall Bulchak, a 5-foot, 6-inch fullback who says "this the line so fast he's by you before you get a shot at him."

In the line Masterson has lost guard Roy McMillan, Don Matteson and Jack Meaker; tackles Joe Harris and Bruce Johnson; ends Ted Kennedy and Gene Chornenki, all three graduating because of scholastic requirements.

Anchoring the front wall this season will be all-star guard Bobby Waugh, and 230-pound tackle Bill Bruce. Meanwhile, flanking Waugh last year are Kim Keffer, guard; Jack Strapp, tackle; Don Smith, end; and Bruce Hamilton, offensive centre. Ray Takasovitch, from the 1953 Varsity squad, will also be back.

The opening of the Belleville Eastern Soccer League on Saturday saw the Belleville All-Star action. The boys looked quite impressive in the colored shirts provided by the various team sponsors.

In the two games at the cricket field the rain by no means dampened the enthusiasm of the budding stars. In the first game Bob Carter's edged Juby Bus Line by the odd goal in three. Terry Kellar with three and Everett Keller were the marksmen for Branch 39, Canadian Legion, while Norbert Diesels by four goals with-Gerry Gallant and Carter Lewis the penalty spot for handling infringement.

Holloway St. United Church took full advantage of the small size of the radio firm which went bankrupt in 1952.

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN

Drama can flare like fire-works, and at times it does flare, but it will occur when the National Hockey League's All Star Detroit Red Wings the night of October 2.

For, a coach brand-new to the majors, who never before handled a hockey assignment beyond the junior ranks, will be in the Detroit dressing room when the Red Wings meet. And a coach in only his second major season will be opposing him.

Jimmy Skinner, newly-appointed coach of the Red Wings, replacing astute little Tommy Ivan, who has moved on to Chicago, has this important chore for his first game: major hockey. Skinner's appointment is in line with an established sports policy of having the coach of record at the time of the game direct his team.

The All Star contest will mark Skinner's debut at the helm of the Detroit club on Olympia ice in which he will seek to become the first coach to lead a Stanley Cup champion to victory over the All Stars.

This season's annual battle will be notable for the fact that facing each other, from opposite ends of the rink, will be two of the greatest net-minders in hockey history. One, Terry Sawchuk of Red Wings, and Harry Lumley, of Toronto Leafs, who fought it out for Vezina trophy honors to the very last ditch, in the N.H.L. race last spring.

They finished one goal apart, Lumley scored on 132 times in 69 games—a goal average of 2.21 per game—while Terry, a former Detroit netminder, who reached Toronto via Chicago Black Hawks, to whom he went in a trade that, curiously enough, involved Boston Bruins' fine veteran goaler, Sugar Jim Henry.

Lumley, pink-cheeked athlete from Owen Sound, Ont, signalized his appearance with Toronto in the '53-'53 race by registering 13 shut-outs, and increased that number to 13 last season.

It is four years since he played for Detroit, his first major league team, but it is proverbial in hockey, and baseball and other sports, too, that the expatriates are always at their best, opposing former teams.

Your Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 29, 1954

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — It's a good day generally and especially for personal interests, sound business and industrial matters. But extra care is stressed in handling machinery, dangerous tools, contracts, etc.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Fine Venus and Sun vibrations sponsor useful activities—whether private or general in nature. Finances, government and international work top favored now. Be conscientious.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — It may not be easy to put over big ideas but everything worthwhile, if well-planned, should meet with some success. New undertakings of value have fine influence from the stars.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Similar to Gemini today. Selfishness taboo. Useful trades, manufacturing, dealing in sound buys and good merchandise are highly sponsored. Sincere, intelligent effort pays.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Sun, Mars, Uranus aspects promise much good for the earnest, willing worker, those ambitious to succeed —honestly, of course. Encouraging for sound financial and business interests.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—Heed advice to Aries and Gemini. Day has great prospects for architects, various engineering jobs, aeronautics, electronics, etc. Also for the truly artistic, and for science generally.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Private interests, matters essential to the public welfare, study, research, dealing in materials for government and the military highly favored.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Invigorating, benefic aspects from your lucky Mars, the Sun and other planets augur for a prosperous, pleasant and interesting day. But you will have to plan carefully, work consistently.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—No time for contentedly sitting back. Put your fine talents and capabilities to work and you should reap a harvest. Some fine co-operation.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Your Saturn's position cautions against carelessness of life and limb, especially if doing hazardous tasks. Whole day generally fine for personal happiness, financial gains.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Step up, smile to cheer. Fine advantages and fresh opportunities to use your talents and natural assets. Activity, stimulus in the air. Be in with the doers.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Fresh advancement for you, especially if you co-operate with superiors, teachers, parents, and with intelligent youth, too. Keep working, advancing as you listen and heed.

YOU BORN TODAY are even tempered, cheerful; are highly talented and capable. If true to your finer characteristics, you are sympathetic, just, charitable; have a knack for doing things well without following set rules. You will champion the underprivileged and help to better their living. You should keep studying, improving, since you Librans can continue to achieve even at a great old age. Don't ever indulge in gambling or live beyond your means—a temptation at times. Birthdate Horatio, Viscount Nelson, Brit. naval hero; Robert, Lord Clive, founder of the British empire in India; Mrs. Eliz. Gaskel, Eng. novelist, biographer.

Japan's Premier Voices Hopes For Friendship

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Yoshida of Japan has expressed his hopes for friendship between his country and Canada, enemies in the last World War.

Mr. Yoshida, on the first leg of a 30-day tour of North America and Europe, arrived today in Japan's desire for good neighborliness on the eve of arrival here and again at a half-hour press conference.

The first Japanese prime minister to visit Canada had a private discussion with Prime Minister St. Laurent within hours after his plane landed.

Today Mr. Yoshida spends a quiet morning before leaving by train for New York at 4:30 p.m. EST.

At a press conference, Mr. Yoshida stressed his hopes that Canada will accept more Japanese immigrants, that trade between the two countries will increase and that Japan will be invited to enter the Colombo Plan designed for aid to South and Southeast Asia.

Beavers Keep Road Flooded Around Lake

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (CP)—The road around Round lake, 40 miles west of here, is probably flooded again for the 22nd time by a dauntless bunch of beavers another 1,000 feet long.

They are "the most pig-headed things you ever saw," said Fred Mitchell, of the provincial natural resources department, after trying unsuccessfully to dynamite a dam recently for the umpteenth time.

Beavers first caused flooding in 1934 when they built a dam on the Shell river, a mile upstream from the lake.

"We make a check every two or three days to guard against road flooding," says Mr. Arnold. "We've pulled out that dam at least 20 times this summer.

"We tried live-trapping, but as fast as we trapped one, two more appeared.

"If we wreck the dam, it's built before we can get back again. It's nothing but a pain in the neck."

Police Question Husband In Death of Wife

WATERFORD, Ont. (CP)—Police Monday questioned Stanley Jadraszek, 47, in connection with the death of his estranged wife, Mrs. Mary Jedraszek, 43, whose body was found Sunday night in his house in this village 15 miles south of Brantford.

Inspector Thomas Wright of the criminal investigation branch of the Ontario provincial police was called in to investigate.

Jedraszek rushed into the Waterford police station Sunday night and said he had found his wife dead in the kitchen.

Police said the woman, separated from her husband for several weeks, was slumped in a semi-hanging condition with one end of a woman's belt around her throat and the other around the tap in the kitchen sink.

Stanley Culliford, who said he was a friend of Mrs. Jedraszek, told police the woman called at her husband's home to pick up some belongings. When she could not get into the house, she went back to Culliford's home and returned to her husband's home later.

Shortly after 9 p.m. Hedraszek and Culliford met that his wife was dead.

Culliford said he is convinced the woman didn't commit suicide.

"She had too much to live for," he said. "She had a new job and we were saving to buy a car."

He said Mrs. Jedraszek came here from Yugoslavia five years ago and worked occasionally on tobacco farms.

Plant Working At Half Capacity

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Hydro's $67,000,000 steam generating station on the Toronto waterfront is producing power at half capacity for the first time since it was shut down after two explosions last April.

Two of the four 130,000-horsepower units in the Richard L. Hearn station are in operation and will help Hydro meet the peak power demands in Metropolitan Toronto this autumn and early winter. The station is expected to be in service later this year with the fourth running by next spring.

Investigators still do not know what caused the two blasts, which ripped the plant in twin explosions a few days apart.

French National Defence Council Leaks Probed

By FREDERICK GROVER

PARIS (AP)—Cabinet ministers and generals will sit on the French National Defence Council have been ordered questioned in the investigation of leaks of information on top-secret council meetings.

Newspapers handling the affair will spread into politics, involving a battle between the present administration headed by Premier Pierre Mendes-France and various political parties eager to get him out of office.

The government Monday said an investigation will be pressed "with the utmost vigor."

Informed sources say there have been leaks from the defence council under the present administration and also under the administration of the previous premier, Joseph Laniel.

ARREST OFFICIAL

The leaks were disclosed with the arrest Sept. 18 of Jean Dides, a Paris police commissioner who had been one of the most active Communist-chasers on the police force.

Here is an outline of the government's story as told to reporters:

Through the arrest of Dides it was disclosed that a leak of a full report of a defence council meeting of May 26 had occurred under the Laniel government. Moreover, government sources indicated, the new cabinet had now had a hold of the leak.

Reporters were told that all but two documents about this affair had been removed from the files before the new ministers came in.

Another leak occurred June 28, an armistice in Indochina.

Children Found In Bushland By Rangers

FRANZ, Ont. (CP)—Two children lost overnight in the rugged bushland near this community were found Monday after a 16-man search party spent the night combing the area, about 125 miles north of Sault Ste. Marie.

Claudine and Tango, 10, and her brother Wilfred, 5, told rescuers they had spent the night huddled in a cave after wandering from their playmates at Peckerwood lake Sunday.

Reported missing at 10:30 p.m., the children were finally found by Ontario forest rangers and a department search plane.

Truly Modern Home for Blind Opens Officially on Sept. 29

Quinte-St. Lawrence Hall, new home for the Canadian National Institute for the Blind in Kingston, which will be officially opened on Sept. 29 is a modern, comfortable, well-appointed building located on Union street, just east of Falkes road.

It is gracefully and simply constructed, provided with the latest and the best equipment and is laid out in the form of an offset H, the eastern wing extending some ten feet closer to Union street than the wing opposite.

The building proper comprises two floors. On the second floor, along the bar of the H, are located administrative offices, lounges, washrooms, storage closets, a telephone booth, sunrooms and here too (as well as in the wings) are living rooms for residents. On the sunken ground floor are located an auditorium, kitchen, dining-room, occupational crafts shop, "home teachers'" room and laundry.

The building is entered by two heavy glass doors on the Union street side, which open onto a small, cement-floored landing.

To the left, a short flight of stairs leads down to the ground floor level and to the right a longer flight leads up to the administrative section and the living quarters proper of the home.

At the top of these stairs and past the administrative offices, a long attractively colored, matticed hall leads off to the two wings. Male residents in the home live in the eastern of these wings and female residents live in the western wing.

The hall walls in the living quarters, to a height of six feet, are covered with a rough, granular cement-enamel which cannot be marked by the residents who often feel their way along them as they move about the building.

The building's 29 single bedrooms (there is one double bedroom) are located mainly in the wings, are cheerfully decorated in light colors and each is hung with a print of some attractive landscape or seascape.

Each of the rooms is provided with a modern and comfortable bed and chair, a dresser-and-work-top-surface unit, and a specially designed bedside table with ridges to prevent articles from being easily knocked from it to the floor.

According to P. I. Timmins, director, with a total present bed capacity of 31 and with the building not yet officially opened, there are already 13 handicapped people in residence.

Throughout all the halls in the home are located intercommunication voice-boxes which connect directly to one or all of the administrative offices. Fire equipment running in network pipe under the floors and the temperature of every part of the building is regulated by inside and outside thermostats sensitive to the slightest change in temperature.

Total cost for this new home was $250,000, a price which included land, building and furnishings according to Mr. Timmins.

The new Canadian National Institute for the Blind home, said Mr. Timmins, is district office for 400 people in the six counties of Hastings, Prince Edward, Lennox, Leeds and Grenville. Registration from the Kingston area is 90.

Also on the CNIB files are hundreds of additional preventive (or eye-service) cases. Members visit all people registered with the Institute, arrange educational training and provide ameliorative service of all kinds.

The Canadian National Institute for the Blind is one of the 13 organizations in the Community Chest and is supported in its greatest part, by subscriptions to the Chest.

STUDY EXPANSION

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario department of education said Monday night it is considering proposals to expand the London Teachers' College because of increased enrolment this year, but that no official plans have been made. Dr. J. G. Althouse, chief director of education for the department, denied earlier reports that a new $2,000,000 college was planned. He said suggestions for dealing with the present overcrowded quarters still were being studied.

Debbie's Romance With Crooner Causes Palpitations Among Young

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—By Hollywood standards, Debbie Reynolds is as wholesome as a day in the country.

"If I have to pose in the nude and give out sexy interviews to get ahead in the movies, they'll have to get a new girl," she says. "It isn't worth that much to me."

Her 104 pounds curve delightfully over her 5 feet, 1½ inches, but she seldom appears in the low-cut gowns that most movie stars wear.

"I simply can't feel comfortable," Debbie says.

Debbie's romance with crooner Eddie Fisher has caused palpitations among teen-agers. What kind of a girl is Debbie? It's not hard to find out. If there's anything she likes to do, it's talk.

I listened to Debbie talk for an hour.

MISS BURBANK FIRST

Born in El Paso, Tex., Mary Frances Reynolds grew up in Burbank, Calif., as the tomboy in her block. She could climb a tree or toss a ball with the best of the boys. In 1948, she decided to enter the contest for Miss Burbank.

"When the time came to perform, I put on a Betty Hutton record and acted real crazy," she said. "I always was a showoff. When I saw the audience was enjoying it, I went all-out. I got a big hand.

"I thought I might get one of the minor awards. They announced the beauty, personality and talent winners, and they were other girls. I was about to leave when I heard the announcer say, 'And now for Miss Burbank—Mary Frances Reynolds!'"

One of the judges was Solly Biano, talent scout for Warner Brothers. He urged Miss Burbank to come to the studio for an interview. Warners signed her. During her first two months, she took all kinds of lessons.

"I did only one picture, 'The Daughter of Rosy O'Grady.' I spent three hours in school at the studio. The rest of the time I walked around the studio, looking for something to do.

"They dropped me after a year."

CAUGHT ON AT MGM

MGM was looking for a young girl to impersonate Helen Kane, the Boop-a-Doop girl, in "Three Little Words." Debbie got the role. The three-minute bit scored so well at the preview that she was signed to a contract.

Her next achievement was singing "Aba-Daba Honeymoon" in "Two Weeks with Love." Her record of the song was profitable enough to provide a swimming pool for the modest Reynolds home, where she still lives. The big chance came when she was assigned to co-star with Gene Kelly and Donald O'Connor in "Singing in the Rain."

Debbie, who was 22 last April Fool's Day, admitted that she is touching up on her cooking these days, and young Eddie Fisher is the reason. They met in 1951, when both were entertaining at a hospital.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery

Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to stop bleeding—without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among those sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—discovered by a famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing piles and time on all parts of the body.

Now this new healing substance is offered in ointment form for hemorrhoids under the name Preparation H.® The price is only $1.19 a tube including an applicator. The name to ask for is Preparation H—at all drug stores. And remember—if not entirely satisfied your money will be refunded promptly. *Trade Mark

THE NEWS IS TV

by Gene Hitchon

There's a brand new gimmick in the vocabulary of TV called television. It's the same TV you have, or should have, in your living room.

As an experiment, the CBC recently presented four special programs designed to interest and educate young TV in school rooms.

Topics were: ranching in Alberta, uranium prospecting, the Kitimat power project and the maple sugar industry. They must have been good.

Of nearly 600 school teachers polled on the experiment, 97 per cent were downright enthusiastic. They said there was a definite job they'd produce more.

Many of the country's most progressive schools are now thinking about bringing TV right into the classroom. Of harnessing TV's tremendous appeal to youngsters to make teaching more effective.

You can make your own living room into a classroom, by investing in today's greatest entertainment medium — television.

Not all the programs, of course, can be classed as educational to children. But some, you'll have to put blinkers on the kids. But a cursory check of the day's TV schedule will help you make a selection.

We'll help you, too, any time you care to visit us at Hitchon Radio & Television, 4 Bridge Street East — headquarters for the jointly-famous Hallcrafter, featuring a bigger, brighter, better screen. Why not enjoy a free demonstration? You can't help but agree with us that Hallcrafter TV is more value for your TV dollar!

Freedom May Near For Iron Curtain Mystery Figures

Three U.S. People Held By Reds Last Five Years

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Herman, Noel and Hede Field, American figures in a sensational Iron Curtain mystery, may be nearer freedom than at any time in the last five years—if they are still alive.

United States officials today said chances of winning their release from Communist Poland and Red Hungary have been greatly increased by facts about their disappearance supplied by a refugee Polish secret police official.

Noel Field, who fled through the Iron Curtain 10 months ago, was "convicted" by the U.S. government Tuesday after having worked under cover with U.S. intelligence agencies since he fled to the West at Berlin. Officials said he had provided much useful information about the European satellites of Russia.

FIELD'S CASE

Most public attention, however, focused on Field because he is known to have been the wife Wanda had arrested Hermann Field when the Red trap was sprung on Noel Field's contacts in August, 1949.

Swaiko, who was deputy chief of Poland's Communist party security agency, also interviewed Noel and Hede in 1949 at Budapest, Hungary, for possible evidence of conspiracy or espionage material work on which the Communists alleged they had been engaged.

Armed with this first firm information since the two American brothers and Noel's wife Herta disappeared, the U.S. state department filed notes to Poland and Hungary demanding the "earliest possible" release of Mrs. Herta Herrmann has been held in a Polish prison, Swaiko reported, Noel and Hede are assumed to be in Budapest.

WIFE HAPPY

Mrs. Herta Field, a Briton, said in London that she was "terribly happy" to get word that her husband was alive. She added: "Being architect, is presumably alive. She makes me feel that awful, long period of waiting may soon be over."

U.S. officials say that in the past the Communist governments have been presented with factual information in cases of this kind, and dealt with the problem realistically. This encouraged them to believe that the Fields will be released.

Noel Field, a U.S. diplomat in 1936-38 and after that a League of Nations employee, went to Czechoslovakia and disappeared in May, 1949. In August that year his wife Herta and Hede Massing also disappeared. Herrmann, seeking word of his wife, flew from Berlin to Warsaw in August 1949, and also vanished.

PLAN CONFERENCE

RANGOON (Reuters) — Burma and Indonesia on Tuesday night wound up two days of talks on plans for the first major international conference of African and Asian nations, sometime in February, to help further the cause of world peace. Some 20 nations are expected to be invited.

Doctor States Woman Mistaken In Her Claim

VAL D'OR, Que. (CP)—Dr. Dorion Taschereau, attached to Holy Savior Hospital in this northwestern Quebec mining town, said Tuesday Mrs. Paul-Emile Beaudet is mistaken in her claim she gave birth prematurely to six babies here last June.

He made the statement commenting on an interview given during the weekend by Mrs. Beaudet, 29-year-old wife of a lumberjack, now at the home of her parents at St. Eugene, Que.

Dr. Taschereau, who with Dr. R. J. Perras attended Mrs. Beaudet, said obstetric complications may have led the woman to believe there had been a multiple conception.

He said that to confirm his contrary belief, he obtained the opinion of the pathologist at Sudbury General Hospital where the baby care was one of single conception under tumorous conditions.

High Prices Reduce Buyers Says Speaker

OTTAWA (CP) — A Montreal housewife said Tuesday night that in the long run television may be better for consumers and manufacturers than cuts or curbs on the inflation rocket.

Mrs. H. E. Vautelet, president of the Canadian Association of Consumers, said industry can build its own parachute "dark days" ahead by keeping consumers informed and regard them as partners in Canada's economy.

"In the long run, unrealistically high prices reduce demand," she said in an address at the association's annual convention banquet. "Making buying profitable for the buyers is the best way of making it profitable for the seller."

"In pressing for informative labeling and standardized sizes, the consumer representation on marketing boards and for advertising that screens out much misleading to consumers, CAC is pressing for the best possible insurance trade and industry can provide for themselves today."

Her remarks were contained in the text of a speech issued in advance of delivery.

Mrs. Vautelet said a recession seems inevitable only if consumers be fearful. Confidence would mean getting down to real, as against artificially - created, consumer needs.

Beavers Provide Free Labor To Control Water

NEW LISKEARD (CP)—Beavers are providing free labor to control the supply of water to Lake at Elk lake, 40 miles north of here.

The beaver family have been faithful builders since operations began at the mine in July.

The mining camp is crossed by a creek that empties into Boyd pond a half mile to the north. The south end of the pond is dammed to provide water for the camp and mining operations.

When the water is low miners are sent to the pond to make an opening in the dam every second afternoon. Sufficient water for two dys rung through until midnight when the beavers repair the breach.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: An intense high pressure area west of the Great Lakes is causing rainy weather by all of Ontario today. As a mass of cold air surges down from the Prairie provinces skies will gradually clear Thursday in all but northern regions. It will be mild today in southern Ontario but will turn cooler on Thursday. The rest of the province will be cool both days.

CANADIAN TEXTILE INDUSTRY FACES ELIMINATION

Speakers Claim High Tariffs Must Go

ATTAWA (CTP)—The Canadian textile industry has opened its case for higher tariffs on imported British woollen goods with the claim that competition under present tariffs threatens its existence.

J. Glassco, a Toronto accountant presenting the Canadian industry's case, said the industry faces elimination from British competition and added:

"If and when conditions under which the British industry operates deteriorate and their profit margins shrink or disappear, the wholesale liquidation of the Canadian industry would occur, unless there were also an upward revision in the tariff structure."

JOIN PROTEST

As the tariff board hearing opened, the Retail Merchants Association of Canada joined British and other Canadian groups opposing a tariff boost.

The retail trade organization, in a brief, estimated that a 10-per-cent rise in tariffs would increase the price of an average suit or men's clothes by as much as $2.50 to $3. The price of finer wool garments such as women's suits would rise by as much as $10.

Higher retail prices, it said, would be "most regrettable and would have a serious effect on public morale." The industry should not be subjected to retroactive ratemaking attempt to raise prices of products "which are evidently becoming less popular, and trying to keep out more popular products of other countries."

Mr. Glassco said in a reasonable tariff increase would result in only a "most modest" rise in living costs. A $1 jump in prices of men's suits would increase the consumer price index by only one-fiftieth of one per cent.

ONLY SMALL RISE

Such a increase "would accomplish a major restoration of output and employment at a very practical cost in the price index within their region as much as possible to boost their anaemic economy.

To this end, the first Atlantic provinces economic council decided to hire a "man with a mission" to start the ball rolling and appointed a committee to get the council incorporated under a Dominion charter.

The 18 delegates, including the four premiers, decided that $30,000 would give the council room to breathe.

There wasn't any talk about the old theoretical Atlantic union—nor the radical ideas of the early of the 1930s — but Premier Joseph R. Smallwood of Newfoundland told the council:

"We have no intention of becoming a province of or annexed for Quebec and Ontario or a market for the industrial development of the other provinces."

The three Maritime provinces had not been good economies as a standing possibilities of Canada's economic might, he said, and Newfoundland "doesn't want to become a fourth such province."

Premier Angus Campbell, Hugh John Flemming, said the Atlantic provinces were not looking for a handout.

"If Canada had been settled from west to east we might have all been in one large province like British Columbia.

Nationalists Beat Off Attack On Small Island

TAIPEH, Formosa (Reuters)—Nationalist Chinese authorities today declared their troops have beaten off an attempted invasion by Chinese Communist troops on a small island 100 miles northwest of Formosa.

A spokesman said the Nationalists fought off the attempted seaborne landing by 40 to 50 junks on the Ichiang Islands, 12 miles in the Matsu group. No information was given on the number of casualties suffered by either side, or when the invasion was attempted.

The Matsu group lies just off the China mainland at the mouth of the Min river. The Nationalists use them for launching guerrilla attacks on the mainland and for intercepting ships trying to make the nearby port of Foochow.

Labor Proposes 12-Point Plan Aimed at Lifting Employment

TORONTO (CP)—Leaders of the Canadian Congress of Labor today proposed a 12-point program aimed at boosting employment by forcing up purchasing power.

The program, embodied in a CCL executive statement on economic policy," was laid before the congress' annual convention as the basis for a debate on unemployment due to last through much of today.

As suggested by the executive in some 850 delegates, the policy calls for labor going after more gains and for the federal government laying out money for public works and social security measures, and also making shifts in its tax structure.

The CCL chiefs said the program is a long-term one, and also admitted it calls for federal deficits.

"Better a reasonable deficit than human deficit on idle workers," the statement said.

Another point in the policy declaration was a demand for the immediate calling of Parliament this session. It said every day's delay makes the solution of the job problem more difficult.

No. 1 suggestion in the executive policy statement was that labor should press for higher wages, on the theory that higher pay whips up more purchasing power.

Two days ago, CCL president A. R. Mosher in his presidential address to the congress advised that labor keep an eye on industry's ability to pay as it is demanding wage increases.

In his statement today, the CCL chiefs put increased pay at the head of their dozen-point list but the observed that labor may have to be satisfied with holding to existing pay levels in depressed industries.

Other points in the declaration of policy:

1. Working hours should be reduced with labor and management also maintained to increase job opportunities.

2. Unemployment insurance benefits payments should be improved.

3. There should be a country-wide public assistance plan for workers and others not covered by unemployment insurance.

4. Old age pensions and family allowance payments should be boosted.

5. Increase personal income tax exemptions, impose a capital gains tax, cut out exemptions on dividend income and reduce the sales tax with a view to abolition.

6. Launch a public investment program of federal-provincial-municipal projects such things as housing, schools, hospitals and roads.

7. Promote exports through measures like trade missions, trade agreements with certain countries and the lowering of barriers to international commerce.

8. Expand immigration policy based on the country's capacity to absorb immigrants in an expanding economy without lowering the standard of living.

9. Measures — unspecified — to maintain and increase farm purchasing power.

10. A substantial increase in Canada's contribution to the Colombo plan for the development of South east Asia, and the establishment of international development fund under NATO.

11. Special measures to help depressed areas. Canadian industries get on their feet and to help depressed areas where declining industries into them or by helping workers move to regions where jobs are available.

"Not all these measures can be taken effect immediately or even simultaneously," the statement said. "Some will have high priority. Some are started at once. Others may have to be deferred, in some cases for years.

"But some of them, notably the public investment program, can be undertaken at once . . . If public investment is pushed hard enough and fast enough, some other measures . . . will cost much less."

Atlantic Provinces Take Action to Boost Economy

By GERRY FREEMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HALIFAX (CP)—The four Atlantic provinces drew up a sort of unilateral pact Tuesday to keep economy growing and fight within their region as much as possible to boost their anaemic economy.

To this end, the first Atlantic provinces economic council decided to hire a "man with a mission" to start the ball rolling and appointed a committee to get the council incorporated under a Dominion charter.

The 18 delegates, including the four premiers, decided that $30,000 would give the council room to breathe.

There wasn't any talk about the old theoretical Atlantic union—nor the radical ideas of the early of the 1930s — but Premier Joseph R. Smallwood of Newfoundland told the council:

"We have no intention of becoming a province of or annexed for Quebec and Ontario or a market for the industrial development of the other provinces."

The three Maritime provinces had not been good economies as a standing possibilities of Canada's economic might, he said, and Newfoundland "doesn't want to become a fourth such province."

Premier Angus Campbell, Hugh John Flemming, said the Atlantic provinces were not looking for a handout.

"If Canada had been settled from west to east we might have all been in one large province like British Columbia.

Czechoslovakia Expelled From Monetary Fund

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 57 - country International Monetary Fund Tuesday provisionally expelled Czechoslovakia, its only Soviet-bloc member, because the Czechs refuse to give the fund the world a peek behind the Iron Curtain.

The Czechs have already been suspended from the fund's lending organization, the World Bank, for failure to pay the required portion of its capital subscription.

The fund's governors put the Czechs on the skids by approving a resolution of the fund's executive directors to oust the Czechs from membership if they fail to they supply information required by all members on their national income, foreign trade, and similar economic data.

STRIKE DEADLINE FOR 6,500 FORD WORKERS SET

Go Out on Sunday If Contract Not Made

TORONTO (CP) — About 6,500 production employees of Ford of Canada's Windsor plant will strike Sunday if a contract dispute between the company and the United Automobile Workers of America (CIO-CCL) is not settled by then.

The strike deadline—announced by Charles McDonald, president of Local 200, Windsor, and head of Ford negotiating committee at a meeting here Tuesday of the council executive which includes representatives of other U.W.A. locals in Ford of Canada plants.

WANT SALE THERE

The council asked for reopening of negotiations and requested that president Rhys M. Sale of Ford of Canada participate in further bargaining.

A company official said in Windsor: "We have nothing to say."

The strike deadline for Ford's Windsor workers does not apply to the company's Oakville assembly plant.

A union spokesman said another meeting of the council would be called before the 2,500 Oakville employees walked off the job.

DEMANDS CUT

Negotiations with the Windsor local ended Monday when the union rejected a company offer of fringe benefits but no wage increase.

The UAW has cut its original demand for a 30-cents-an-hour increase to half. Ford has rescinded its original offer of four cents an hour. A conciliation board recommended no increase in wages.

Two other Ford locals are negotiating for the company's Windsor office workers and Etobicoke parts depot employees. They are awaiting conciliation board reports.

Call for New Pact Between Canada, U.S.

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — The U.S. Senate Committee on Atomic Energy Tuesday called for a new mutual continental defence pact between Canada and the United States.

W. Sterling Cole (Rep. N.Y.) suggested in an interview that the pact be set up to provide the same sort of military organization for North American defence as North Atlantic supreme command in Paris has for Europe.

Cole, who recently appointed a commission to study the problem of continental defence against a sudden sneak attack by the Soviet Union from across the North Pole, was commenting on Monday's announcement of plans for an early warning network to protect North America.

He said a Canadian-American pact could establish a North American continental defence organization to which military units from the two countries could be assigned in the same way that NATO assigns its Europe report to SHAPE headquarters in Paris.

Cole said numerous advisory committees are already in existence for the co-ordination of defence but he added that believes the present machinery now should be supplemented by real co-ordination of the North American continental defence system.

Cole said his proposal had already been discussed by Canadian and American officials and that the Canadians had not been enthusiastic. He said the Canadian view, which he did not support in the U.S., was that adequate plans were already in existence for co-ordination of defence efforts to meet a sneak attack.

Labor Deadline Has Accepted French Program

Mendes-France Proposes 7-Power European Pact

LONDON (CP) — High French sources today said the nine-power conference on European defence has accepted a plan by France's Premier Pierre Mendes-France to control continental troops and armaments under a seven-power European pact.

There was no confirmation from any other sources, and high non-French sources disagreed with the French version of the decisions reached by the conference.

These sources said France and her Allies tentatively have approved a plan whereby controls would be exercised by both the seven-power authority and the NATO supreme commander, and that details of this compromise formula have yet to be worked out.

The other Western powers meeting at Lancaster House had previously wanted only supervision exercised by the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, to which a few days ago France's Premier Mendes-France would be admitted.

French sources said Mendes-France's plan was accepted after the premier agreed to the simultaneous withdrawal of the West German government into the new seven-power pact and NATO.

The seven-power pact would be an enlargement of the 1948 Brussels pact, which now counts seven members — France, Britain, the Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg. The new members would be West Germany and Italy.

The original pact bound members to aid each other in case of an attack, especially by Germany. Those sections dealing with German aggression are being rewritten by the present council of the Brussels pact, meeting here simultaneously with the nine foreign ministers.

This morning's two-hour session of the nine foreign ministers followed immediately on the first-ever private meeting between Mendes-France and West Germany's Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

The French premier was reported "very pleased" with the way the talk went. A major topic of their hour-long discussion was the Saar, which is the key issue to settle the age-old Franco-German feud over the Saar.

Two Children Burned to Death At Mille Roches

CORNWALL (CP)—Two children burned to death in a $50,000 apartment building in the village of Mille Roches today.

The victims were Cheryl Stanley, 4, and Irvin Stanley, 4, children of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Stanley.

Mrs. Stanley, who is now homeless by the blaze which broke out on the ground floor, escaped with the six other children, including one two weeks old, were removed safely from the second storey.

Flames swept through the wooden structure before anything else could be saved.

The young victims apparently were trapped in the rear of the ground-floor apartment. Firemen carried out the bodies on a sodden, charred mattress.

It is thought the fire started in the kitchenette portion. Firemen said, although the cause is unknown. Firemen battled the blaze for more than an hour before controlling it.

Mrs. Jean Lagrove said she was preparing her children for school when told the apartment dwelling was on fire.

An adjoining restaurant was saved by volunteer firefighters who formed a bucket brigade and used a hand-operated pump.

Sex Preverts Being Rounded Up in Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—Police said today sex perverts in Toronto are being rounded up for questioning in connection with the strangling early Saturday of Mrs. Mary Lipkowecky], 46, whose naked body was found in a narrow laneway near her home in west-central Toronto.

Insp. William Thompson said he and detectives working with him also are checking more than 30 telephoned "tips" on the case.

Investigation of the woman's body Saturday, the motive for the killing has puzzled police. Investigators said the victim was neither robbed nor sexually molested "and they have expressed doubt the slaying was in reprisal for her husband's anti-Communist activities.

Betty Hutton Again Announces Her Retirement

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — High-strung Betty Hutton, a trouper since she was a tot, said Tuesday she's quitting as an entertainer because "I've got to quit or blow my top."

But Hollywood, where retirements are often announced but seldom taken couldn't work up much excitement. "She'll be back," was the verdict of insiders.

"I'm tired," the 33-year-old "Blonde Bombshell" of the movies told interviewers. "This business is not a glamorous life in terms. It can be just as heartbreaking as it is glamorous. . . . I just can't take the heartbreak anymore."

One source who has worked close to Betty for many years said she has announced retirement—privately—more times than Fred Astaire, who has been retiring off and on since 1932.

Somebody Pulled Wrong Switch On Two Programs

NEW YORK (AP) — Somebody pulled the wrong switch in California Tuesday night and television viewers all over the country were hearing "Truth or Consequences" and looking at "Life with Father."

The confusion appeared only on the NBC-TV network and lasted one minute and seven seconds.

The California audience was understandably concerned. They heard the voice of Jack Bailey, quiz master of "Truth or Consequences" at the start of the program's climactic ceremonies, winding up a phase that often includes a string of zany commercial—while on the screen they were seeing a quiet emotional moment in "Life With Father" which should have been on NBC-Channel 11.

An NBC spokesman said cause of the trouble was in a telephone company switching point outside San Francisco. Both programs were originating from the west coast, and somehow the relay apparatus slipped up.

Life-Termer Asks Hanging to Escape Ghost of Former Partner in Crime

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — Kennety Hastings, a life-termer in the Idaho state penitentiary, says he wants to be taken out of his solitary confinement cell and be hanged today, to escape the ghost of his former partner in crime.

He has given prison guards a typewritten statement saying the image of Ivan Bakker, whom Hastings shot after a tavern holdup in 1951, comes to "sit on the wall and stay on the floor so I still can't take him."

The condemned convict's story was disclosed by penitentiary officials, who said they are sceptical. Hastings told it after an abortive 56-hour prison break ended in him hiding out with his cellmate in the mountains north of Boise.

Hastings said he decided that if he failed in the escape attempt he would "confess and ask for the death penalty. He said he was unable to shake off the spectre of the murdered man while he shivered in the woods with scores of searchers closing in on him.

Warden L. E. Clapp said Hastings "confessed and asked to go to penitentiary, might .be "working some sort of angle."

He also said prison guards a typewritten statement saying the image of Ivan Bakker, whom Baker's bullet-ridden body, failed to bear fruit Monday and Tuesday and he would call out again today.

William Owens, a penitentiary inmate who joined Hastings in the Boise tavern holdup and a Boise grocery store robbery three days later, was asked about Hasting's story.

"He's crazy," Owens said.

Hastings and Owens were sentenced to death for the fatal shooting of the Boise grocer. The sentences later were commuted to life imprisonment.

Students Who Used Paint Brush Too Freely Have to Switch to Pen

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — Six Rutgers University Sophomores who used a paint brush too freely will have to switch to a pen and turn out 2,000-word essays.

The title of the works: "My own views, with reasons supporting and deliberate detacement of public and private, property."

Punishment of the essay was made, not by a professor, but by Judge Paul R. Chesebro Tuesday, in view of the action.

The young students appeared before the judge to plead guilty to charges of splashing vivid red paint last week over some of the most hallowed spots on rival Princeton's campus.

A spokesman for the students claimed the painting was an outburst of "school spirit." Relations between the two New Jersey universities, but Chesebro took a dim view of the action.

Kiwanians Toast Track and Field Meet Winners

Belleville Kiwanis followed up the conclusion of its Annual Kids Day yesterday by presentation of trophies to the youngsters who had taken top places in the big field and track event held in Victoria Park Saturday.

At its weekly luncheon the club hosted the fast fry who took top part in the gala event.

A special presentation also was made to Lloyd Doran, city recreational director, who co-operated with the Kiwanis in staging the day.

Making the presentations Hugh Murray also paid tribute to the Kiwanis club as a whole, some six of its members having turned out to help organize the events. He also thanked the school teachers for their co-operation and said, though approached only some time ago "the schools, without exception, went to it in great style."

Outstanding among the young athletes who took part was young John Muirhead of Queen Elizabeth School who had five wins and one second placing in the course of six events.

Others presented with trophies were Carol Davis, Prince Charles; Judy Mott, Queen Alexandra; Carol White, King George; Barbara Simpson, Queen Mary; Stephanie Dahl, Queen Alexandra; Andrew Hall, Queen Alexandra; Bruce Mossman, Prince of Wales; and Billy Datoe, Prince of Wales.

Merely Potato Seed Balls Not 'Tomatoes'

No, they are not tomatoes!

Any illusion on the part of local amateur gardeners that they might have tomatoes growing on their potato vines was dispelled today when a government agricultural official identified tiny green "tomatoes" as being merely potato seed balls.

Several local residents have called the Intelligencer office within the past few days to state they have tomatoes growing on their potato vines. A bit skeptical, reporters visited one garden seeking to verify the story. Sure enough there were small green balls looking very much like green tomatoes growing on the vines.

But a check with agricultural men revealed they were but potato seed balls.

Seed balls apparently do not grow on potato tops every year. Their appearance depends to some extent on the weather with dampness apparently encouraging their growth. Potato vines use the seed balls to propagate new potato seed.

Expensive Glance For Car Driver From Picton

It was an expensive sideways glance for Jack Dorian of Picton, late Tuesday afternoon when in the brief interval the car ahead slowed down with rather serious results.

Dorian's car slammed into the rear of a car driven by Levi Latone, of Madoc, and three of the four men in the Latone auto were taken to hospital at Belleville for X-rays.

Both cars were eastbound on No. 7 Highway about a mile east of Madoc when the latone car slowed down to allow a passenger to alight. Dorian's auto crashed into the other car doing about $700 front end damage, while the other car was reported to have been shortened about two feet by the impact.

Riding in the Dorian car besides the driver were; Gordon Woodcox, Melvin Lees and Bill Quinn all of Madoc. The men were returning from work at Deloro when the mishap occurred. Woodcox, Lees and Latone went to hospital for X-rays after they complained of injury to their necks following the jolt of the impact.

Provincial Constable T. Lummies of Madoc, investigated, and Bush's ambulance brought the injured to hospital.

Run Grave Risk of Losing System Foremen's Club Told

"People who believe in the free enterprise system are running the grave risk of losing it by default," said Hilton G. Willby, personnel manager of the Steel Company of Canada in an illustrated address on "How Our Business System Operates" delivered Tuesday evening to a non-union foremen's club opening meeting of the fall session of the Quinte District Foremen's Club.

Failure to understand the basic principles of the free enterprise system and apathy at the polls were blamed by Mr. Willby as two of the most potent menaces to the maintenance of this system.

"The many people take the free enterprise system for granted," he said.

Mr. Willby, using the flannel board technique, a technique which he introduced to Canada in connection with economics lectures, outlined the basic structure of a successful business, the accounting methods of the Canadian business system, the importance of competition, and the relative merits of socialism, communism, fascism, Naziism and free enterprise.

"Competition is still Canada's chief dollar earner," said Mr. Willby, "and yet Canadian industry realizes that it must fight against criticism of its motives and actions."

Mr. Willby made some common criticisms in a detailed description of business and profits and the interrelationship of shareholders, workers, sales force, research, engineering, finance, with every detail, executive management, directors, customers, and government.

"Before changing our system or throwing it out entirely we should look at its accomplishments," said Mr. Willby.

He pointed out that a labor force of 1,300,000 in 1881, working 12 hours a day, six days a week, produced a gross national product of $1.5 billion at today's prices. In 1953 a labor force of 5,300,000 working 42 hours a week produced a gross national product of $34.5 billion.

"The improvement in our standard of living is approximately 16 times in 73 years," said the speaker. "We have, today a standard of living second only to that of the United States and we are catching up fast."

Other striking figures showed that in 1881 nearly 90 per cent of the energy employed in manufacturing was man or animal energy while in 1953 more than 80 per cent was mechanical energy. Capital investment in plant increased from $643 per worker in 1883 to more than $8,000 per worker in 1953.

"All this has been accomplished in a system where competition controls not only production but prices," he said.

Mr. Willby concluded his address by stating that no other system in the world is capable of such achievement and at the same time maintains the individual freedom of action and choice in business and social life.

Mr. Willby was introduced by Frank Norrica and the thanks of the meeting were extended by expressed by Al Fewtrell.

The Belleville General Hospital announced today that tenders for contracts for the construction of the new 100-bed addition would be accepted until 2.00 p.m., Tuesday, Oct. 5th, and that tenders would be opened at a public meeting at 2.30 p.m. on the same date.

It had been planned originally to accept tenders until 12.00 noon, Friday, Oct. 1st, and to open tenders at 2.30 p.m. Friday.

City, county and hospital officials will be present for the official opening, or tenders in the Hillside Memorial Nurses' residence and the general public is cordially invited to attend.

Price tenders are to be enclosed and recorded at the public meeting Tuesday. The architects will assess the various bids and the Board of Governors will subsequently let the contract.

Did Not Know All the Story

LODI, Italy (AP) — Cesare Pizzocheri, 46, looked up the results of Italy's major league soccer games and dropped dead of a heart attack.

He had picked every game correctly and won the weekly "totocalcio" soccer pool, which sometimes pays off in millions of lire. Perhaps he would have lived if he had known the rest of the story, his friends said sadly. A total of 137,690 other persons picked all the games, too.

Committed for Trial

CHATHAM (CP)—Victor Stanley, 62, of Dresden Tuesday was committed for trial charged with attempted murder of his 21-year-old son, Edward.

The case will go before the October term Grand Court in October.

A motion by counsel John Peckett, that the crown failed to establish a prima facie case was denied by magistrate Ivan B. Craig.

Edward and his father had an argument between his father and his half-sister, Hazel, Sept. 13. He thought he had settled the argument and went downstairs. A few minutes later he went to the foot of the stairs and saw his father standing at the top with a rifle.

Police chief Alvin Wason of Dresden testified the bullet went into the joint of the wall and ceiling.

Constable Says Accused Nervous, Smelled of Drink

HAMILTON. (CP) — Lloyd Webb, 30, on trial for murder in the fatal shooting of Mary Carter, his common-law wife, was "very excited, nervous and smelled of alcohol," Constable James Hamilton of the city police told Chief Justice J. C. McRuer and an assize jury today.

Constable Hamilton was first officer to arrive at Webb's apartment in the early hours of May 2 when the woman's body was found lying on a bed.

The officer was the fourteenth witness to be called by the crown as the trial entered its third day. Harvey McCulloch is the crown attorney and John White and John Bowlby are defence counsel.

Webb, curly-haired, dressed in a neat, plain navy-blue suit, with a blue and white tie, sat almost motionless throughout the hearing, listening intently to each witness.

District Hunters Say By-Law Discriminatory

KITCHENER (CP)—Hunting is forbidden in a new crown game preserve about a mile square around the Luther dam near Owensville. The preserve takes in one-third of the 3,500-acre marsh, long a paradise for duck hunters.

East Luther township, which borders the eastern side of the marsh, last year passed a by-law forbidding non-residents from discharging firearms in the township. It has also two special constables to enforce the ban and 1,000 signs proclaiming it has been posted along the roads.

District hunters say they consider the ban discriminatory and may test it in the courts.

There are no restrictions on shooting ducks from the West Luther township side of the marsh. Neither is the Grand River conservation commission prohibiting duck hunters from entering its extensive holdings in the marsh.

It was reported last week that 1,000 hunters had been forbidden in the entire marsh.

Public School Class 64 Years Ago

The period dress of the girls and boys in the above photo is quite different from the casual clothes of today but the girls' long dark dresses and the short jackets of the boys were the latest word when the picture was taken back in 1890—just 64 years ago. The picture was taken on the front steps of Queen Victoria public school and shows members of Miss Chris Urquhart's class. Owner of the picture is E. S. Vandewater, former Belleville boy and now real estate man at 25 Rose Park Drive, Toronto.

Mr. Vandewater remembers most of the class and with a few exceptions has named them. With blanks representing unidentified pupils they are: Back row: Frank Wookins, ——— Bert, Hancock, Jim MacDonald, George Hale and Charlie Osborne. 2nd row: Bill Leit, ———, ——— Reid, Fred Sterling, Mike Cummings, Russ Weller, Hiram Thompson, Bill Weese and Dave Keith. 3rd row: Billie Low, Will Johnson, Alex. McFee, Ed. Vandewater, Howard Sharpe, Frank Robinson, Will Frott and Jim Pratt.

Ready for Meeting

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent said Tuesday the federal government is prepared to take part in an investigatory conference with Quebec on taxation issues provided such a meeting is desired by Premier Maurice Duplessis.

He made the statement in a telegram sent to Egan Chambers, Progressive Conservative candidate in the coming federal by-election in the Montreal riding of St. Antoine-Westmount. Mr. Chambers, who will be opposing Transport Minister Marler in the Nov. 8 by-election, earlier had sent Mr. St. Laurent a telegram suggesting a meeting between the prime minister and Mr. Duplessis on the question of federal and provincial taxes.

Young Archer Being Taken Home to Mother

TRENTON (Special) — Little Frank Smith, 11, of Wellington, started out to hitch-hike to enter an archery contest in Toronto early this morning. He intended to drop around to see his grandmother while he was in the city. He carried his bow and steel tipped arrows fastened together, slung over his shoulder. He had 45 cents in his pocket.

The boy arrived in Trenton at 10.30 a.m. He had been given a lift by a local motorist, who decided to check further into the lad's story.

The boy lives with Roy Vander Burg, a painter of Wellington, who is working in Ottawa. His mother could not be reached by phone in Wellington, but local authorities expect to have him on his way back home by this afternoon.

Young Frank was dressed in blue jeans and a light sweater.

Arnprior Firm Given Contract For New School

TRENTON (Special) — Contract for construction of the new Trenton High School to be erected on the Little estate west of the town has been let to the M. Sullivan and Sons Ltd., contractors of Arnprior, Ontario, Dr. J. E. Richmond, chairman of the building committee of the Board of Education announced today. The board accepted the lowest bidder's price of $556,000. There were 11 well known contractors bidding for the job. Construction is to begin in the immediate future.

The school building of latest design will be located on a site which affords room for practical agriculture studies and a quarter mile running track within the confines of the athletic field. The school was designed by the firm of S. B. Coon and Son, architects of Toronto who have designed Trenton schools for over 50 years.

Rapidly growing Trenton will welcome the addition of a new high school. Now there is much overcrowding in College and Dufferin public schools.

END IN SIGHT

NEW YORK (AP)—Dr. Morris Fishbein, vice-president of the International Congress on Poliomyelitis, says he can see "the beginning of the end" of polio. Returning Tuesday from an international polio conference in Rome, he said laboratory studies throughout the world "support the line of research of the polio foundation." (This is in support of the salk vaccine.)

SERVICE CLUBS SHOULD TAKE ACTION

A bulletin from the Canada Trust Co. deals with an interpretation of the Dominion Succession Duty Act which should be of interest to service clubs and other similar organizations throughout the land.

A Rotary club in Western Ontario was left many thousands of dollars by a man who wished to assist the thousands of children crippled. The club was shocked by a departmental ruling that the gift would be taxed at the highest rate of duty. This ruling was based upon a provision in the Act that an organization, in order to receive gifts free of duty, must operate exclusively for charitable purposes. The department maintains, not uncharitable purposes. The department maintains, not unreasonably, that organizations such as a Rotary club are not entirely charitable in their objects.

The Canada Trust Co. bulletin suggests that, as the Dominion Succession Duty Act is now undergoing revision, the government might consider changing the act in this respect. It admits, however, that there would be "difficulty in wording legislation to give effective control over all types of organizations to which money might be left for charitable purposes."

The trust company further notes that some service clubs and similar groups have taken steps to enable them to receive gifts free of duty, by creating, under control of the parent body, a separate charitable institution, government-approved from its inception.

This method seems much the better approach to the problem.

No matter how carefully legislation might be worded to cover the cases of organizations which were engaged in charitable as well as other activities, it is obvious that there would always be border-line cases in which the status of an organization would be open to varying interpretations. The creation of separate organizations, engaged solely in charitable work, eliminates the unpleasant necessity of reaching difficult decisions in doubtful cases.

LIFE EXPECTANCY

"Babies born today can expect to live about 20 years longer than those of 50 years ago."

That is a statement in an advertisement sponsored by the life insurance companies in Canada.

If you are a grandfather, it does that mean that your grandson is likely to live twenty years longer than you do?

By no means. For, having reached the age of fifty, you have passed some of the danger points in life's journey, notably those in the first few months of life. The greatest reduction in infant mortality has been one of the reasons for the increase in life expectancy. However, while the average age at which death will come has been raised by 20 years in the last half century, that does not mean that every new-born baby has a life expectancy which is longer than that of every adult. Obviously a centenarian has a long lead on a new-born babe and is likely to die at a greater age than the average age at death of today's crop of infants.

These life expectancy statistics, as the average man tends to interpret them, are the stuff of which dreams are made.

Life insurance companies find them useful. Dealing with a mass of statistics, their experts can exhibit a skill which is almost uncanny in predicting future life expectancy trends. But no mathematical skills can accurately predict the future. Life expectancy tables would have to be sharply revised tomorrow if somebody discovered a cure for cancer—or if somebody else started scattering hydrogen bombs.

MR. DUDLEY AND THE RUSSIANS

We do not know where George Dudley, secretary-manager of the Canadian Amateur Athletic Association, gets his information about conditions in Russia. It does seem to us, though, that Mr. Dudley has either said too much or too little.

Russian teams such as the 1954 world hockey champions, the Moscow Dynamos, "can feel the cold blast of Siberia on their necks if they do not win," Mr. Dudley told the 36th annual banquet of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association.

He said that Russian athletes "know that to fail to produce a winner will probably mean never being heard of again."

Now Mr. Dudley is either talking through a particularly musty piece of headgear or he has invaluable information on the state of affairs inside the Soviet Union.

It is not very obvious that the dictator and company purge athletes whenever they lose they are going to find it increasingly difficult to produce a winning team, since no one could draw on the services of past losers.

Under these circumstances, we ought to endeavor in every manner to increase the number of our athletic competitions with the Russians. Within a few years, we might put quite a dent in the hole in Russia's manpower sources, vast though these are.

We have some doubts regarding the accuracy of Mr. Dudley's information. For instance, Russia's No. 2 chess player, David Bronstein, lost a match to a teen-age British schoolboy a year ago, but was permitted to leave his abode, (surely in deepest Siberia), to compete against a U.S. team at Moscow.

But maybe the Russians treat chess players differently from athletes and adopt a more lenient attitude in regard to their defeats.

Perhaps that is the explanation for the popularity of chess players in the Soviet Union.

ON BOOK HUNTING

There is nothing in this world quite so rich in its gift to the mind as a book hunt. Once you've got some your friends they remain so throughout life. Next to a human friend is a book. Many is the secret book was once a breathing man or woman.

For thirty years I have been a modest collector of books—those which most interested my taste. In my home and office they are about me on shelf after shelf. I look upon them all as my silent friends. From my reading and from my friends who love books at 60, I keep learning of new books and am thus enriched.

I have found it fun to take one author and read and collect all that I could come across, especially of the first editions of such an author. Many are extremely rare, for it has often taken years for a writer to be widely read and treasured. And so, many years of my own life have been spent in book hunting, through catalogues and second-hand book shops in many and many a city.

You get a real thrill out of the discovery of a book that you have been looking for a long time. It may turn up in a collection at auction, or in a catalogue, or perhaps it took a long step upon a shelf, or in the vault, of some rare book dealer! The late Mitchell Kennerley once wrote a most interesting booklet about his "Ten-Cent Library," gathered from book shops, and every one of them a literary treasure that once sold for far more.

You never know when you are going to uncover a great literary find lying book in these second-hand book shops. I once bought a book on New York Sun editorials which contained that famous editorial in reply to a child from a little girl in Virginia, entitled "Is There a Santa Claus?" I think all it cost was a dollar. A friend told me about a book by George Barr McCutcheon and I went to a book shop where there it was—waiting for me! You can set a groom yourself into to book hunter!

Pencil 400 Years Old

(New York Times)

Another school season is underway, and another group of young Americans are about to learn the virtures of the lead pencil, which gets its name from the lead it uses. The lowly lead pencil, that is, for we take it so much for granted that its praises are rarely sounded, let alone shouted. Yet it is difficult to conceive of a world without pencils—the post with pencil poised, ever ready to jot down the inspiration that it forms on his lips, lest it flee as quickly as it came; the dentist in his location, scribbling, computing, jotting down the mysterious letters until the earth-shaking formula makes itself clear. Surely the world must owe much of its wealth to the keen competition of such mechanical devices as the fountain pen and the typewriter, if the lead pencil remains our number one weapon. Nearly a billion and a half of them are bought in this country each year, a trade indeed ten to the man, woman and child. Yet, like the plain people of the earth, most of their work go quietly they are hardly ever noticed.

This is an anniversary year for the lead pencil. While the crude ancestor of today's smoothly rounded model is said to have been made in Nuremberg, Germany, actually its birth can legitimately be claimed only 400 years later, in 1554, just 400 years ago. In that year the world's first graphite mine was discovered in Borrowdale, England. Thus was born the lead pencil. Strictly speaking, its name has no lead, graphite being its chief ingredient from that day to this. Nobody has it, incidentally, that the discovery of graphite was a historical one. A hurricane that ripped across the British Isles in 1554 uprooted a tremendous tree in Borrowdale. When the winds had subsided and the townsfolk came to see what some black matter at the roots of the fallen tree had rubbed off on the clothing. He broke off a piece, and found that he could make permanent marks on paper. Over the years, we appraise the effects of Carol and Edna, it should be noted, graphite has left traces even a hurricane's cloud can have a silver lining.

The youngster now starting out on the road that leads to wisdom will find a lead pencil a handy tool no matter in which direction he travels. For the lead pencil has kept pace with the march of progress. Today there are several hundred different varieties, many of them geared to special uses. Pencils are made today that can write diagonally on lined paper, photograph, porcelain, cutlery, plastics, movie film. Surgeons use a pencil to describe the incision the operation area on the human anatomy, and packing plants use one that writes identification numbers on sides of beef. Another one allows us to identify the products of the garden without recourse to the seed packet; all that need be done it to attach a tag marked with this moisture-resistant pencil to the plant, and mark it retains visibility despite the elements. Nearly everyone agrees that a new touch pencil that will take a needle point. The Japanese now use a pencil that can write on glass; the Germans have a pencil that will find precedent for his ambition. Champlain, the French explorer who visited Europe many fine pencil sketches he had made on the New World. Somehow, intent, and these were invaluable guides for those who followed his trail. The artist of the "Star Spangled Banner" was hastily writing the words of Francis Scott Key on the back of an envelope during the nightlong bombardment of Fort McHenry and finished next morning as he was being released from a British ship. Abraham Lincoln used a lead pencil in his earliest version of his Gettysburg address. When young George Washington surveyed the Shenandoah and Potomac Rivers he noted his findings with a three-inch pencil that today is a highly prized display in public for the first time at the Centennial Exposition in 1876.

Lead pencils are used today to write indelible checks, solve the crossword puzzles and racing sheets, write symphonies, and to draw the most beautiful doodles. And he who would change the world, from the days with lead pencil will find precedent for his ambition. ## Time Dairymen Began to Fight

(Ottawa Farm Journal)

Last week in Ottawa a very able and well-intentioned lady who is president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, and a dairy meeting the way to sell more butter and meet the competition of margarine, made two speeches. In one she urged producers to produce cheaper butter, and in the other, if it was priced right. This week the Toronto Globe and Mail and Empire, and other city papers, as the sure way of getting farmers beneath the problems of surpluses.

Now we have no quarrel with the lady. We have met her several times, quite evidently she was sincere in her views and her interest was an obvious answer to the major problem of the dairy industry—how to get rid of the big surplus products. We do have a bone to pick with a certain city editor who repeats such ideas as fact; he should know better. We also must take issue with a story ago this same Consumers' Association spokesman was helping Canadian textile industry in a further impost on British imports.

Our quarrel is with those dairy groups who are silent while things are being done to them, who do not fight back with facts.

And the facts are these: to help prevent dumping the textile industry has made a case for Canadian wages and conditions which has quite evidently found a degree of acceptance. And it was not supported by a great deal of resentment, which is what so many dairymen feel.

This bland assumption that Canadian dairy farmers can compete in selling prices of their products at will to meet the competition of cheap labor abroad, quotes is something that has to be met. It isn't answered with repeatedly sound it will be accepted as fact. We have yet to meet any dairy farmer, a city lawyer, is really fighting mad over the whole thing. It isn't. It is time dairymen act profitable and part of the farmer's burden.

Yet nobody we have heard talk, nor nothing we have read on the subject seems to have any answer but one in regard to any other product. The list of manufactured products to import and produce which would sell here cheaper than Canadian manufactured counterparts would fill a book. There is no move to reduce farmers' costs by importing farm products free of duty. Of course not, it would be unthinkable because of loss of cause wage reductions.

But when it comes to food, and dairy products in particular, it's a cow of a different color. It is time that Canadian dairymen can produce milk at less than $2 a hundredweight. Why not? Given many cows, including young stuff, the man-hours, feed and capital it takes to earn that $2.

The plain fact is that consumers have been allowed to think in terms of dairy products at what is a sacred cow—everything else can be produced under unfair and cheap competition but not the Canadian dairyman. He is just the villain of the piece with his products, with cheap labor, and do it without benefit of tariff, while tariff. Isn't it about time somebody started to howl and fight?

Finds Rest Is Bad Habit

(Indianapolis Star)

It would be interesting to know how many people fell out of their hammocks during the night as Detroit doctor's advice that rest can be habit forming, if prolonged. There are good habits, of course, that we are urged to cultivate—brushing the teeth, wearing corrected rest, within reason, among them.

But the disturbing feature of the doctor's storm warning is the fact that the number of industrialists psychological changes were increasing before the depression overindulge. Their blood volume declined, their mechanisms for handling emotional stimulation while standing erect deteriorated, and their personalities changed. This is serious.

In this mood it almost seems that prosperity may be the textile industry has made a case for Canadian wages and conditions which has quite evidently found a degree of acceptance. And it was not supported by a great deal of resentment, which is what so many dairymen feel.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

HOW TO HAVE YOUR TEETH

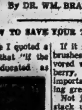
"In a recent talk here I quoted a dentist who believes that "if the masses were fairly educated in the development, preservation, value and care of their teeth from infancy to old age, at least 90 per cent of their physical ailments would be prevented."



I'd go along with it as far as anybody, but offhand I think it would take considerable nudging and shoving to make me go as far as the dentist does.

A lot of poor geeks have the notion that if the teeth give much trouble it's just as well to have them pulled and plates or other dentures installed, provided this doesn't cost too much. This, too, is the dentist's observation but I substituted "poor geeks" for dentist's "people's."

A "geek" in my lexicon is a person who is ignorant and doesn't know it.

The dentist who believes better care of the teeth would prevent most of the physical ailments of the people did not specify what better care means.

In the first place, it is necessary, scraping, removal of tartar or other deposits, and polishing by the dentist is the one way teeth can be cleaned, and you can't keep your teeth clean without such professional care.

Mind, children, I do not say that dentists are honorable in any way, if you like meaning the contrary. I merely don't it has nothing whatever to do with preventing tooth decay.

If it means messing with tooth-brushes and glorified soap flakes and with mint or cherry-berry, I haven't time to listen to important confessions on the lowering green.

Not just because I'm dirty—I'll stack up my teeth and my dentist's against those of anyone of my age at any time, so far as general cleanliness goes—but simply because I have observed that the toothbrushingest people in the world have the poorest teeth, the most decay. On the other hand the people who have the finest teeth in the world, the least decay, have no toothbrushes or soap in pretty packages. You know—the people of Tristan da Cunha.

If care of the teeth means periodic inspection of the teeth by the dentist and a proper treatment the dentist finds necessary, I'll buy it.

The truth is that, when it is necessary, scraping, removal of tartar or other deposits, and polishing by the dentist is the one way teeth can be cleaned, and you can't keep your teeth clean without such professional care.

Mind, children, I do not say that dentists are honorable in any way, if you like meaning the contrary. I merely don't it has nothing whatever to do with preventing tooth decay.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

WAITING

One of the things about which the British complained—and joked, too—most during the last war was waiting. Half of their humorous cartoons in those days seemed to turn on something having to stand in line for something. There were other kinds of waiting, of course, for the invasion which fortunately never came; waiting for bombers to cross a certain line which never all too often.

Much of life is made up of waiting—and much of the hardest part of it, too. Veterans of combat will tell you that the action, when finally comes, is not the bad part. Man's psyche is not meant for that, is, and they acquit themselves well. It is the waiting that tears at their morale.

Quite apart from war, there are millions of ordinary, peaceful people spending their days waiting for something. Some have come to on cheerfully through poverty or distress with their eye on better days to come. Others have worried themselves for a blow which they knew must fall.

If you are one who must wait, I would say this to you. Take courage. Keep your wits at its steepest now. When you get to the top, whatever it is, you won't still be behind you. You will find joy ahead, or if not, will be given strength to meet your needs. Be of good cheer!

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Despite all the modern aids to good housekeeping, there are still good housekeepers and bad housekeepers. Into our home the other day came a woman demonstrating a new liquid for cleaning upholstery fabrics, carpets and curtains. It was exciting, so we left her in for a cup of tea. What she had to say about housekeeping was amusing and shrewd.

"Laziness," she said, "is the main reason for poor housekeeping. Just plain laziness. There are enough exceptions, of course, to prove the rule—illness, poor eyesight, and that sort of thing. But in my business, I go into a great many homes, and you can begin to form opinions after a while. You get to know types. There is the slow, lazy type and the fast type.

"The slow lazy type just can't be bothered. They answer the door after a long wait. They open it only a crack. They are untidy, whether morning or afternoon, and what you can see through that crack of the door is untidy too. They certainly aren't the ones cleaning fluid. It means work.

"The fast lazy type are those who look to be in a tizzy all the time. They never get anything done because they never catch up on what they are too lazy to have done in the first place. A lazy person is always behind in cooking a system, a plan or program of housekeeping duties doesn't interest her much with their laziness. So they work in fits and starts. Frantically to get ready for certain chores before something serious happens, like their husband getting home for supper. They open their doors wide, and they might even buy a vacuum cleaner, but they're no use because for sitting lazy for a little while.

"They wouldn't give you a cup of tea, would they!" we asked, startled.

"Then, there are the slow, busy types," replied the saleslady. "The quiet, slow ones that are always ahead of their work. And the little fast ones that never get ahead, but like jewel-boxes. It doesn't matter whether they have no children, or two children or six. Either type, they are workers, and well ahead of their work.

"Have another cup of tea," we invited.

Common Cold Uncovered

(Montreal Gazette)

For 40 years science has sought the cure for the common cold. With chill breezes blowing, a new cold season fast approaching, the Common Cold Research group, a American research group, has issued some facts and hoarfrost to date. The facts are almost entirely negative.

Nobody has managed to isolate the virus of the common cold as yet. There is no cure for the common cold. The foundation offers some encouragement in this negative precaution, which many do not always take.

The enormity of the need for cure or cold prevention is best emphasized in those figures: colds cause 27 per cent of the U.S. total of absenteeism at a cost of $2 billion in wages each year.

Those who have the sniffles already can at least be assured that they have no serious illness.

If it means messing with tooth-brushes and glorified soap flakes and with mint or cherry-berry, I haven't time to listen to important confessions on the lowering green.

Not just because I'm dirty—I'll stack up my teeth and my dentist's against those of anyone of my age at any time, so far as general cleanliness goes—but simply because I have observed that the toothbrushingest people in the world have the poorest teeth, the most decay. # New Method of Diagnosing Polio to Lead to New Treatment

TORONTO (CP)—A quick, new method of diagnosing polio developed by researchers at the Hospital for Sick Children here may reveal previously unknown viruses and lead to new treatment methods.

Use of the technique would affect polio vaccines by showing virus diseases which could be included in preventative doses.

Until recently the only method of positively diagnosing polio was to inject the virus from a patient into a monkey. If the monkey developed polio, the patient had the disease. But monkeys were costly and the method was slow.

The hospital, in collaboration with the Connaught Medical Research Laboratories of the University of Toronto, developed a method by which kidney tissue of monkeys was kept alive in a solution. When infected with the virus, results on the tissue were similar to those in a monkey.

The laboratories used the system to produce large quantities of virus for use in the Salk vaccine, now being tested widely throughout the United States. The hospital's research institute used the system for diagnosis study.

SLOW PROCESS

It was still a slow process. Microscopic examination of the spinal fluid of a patient could show high blood count, evidence of some virus infection. Virus from infected (bowel excretion) then was used on the tissue and this led to some puzzling and interesting conclusions.

It showed that some paralysis cases did not have polio, that some apparently polio cases were not polio and that many polio cases did not become paralytic.

The major problem was to speed the process. Clumps of tissue appeared to fight the infection. Researchers discovered that use of an enzyme could reduce clumps of tissue to masses of individual, isolated body cells. When these were kept alive in the solution and virus added they succumbed quickly.

Of the first 100 cases—all supposedly polio—15 were not the disease, three were previously unknown virus types and 12 are still a mystery. The hospital now is giving diagnoses within three days of receipt of the virus-infected stool of patients.

Left-Wingers In Labor Congress Get Drubbing

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Left-wingers in the Canadian Congress of Labor Tuesday got their annual drubbing at the CCL's convention.

Communist - supported proposals were batted down right and left by a big majority of the 850 delegates in a day of political operations that also saw the CCL decide to renew its ties with the CCF party on the political front.

Major anti-Red action was the decision of the 400,000 - member Congress to continue its support of the Communist-fighting International Confederation of Free Trade Unions, a move that was taken over the protests of leftists in a shouting debate.

THREW IT OUT

As a follow-up to that step, the congress threw out a left-wing resolution that called for the CCL to send delegates to a forthcoming conference of the Moscow-dominated World Federation of Trade Unions.

Leftists also led the opposition to the CCL renewing its long-standing political association with the CCF party—which the Congress calls the "political arm of labor"—but again they were swamped by a top-heavy majority of delegates.

OTHER DEVELOPMENTS

In other actions Tuesday, the Congress:

1. Adopted a resolution deploring "anti-labor" legislation in Quebec.

2. Decided against setting up a labor newspaper.

3. Took a stand against night openings of retail stores.

4. Adopted a resolution calling on the federal government to abolish the Senate.

5. Defeated a recommendation of its resolutions committee calling for non-concurrence in a resolution asking for the elimination of capital punishment.

6. Turned down a resolution demanding compulsory military training.

7. Expressed opposition to the granting of court injunctions in labor-management disputes.

8. Decided to press for the 40-hour week for federal employees.

ARREST MORE REDS

TEHRAN, Iran (Reuters)—Military authorities today were reported to have arrested 33 engineers at the huge Abadan oil refinery as members of the outlawed Communist Tudeh party. Two weeks ago Iranian security forces arrested more than 400 persons, including army officers, technicians and administrators as members of a Russian spy ring.

APPROVE TURNPIKE

DETROIT (CP) — Michigan's first modern toll road, costing $185,000,000, was approved Tuesday by the Michigan turnpike authority. The road, scheduled for completion in 1957, will be 115 miles long. It will go from Rockwood to Saginaw.

Experiment Shows Atomic Weapons Mean Difference

By RON EVANS

SOEST, Germany (CP)—The 1st Canadian Infantry Brigade group, though the smallest national force engaged in "Battle Royal," appears to have provided one of the clearest lessons of the six-day exercises.

The Canadians, cast in the role of a vastly-outnumbered defending force, showed that atomic weapons could mean the difference between survival and destruction.

The 5,500-man brigade was called on to hold against an enemy force almost six times it size. It succeeded through the use of atomic shells and bombs.

Brig. W. A. B. Anderson told reporters at his advance camp that use of atomic weapons on the Canadian front had proved an almost unqualified success.

TURNED TRICK

"It turned the trick beautifully," the Montreal-born Canadian commander said.

Gen. Sir Richard Gale, commander in chief of British troops in Germany, said that despite the strategic influence of atomic weapons, the West still needs powerful, well-trained ground forces.

Summing up results of a week's mock atomic war in North Germany in which nearly 140,000 Allied forces participated, Gale told a press conference at Sennelager, Germany, that ground forces would not fight merely to protect themselves or to hold ground for the sake of holding it, but to keep an enemy from overrunning vital installations such as airfields.

He said that "Battle Royal" had shown that in a defensive battle such as the one fought this week atomic weapons could be decisive. A reorganization of armies to meet the needs of atomic war was under study.

URGES COMMISSION

WINDSOR (CP)—Mayor Arthur Reaume Tuesday urged an international Detroit - Windsor harbor commission to "reap maximum benefits" from the St. Lawrence seaway. He said the city should take "immediate action" to establish the joint commission, and operate the Detroit-Windsor area

Mr. Frank Dootzaer of Shannonville, is a patient in Belleville General Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. May, Cherry Gardens, have just returned from a motor trip to the Pacific Coast and Oregon, where they visited their son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. May, Junior, in Portland. They also visited their daughter and her husband, the Rev. and Mrs. Lloyd Holloway, of Klamath Falls, Oregon.

CANADIAN HOSPITALITY

Mrs. W. P. Youdale, Foster Avenue, was recently visited by her eldest sister, Mrs. C. Huntingdon of the English Lakes District, while en route to spend some time with her married son in Scarborough, Ontario.

Mrs. Huntingdon was entertained by several ladies of the neighborhood, and expressed keen appreciation of Canadian hospitality and friendliness.

Weddings

McKENNY—WEBER

St. Killian's Church, Ardoch, Ontario, was the scene of a late summer wedding recently when Marion Phyllis Weber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Weber, was united in marriage to Leo John McKenny, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent McKenny, Read, Ontario. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father Ferguson.

The wedding music was provided by Rev. Father La Marsh, Stirling, while Misses Mary and Helen McKenny and Mr. Harold Walsh were soloists.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white satin with full skirt and train. Lace medallions trimmed with lace sleeves tapering to points over the wrists. Her fingertip veil was of embroidered nylon tulle which fell from a crown of imitation pearls. She carried a cascade of red roses and stephanotis.

Miss Eileen Murphy, Kingston, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, wearing a floor length sheath, with lace inserts in skirt, and matching lace jacket. She wore a white lace hat and carried a nosegay of tiny pink roses and yellow mums.

The bride's cousin, Miss Dolores Schonauer, of Ardoch, acted as flower girl, wearing in her dress of pink nylon net over taffeta with matching lace jacket and carrying a basket of mixed summer flowers.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Mr. James McKenny, of Read, and the ushers were, Mr. Lorne McKenny, of Oshawa, and Mr. Gerald Tuepah, of Kingston.

A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents, where Mrs. Weber received the guests wearing a gown of blue nylon with navy accessories and pink rose corsage. The bridegroom's mother assisted, wearing a mauve crepe gown with black accessories and yellow rose corsage.

For the wedding trip to Montreal and Ste. Anne de Beaupre, the bride wore a red gabardine suit with black accessories, and corsage of white baby mums.

They will reside in Pirvea, Ont.

LETMAN—HALLING

Of interest is the recent marriage of Miss Dorothy Halling, daughter of Mrs. F. J. Halling, of Chiswick, London, England, and Mr. Victor Leslie Letman, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Letman, of Belleville, which took place in Gunnersbury Congregational Church in England. The Rev. H. Lansdowne West performed the ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Herbert Halling. She wore a floor length gown of white de-lustered satin, fashioned in princess style, with lace yolk and long sleeves. A coronet of orange blossoms held in place her waist length veil and she carried white roses, stephanotis and lily-of-the-valley.

Miss Mary Kinsley was bridesmaid, in a ballerina gown of cerise net over taffeta.

Best man was Mr. Allan Clark of Chiswick and the ushers were Mr. Ron Austin and Mr. Jon Faux.

A reception was held in the Duke of Sussex Hotel, London, where the bride's mother received the guests wearing navy blue nylon. The bridegroom's mother was unable to attend.

HOLDEN—EASTON

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Belleville, was the scene of a lovely late summer wedding on Saturday, September 11th, at 2.30 p.m., when Phyllis Dawn Easton, of Belleville, R.R. 2, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Easton, became the bride of Orval Charles Holden, of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Holden of West Huntingdon, Ontario. The Rev. J. Goforth Hornsby, pastor of the church, officiated before a background of multicolored gladioli, and ferns. White satin bows designated the guest pews.

Mr. Egerton Boyce, church organist, rendered the traditional wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Miss Loretta McDougall, of Belleville, who sang before the ceremony, "The Lord's Prayer," and "O Perfect Love," during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. William Easton, the bride was radiant in her bridal gown of white nylon net, Chantilly lace and satin fashioned with fitted net bodice over satin with Chantilly lace jacket with Peter Pan collar and molded sleeves ending in "V" points over the hands. Her double veil of silk tulle illusion was held by an Elizabethan headdress of nylon net, accented with banded satin trim and seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of American Beauty roses tied with satin streamers.

She was attended by her aunt, Mrs. Percy Gryce, of Belleville, R.R. 2, as matron of honor, attired in lilac green lace and nylon net in ankle length, featuring a strapless bodice, and matching jacket with Peter Pan collar and short sleeves, the full skirt was enhanced by double layers of net over taffeta with simulated yoke banded by triple rows of satin ribbon. She wore matching mitts and halo headdress, and carried a bouquet of mixed summer flowers.

Miss Ruth Brady, of Stirling, and Miss Gloria Easton, of Belleville, R.R. 2, sister of the bride, were bridesmaids; the former in shrimp color, with fitted, strapless bodice, having a short sleeved bolero, and full, ankle-length skirt with deep flounce of nylon net over taffeta. She wore matching mitts, and halo, and carried a bouquet of mixed flowers. The latter was in mauve net over taffeta with strapless bodice and matching bolero with Peter Pan collar and short sleeves; the full, ankle-length skirt was also banded by triple rows of satin ribbon forming a yoke effect. She wore matching mitts and halo headdress, and carried a similar bouquet of mixed flowers.

Little Bonnie Gay, of Glen Miller, cousin of the bride, was served in her knee-length frock of yellow nylon net over taffeta with floral headdress of brown-eyed Susans, and carried a half basket of mauve and yellow mums.

Messrs. Norris Easton, of Belleville, R.R. 2, brother of the bride, and Carl Holden of West Huntingdon, brother of the bridegroom, acted as groomsmen, while the ushers were, Messrs. Ralph Tripp, of Bloomfield, and Ray Clarke, of Belleville.

The reception, was held in the church parlors, where the bride's mother received the guests, assisted in brown lace-net taffeta with navy accessories and yellow rose corsage, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore navy sheer with navy accessories and red rose corsage.

For the wedding trip by motor to Niagara Falls, and around Lake Ontario, the bride chose a navy suit with navy and red accessories and red rose corsage.

Guests were present from Stirling, Carrying Place, Ottawa, Batawa, West Huntingdon, Harold, Glen Miller and Hallowy.

Mr. and Mrs. Holden are residing in Belleville, R.R. 2.

CENTENARY W.A., W.M.S.

CENTENARY—Mrs. Roy Thrasher was hostess for the September Sixteenth meeting of the Centenary W.A. and W.M.S. President, Mrs. Harold Hancock, was in charge of the W.M.S., the theme being "A Nation Redeemed God."

The treasurer's report showed $91.35 realized towards the stained glass window which is $175. The Mission Circle and Mission Band met with the Ardoch band.

Discussions followed concerning obtaining an assistant for the superintendent of the Mission Band, but no offers were forthcoming. It was decided, after some discussion that the W.M.S. purchase a study book for the Mission Band and an extra copy for the W.M.S. A special collection will be taken at the October meeting for missionaries Vera and Blythe Lehmann.

It was announced that the Belleville Presbyterial rally is to be held in Bridge Street United Church on October 28 when one of the guest speakers will be missionary Mrs. Masih, of India, who attended Ray Comfort Council of Churches held recently in Evanston, Illinois.

Mrs. Roy Thrasher was in charge of the study book "The Church in India," with the assistance of Mrs. Fred Aikens and Mrs. Reg. Edmondson.

Mrs. E. Hart presided over the W.A. portion of the meeting and opened with the theme, followed by the president's Prayer. In the absence of press reporter, Mrs. Orval May, Mrs. Colin Bain took down the minutes of the meeting.

"Thank-you" cards were sent by Mrs. Keith Sills and Mrs. Lloyd Pearson, and "thank-you" notes, for cards of sympathy, were sent by Mrs. Harry Fisher and Mrs. Orval May. A letter was read asking for Mrs. Thrasher for Korea, and it was decided to give $10 for same.

Four members contributed to the birthday box.

Mrs. R. Hart was in charge of the devotional, the theme concerning "Faith". Readings were given by Mrs. R. Hart and Mrs. L. Hall, and the closing prayer was given by Mrs. Hart.

Mrs. Thrasher and helpers served refreshments, and a social time was spent.

I'T MISSION CIRCLE

Mrs. Percy Sutherland was hostess for the September 20th meeting of the Centenary I T's Mission Circle, with the president, Mrs. Orval May in charge.

Harvest thank-offering envelopes for the October meeting were then passed out.

It was decided hereafter, to commence the meetings promptly at 8 p.m., finishing by 10 p.m., and that any late comers pay a fine of ten cents. The president read a letter received from Mrs. Lyall Hicks of Cherry Valley, secretary of Mission Circles for the Belleville Presbyterial and it was decided to dispense with the regular rally this year, and attend the evening session of the W.M.S. public rally on October 28 as a group.

Since no one had found a suitable play that the Circle could present to the general public, it was decided that the correspondent, secretary, Mrs. Ralph Loney, write to Mrs. R. M. McMullen and obtain the two books shown at the conference at Whitby, each containing a play based on India.

The president gave a report concerning the W.M.S. "School for Leaders" held at the Ontario Ladies' College, Whitby, also the highlights of the magnificent address given by Dr. Winnifred Bryce of India, who was thanked by the advance president, Mrs. William Slavin.

The meeting was then turned over to group leader, Mrs. Ralph Loney. Mrs. Slavin gave the introduction to the new study book, "Face to Face With India". The theme for the worship service was "A Nation Before God", and the Scripture reading Luke 10:38-42 was read by Mrs. May. Elaine Bain was the member representing India, and Mrs. Bain represented Canada. Program one was followed with Mrs. Loney, Elaine Bain and Mrs. May taking part.

The hostess and helpers served bountiful refreshments.

A vote of thanks to Mrs. Sutherland for her hospitality was given by the Rev. M. W. T. Middleton on behalf of those present.

If You've Never Used MILK OF MAGNESIA

you owe it to yourself and family to read this!

Medical Facts Prove No Ordinary Laxative In The World Gives Such Complete Relief As MILK OF MAGNESIA!

Milk of Magnesia is more than a laxative! That's why it does more for you—brings you better relief.

It's an established medical fact that when you're suffering from constipation, acid indigestion is frequently present, too. Yes—acid indigestion—a condition that requires relief, but which no simple laxative can even begin to relieve.

What Is A Laxative?

As your own doctor can tell you, a laxative is a mild cathartic used to cleanse the system of wastes.

Now, note that a laxative is not an antacid. It's simply a mild cathartic. And that's why it has no effect whatever on acidity . . . why it brings you only partial relief when taken for constipation and accompanying acid indigestion.

But there's no need for you to be satisfied with partial relief. For Milk of Magnesia gives you better relief—more complete relief—than any ordinary laxative.

Why Milk of Magnesia Is Better!

Milk of Magnesia does more for you because it's more than a laxative. It's an antacid, too. As a result, it not only relieves constipation, but accompanying acid indigestion as well.

You—and Milk of Magnesia also gives you wonderfully gentle relief. And it can be taken without fear of embarrassing urgency, because it works leisurely. When necessary, take two to four tablespoonfuls with water at bedtime. After a good night's sleep, you'll wake up the next morning to the kind of relief that will help you start your day feeling fine.

When you buy, ask for Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It's the best laxative-antacid money can buy.

"I'm the fellow who couldn't save a nickel..."

"My bank book was flatter than a sliced dime. I couldn't go anywhere, do anything, or buy much that took a lot of cash."

"Then I came upon a PSP booklet, on the counter at The Bank of Nova Scotia. It looked good. Had a word about it with folk at the Bank. PSP's turned out to be just the kind of plan that might do a little miracle for my wife and me."

"What I like about PSP is that it forces me to save. I signed a contract pledging myself to put a small monthly instalment into my PSP account. I'm not going to touch that PSP money. It's there to pile up for 10 months until I reach the savings-goal I've chosen."

"I can get the money anytime, but what's keeping me sold on the PSP rules is the guarantee that if I were to die suddenly—I'm not planning on it, mind you—my wife would get the full amount of my savings-goal. Even if if I had only put in a fraction of it. She'd get everything I would have saved at the end of 50 months."

"It's the most painless way to save—and get interest—I know of. You should see my bank book now."

Bringing Up Baby

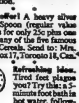
Data Collected by Mrs. Gordon Gibson
October of 53

Certainly persistent hood is a most serious business. But there's no reason to be completely solemn about it. Don't take the job so seriously that you forget to enjoy it. Your baby needs to be played with and encouraged to make new efforts. However, try to use good judgement in the times you select for play. Points to remember: It is best not to get baby overly interested in play when he comes or after mealtime . . . and the hour before bedtime should not be exciting or too stimulating.

Daily do. Vitamin C, so important for healthy gums and body tissues is found in the "fleeting" vitamin. That is to say, it cannot be stored in the body, so babies (and adults) should have a fresh supply every day. Once a day



Strained Orange Juice . . . processed just for babies . . . fills the bill for vitamin C beautifully. Made from tree-ripened oranges, specially selected for high vitamin C content and mild natural flavor. Processed for minimum peel oil and cost so it's convenient and easy to digest—pasteurized for baby's protection.

Baby Spoon-offer. A heavy silver plated Baby Spoon (regular value $1.25) is yours for only 25c plus one box top from any five Strained Gerber Baby Cereals. Send to: Mrs. Dan Gerber, Box 171, Toronto 14, Can.*

Refreshing Idea. Tired feet plagues you? Try this: a 5-minute foot bath in hot water, followed by 5 minutes in cool water. Dry well and apply a splash of cologne.

Smart-fry luncheon suggestion:
CREAM OF CHICKEN & PEA SOUP

½ container Gerber's Strained Peas
Salt ½ cup whole milk
Combine ingredients. Heat and serve. Yield: 1 large or 2 small servings. Gerber's Baby Foods, Niagara Falls, Canada.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

HIS WIFE DOESN'T LOVE HIM — WHAT CAN HE DO?

"My wife and I have been married 13 years," writes a man of 39, whose wife is 31, and who goes on to say: "Of those 13 years, I spent the time from 1941 to 1945 in service. In the end, I received a medical discharge.

"If love my wife very much, and do anything and everything for her, but now she tells me she doesn't love me, and I am desperate.

"Can you tell me what to do?"

I wonder if this husband has ever given any serious thought to the fact that he, at 26, married an 18-year-old girl and then immediately left her for several years? It is difficult enough for a girl to have her husband away from her a long period, even after she has had time to adjust herself to married life. But for one who has had no time at all to feel at home in the role of a wife it is far harder thing, particularly in the case of a girl still in her teens.

Except in rare instances, marriage at 18 is very risky business, and, in addition to marrying at that age, this particular girl took for a husband, not a chap in her own general age group, but a young man eight years older. Then he had to go off and leave her. What has happened, therefore, was almost inevitable.

Let's take a look at the reasons.

Once she was married, and then immediately left alone, this girl found herself in a new and bewildering situation. Gazing ahead at the long period of her husband's absence, the future no doubt looked very dark to her. She could not busy herself with making a home for her husband, like most young brides; there would be no more dates with boys; she could not go back into the freedom other teen-agers enjoy. All she could do, as she saw it, must be to sit around for years while other girls her age were having fun.

As time went on, the fact of her marriage probably became almost unreal to her, for there was little in her life to make it real, perhaps, except the letters she got from her husband. Resident all this, he was nearing 30. How could he possibly understand what she, as a teen-ager, was going through? It is very likely that, right there and then, in those first early days of her unreal marriage, she began drifting away from her husband, and, at last, found she had drifted far beyond reach.

Then, too, there is the matter of her husband's medical discharge. He does not reveal the nature of his disability. Could he have acquired some serious handicap to which his wife might find it hard to adjust herself and which, added to the drifting away, has finally made her feel their life together has become impossible?

What this man will do now depends entirely. I would say, on whether or not his wife has any real desire to try and work the problem out with him. If she doesn't, then I'm afraid there is not much hope. But if she has enough feeling for him left, so that she would be willing to seek a way of life with him which would be satisfactory and happy to both of them, then I think they should go together to a qualified marriage counselor and talk the whole problem over in detail.

ACCENT ON COSTUME

Pins and brooches are won in exciting new ways. As punctuation marks on a sleeve, accents to an extended waistline or focal points of a plunge neckline, they take increased costume significance.

Golden Harvest Dinner

By Mary Moore

Some extra work which had to be written to a deadline was crowding all thoughts of meals for my family out of my mind.

But again we were lucky. Just in time a nice lady in the neighborhood and invited us to dinner at their house. Saved by the phone bell.

But she's the kind of a sister that not only goes the second mile, she goes the third mile too. I was so enthusiastic about her dinner that I wanted permission to write to you people about it. But her answer was "Would you like me to write it up?" Never one to turn down an offer of help I shouted "I certainly would!"

BY FEADY

Our family, as you may have gathered, are cheese enthusiasts. Now, as sometimes happens with such folks, we acquire a surplus of one cheese variety or another and then have to think of ways of using it before it becomes stale.

A good cheese souffle is a popular all-round solution—its delicious flavor pleases everybody, it is an economical protein dish (especially at this time of year when such an abundance of fresh vegetables is available to serve with it) and is a wonderful way of using up the ends of cheese which are no longer table-fresh. My recipe is an excellent one which stays puffed and perfect while you serve it.

Last evening we had what I called a"golden harvest" dinner. Here's the menu:

Cheese Souffle
Baked Pepper Squash
Golden Harvest Corn
Sliced Tomatoes
Peach Crisp Coffee

(Be sure to put the squash in the oven long before the souffle —because it must be tender to be popular.)

CHEESE SOUFFLE

This recipe serves four or five generously.

One-quarter cup each flour and butter, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon dry mustard, 1 1-2 cup milk 1-2 lb. bippy cheese (in small pieces), 6 eggs. Set oven at 300 deg. Fahr. (slow). In the top of a double boiler melt butter and gradually add flour, salt and mustard, stirring until smooth. Add milk and stir, cooking until mixture thickens. Add cheese and continue cooking until it is entirely melted and blended. Allow to cool slightly. Separate eggs and beat the yolks until light and lemon-colored. Add to cheese mixture and blend well. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry and fold into cheese sauce. Pour into large (12-cup) buttered baking dish and bake 1 to 1 1-4 hours. Serve immediately.

NOTE TO SOUFFLE EXPERTS:

You will see after you make this that by increasing the number of eggs, as this recipe does over the average souffle, and reducing the amount of milk, the temperamental quality of the souffle is eliminated—and it does stay puffed.

PEACH CRISP

Two cups sliced fresh peaches (well-packed), 3-4 cup brown sugar, 1-2 cup flour, 1 1-2 teaspoons cinnamon, 1-4 cup butter. Arrange peaches in shallow 8-inch dish. Blend sugar, flour, cinnamon and butter well and sprinkle over peaches. (This should be baked at 375 deg. Fahr. for 25 minutes, but if you baked it along with a souffle give it 1 hour at 300 deg. Fahr.) Serve hot or cold with top milk or pouring cream.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

CORRECT TO HAVE BOTH MATRON OF HONOR AND MAID OF HONOR

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I'm certainly confused about an arrangement I wanted to have for my wedding. My two sisters and I have always been particularly close; the oldest one is married, the youngest sister is single. I wanted to have them as my only attendants, matron of honor and maid of honor. No bridesmaids. I have been told that it is not correct to have both a matron of honor and a maid of honor, but indeed I have read this in two books about weddings. But still don't I remember that you have said in your column that quite often today there is both a matron of honor and a maid of honor, and that it is correct? — Rosemary B.

It is entirely correct to have both a matron of honor and a maid of honor. . . and it would be a correct and a very fine idea for you to have your sisters as matron of honor and maid of honor. (And to dramatize the closeness of you three sisters, to have no bridesmaids.) Even though some writers on weddings, as you say, don't give this idea of both matron and maid of honor their approval, I personally can see no reason why it is not correct. And as a matter of fact today it is strikingly noticeable in how very many of the best-planned weddings one sees both a matron of honor and a maid of honor!

GLOVES FOR EVENING. . . LONG OR SHORT?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My cousin insists that when gloves are called for with an evening dress, one should wear long gloves. I think that nowadays short gloves (for example, wrist-length or just-beyond-wrist-length while kid gloves) are just as correct as long gloves. Who is right? — Carol and Edna (but not The Hurricanes!)

(Cute signature. . .I'm glad you're not related to those other gals!) You're right. . .today either long gloves or short gloves are correct with evening dress. Of course long gloves do have an impressive feeling of "strict formality". . .but those short-short sheeries, white kid and sometimes with an attractive decoration of tiny pearls at the wrist-edge, are very smart, and certainly youthful looking.

SIGNING HER BUSINESS LETTERS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I write practically all my letters by typewriter. When I have finished a business letter, is it correct for me to type in parentheses my husband's name, and then in the space above that to sign my name Mrs., then first name, then last name? For example, the way I will sign this letter:

Sincerely yours,
Mrs. Margaret B. Smith
(Mrs. Henry B. Smith)

Answer: This is almost right. Just omit the "Mrs." in your signature. . .use title in signature, just your informal name. Like this:

Sincerely yours,
Margaret B. Smith
(Mrs. Henry B. Smith)

NOTE TO ACKNOWLEDGE ANNOUNCEMENT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

The husband of my husband's niece has just sent out a printed announcement of the opening of his office as a dentist. Does this call for any kind of acknowledgment? One of my husband's relatives thought she would plan to send flowers for the day mentioned for the opening of the office. Is this really necessary? — Alice M.

No, not at all necessary or expected that you and your husband send flowers. But it would be courteous for you or your husband to write a friendly little note of congratulations and best wishes. Naturally it isn't polite not to make any gracious acknowledgment of the announcement of such an important milestone in the life of someone we know.

MOST children draw pictures to illustrate a story they're inventing. Encourage Sister to tell you all about her Splendid Lion (which looks like a worm to you) without interpretation of any kind on your part. You run no risk of hurting her artistic feelings or stunting her delightful imagination.

Senator Pat McCarron Dies Suddenly After Giving Talk

HAWTHORNE, Nev. (AP)—Veteran Senator Pat McCarran of Nevada, a lone wolf Democrat who battled Liberal Democratic administrations during most of his 22 years in Washington, died Tuesday night after a vigorous speech aimed at strengthening his waning grip on state Democratic politics.

The 78-year-old politician, fourth in Senate seniority, collapsed with a heart attack as he walked down an aisle surrounded by well-wishers following a Democratic campaign rally in this western Nevada town.

Chatting and shaking hands, the white-haired McCarran suddenly fell to the floor of the Civic Centre. He was pronounced dead 30 minutes later.

McCarran's death was the ninth of a senator in this session of Congress. The Republicans now have 48 senators, the Democrats 46 and one is independent, Wayne Morse of Oregon.

UPHELD FRANCO

McCarran, a Franco supporter and co-author of the controversial Internal Security Act — the so-called McCarran-Walter Immigration Act—had a brief connection last year with the Canadian spy case of 1946.

In October, 1953, Igor Gouzenko, the former Soviet embassy code clerk who defected in Ottawa and led to the breaking of the Canadian spy ring, told a reporter for the Chicago Tribune that he could give useful advice to the United States Senate internal security subcommittee. Canada turned down the first Washington request that a committee interview Gouzenko, on the grounds that the Russian had no information which had not already been provided to the U.S. government.

Gouzenko himself confirmed this, telling the Royal Canadian Mounted Police that he had no new information.

However, Canada granted a second American request Nov. 25 with the proviso that it be under Canadian auspices and with Canadian screening of any information obtained.

HAD 'INTERVIEW'

McCarran and Senator William E. Jenner (Rep., Ind.), chairman of the security sub-committee, had a five-hour interview with Gouzenko in Quebec Jan. 4 this year. A transcript released later, from which only 23 words were deleted by Canadian authorities on the ground that it was impossible to prove any charges against persons named in the deleted sections, provided little information which had not been previously made public.

McCarran's immigration act was passed over the veto of President Truman. A storm of controversy swirled about the act, which barred Communists or Communist sympathizers from entering the U.S. It also revised quotas for immigrants.

Some senators attacked the legislation as discriminatory.

McCarran opposed Truman's efforts to open the door to displaced persons from southern and eastern Europe, and at the same time led the battle for recognition of Franco Spain.

UPHELD McCARTHY

Only Tuesday he attacked the Senate committee for recommending censure of Senator Joseph McCarthy, whom he strongly supported. McCarran labelled Senator Edwin C. Johnson (Dem. Colo.), a member of the committee, as prejudiced against the Wisconsin Republican senator.

McCarran's first battle with Franklin Delano Roosevelt flared when he opposed the president's Supreme Court reorganization. That, along with his strong isolationist policies, cost him Roosevelt's support when he ran for—and won—re-election in 1938.

The theme of the conference will be "Home and School on the March."

The president asked for some dish towels to be donated. Mrs. R. Frost, past president upon request explained the delay in the furnishing of the School grounds equipment.

The class attendance taken by Principal Prentice showed grandparents and parents of School in Mr. Watson's class to have the best representation.

He also emphasized the truth that the world does not owe you a living, but you owe it an honest effort to do an honest job. He commended the School Board for their efforts in equipping the School as it was and in conclusion told the parents that that the home was the most important member of the educational team.

On behalf of the association, he was thanked by Harold Olson.

Wellington on the Lake

THE CRICKET'S CALL

We had left the town behind us
On a soft September day,
Turned our faces to the country
Speeding o'er a ribboned way,
That allured and called and beckoned
Then
With new sights at every turn,
Till we reached a spot, whose freshness
Answered to our spirit's yearn.

Portals of a mellowed woodland
Bathed in soft September light,
And nearby the corn in tassel,
Golden-rod and sumach bright;
Not a sound to break the stillness,
Not a note of summer bird,
But from out the grassy thicket
Hark! a cricket's chirr is heard.

Music in the wilding places,
Voice when summer is no more,
Merry music, chirp and cheery,
In the bright, free out-of-doors;
You who dwell in town or city
Leave your gardens trim and neat,
Heed the calling of the cricket,
Tread the wilds with care-free feet.

For the cricket now is calling
Calling with persistent cry;
"Dream with us in woodland portals Era the autumn days drift by."

—Helen B. Anderson.

GREEN GABLES

On looking over my list of books, some weeks ago I came across some that I had not read, among these being "Jane of Lantern Hill" by L. M. Montgomery, a tale of her beloved birthplace, Prince Edward Island. This neglected book had been a gift from my Canadian Bookman, Toronto, but in the course of the busy years had been neglected. However, its perusal awakened a long-felt desire to visit the Maritimes, and when Mr. and Mrs. Wood, of Saskatchewan, called to see me, bringing an atmosphere of New Brunswick, which they had just visited, my dreams returned. And today another reminder of my early dreams came in a card from Rev. Alfred Poulter, writing from Prince Edward Island, picturing the House of Green Gables, romantic old farm house made famous in the writings of the late L. M. Montgomery, which is situated close to the beach and gold sands. Rev. Mr. Poulter, minister of Wellington United Church, who is attending Church Council at Sackville, New Brunswick, writes as follows of his visit to Green Gables:

"Just visited this place and it is lovely. We are being entertained by the good folk of the Maritime Conference, Sackville is also a lovely spot."

And I was delighted to receive this—it seemed almost a partial fulfillment of my dreams. Doubtless, many of my readers have enjoyed reading the Anne Books by Lucy M. Montgomery. It was my pleasure and privilege to see and hear her then Mrs. (Rev.) MacDonald in Belleville, some years ago.

SPRING SONG

O gypsy winds that pipe and sing
In budding boughs of beech,
I know I hear the laugh of spring
In all your silver speech,
When spring comes back from God.

—L. M. Montgomery

O hope, you blossom on my way
Like violet from the clod,
And love makes rosy all the gray
When spring comes back from

Three Men Die

ROTORUA, N.Z. (CP) — Three men have died in the last three months from poisonous gases in this famous health resort in the heart of New Zealand's thermal area of geysers and hot springs. The men were overcome by hydrogen sulphide while working in excavations in different parts of the town.

The town has hot mineral springs in great variety. Sufferers from rheumatic complaints come from many countries for treatment.

But a town built directly on top of a sulphur bed also has dangers. Anyone digging a hole is liable to tap a flow of hydrogen sulphide which can quickly prove fatal.

Centenary

CENTENARY — Mr. and Mrs. Roy Harry, of Johnstown, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Sharpe, and family, of Hilton; Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Slingerland and family were recent dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Mac Nobes and family. Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Harry were recent Sunday supper guests at the same home.

All wish to express sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sargent in the damage caused by fire on Thursday evening last. Neighbors turned out to assist the Belleville Fire Department in fighting the blaze which threatened a nearby barn and house.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard May were Toronto visitors on Thursday last.

Convict Wins First Round In Court Battle

WINDSOR (CP)—Bernard McCann has won the first round in his fight against return to Michigan state prison to serve out a life sentence on a charge of murder.

The 51-year-old Windsor man was granted a writ of habeas corpus, delaying execution of an extradition order issued Sept. 15. The order called for his return to Michigan Monday.

Mr. Justice C. D. Stewart, granting the writ, set Oct. 8 for a new hearing into the case.

McCann escaped from Michigan state prison at Jackson last February after serving 21 years and later was arrested in Windsor. He sought the delay on the grounds that a review of evidence on which he was convicted would show that he is innocent.

A Windsor group Sunday raised funds for a lawyer for McCann when it was learned an appeal be made to the Ontario Supreme Court to review the extradition order, was refused because it was not presented properly.

McCann was sentenced to life imprisonment in 1934 for the killing of Leo Dipsa, a roadhouse operator who was shot during a holdup of his establishment near Port Huron, Mich.

Msgr. Prevost Spent 6½ Years In Prison Camp

MONTREAL (CP)—Msgr. Gustave Prevost, who has spent 6½ of his 38 years in Far East prison camps, arrived here Tuesday and was greeted by his aged parents.

Mr., and Mrs. Zephirin Prevost of St. Eustache, Que., were too excited to say anything, but hugged their long-absent son when he stepped from a plane at nearby Dorval airport. Some 200 persons waited for him at the airport.

Msgr. Prevost, Roman Catholic apostolic prefect in Linlung, Manchuria, was a prisoner of the Red Chinese for 2½ years until his release last May 1. During the Second World War he was held prisoner by the Japanese for four years. He declared he is willing once again to risk his freedom in Communist China.

Msgr. Prevost said physical suffering was nothing compared to the mental and moral sufferings to which missionary priests had been subjected.

"When the torture is moral, you have to undergo days and even months of silence and painful solitude," he said. "Eventually, you are subjected to endless cross-examinations in which either way you reply, you condemn yourself or give others away."

ADVISES PUBLICITY

MONTREAL (CP)—A public relations man said Tuesday a church that does not keep the public informed about itself will soon be forgotten. John Badger, public relations chief of the Montreal presbytery of United Church, told a presbytery meeting the church is well behind in the use of modern public relations and should make more use of mass communication media.

May Use Woman As Adjudicator In Drama Festival

OTTAWA (CP)—The Dominion Drama Festival may use a woman as adjudicator at its 1955 festivals, DDF director Richard MacDonald said Tuesday that among prospective adjudicators are two women, one of them "quite a figure" in European theatre.

She is Flemish, he said, and speaks French and English in addition to her native tongue.

That probably will give her away, he said, but he could not release names at this time. The other woman being considered, for the regionals, was English. That's all he would say.

Should one of the women be chosen, she would be the first to adjudicate dominion drama festivals.

MARMORA

I.O.D.E. Opens Fall Season In Masonic Hall

MARMORA—Marmora I.O.D.E. opened its fall season in the Masonic hall on September 17th. The Regent thanked all members who worked at the June dance and at the fair booth on Labor Day. The educational report was read by Mrs. R. G. Walsh. This year the I.O.D.E. prize will be given to the local high school member with perfect attendance. A further prize is that of $3 each for each subject in each grade providing the mark is 65 percent or over.

Also the Marmora student continuing at Madoc high school is eligible for an applied bursary of $100 providing he is continuing to teachers' college, university or an institution of higher learning.

A new fund operated independently will be started this year for interest-free loans to needy and deserving students.

An urgent appeal for an X-ray machine for Korea was met with a $30 response from the local chapter.

NO JULIET

CLEVELAND (AP)—Judge Albert A. Woldman, a student of Shakespeare, Tuesday overruled protests of parents in permitting two young displaced persons to get married. The unidentified youngsters are 19 and 18 years old but the juvenile court judge remarked, "in the greatest romance in history Juliet was not as old as this young girl."

FOUND RESPONSIBLE

BERTHIER, Que. (CP)—A coroner's court jury Tuesday night found Jean Paul Vincent, 20, of Maskinonge, Que., criminally responsible for the deaths last July of two men in a traffic accident near Maskinonge. Witnesses said Vincent was the driver of the truck that went off the road and crashed into a ditch killing two of eight men in the vehicle.

CHANGE OF METHOD

MOSCOW (AP) — Pravda and Izvestia are soon going to publish in Kiev as well as Moscow. The two Soviet newspapers will fly matrices of their pages to Kiev, the Ukrainian capital 452 miles southwest of Moscow, for reproduction there on a press now under construction. The idea is to avoid huge shipments of complete papers from this city to the Ukraine.

Fall Fashions

ıne look of ease...present in slender dresses, subtly handled...seen in graceful coats, mobile suits and ensembles.

Fall '54, represented by vibrant colors and versatile fabrics designed for your way of living.

Cotton adapts to fall day and date dresses. Left, embroidered cotton flannel with grinelling at neck. Right, menswear striped cotton suiting in a sheath and bolero ensemble. By Mr. Mort, Nat'l Cotton Council.

Supple Mobility Brings Grace to Fashions with Individualized Outlook

Comfortable clothes that combine graceful ease with the elements of good design mark this fall as a high point in the chart of fashion.

All categories feature styles constructed toward the modern, active way of living. Fluid lines invite graceful movement; softened fabrics are classic, comfortable and durable; adept shaping defines the figure without constricting it.

The feeling of fall fashion can be called "casual." But it is a "casual" that includes elegance and beauty. True, lines are simple and economical and the silhouette is uncluttered. But there is great finesse in cut and detail, and the great assortment of fabrics includes the rich and lustrous as well as the easy-going flannel and tweed groups.

For the first time in years, fashion embraces styles that women like to wear and that are becoming to almost every figure. There is nothing static about fall fashion. Every aspect is easier—increased washability is just one corollary example.

Rather than highlighting any one feature, fall fashions emphasize the figure as a whole. Waist-tapping gives way to a rounded curve. Hips are generally un-padded. Shoulders and bustlines are natural. Understated detail and trim are used as focal points. Top-of-the-costume interest derives from intricate neckline work or variations of the large soft collar.

Waist focus may appear as a mid-way bow or as the extended torso that goes the empire waistline one better by dipping into a hip yoke. The corselet look adapts Paris' boned silhouette into an assortment of more mobile ways of hugging the rib cage. Pouffs, middy lines and low pocket treatment bring attention to the hip. But almost everywhere the main feature is the figure itself rather than any particular body contour.

FOR A WAY OF LIFE

Functional fashions, this season, are dedicated to various modes of living. Designers provide styles for the big city life and for the ever-widening realm of suburbia. Women have more leisure time; fashion offers more leisure clothes. Women travel more; fashion produces an unprecedented selection of travel wardrobes, including car clothes and all-weather costumes.

Increasing varieties of career fashions, bonus-wear, maternity styles are examples of designers' efforts to answer the call for functional clothes. This fall fashion adapts not only to individual activity, but also to individual figures. More and more styles are available for the tall, the petite, half sizes, group-juniors and teen-age sophisticates.

With emphasis on the elegant, the mobile, the functional and the individual, fall '54 introduces an era when every woman can be beautifully, comfortably and fashionably dressed at the same time.

Fashion Points To Adaptable Coiffure

Slightly longer-than-short coiffures that are not confined to one way settings will complement many fashion moods this fall.

For day-evening look of tailored suits and "little" dresses, a feminine coiffure looks best. Gently waved bangs and face-framing ringlets provide contrasting softness.

More flamboyant dress-up styles take a subdued coiffure. Hair swept back or upwards into clustered curls or waves lends striking simplicity.

Shoes Take On Glossy New Colors

New colors, greater flexibility and a tremendous variety of silhouettes make the new in shoes page one news this fall.

Charcoal and mascarade grays are important accessory colors to the menswear-influenced daytime fashion group. Grayed browns provide a new kind of neutrality that harmonizes beautifully with almost every costume color.

Fall's "earth" colors, direct from fashion designers, are available in sniline calf shoes that include deep reds, terra browns,soft greens and graphites. Rich, elegant black stays true afternoon to evening in suede and lustered calf.

For casual and sportswear, matte finish calf shoes achieve great prominence in a range of gay colors. Glove leather flats in suede, calf and elk provide the slip-on flexibility that outdoor women appreciate. Shantung flats appear in graceful styles and bright colors. A new spectator moccasin is built along the lines of a shell opera pump.

The moccasin look is shoes provides a color keynote for an entire outfit, while the light look features a footnote of surprise in winter pastels.

Lightweight shoes provide comfort and flexibility for all occasions. Dress-wear is sweater-weight kid are newly trimmed in iridescent make skin.

The opera pump is staging a huge comeback this fall with tapered toe and low cut shell outline. For evening, the open look predominates. Styles with narrow instep strap vie for leadership with the mule sandal and the sling back halter pump.

The heel is generally open while the tip of the toe is often closed and elegantly trimmed. Stiletto heels carry out the graceful theme with wafer-thin soles that are more flexible than ever.

The importance of the imaginative shoe for evening and at-home is illustrated by a wealth of new silhouettes and colors.

Metallic finishes, jewels, embroidery and many novelty trims spark brocaded shoes. Leather industries of America points out a shining example of a Persian turn-up-toe wrapped with double band of glowing snakeskin.

LEATHER TAKES SPOTLIGHT

Demand for leather sports jackets is trending sharply upward, coincident with the introduction of more grained leather styles, together with the use of water and spot repellency.

Fall Footnotes

One-eyelet leather blucher, crafted in light tan leather with tasseled leather laces in a contrasting color. Nettleton.

Popular wing in a very fine grain one of the many textured leathers featured this Fall.

This black leather slip-on with "fake" lacing looks like a two-eyelet tie with straight medallion toe, yet it's comfortable as a slipper. By British Walker.

Suggest Varied Use Of Silver Holloware

In line with imaginative combinations of furniture, goes ingenious use of silver pieces. A gravy boat piled high with fruit makes a decorative centerpiece, or filled with bright autumn flowers dresses a coffee table or buffet.

Covered silver vegetable dishes are doubly useful for serving hot rolls or casseroles. The top, over-turned becomes an extra bowl for fruit or desserts. Silver butter plates make distinctive ash trays, lemon dishes or coasters.

The Jewelry Industry Council reports that silver holloware should be used, and not stored. Water pitchers are shining examples, pitching in as container for long-stemmed flowers, or autumn leaf arrangements.

Variety Is Spice of New Suits

Suits of 1954-55 are many and varied, presenting a choice of over half a dozen favored silhouettes. The styling that identifies each as definitely "this season" is the graceful, easier cut of almost every design.

Fitted or cutaway suits flow easily over the hips. So y jackets are gently shaped at the waist and narrowed slightly. The "blouse-over" version of the drop-from-shoulder "slouch" silhouette is designed for supple movement. The double-breasted bellboy jacket has a casual slimness. Belts, many worn unbuckled, are seen regularly in all versions of the slouch."

Tunic jackets are out gently—and the precision of the military suit has been softened. Designers have even eased the "corselet" still, substituting civil dart-work for the more confining bones.

TWEED DRESSMAKERS

Dressmaker suits relax with rounded shoulders and soft fabrics. Here, as in other styles, tweed plays a prominent part. Crepe, velvet and flannel are important soft fabrics; worsteds and serge the most note-worthy "hard" finishes.

Set-in sleeves are back, while the easy treatment remains in the dolman or wing.

Fabrics combine with general ease of design. Tweed is the mainstay of fall suits, often dressed up with touches of velvet or satin. Velours, faccelotn and pile are other fabric favorites. The polished materials are important also, although they are softer than last year. Polished tweed, broadcloth, chiffon flannel and novelty weaves have a new, velvety touch.

VIBRANT COLORS

With the predominance of tweed, the color picture takes on new dimensions. Black and white or salt and pepper tweeds are frequent. Grey grounds, while not so important as last year, remain popular, and brown backgrounds are prominent. Vibrant colors counterpoint winter pastels.

Necklines too, repeat the "easy" theme, offering large, soft collars in fur, fur fabric or cloth. These collars are presented as quaker, puritan, choirboy, portait, cape, shawl or sailor. The sailor motif is carried out in many overall silhouettes also, with the middy jacket and pleated skirt as interesting features.

Furs Feature A Natural Look This Season

With emphasis on new, rich colors and a "natural look," Fall '54 affords the most dramatic fur collections in years. Color is the keynote, ranging from gunmetal beaver and squirrel, sapphire gray muskrat and raccoon, pearl gray Chinese ermine.

Caramel lends added zest warmth to sheared beaver and Australian opposum. Browns range from clear beige to chocolate. Lustrous black runs the gamut from precious to budget furs.

Highlight of the season is white, informally formal in beaver or muskrat; regal in natural ermine. Deep, vivid browns are striking in Alaska seal, Persian lamb and mink.

Designers use this wealth of color news to reach a new high in fashion appeal, according to Fur Manufacturers. Fur silhouettes feature a refined ease. Loose coats fall from natural shoulders and becoming flat backs that look column slender.

Knowing craftsmanship provides fluidity that conforms to fashions beneath, whether tailored suit or or bell-skirted dress. Large collars are adroitly handled to frame the face or lie flat with tailored precision.

Little furs are big news. Mink stole, above, features large, "convertible" collar. By David Grossman.

Two Sides to the Shirt Story

Two looks at what the well-dressed man will wear shirt-wise this Fall. At left, a handsome sporting companion in black linen-like rayon with pink edging on collar, pockets and cuffs. At right, a dress shirt in a very popular shade of pink with black initial on the pocket. Both by Van Heusen.

Crisp Approach to Girlswear

Mother and daughter fashions, newly designed to include the Mom with a junior figure. Above Tyrolean printed Everglaze cotton dresses, rick-rack trimmed, are sized in children's and juniors' ranges. By Lanz Originals.

Bags Shape Up for Fall Occasions

There is little "in-between" when it comes to new handbags. Fall's favorites will be oversized for daytime and undersized for evening.

They will be covered with elegant passementerie for late day and totally unadorned for casual wear. They will be extremely highcolored or extremely subdued. But each will offer a look of finished finesse to its costume counterpart.

Newest shape in daytime bags is the modified box. Elongated, diagonal or slightly rounded, the box is sturdily frame-constructed without metal clasps to divert attention from its highly polished leather. The tote bag with inner clasp closing or over-hanging lid, features new safety and new lustre.

Various tote sizes are available in calf, suede, shag and pigskin leathers, as well as velvety-y or brocaded fabrics. Tote handles are stiff and shining in lacquered wood or plastic, gleaming metals or sleek leathers.

Other newsy casual shapes include "doctor" satchels, buckle-trimmed clutches, long and slim envelopes, and huge "vagabond" bags. Dark bags are interestingly lined in pastel leathers. Matching leather handbag and glove sets are newly available.

Leather Industries of America sources report an important trend toward matching handbags this fall. New treatments provide lizard, snakeskin and alligator with great flexibility and widened color ranges. Iridescent snakeskin and lizard make news in the lustre department.

Lustre calf foxes in copper, gun metal, bronze and blue supplement a color gamut that prominently includes graphite, brianwood and soft taupes.

Color, texture, lustre and detailing all focus on great femininity for dressy evening bags. Satin-trimmed and jeweled suede, along with rich brocade, gold and silver cloth, lame and fauzy silks, provide interest in framed evening bags.

Softly draped pouches simulate the richness of fur in various deep-pile and plushy fabrics. Velours and velveta take on brilliant color for evening. Venetian pleated bags are new.

Topping Idea

This lightweight topcoat achieves new richness through the use of a small herringbone-patterned black and gray cashmere fabric in a square silhouette of simple lines. Note distinctive black velvet half-collar. Suggested by Wool Bureau.

FLOWER BUD SILHOUETTE

A noteworthy off-shoot of fall fashion directions is the "Flower Bud" look, featuring round fullness above a low waistline and stem-like slenderness below.

Soft Detail Sparks Fall Separates

The look of fall separates, strongly influenced by the trend to supple ease, features a soft silhouette, free-swinging lines and a great deal of color and texture play.

A new "little girl" look in blouses shares the spotlight with mantailored shirts. Little girl styling features such sugar coating as puffed sleeves, eyelet trimmed button plackets, doll collars and tiny pearl buttons. Prettily printed cottons, polished synthetics and even organdie-like fabrics are prominent in this group.

Sissy trims feminize boy shirts this season and a smart contrast derives from ruffles and bows played against straight tailored lines. Menswear shirtings carry out the theme in bold stripes or checks, typical tie patterns or unusual solid colors.

Suit and costume blouses are supple in fabric, subdued in styling and eye-catching in color. Wrap-around jerseys, drapey silks and synthetics and doe-soft wools are smart under-jacket foils. Often a large soft bow or separate neckline fill-in provides fashionable top interest.

T-SHIRTS MAKE GRAND ENTRANCE

Cotton knit T-shirts dress up for fall with turtle necks, leather trims, pockets and plaid or tweed patterns. Comfortable under jackets, they also make pretty sweater -blouses with tailored skirts, slacks or Bermuda shorts.

Wool or wooly synthetic sweaters look bulkier and colorful with bold stripes or textured knitted trims. Waist length and long pull-over styles make smart, costume pieces. Cashmeres take on delicate "blouse" touches, such as angora-trimmed baby collars, scalloped decolletage and fine embroidery. Tweed cashmeres are great fashion.

Sport jackets take shape as middy overblouses, graceful cardigans and wrappy car coats. Fleecy or tweedy, they feature texture. New blends include an important silkeline and tweed combination. Soft leather jackets range from fitted belltop to loose, belted tunic styles. Blazers appear in a blaze of colors.

EASY-GOING SKIRTS

Sport skirts abound in colorful variety. Tweeds and plaids are everywhere — pleated many 'gored or slim cut with hips and well-eased above the knee. Belted skirts with loose, unpressed pleats join the easy-going movement with others featuring irregularly spaced pleat clusters.

Very new are the kilty skirts that are cropped at the knee and take well to gay knee socks.

Slacks are lean and tapered, newly accented with laces, piping, contrasting cuffs. Bermuda shorts achieve great popularity. Flannels, tweeds, printed corduroys and vivid velveteens appear in plaid, oriental and frontier motifs—to mention just a few. Even dungarees go colorful and co-ordinated.

COLOR NEWS IN GLOVES

Shadow blacks, earth colors and autumn pastels are leather color favorites. Knit gloves look tweedy or checked. Solid wools show contrast-colored sculpturing or cable trims.

Luxury in Lounging Wear

Big cowl collar of white knit brings fall fashion to a luxurious wool lounging robe by Derlan. Barely there nylons are seamless, sandal-foot and fashion shaded. By Hones.

Foundations Feature Control In New Lightweight Styles

More than ever before fall foundations are light, supple and easy. Lighter elastic and more of it controls, rather than confines, in a variety of newly styled brassieres, girdles and combinations.

The increased use of nylon mesh, quisette, synthetic lace and dacron lens gives foundations a lighter look as well as lighter weight. Dainty touches, with a French accent, keynote the design trends.

Particularly noteworthy is the emphasis on the corselet, often with all-elastic construction and few or no bones for smooth mobility. Many corselets are strapless with under-the-bust wiring or firm support. Others show the broaden-ed off-the-shoulder straps, so effective with wider necklines.

Girdles, too, feature all-elastic construction, with high-rise waists still important for slender fashions. Brand new is the longer panty girdle designed - especially for Bermuda shorts and pedal pushers. It stays in place without stockings even during active sports.

Garter-bras, the happy combination of brassiere, waist cincher and garter belt, will be available in additional size ranges that conform to regular bra sizes.

Many foundation styles provide several interchangeable straps for a variety of necklines.

Leather Goes Bright for Fall

Kid, cape and suede leather sportswear take on new brightness this season in casual coats and suits as well as separates.

Leather combines with tweed; cashmere, fur and hand loomed woolens in easy-going styles that feature unusual pastel colors, typical of 1854. Sport suits are shown in pale pink, green, blue and lilac. Casual coats—generally in a new dirt-resistant, water-repellent, non-cracking suede—range from the shadow blacks to a brilliant tangerine.

Dramatic silhouettes prove that leather is supple, indeed. Bloused and softly fitted jackets share prominence with boxy spencers. Coats offer full flowing lines, belted-in fullness and double-breasted princesse shaping.

Leather stays home as sleek suede horsehair trousers or goes into action as capeskin shorts and pedal pushers. Car coats, cardigans, even jeweled evening jackets are great fashion in kid.

Count Mother In With Open Kitchen

New kitchens replace the forth wall with a serving counter which allows Mother to be part of the family activity while she works.

Convenient for keeping watch over youngsters from the kitchen, these pass-throughs serve as additional working spaces and snack bars. And they're a fine spot for extra shelves.

Fall Dresses Take Slim Silhouettes

A supple silhouette makes top dress news. The shirtwaist, the knit and the semi-fitted jersey all gain great prominence along casual, yet shapely lines. Fall features the coat dress, simple and outstanding. The basic dark sheath is newly fluid. Nothing but shape, it takes beautifully to an assortment of lavish accessories.

Afternoon and late-day dresses, even formals, show extremely simple cutting that provides a "bell-in" shape without any tightness. Fabric may be softly tucked, gently fitted or bloused to the waist, then released in unpressed pleats, side flares or back fullness. Outstanding dress designers use a hip yoke or an empire line that extends beyond the waist for a "long torso" look. Others feature a front-fitted bodice that is bloused behind.

As styles progress toward evening formality, an increase in body-shaping brings the evening sheath to notice. The slender, contoured gown is back with beautiful detailing and rich fabric interest.

Where detail appears, it is elegant indeed. Pouls, handsome jet trimming, soft bows, strategically placed, add drama to simple lines. Large collars—the puritan, frame, exaggerated revers—provide top interest and leave the neck free for soft frills of chiffon, fur, velvet or satin. Intricate cutting marks decolletage.

The corselet shape, introduced in Paris last spring, has found many American variations that, perhaps paradoxically, fit into our easy-going categories. Its design features rich elastic banding that defines the rib cage while providing supple mobility. Others use subtle darting to hug the waist easily.

More and more dresses come with their own coats. Even tweed casuals have fur cuffed or collared short coats in the same fabric. Satin sheaths harmonize with their velvet or brocaded coats that are lined in the same rich satin.

Vibrant Colors New for '54-55

Color is a fashion keynote both in vibrant shades and new "off-beat" combinations. Because of the menswear influence, tonal and oxford figure prominently and are grouped as shadow-blacks rather than grays.

Brilliant colors, lustrous black and warm, rich browns are important. Rusty or copper-y shades lead the brown parade and are closely followed by cognacs, camel colors and brown-black blends.

Truly fall colors, such as moss and olive greens, violet-toned and teal blues and deep reds look new and significant in tweed mixtures as well as monotones. Black and white tweeds are notable. Black Watch seems leader of the tartan clan; white or black striped oxford is everywhere.

Late day dresses, frequently in black or gun metal, are newly trimmed or lined in pastel colors. A pale blue bib pouf or an ice pink cowl trims a cocktail sheath. An ivory-tinted scrolled lining shows itself under a velvet coat dress. Shimmering jewel colors are new and striking, especially in simply styled after-five costumes.

Unusual color combinations bring excitement to sport and casual wear. Natural colors in the beige family take dramatic contrasts or play against each other with chic subtlety. Muted tweed or pin check combinations often are flecked with brilliant colors in unusual shades. Familiar colors make big news in the unfamiliar shades that designers are using everywhere.

"Little Girl" look here interpreted for teens in an orlon-and-wool jersey shirtwaist dress newly printed in paisley By Berk Co.

Top Interest Calls For Soft Fill-ins

The wide-open and plunging V necklines of fall dresses and dress up blouses invite ample use of soft scarves and gilets. Important "top interest" comes from exciting colors and draping treatments.

Cloud-sheer chiffons and gauzy silks in deep cerise, brilliant tangerine, rich peacock provide the vibrant color touches that point up monotone shaded costumes. On the other hand, beige and muted taupe jerseys are striking accents for bright colored bodices.

Belts Follow Trend To Softer Draping

Providing that the waist is naturally femine without rigid cinching, designers provide an assortment of softened belt treatments.

The tucked fabric belt, the cummerbund and the crushed sash as well as draped leathers offer flattering waist accents.

LOOK, NO BUTTONS!

The revived and modernized "Chanel look" is typified by suit jackets that are designed to look neat when worn unbuttoned.

Lamps Highlight Soft Simplicity

Warm simplicity in the form of soft line, appealing shape and tasteful decoration typifies the new lamp for fall.

Lamps are frequently made of furniture woods. Walnut, birch, fruitwood or champagne oak lamps will match pieces of the same materials. Highly decorative shade materials complement the polished bases. Grass cloths, linens, shantungs and parchments in unusual shades are gauged to provide good light and interesting texture.

Plastic diffusers screen the downward light, while perforated metal baffles prevent glare from the top.

A new group of Furniture Lamps combines a well-engineered lamp with an occasional table or wall shelf. Materials include preferred furniture woods or metals, such as walnut, wrought iron and brass.

Knee-Hi's Rate Big Footnote

Newest stepper in the hosiery line is the knee-high sock. The perfect counter-part for Bermuda shorts and tapered pedal pushers, the knee-high offers lively color, an "all-dressed" look and warm protection for both spectator and active sportswomen.

Colorful argyle, harlequin, jacquard and cable-stitched patterns are available with elastic tops for secure stay-up. Yarn choice includes woolens and nylons as well as an array of angora—and rabbit hair-wool mixtures.

Nylons follow a trend to deeper colors this fall. Taupes and browns are shown in rich tones to blend with fashion's vibrant colors. One manufacturer offers shades that are color-keyed to skin types.

Seamless and sandalfoot styles continue strong, especially with bare look evening shoes.

Washables for Dress-Up or Play

Herringbone stripes printed on Reeves corduroy give collegiate air to Eton suit. By Tommy Alpren.

Shirt's overall set has miniature railroad emblems on bright striped Telo Pee Wee flannel.

Coats Offer Simple Cut, Opulence

Fall coat collections, co-ordinating with prominent dress silhouettes, provide a wealth of easy-going styles in the grand manner.

Silky coats with controlled flare share the spotlight with mannish overcoats, fitted dress coats and straight coats that are cropped at unexpected lengths. Very new-season are luxury soft or bulky textured french coat variations with bloused back, belted waist and military detail.

Designers subtly manipulate the lines of loose coats to make them appear slimmer than they are. Yokes, hidden pleats and clever tabbing achieve a controlled effect that goes easily over suits and full-skirted dresses as well as slim styles.

Man-tailored coats are effective in menswear fabrics in charcoal colors; and they are dynamic in unexpected soft or plushy fabrics in brilliant shades.

FITTED ALONG DRESS LINES

Slimmed down to a dress-like silhouette, fitted coats look new with narrowed sleeves and molded shoulders. The arc of skirt may be lightly stiffened front, back or all around; but the dome skirt has been modified for softness. Light-weight fabrics star in this group. Polished worsted and broadcloth and certain close-cropped piles take well to shaping.

Fall-favored coatings are piled and cropped to a glossy finish. Nubby chinchilla cloth provides warmth, durability and elegant texture. Polished tweeds and broadcloths, sleek fur or hair blends, rich velours and zibellines lead dress-up coatings. Flannels and boucle woven tweeds lend a homespun feeling to casual coats.

The unexpected comes to bear in dressy tweeds cuffed and collared in elegant long-hair furs. A goodly selection of furs is trimmed in colormatched fur. While fur on charcoal colored coats makes a striking contrast.

LARGE AND LOVELY COLLARS

Velvet collars appear on high fashion styles as well as on the classic Chesterfield. In general, collars are large, soft and flat. The puritan and the sailor rate special notice in coats of all lengths and for all occasions. Cape-like collars are newly remarkable to reveal a finished neckline underneath.

Short coats are available in practically every leading style. Forty inch or three-quarter length coats may be bloused, flared or in the strict military lines. Shorter coats are important in tapered, semi-fitted or barrel cuts. The year coat, in travel-worthy fabrics opens a new fashion frontier.

Rich, stained glass colors add depth to tweed coats.

The Tweed Touch -- Everywhere

Knitted to a tweed, the un-waisted sweater dress in fall's easy-going manner. By Alberic.

Rich Fall Fabrics Feature Fluidity, Men's Influence

Fabrics become fashion news via two routes: the opulently sophisticated and the luxuriously casual. Harmonizing with silhouette news, richly textured or glistening smooth fabrics provide a basis for elegance. Relaxed styles take their cue from tweedy or menswear fabrics.

Closely cropped pile coatings achieve a velvet touch. Furred wools and alpacas join such established favorites as shetlies and fleeces—all taking a short cut to a smooth finish. Dressy suit fabrics are soft as suede or polished as broadcloth. Some give the illusion of sculpture or jacquard patterning.

Dress fabric news is provided by chiffon worsted, peau de sole, creamy satin and plush-jersey. Silk and worsted continues its popularity in heavier autumn weights.

Metallic strands add glisten to late day dresses in jacquard or lame effects, while cool weather cottons blend with silk for rich polish. Lace offers the utmost in evening elegance.

BOND STREET INFLUENCE

The other main road to fashion prominence leads to tweed and menswear-influenced fabrics. The look is casually correct easy-going and impeccable—and brings to mind the tailoring done in London's famous Bond Street.

Tweedy coats, closely woven or so softly brushed, have a hand-loomed appearance. Man-tailored simplicity shows up well in camel hair and cashmere.

Tweed or tweed-like suits have both town and country appeal in light weights and subtle color combinations. Pin—and pencil-stripes appear on suits of flannel, serge and sharkskin. Herringbones, tiny checks, muted plaids make a big play in spectator suits.

Dresses with a tweed look abound in wool, silk, cotton and synthetics. Jersey and corduroy tweeds are important, as are knitted dresses, newly wise to fashion details and shape retention.

SURPRISES EVERYWHERE

An element of surprise enters the fashion world as fabrics defy accustomed functions. Coatings turn up in skirts; suits appear in dress fabrics; coat dresses are cut from suitings.

Refusing to be classified, denims adapt to year-'round wear. Brocaded corduroys go dancing and tweed coats wear lavish fur cuffs. Separates are shown in home decoration fabrics. And surprise linings in every imaginable fabric bring drama and excitement in unexpected places.

Velvet leather and grosgrain are autumn's prominent trims. They, too, appear in eye-opening new ways to emphasize and dramatize the two routes to fashion via fabric.

Eye-Taking Diversity of Styles Featured in New Hats for Fall

In general, the new hats are lighter, in looks and weight; crowns are smaller, narrower, more tapered. Same thing goes for the brims. The whole contour of the hat has a lighter, younger look.

Even in styles where the hat itself is not smaller, this effect is often achieved by use of trim or color.

The new season's hats offer a tremendous variety of style and type, finish, color and trim. There's not just one, but several good choices to suit every man's personality and facial characteristics.

The classic, conservative snap brim felts look new in lighter tones and distinctive in bright or dark colors. the new models are equal-ward curve at the sides. Still others are turned up off the face all round with a frankly engaging and youthful look.

Surface interest is big news in mixtures of solids, brushed-up felts, sueded effects, velours or sleek finished felts. Colors are rich, bright and varied, and range from pearl grey through oxford to charcoal; from beige and taupe to black oak, an almost black shade of deep brown.

Gayer tones of spruce and forest green, burgundy and russet browns are found in the semi-sport types.

WOMEN'S SPORTSWEAR

In line with the trend toward fashion individuality is the increased production of sportswear in half-sizes. Heretofore the woman with a mature figure had a hard time finding casual styles in her size range.

...and you can be sure of its quality, fine styling and honest value.

Knitted Dresses Treated to Real Fashion Touch

Knit dresses reach new heights of prominence in fall '54. Slenderizer yarn sharply from traditional knit styles and follow the latest fashion lines—with more stitch and trim detailing than has appeared in the past.

A costume look prevails in knits that are handled exactly as woven fabrics. Softened lines and rich textures make one-and two-piece knit dresses elegantly appropriate for late day. Easy shaping with colorful ribbed trims provides casual sport styles.

Free-swinging skirts, some flared enough to buoy with petticoats and others with controlled fullness, appear in nubby chenilles and fine velvet-y knits. Slim knitted dresses include unwaisted styles adapted from the popular shirt dress, and smart in tweed or iridescent versions. A honeycomb effect zephyr wool dress features a boy collar with button tab closing.

Ensembles, scooped sheaths and tank top dresses take fancy stitching and bolero or bellhop jackets for double duty fashion. Many are sparkled with glitter buttons on lustrous braid trims. Other convertible knits offer detachable fur collar and cuffs.

REIGNS WHEN IT FOURS

A famous British-style trench model raincoat treated with "Zelan" for durable water and spot repellency, will be popular this Fall with men who want maximum protection combined with smart good looks in their rainwear.

Gloves Provide A Final Touch Of Fall Elegance

Styled to harmonize with easy-going fall costumes, new gloves feature slender elegance, interesting texture and rich detailing. From sports- to glamour-wear, gloves will provide the "well-put-together" look, so essential this season.

Casual gloves feature 3D texturing in leathers that are naturally embossed with individual grain markings. Pebbly ostrich and pigskin make interesting sport gloves in short notched styles.

Kid and capeskin, newly treated for suppleness and silky finish, may be cuffed with fur or limited to shape and color for style interest. Sport woods are grayer than ever this season with much colorful embroidery and applique. Pompoms and tassels trim knit gloves and mittens.

Jersey gloves, in tweedy heather tones, are long, lean and lovely for sportswear and appropriate for dress-up in lustrous black and beiges.

The brief glove is popular for day and date-time in dramatically simple styles that feature no detailing except a tiny pearl fastening just short of the wrist-line.

Other shorties feature small cuffs, unusually placed vents or prettily curved stitching. For evening, ornamental straps and jewel trims provide formal elegance.

According to the Leather Glove Industries, a rippling gauntlet will lead the longer glove fashions.

DRESSMAKER GLOVES

Delicately pleated and fagoted just below the wrist-line for a dressmaker effect, longer gloves look new this fall.

Fall Favors Soft Tailing Hat Styles

Fall '54 is definitely hatted. Shapes that are higher, wider and handsomer drape with an easy elegance to reflect the "relaxed" manner of fashion. Styles are deep enough to fit comfortably.

More hats are worn tilted to one side in the flattering profile tradition. Shapes are irregular, trimmings asymmetrically balanced. The basic silhouette is the beret. Soft, puffy berets appear in varieties for all occasions.

Brimmed hats often show beret crowns — sometimes low and rounded, sometimes smocked and tucked. "Pixie" peaked crowns appear on soft, back-draped helmets or cloches, trimmed with a bow or buckle at the nape of the neck.

The casually crushed crown and turned-down brim of the swagger hat looks very new in luxurious velours or silk-capped beaver felt. These, and draped jersey styles are great companions for daytime tweeds and belted-in coats.

Scarves, chin straps and other chill-chasing devices are prettily present on shallow mushroom hornets and halo bretons. Profile shapes include one-sided cloches, deep caps, turbans and cushioned bonnets with one side extended.

Many side-swept silhouettes are hybrids, such as the beret-turban, helmet-cap and cuffed beret.

The rich fabrics and distinctive stylings for Fall are spotlighted in these two models. At left is a three-button, single-breasted top-coat of gray wool herringbone tweed. The suit at right is a medium gray worsted in a fine over-all pattern of short black and white yarn. Suggested by Wool Bureau.

Richly textured felts are shaggy, heatherbloomed or sprinkled with rabbit hair. Both felts and velours are newly printed in multi color plaids or elaborately stitched. Velveta achieve prominence by "sculpturing" that reveals the silk backing of the pile.

Wool jersey is important in heather tones or vibrant clear colors. Satin appears in both daytime and evening millinery. Taffeta makes an evening entrance. Fur or furred felt hats are shaped along true fashion lines.

Trimmings are generally understated and many models are self-detailed with puffs, dimples and tucks for surface interest. In tailored styles, wool yarn is webbed over the crown or crocheted for edgings. Knitted bands, on the casual side, contrast with satin and velvet touches for dressier hats.

FEATHERS, FEATHERS EVERYWHERE!

Soft "pads" of feathers are used for bands, appliques or as entire surface of a variety of shapes. Quill accents are long and lacquered or small and curled. Feathers are stripped, clipped, sprayed with lustre or curved in arc the face. Ostrich, gamebird and egret head a huge list of feathers slated for fall hat importance.

Jet, sequins and jewelling are, for the most part, reserved for formal evenings. But heady colors are not confined to any hour. Vivid peacocks and hot tangerines, deep garnets and exotic greens are typical of the vibrant colors of fall hats.

However, the more subdued colors are also available in a wealth of chic millinery. Deep taupes and steely grays join solid, lustrous black as popular "neutrals" and are especially smart in blends of textured materials and trimmings.

bright hues. These vivid items by themselves might appear overbearing, but when mixed with charcoal browns, greys, blue and black, they provide perfect contrast, and offer a neater, smarter appearance to the Canadian male. Helios and lavenders, too, are expected to score with smart dressers this season.

PARTY LEATHER

Snakeskin makes an iridescent appearance in a dolman-sleeved fitted jacket. Lavishly fur trimmed leather fashions go partying with elegance.

Prints, Big News In Ties for Fall

Prints loom larger than ever in the Fall neckwear picture. The momentum which these ties have gained in the better grades will be reflected, as well, in the popular priced lines.

On the other hand, unusual woven goods, far lighter in weight than heretofore and patterned similarly to prints, will find ready acceptance in the Fall and holiday buying seasons, in which they have traditionally held a strong position. Woven patterns will be less "panelly" in effect and show fewer "under knot" designs than in the past.

Striped reps have assumed so much importance on the neckwear scene that they are approaching the point where they will occupy a category of their own. They will continue strongly in favor, this Fall.

Colors for the most part are planned to complement the charcoal shades in men's suits, tying in with the dark grays, dark blues and very dark browns that are slated to be the clothing highlights.

Reds, golds, beiges, bright blues, pinks, purples and the new import from France, cognac, will be important in the parade of Classic snapdown felt in pearl grey with contrasting dark band. The crown is somewhat lower than in season past; slightly pinched in traditional manner.

Elegance and Comfort Get Major Emphasis In Styles for New Season

Men's clothing for Fall shows a sharp trend to elegance and comfort, which is reflected in both the deeper, richer shades and the lighter weight fabrics.

Prominent in the Fall color picture are blackish greys, blues and warm mediums to charcoal brown, often combined with black in fine patterns.

One typical use of these colors is a worsted suiting of warm medium brown with a pattern of fine-line glen plaid in black. At a distance the black blends into the brown. Diagonal weaves, "bark" patterns and the great family of checked tweeds also appear in these combinations in suits, sports coats and topcoats.

Further enriching the Fall fabrics are hairline stripes, new effect stripes that come into focus at close range, tick weaves with colored nubs, fancy effect sharkskins and broken check patterns formed by incomplete stubs and ombre plaids in reverse twist weaves.

BLACK PLAYS MAJOR ROLE

Black itself is an important contributor to the character of the new men's wear. It is employed to heighten other colors present in the fabrics and it appears as a background for faint patterns in contrasting colors.

The recent popularity of lightweight fabrics is carrying over into the Fall season with heightened impetus. Eleven ounce fabrics are a major factor. Lightweight worsteds, wools and blends of natural and man-made fibres, such as dacron and orlon are plentiful. Tweeds, saxonies, shetlands and cashmere blends play a prominent role in casually styled suits, sports coats and top coats.

The leading suit cut is single-breasted with medium-width lapels and the more casual two-button coat closing. Shoulders are trending slightly slimmer and flapped pockets are appearing on many of the new models, most of which have center vents.

SPORTS COATS DARKER

Even sportswear reflects the trend to the "darker look," especially in the new sports coats. Slacks are featured in both harmonizing shades and lighter tones contrasting with the jackets. Materials range from flannels to gabardines, corvette, and white cords.

Jackets, shirts and sweaters range from the more dressy types to the very sporty. Each is designed for a particular use and features a definite fashion idea for a specific time, place and purpose.

As an offset to the dark colored clothing of this Fall, brightly colored shirts, ties, socks and fancy vests will be featured to enliven the ensembles.

Short point collars, solid colors and fancy stripes are highlights of the new Fall shirt showings. Pinks are slated to rank as the prime style color for the new season, followed by blue, gray, yellow and beige.

Texture and depth in a variety of leathers give new interest to men's shoes this Fall. Casual to casual shoes will make a big use of the new shrunken grain leathers and suedes.

In general, the new hats are lighter in look and in weight. Crowns are smaller, narrower, more tapered. The whole contour of the hat has a lighter, younger appearance.

Collars, Colors Are Shirt News

Collar styles are of the short point and half-dollar round variety in the new dress shirts for Fall. A man may select his pleasure: button-down, pin-down or regular, with or without tab.

Color, too, is playing an important part in the shirt news for Fall. Pink will continue strong, with an excellent supporting cast of blue, tan, grey and maize. Really new and newsorthy is the black accent showing up, for example, in an initial on the pocket. White, as usual, holds its own for business wear.

Solids will take precedence, but the pinstripe style will capture its share of popularity. Born of the classic British type stripings and brilliantly coloured, these colorful accessories Fall's dark clothing flood.

For a man's leisure hours, this Fall, there are many smart new offerings in warm and vibrant colors. Cottons, knits, wools and miracle fabrics will fill the place on the backs of men everywhere.

Checks, plaids, stripes and solids will be seen around the club or just lazying about the grounds or on the porch. Pleated bosoms, tucks and saddle stitching did not go out with summer, but continue bigger than ever.

A man has his choice of almost anything this Fall from a convertible collar to a turtle neck; from a kitten-soft wool to a mixture of finest English linen and nylon; from rugged styles to more casual ones. If he likes black, he can have that, too. No matter what he chooses, he is sure to get the master of comfort and masculine good looks.

The late season golfer will favor this new longer-length sports jacket with raglan sleeves for freedom of action. Cotton fabric treated with "Zelan" for water repellency.

Accent On Variety In Sportswear

Fall sportswear presents the most varied array of styles and colors offered in many a year. The broad fashion themes reflect greater contrasts in colors, lighter weights and softer textures.

The new "darker look" carries over into the field of sports coats, where charcoal brown is vying strongly with charcoal gray for style leadership.

Many of the new models feature blends of chocolate brown with black and charcoal gray to achieve a new looking color that has life and sparkle. Even the tone is enough to conform to the current trend.

Brushed surface fabrics in wool and new orlon fleeces add a luxurious touch to many styles of sports jackets. The latter have a strong functional factor in that they are washable and weightlessly warm.

WINNING COMBINATIONS

Combinations of knit and fabric ideas in a single jacket are increasingly prominent. Knit shoulder and sleeve insets have functional value as well as eye appeal. Fabric and leather combinations in which the latter is used as trim on pocket and jacket edges are new style ideas, both novel and practical.

Leather jackets in lighter weights with orlon fleece linings are another popular combination. Wool jersey is also finding favor by dint of its resiliency and warmth.

A highlight of the sports shirt picture is the wide variety of colorful plaids and checks that afford an enlivening contrast to the solid tones of the sport coats. Other design features are novel stripes in side panel effects and multi-colored group stripes, in all of these the use of contrast colors is important. The foreign style influence is seen in such details as gathered waists, full blouse-like body and bat sleeves.

The new slacks have trimmer and more tapered lines and feature such style developments as leather trim pockets and belt loops, and contrast colored self-waistbands.

THREE-WAY NECKLINES

Sweaters with three-way necklines are the fashion news in knitted sportswear. Pullovers have contrasting lips inside jackets. Coat styles make use of novelty buttons to add sparkle. Designs range from jacquard patterns to embroidery, pieced insets and contrasting trim.

Reversible vests, which are really two vests in one, are shown in solid color wools on one side with authentic tartan on the reverse.

Socks are Softer, Lighter in Weight

The new fall socks are softer, in weight, more durable, and feature a richer array of colors than for many seasons past. New blends of man-made and natural fibres are coming strongly to the fore.

Leading blends are cashmere with nylon, and a new development of Dacron and cotton. These combinations achieve a pleasing softness with a new stability and durability, and often achieve a distinctive dimensional effect.

The evolution of fancy design ideas is continuing, with special emphasis on the argyle types. Both the classic diamond argyle with overcheck and new effect panel argyles will be popular.

New Costume Jewelry To Be Worn Lavishly

The fabulous 'twenties return—with the extravagant use of fashion costume jewelry for fall. Long beaded ropes, signature of that era, highlight new collections that feature all varieties of elaborate necklaces for important "top-line" interest.

Glamour by the yard, colorful beaded and pearl ropes are worn smartly knotted, in graduated loops or casually bunched in the Chanel manner. Round, oval, geometrical and faceted beads offer high color in rich autumn shades and smoky pastels or great sparkle when strung with rhinestones.

Simulated pearls are clear white, smoky or cognac colored, reports the Jewelry Industry Council. Jet and metallic beads also are available in countless sizes and shapes, look well on their own or combined with other ropes in colorful profusion.

Many-strand bibs, chokers and pendant necklaces are important in exaggerated sizes, but maintain graceful elegance. Necklaces with matching pieces reflect an Oriental mood in "antiqued" gold plate.

Fall earrings carry out the lavish theme in large, but light-weight pendants, tassels, chains and elongated shapes. Beaded earrings resemble miniature chandeliers in their ornate grace. Button-like designs are bigger and bolder.

Tailored jewelry, often in matched sets, features a deceptively bulky look as a foil for simple fashion lines.

Short and shorter — than long sleeves point up the importance of new fall bracelets. For tailored costuming, there are circular charms and 3D baubles suspended from large-linked chains. Slim beads in an assortment of colored materials look new solo or by the armful.

Costumes Favor Fabric Contrast

More ensembles and more kinds of costumes mark a trend toward the integrated wardrobe. The tailleur suit features easy-slim skirt, mannish jacket that is worn open and matching blouse in a supple fabric. The suiting may be serge or flannel and is often striped.

Similarly the blouse-or suit with its bloused waist-length jacket and fuller skirt features contrast-or contrast-colored underblouse. Tailored jumpers take easy blouses and there are a great many car coat and skirt ensembles.

Late-day selections include "little" dresses and dramatic coats lined in the dress fabric. The "Inside Story" is indeed a lavish one—featuring gleaming satin, floral brocade, sculpted and gold-printed linings.

Topcoats Have A "Formal" Flavor

The leading silhouette in the new topcoats and overcoats for Fall and Winter is more formal than in recent years.

The body of the coat is cut squarer, falling from square, lightly set sleeve shoulders. The single-breasted cut practically carries the field. Heavily favored is the three-button closing in which the buttons are seen, rather than covered by a fly closing.

Collars are of a more formal nature. The big favorites are the notch collar, buttoning low enough to reveal the top of the shirt front, and the modified balmacaan collar.

"Warm without weight" will again be the keynote of topcoat fabrics which will feature tweeds, herringbones, cheviots, cashmere wool blends, jerseys, in various tones of gray and brown, trending to the dark side, in keeping with the Fall mode in men's suits.

Prints Accent Fall Picture

The roses of summer are blooming, still—roses printed on corduroy on jersey on fall cottons, on rich and supple silks. Not only roses, but paisleys, dots and stylized abstracts are among the signs that printed fashions will stay through fall.

Never before in all fashion history, reports the Silk and Rayon Print Institute, have so many prints been featured for fall. Important prints in every wardrobe classification underscore fall's vibrant colors and softly draping fabrics.

Prints are present in all styles from classic fine-to-five dresses to luxurious late day separates. Silk surah in warm fall patterns rates high for afternoon and cocktail dresses. Rich fabric blends as wool-and-dacron, acetate-and-dacron and various rayon blends are newly featured as printed casuals.

Following the season's unclutched silhouette line, fashion has printed graceful, go-everywhere styles that bring new color to the fall picture. Allover pin dots, muted French designs and tiny florals look brand-new on dark backgrounds.

Fashion Prints: A Varied Story

Brilliantly striped evening skirts boyish blouses with tiny animal motifs, tweed-printed career dresses are among fall's leaders.

Tastefully understated prints appear on party dresses; exotic paisleys run the range from fireside trousers to town ensembles.

Shoe Styles Spotlighting New Grains

Texture and depth is a variety of leathers will give new interest to men's shoes this fall, and includes the big use of the new chromium grained leathers and suede leathers in casual shoes as dramatic evidence of this trend.

While casuals stress soft grain leathers, dress shoes make more use of satiny finish leathers with smooth surface and mellow depth qualities. Calfskin leather, with its varying color highlights, also fits into this movement toward depth and dimension.

STYLES ACCENT LEATHERS

Shag bucks and suede leathers are also highlighted in chukka or desert boot types, usually with simple pattern lines that put the spotlight of interest on the leathers. Soft grain and glove leathers are favored in low-topline patterns and also in many slip-on types without without goring.

TOWN SHOES SLIMMER

Town shoes are cut on slimmer lines. Shoes are lighter in weight, more flexible, easier on the foot. Dark colors are in accord with the trend in men's clothing. And the black shoe emerges as the really big fashion news for fall.

The brown family is well represented with emphasis on the darker shades for town.

The slip-on has become a great Canadian fashion and will continue its popular role this Fall. In black or dark polished leather, conservatively styled, it's a favorite business shoe for the young executive type. However, laced shoes are holding their own and even outdistancing the slip-ons in many places.

Mother-to-Be Has Choice of Latest Styles

The big news in maternity clothes is the costume suit—with a smart overblouse matching the jacket lining. Scarves will also get the matched treatment.

The sailor dress, with its softer lines, is another important maternity style. Big middy collars call attention to the neckline and away from the waistline. Many collars, in linen, faille or fur, are detachable. Turtle necks also provide an interesting neckline variation.

Fur will be popular, not only at the neck, but as trim for cap sleeves and jacket hems.

This year's maternity clothes have more back interest. Jackets are bloused, have inverted pleats in the back or back belts. The main color story is told in brightly accented neutrals.

Indians Rated 18-10 Favorites Over Giants As Series Gets Under Way

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

WHO?

Somewhere in the star-studded theatre of the New York Giants and the Cleveland Indians there may be lurking a little guy who is not on the payroll. But, as in a great many former world baseball classics he may pop up when the least expected and either hang a hero's crown or the horns and whiskers of a goat on an Indian or a Giant.

It could be a nationally-famous star, or an unknown fledgling. The little guy is not fussy. He may not act at all. But usually, there has to be a goat or a hero.

The first game of the series will be over by the time this hits the front porches. The little cuss already may have gotten in his devilitry, or acclaim.

There have been some notable goats, also heroes, since the first world series, a two-game affair between Chicago and Cincinnati was played back in 1882. Both teams scored a shut-out, and there were no spells to be divided.

One of the earliest heroes was Christy Mathewson The Giants' star flung three shutouts in six days, whiffing 18, in 1905.

Then there was the immortal Babe, who pitched a 2-1, 14-inning victory for Boston in 1916. In 1918 the Babe drove in the winning run of the first game for the Sox. Max Flack, Cub catcher, was the goat, dropping a fly ball to allow two runs to score, as the Sox won the last game 2-1.

Then, of course, there was the series' lone triple play by Bill Wambsganss of Cleveland, in 1920. Catcher Hank Gowdy of the Giants, tripped over his mask while chasing a pop foul in the 12th inning of the last game, leading to the series-winning run for Washington.

In 1925 the Senators' shortstop, Roger Peckinpaugh, committed eight errors to win the "horns." Then there was the great Grover Cleveland Alexander, who struck out Tony Cruscilli, recorded in a former column. In 1928 the Babe and Lou Gehrig hit four and three homers, respectively, to share the laurel wreath for the Yankees.

And do you recall old man Howard Ehmke, the Athletics' old warhorse, who was a surprise starter in the 1929 series, and fanned 13 for the win. Hack Wilson of the Cubs, was the goat, dropping a fly ball in the sun when the A's scored 10 runs in the seventh inning.

In 1931 the irrepressible "Pepper" Martin, of the Gashouse Gang of St. Lou, cracked out 12 hits, batted .500 and stole five bases. Then in 1932 the Babe poled two homers against Chicago, one of them his so-called "prediction shot."

Cincy catcher Ernie Lombardi collided with Charley Keller of the Yankee in 1939 and lay stunned at the plate, the extra run crossing while he was "bye-bye." In 1941, Mickey Owen of the Dodgers, muffed a third strike with two out in the ninth and the Yankees went on to score four times and win 7-4.

The Red Sox Johnny Pesky wore the horns in the 1946 series for delaying a relay throw to the plate to head off the series-winning run. "Cat" Brecheen won three in this series for the Cards.

The Yankees' Bill Bevens had a no-hitter, the only one of the entire series, staring him in the face, against the Dodgers in the 1947 series. He needed but one out. He walked two, and gave up a pinch-hit double to Cookie Lavagetta—and lost the game.

Then you all recall Johnny Mize, who came off the Yankee bench in the 1952 series, to smash out three homers. Gil Hodges, Dodger star, went hitless in 21 times at bat in the same series.

SOFTBALL

The Belleville District Softball League has three aspirants for provincial championships still in the running, and the coming week-end may tell the tale.

The Point Anne Intermediate "A" squad which meets Stratford here in Toronto in the third game of their OASA playdowns, will advance, if they win, to the southern Ontario finals against either Meaford or Toronto, the winners in turn clashing with the Northern Ontario champs for the all-Ontario title.

Frankford's strong intermediate "B" team has advanced to the fifth round playdowns and meets Walkerton at home tonight at 8.30 with the second game slated for Walkerton Saturday at 8.30.

The Frankford Juvenile "C" club has reached the Ontario finals and squares off with the Wingham squad at home on Saturday, October 2, starting at 4 p.m. The second game is at Wingham October 9.

Meanwhile, the Belleville Bobcats are cooling their heels awaiting St. Catharines - Toronto winner for the Intermediate "AA" finals series.

CLASS WILL TELL!

That's right. Class did tell. And the Bata cams up with a sterling effort here last night to prove to the Oshawa Transports that when the chips were down they had what it takes to win a real championship. The Goyermen came up with a fine defensive effort while the Transporters kicked the ball around for costly errors, and failed to hit three Bata hurlers when clouts meant runs.

Coach Vern Goyer took no chances. He shot pitchers into the breach at the slightest sign of weakening—and it paid off. Bobby Bunton, plus a sore arm, copped the nod with Flemmy McDuff coming up with a fine last-minute relief job. Cec Hall gave up eight hits, but four miscues by his mates did not help matters. True they garnered twelve hits, four of them doubles, but they were scattered over the nine-inning route.

The Oshawa players at least proved themselves sports-men as they congratulated the Batas on their win. That cheering in the background probably emanates from the Toronto Hecklings and Caterers. Oshawa had no alibis. They were beaten by a better team on the night's play, in fact all through the series. Yup, class will tell. Right, Mr. Campbell?

Tribe Yet to Meet Defeat In World Series Competition; Sal Maglie, Lemon Got the Nod

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Rival managers Leo Durocher of the Giants and Al Lopez of the Indians, opened up with their aces today as New York and Cleveland, a pair of old spring rivals, clashed in the first game of the 51st world series at the Polo Grounds.

No surprises, no gambles, no last-minute switches. The opening game pitchers were strictly advertised with Sal Maglie hurling for the Giants and Bob Lemon for the Indians.

Leading off with Maglie was strictly in character for Durocher. The 37-year-old righthander was Leo's front man in every important series during the regular season stretch drive. Lopez has said all along that if the Giants opened up with Maglie, he would pit Lemon against him.

Just as the 18-to-10 odds favored Cleveland to capture the world championship in the tradition The Yankees, who set a record by winning 111 games during the regular season to win three in the New York Yankees, are undefeated in world series competition. They swept over Brooklyn in 1920 and Boston in 1948. Lemon, a 22-game winner this season, has won two world series games in 1940 and won both.

HAVE LOST MORE

The Giants, on the other hand, have lost more world series games than any other club. They have appeared in 17 classic and they have bowed in nine of them. Maglie pitched five innings in the 1951 world series and was the losing hurler but and lost.

"Who else could I pick but Maglie?" Durocher answered when asked to explain his pitching choice Tuesday. "He's won the big game for me all year. He beat Milwaukee when they threatened to catch and he beat Brooklyn to clinch the pennant for us. He's the pitcher. He pitches follow him."

Lopez said he would follow Lemon with Early Wynn, his other 20-game winner, in the second game and Durocher will use Johnny Antonelli, his 21-game winning lefthander. Leo declined to reveal his third game starter but Lopez unhesitatingly named Mike Garcia, who just missed giving the Indians three 20-game winners.

"Garcia will pitch Friday in Cleveland even if he works in relief in one of the two games here," the soft-spoken Cleveland skipper said.

BOTH CONFIDENT

Both managers were confident of victory although they obviously has great respect for each other. While Durocher was naturally eager to see the Giants get off on the winning foot, he thought the second game would be the key contest of the series.

"If Antonelli can check those guys," he mused, "I may have a surprise in store for them."

The surprise, of course, would be Don Liddle, like Antonelli, a lefthander. So it comes down to this. If Antonelli wins Thursday, Liddle will probably pitch the third game for the Giants. If the lanky Antonelli, Leo's third game choice will be righthander Ruben Gomez.

Just as in the case of the starting pitchers, the respective batting orders showed no surprises. Each team fielded its "regular" lineup. Dave Philley, the only doubtful starter in the Cleveland lineup because of his .226 batting mark, was in the right field and batted sixth. In left field for the Giants was Monty Irvin, who had been alternating with Monte Irvin during the past two months. Hodges, a left-handed power-hitter with a .341 batting average, plays when the opposing pitcher is right-handed. He batted fourth between Don Mueller and Willie Mays.

LIKES 'EM FAST

"Rhodes loves to hit against fast ball pitching," Durocher explained "and Lemon, Wynn and Garcia are all fast ball pitchers."

Both managers claimed their teams to be in fine physical condition for the four-of-seven series. That's positively true of the Giants, The Indians, though, have a couple of minor aches.

Larry Doby, the American League's home run and runs batted in leader and the Indians' chief lefthanded power threat, has a muscle in his right shoulder in a slide in Saturday's game against Detroit. He sat out the season's finale and still can't swing freely.

Al Rosen, who supplies the right-handed punch, also missed the last game due to a pulled right thigh.

REMEMBER WHEN

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

John Cobb, the British speed ace, was killed two years ago today when his jet-propelled speedboat smashed up on Loch Ness in Scotland. Cobb, who already held the world auto speed record of 394 m.p.h., had made one speedboat run at 206 m.p.h. and was attempting the repeat run when the craft disintegrated.

Series Notes

NEW YORK (AP)—Bob Feller, who has won about everything, but a world series game, wisecracked: "I size it up as a two-run series with each game producing some new ulcer."

Both Al Rosen and Larry Doby, Feller's Indian mates are nursing slight injuries. Rosen has a lame knee and sore back, while Doby jammed his shoulder sliding last Saturday. "I'll be ok," said Rosen. He'd better be. Doby also said he'd be all right.

The hotels here are jammed and one owner, Irwin Kramer of the Edison, reported that five different Clevelanders offered him tickets for all the games in exchange for a room while the Indians and Giants are playing at the Polo Grounds. "Couldn't do it," said Kramer. "Haven't got a room in the house." A cabbie reported that the heart of town was "like New Year's Eve.

Rosen, incidentally, likens the Giants to the Chicago White Sox, "except they have more power," . . . when Lemon was announced as the first-game starter for Lopez, the ace Trite hurler, shrugged: "So what's new?"

Who was the big man in the Indians' manager's American League pennant? "Al Smith, outfielder," said Lopez. "Let's take my word for it. Check the players and they'll agree unanimously." Smith, who has been bothered by the late afternoon sun, probably will be switched to right field in the late innings.

Jimmy Barbieri, captain of the Schenectady, N.Y., Little League champions, was listed in the line-up for the first ball . . . Dark is the toughest of the Giants hitters, according to the Indians . . . Dan Campanella, Brooklyn catcher, was on hand and even had a quip: "If the Giants don't get to Wynn early, it'll be too late. There could be more wisecracks than hits in this series.

Conversation between batting champions Willie Mays and Bobby Avila while they were posing for pictures:

Mays: "I wish you all the luck in the world."

Avila: "I hope you go 15-for-4."

Mays: "Say, hey, there, man. You shouldn't talk to a friend that way."

MUST REPAIR FIELD

VANCOUVER (CP) — Empire Stadium is in for a face lifting to come the end of the baseball season. V. Ben Williams, general manager of the Pacific National Exhibition, which operates the $1,400,000 stadium, said Tuesday he is convinced the infield must be ripped and relaid.

The infield of the 25,000-seat stadium, opened last July, has been ankle-deep in water and mud for two weeks. Water from heavy rains is apparently unable to soak through subsoil into the drainage system. It has been estimated that it will cost $50,000 to rip up the infield and relay it.

HOPMAN CONFIDENT

MELBOURNE ZAP) — Harry Hopman, forthright manager of Australia's tennis team, Tuesday tabbed his players to retain the Davis Cup in Sydney. "The boys are on top of their form." Hopman returned to Australia from the team's summer tour abroad.

Chiefs Swamp Royals 15-1; Need One Win

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — The Syracuse Chiefs needed only one more victory tonight in their final International League playoff series against the Montreal Royals to win the Little World Series.

The Chiefs whipped into a 3-1 lead Tuesday night when they overwhelmed the Royals, 15-1, with a 10-run outburst in the seventh inning. The Chiefs, who win tonight's game, they take on the Louisville Colonels, American Association winners, in the little world series.

The tide in the current final set has reversed completely. The Royals started out fast, winning the first game. But the Chiefs, who were in-and-outers most of the regular season, snapped back to win the next three.

Jack Sanford pitched a three-hitter for the winners Tuesday night, blanking the Royals until two out in the ninth when Rocky Nelson hit his 35th home run of the year.

ROUT ROEBUCK

The Chiefs put Ed Roebuck, one of the relief pitchers, to rout in the process. During the regular season, Roebuck had beaten them three straight times and shut them out in the first playoff game. By relentlessly pecking away the Chiefs collected five hits, four walks, one hit batter and sent three men across the plate on a bases-loaded wild throw by Chico Fernandez.

Dodger Fans First in Line

NEW YORK (AP)—Police Tuesday dispersed baseball fans forming lines at the Polo Grounds ticket windows and for a time it appeared one of the time honored world series traditions was getting the old heave-ho.

But it was only temporary, a spokesman at police headquarters explained. The early birds were allowed to line up again late in the day after wooden barriers were erected to help officers maintain order. Seats went on sale at 9 a.m. today.

A Brooklyn Dodger fan, was the first in line early Tuesday, waiting with others to buy bleacher seats for the first game of the series.

He was George Schneider, 35-year-old delivery clerk, who said he'd cheer just as loudly for the Giants as he would have if the Dodgers were in the series. Furthermore, he predicted the Giants would win it in four straight. Schneider began the lineup at about 4 a.m.

Milt Schmidt May Play Wing

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP) — Coach Lynn Patrick of the National Hockey League Boston Bruins is experimenting a shift of veteran captain Milt Schmidt from centre to right wing.

The move came Tuesday during an extended scrimmage as Patrick shuffled his players in an effort to find a suitable replacement for retired Johnny Peirson, high-scoring right winger.

The Bruins open their exhibition schedule tonight against the American Hockey League Hershey Bears with a new goaltender, John Henderson, expected to be on hand. Henderson was acquired from Toronto Tuesday in exchange for defenceman Ray Gariepy.

Batas Defeat Oshawa 8-4; Win Eastern Ontario Senior Baseball Title

Winners Take Full Advantage Of Costly Foemen Miscues; 'Sammy, the Man' Stops 'Em

By GEORGE H. CARVER
(Sports Editor)

For the first time since the halcyon days of 1928 when the Nationals won the provincial honors, a Belleville senior baseball team has reached in Ontario championship series.

The Batas did it at Exhibition Park last night, defeating the Oshawa Transporters 8-4 in no uncertain manner to win the Eastern Ontario title and the right to meet the Niagara Falls – Oakville winner for the OBA provincial bauble.

The Batas took the third game of the series with a sparkling defensive effort while turning four Oshawa misplays into payoff markers at the plates. Moreover, they came from behind a fourth-inning 3-1 deficit to score seven runs, while holding the foemen to a single over the five inning route.

TOOK NO CHANCES

Coach Vernon Goyer took no chances. He juggled his lineup and tossed new hurlers into the fray at the first sign of weakening. Jack Howard, Bunton and Mulholland, with Sammy the Man coming through in relief, put sparkling three-inning relief chore to stifle the rallying Oshawa batters. Bunton was credited with the victory.

The Transporters outhit the Batas 12-8. They left a man or men stranded in every inning and only three came through with scoring clouts. On the other hand outstanding defensive plays by Doug Hall, Dick Fitzpatrick and Keith MacDonald nipped rallies in the bud.

Cac Hall went the route for the Transporters and deserved a better fate. He mitted four and walked six and aided a losing cause with a double and a single.

Johnny Mowatt went to the mound to open the festivities and was touched for seven hits for three runs before he was forced over in the fourth with the score 3-1 against him. A sore arm bothered him and Coach Goyer hender gave up three hits for no runs till the seventh when Mulholland relieved him.

The Batas gave evidence of a starch defense in the first inning, when with one out and Keller and Howard aboard with a double and single, they came up with a sparkling twin killing to quell the rally. Howard pinged across Keith MacDonald ran around to the twin fence to pull down Morocsek's towering fly, while in the sixth Doug Hall's lacquer drive over short brought the 400 fans to their feet.

Doubles by Masson and Hall and Kellar's single were good for two Oshawa runs in the third while McArthur's single, McCormick's error and a stolen base tallied the third run in the fourth.

McCormick slashed out a single for the Batas to lead off the third inning and the shortstop went to second on Mowatt's sacrifice. Hull singled with McCormick pulling up at third, and went out at third on MacDonald's infield out with McCormick crossing the plate.

Fitzpatrick hit the centre field fence for an automatic double in the fourth and Pettitt drew a walk. Gerry Goyer struck out and Denny Jones drew a fc-ull, filling the sacks. Vern Goyer came in as a pinch-hitter for McCormick and slashed out a sizzling infield hit that the Oshawa second baseman bobbled. Fitz scored and Jones raced home when the third baseman dropped the ball. Bunton struck out to end it.

Harvey Jones' single in the 5th, plus a pair of walks, one intentional to Vern Goyer, sent the Batas into a one-run lead in the sixth and Guy stretched the margin to three in the bottom of the seventh.

TWO IN SEVENTH

Kellar threw Hull out to lead off this inning and then Keith Donald got a life. He stole second and went to third when Keller threw wide in an effort to nip him at third on Bush's fielder's choice. Fitz struck out and McArthur threw to second to nip Bush. Fitz scored on the throw and Pettitt's hot single scored Bush.

Terry Jones flied out to open the Batas half of the eighth inning and Vern Goyer drew his second walk of the game. Only Kelleher, running for Goyer went to second on Mulholland's dashing single. Hall tossed Kelleher out at third on Hall's infield

Boss Man Speaks

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick laid down the law to the world series managers—Leo Durocher of the Giants and Al Lopez of the Indians—and the assembled umpires Friday.

Frick forbade any wholesale fiddling at the pitchers' mound. The manager or coach, along with the catcher and one infielder may gather at the mound to talk strategy with the pitcher, he said.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Halifax—Richard (Kid) Howard, 154½, Halifax, outpointed Armand Savoie, 135, Montreal, 12. (For Canadian lightweight title)

San Antonio, Tex.—Harold (Baby Face) Jones, 144, Detroit, knocked out Ike Conscripio, 144, Mexico City, 2.

Detroit—Duke Harris, 181½, Detroit, outpointed Billy Pinkus, 167½, Winnipeg, 8.

Howard Wins Split Verdict Over Savoie

HALIFAX (CP)—Canadian lightweight champion Richard (Kid) Howard of Halifax, tried but couldn't make himself heard amid the wild yelling of well wishers who packed his dressing room after he defeated Armand Savoie of Montreal Tuesday night.

Howard won a split decision over Savoie in a 12-round match for the Canadian lightweight title declared vacant by the Canadian Boxing Federation when Arthur King of Toronto ignored orders to lay his title on the line. Some 7,500 fans packed the house for the bout.

When order was restored, Howard was relieved.

"I feel great. He didn't even hurt me and now I'm the champion.

"Fight him again? Sure."

Savoie, unwarned and appearing fresh, said he was "overcautious and I let him out-punch me. I could have done better, but just walked too long for an opportunity. It won't be the same next time."

NO COMPLAINTS

His manager, Jack Kravatz said it was a good fight. "We have no complaints. If they will give us a rematch we will consider our plans."

The scoring on the fight showed Savoie ahead on referee Gussie McLellan's card by a 6-4-2 count while Judge Jack Delaney carried 5-4-3 in favor of Howard and Judge William Walker had 4-3-5 in Howard's favor.

Savoie was a previous champion but lost the title to King. Howard also holds the maritime light-weight crown. Savoie defeated Howard in June when he knocked him down three times in the fourth round. This time knockdowns were thrown out for the championship fight.

Savoie was the aggressor Tuesday night but Howard threw more punches. Howard waded in and pounded Savoie in the infighting and kept the Montreal fighter from getting in any heavy blows. There were no knockdowns. Except for brief flurries the fight lacked excitement, especially in the middle rounds when repeated clinches brought boos from the crowd.

Howard weighed 134½ pounds and Savoie 132.

Songin Regains Pass Accuracy

HAMILTON (CP) — Ed Songin may have his quarterback troubles behind him.

The signal-caller for Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four, who had 14 passes intercepted in four games this season, apparently has regained the passing accuracy that helped Tizzie win the Grey Cup last year.

Songin completed 10 of 18 passes to Hamilton game against Ottawa Rough Riders last Saturday. Three were touchdown tosses. Coach Carl Voyles says most of the credit goes to temporary backfield coach Carl Wise.

Said Wise: "Ed wasn't moving back far enough to throw the ball. He would set himself to pass and then find that he couldn't see over the heads of the linemen. I also got him to move back a little fast so that he had extra time to spot the ball."

Wise added that Songin had the habit of watching his intended receiver. Opposing players apparently noticed the fault and were right in there for interceptions.

That's been fixed, too. There weren't any interceptions Saturday.

'Odds Don't Mean a Thing–Lip', 'It Is All Wrapped Up', Grins Senor

NEW YORK (AP)—A couple of Otto's top baseball men couldn't get together today on a favorite to win the 1954 world series.

Warren Giles of Cincinnati, president of the National League, opined that New York's Giants would take it all. Al Lopez, Cleveland manager, said his Indians had it wrapped up.

And Tony Cuccinello, Cleveland coach, got into the argument with: "The first two games have no effect, so you can bet the Indians will take three straight out of here than the original Indians got for the whole island."

Giles took at the 18-10 odds in favor of the Indians, and the fact that only 17 of 36 writers picked the Giants, then warned:

"Someone's going to lose some money if they bet against the Giants at those odds. No series is that one-sided unless you have to remember, the New York club is just as good as Cleveland's in every department."

But Lopez, leading with his ace, pitcher Mike Garcia, and snappy second sacker, offered a new reason for a Cleveland victory.

"Three of my brothers and my cousin came up from Mexico for the series," he said. "They've got to win for them. I would be ashamed if we lost while my brothers were here."

Avila, in addition to his batting and second base duties, is president owner and general manager of the Mexico City Reds. He also turned amateur writing his world series experiences for Mexico City papers.

"We want to wind up the series in a hurry," Avila said. "My team in the league season this week-end, and I want to get down there as soon as I can."

Series Means Big Business

NEW YORK (AP)—The world series starting today is expected to set money records.

If the battle between the New York Giants and the Cleveland Indians goes the full four games, more dollars are expected to change hands than in any previous series.

The ball clubs and players won't be the only ones to get bonanzas.

Because of Midwest baseball fever, and because this year the series starts in the east, gate intake confined to New York City, some businessmen are looking for a golden harvest.

Even on the eve of the series, rooms were hard to find in the better New York hotels. Cleveland hotels reported they were sold out for days. Railroads and airlines serving the two cities report reservations are heavy.

Bars, restaurants, night clubs, beverage makers and hot-dog tycoons are looking for their biggest series.

More cash customers can crowd into the ball parks for this series than ever before. Ruth and Gehrig and that means more visitors in New York and Cleveland spending their money for lodging, food, drink and for entertainment after game hours.

The Polo Grounds here is the largest park in the National League, holding about 55,000. The Municipal Stadium in Cleveland is the largest ball park in the world, and can crowd 86,000 in to watch the Indians.

Giants and Indian managements both report ticket sell-outs, and should beat last year's total sales if the series goes more than five games. Ticket agencies say they can't raise any more ducats. And fewer tickets this year are reported to have reached speculators.

American League Marks Time On Athletics

NEW YORK (AP)—The American League has decided to sit back and wait to see what happens in the next two weeks or so before reaching a decision on what to do with Philadelphia Athletics.

Representatives of the eight league clubs Tuesday adjourned their day-long meeting, at which they heard two plans concerning the future of their stumpling Philadelphia franchise, until "sometime after Oct. 12." The club owners will then be brought up to date on the Athletics' financial situation.

Two plans were laid before the club owners, one calling for a shift of the franchise to Kansas City. The other would give a second group control and keep the club in Philadelphia at least for the time being.

Officials of two clubs, Washington and Detroit, have said they would oppose the shift to Kansas City. The location of a franchise in Briggs gave no reason for his opposition but said he would favor moving the franchise go to either Toronto or Minneapolis-St. Paul."

You're Wrong This Time, Gal

AUBURN, N.Y. (AP)—The Auburn Citizen-Advertiser was gathering local opinion on who would be the winner of the world series opening today.

A comely lady replied: "The Yanks, of course."

"Why I thought the Yankees weren't playing this year, she commented:

"Why I bought the Yankees always played in the series."

WINS 10TH

DETROIT (AP) — Duke Harris, 181½, Detroit, won a unanimous decision over Billy Pinkus, 167½, Winnipeg in the feature eight-round bout at Motor City Arena Tuesday night.

Komets, Indians Open Training

STRATFORD (CP)—Fort Wayne Komets of the International League and Stratford Indians of the Ontario Hockey Association senior A open training camps here Friday.

The Komets will work out mornings and afternoons and the Stratford team will have the ice at night. Stratford manager Dutch Meier says he will have a full complement of candidates on hand as will Pat Wilson, Fort Wayne coach.

The Indians open the season at Chatham Oct. 22 and play their first home game the next night.

Fort Wayne Komets meet Sudbury Wolves of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Oct. 3. They play in Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., and Sault Ste. Marie, Mich. before returning to the United States. They will play a game at Chatham on the way.

SCORE FIVE

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Jerry Gamble scored five goals in eight minutes of the third period Tuesday night to defeat Cleveland Barons 7-3 in an exhibition Hockey League exhibition game.

'Short' Fences Big Factor

NEW YORK (AP) — Scouts Al Lopez, soft-spoken skipper of the Cleveland Indians, has a hunch the 'Polo Grounds' short foul-line fences may be deciding factors in the first two games of the world series.

"This is one ball park where 'pull' will get you someplace," Lopez cracked as the American League champs went through a two-hour batting and fielding drill Tuesday in the New York Giants' home.

"Here, you've got to pull your outfielders closer together, and let the left or right fielder play the carom, with the centre fielder backing 'em up. There's no defence against a blooper hit down the foul line, as you lay to hold balls which hit the walls to singles if you can."

Your Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes, and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR THURSDAY, SEPT. 30, 1954

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Don't review unpleasant happenings; look forward with each new day to new achievement and happiness. It is possible to be very happy without big gains.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Trust another as you would wish to be trusted, and heed the wise counsel of knowing heads. Don't be too confident when you have been advised against it and don't divulge family confidences.

May 21 to June 20 (Gemini) — Be no dissenter, or worrier. Neither be unwisely hasty or willing to try "just anything" to get ahead. Investigate well before becoming involved in any matter. Better insure than worry.

June 21 to July 23 (Cancer) — A healthy, happier day than you may at first think. Do not be unethical because others are, or because you may be dissatisfied. Appreciate differences.

July 24 to August 22, (Leo) — If you have some special or extra work or obligations, attend to them promptly, and without misgivings. Don't worry over outcome; rather, concentrate upon doing your best at the moment.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo)—Work and recreate alternately to keep health and nerves in good order. But don't make it to much play, or vice versa. Eat sensibly and have no heated discussions at mealtime. Take all calmly.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—In trouble people often show great stability and humanitarianism, but in "fair weather" one would think some of the same people were enemies. More humane understanding!

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Your biggest enemy now may be a tendency to procrastinate in the little things that make a day complete or the help you go to the high achievement you should enjoy. Start work promptly and keep it up.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—A better day than you may at first think. Don't grumble at obstacles or disappointments. You can do much to make others feel better. Put your best foot forward.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Look out for arguments, unnecessary disagreements, dissension that could be avoided. It's a better day than many people may give it credit for being. Do your best to build it up.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Be circumspect; consider your own and family needs before engaging upon the task of helping others. Strain, overtiring are unwise; so is worry. Enjoy those "little" things.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Friendliness and appreciation should be a part of day's schedule, though you may not find these traits in the places you expect. But are you doing your part? Think things out carefully.

YOU BORN TODAY are well-balanced a humanitarian, steady-working, philosophical, and pleasant company if living on the higher plane. You can become very angry at injustices to the less fortunate, incensed at wrong practices. But you should not work your feelings up to such a pitch that you make yourself and others overwrought. You can do much good for the underprivileged for Libra natives often are leaders in public welfare and children's activities. You appreciate your heritage; you like good fun.

Colonial Policy Is Discussed By Labor Party

SCARBOROUGH, England (Reuters) — The British Labor party today officially took issue about the question of German rearmament as it turned its attention to the Conservative government's colonial policy with a blast at the "old typical pattern of Tory colonialism."

A member of Parliament, Arthur Skeffington, fired off on the present government and its colonial policy. He said "in central Africa with the Tory imposition of federation, it is hand-shaking of affairs in British Guiana, in Cyprus and Uganda, the present government are often returned to the old typical pattern of Tory imperialism."

The policy of the Labor party supports the idea of immediate self-government within the colonies as soon as practicable.

Meanwhile, British newspapers in their editorial columns were divided today over significance of Premier Mendes-France's visit.

The Times, independent, says the ground has started to give under Anthony Eden, the left-wing leader. "Mr. Bevan will presumably be free soon to be favorable to him as German rearmament. Without such an issue his position weakens . . . his personal prestige is declining."

The Manchester Guardian, Liberal, takes the view that the party leadership was strengthened by the visit, and that Bevan is on the downgrade.

The Daily Express, Conservative, said the party is no longer a party in the making but a party in the breaking. "With the division an impotence that falls on the socialists, a heavy blow is struck at anti-Americanism in Britain."

Towns, Farms In Honduras Flooded by Rains

TEGUCICALPA, Honduras (AP) Swollen by torrential rains, flooding rivers rampaged through the towns and banana plantations of northwest Honduras today. The United States' embassy messages for American help in coping with the worst disaster in Honduras' history.

The towns of La Lima, the country's banana capital, and United Fruit Co. headquarters, Chamelecon and San Pedro Sula were reported hardest hit.

In the Panama canal zone, the U.S. Army and the Red Cross loaded a transport plane with life rafts, life jackets and medical supplies. They believe the flood victims will suffer.

Honduran radio broadcasts heard in neighboring El Salvador said a number of persons were drowned in La Lima and that a landslide caught a truckload of refugees from La Lima, killing several.

Refugees were reported being evacuated from La Lima on makeshift rafts built with nails dropped by planes.

As the San Pedro Sula radio broadcast appealed for aid, rescue units sailed from the city to help persons clinging to rooftops and tree branches. The water system for the area of about 40,000 population was reported inoperative.

Israeli May Seek Council Action Against Egypt

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) Israeli representatives indicated today they may seek Security Council action against Egypt if Cairo officials refuse to surrender a small Israeli freighter seized Tuesday in the Gulf of Aqaba.

The vessel was taken by an Egyptian gunboat as it tried to pass through the Suez canal. Egypt has blocked Israeli shipping from the international waterway since the 1948 Palestine fighting.

Egyptian authorities charged the crew of the vessel with firing without provocation into a cluster of Egyptian fishing boats. In the confusion three fishermen were drowned and the Egyptians said several were wounded by gunfire.

Israeli officials hotly denied the charges and said that the vessel was unarmed. A Jerusalem spokesman said it was on a trip to ship the Israeli flag to attempt to pass through the canal.

The vessel sailed out through Egyptian territory from the Mediterranean sea to the Gulf of Sinai is owned by an Egyptian joint stock company in which the British government holds a controlling share. An international convention signed in Constantinople in 1888 declared the canal open to ships of all countries and free from blockade. Egypt claims the business retains police powers in the sides.

The Manchester Guardian, before the UN Security Council several times. In 1951 the 11-country group in a resolution called on the Cairo government to cease all restrictions on canal traffic.

Egyptian officials argue that the 1951 resolution recognized their right to stop and search ships bound through the canal for Israel, still technically at war with the Arab world.

Hees Predicts Federal Election In Two Years

CALGARY (CP) — Basing his prediction on two counts, George Hees, Progressive Conservative candidate in Spadina, here Tuesday night that the Liberal government will call a federal election within two years.

First assumption on which the Toronto Broadview member of Parliament based his election forecast was that Dominion-provincial tax agreements may be reviewed in 1957.

"I have been told this is the case," he said, "and if this is true, we believe the election will be called early to avoid such a controversial issue in an election year."

Second reason for his prediction was the much-rumored retirement of the prime minister.

"I know the Liberals are trying desperately to get Mr. St. Laurent to lead them into the next election because they realize they have no other leader of his stature."

If he is also reported from sources usually reliable, that the prime minister intends to retire during the next session of Parliament."

Fabian Suggests American Cops Quit Carrying Guns

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Robert Fabian, Britain's most celebrated detective since Sherlock Holmes, feels it might be a good idea if American cops quit carrying guns.

"The display of firearms is to be deprecated," mildly observed the detective, formerly a superintendent at Scotland Yard. "It incites the criminal to carry one, too.

"A firearm is not an equalizer—it is an antagonizer."

IMPOSING RECORD

In his 36 years' service with "The Yard" Fabian solved a dozen murders, helped send nine men to the gallows, more than 500 to prison.

"I never carried a gun in my life," he said, "although twice I had to take guns away from men who seemed to want to use them on me. The only weapon I ever needed was my hands."

An expert in ju-jitsu, Fabian began his career as a constable. He still feels the best way to cut down crime is to put more cops out on beats, swinging a nightstick.

"But I don't go along with this gun carrying," he said. "And it's not because I'm soft either.

"I'm not vicious, but I do think the pendulum has swung too far the wrong way in our treatment of criminals.

"We pamper both young delinquents and hardened criminals too much."

ADVOCATE LASHES

Fabian believes Britain made a mistake in doing away with the cat o' nine tails in 1948. He is convinced that 10 lashes on a criminal's back with "the cat," or 30 strokes with birch switches on his bared bottom teaches him an unforgettable lesson.

Since retiring from Scotland Yard in 1945, Fabian has turned out two books on his experiences, "Fabian of the Yard," and "London After Dark." He also writes a weekly column on crime for a British newspaper chain and recently completed 39 half-hour TV films, based on his own cases, for Teleflim Enterprises.

Recently Fabian visited Toronto to investigate the disappearance of 17-year-old Marion McDowell. Toronto police who disappeared from her boy friend's car in a lover's lane Dec. 6. He turned up no new evidence during a three-week investigation but is expected to return the case next week.

Known as "an unorthodox detective," Fabian, now in his 50s, rarely employed a disguise himself during his career at the Yard, but knew thousands of criminals by sight—and wanted them to know him by sight, too. Some he helped reform, many became—after business hours—his friends.

In 1932 after Fabian risked his life to disarm a bomb planted by Irish extremists, 50 of London's leading crooks struck off a medallion in his honor and threw him a surprise party. Later he was summoned to Buckingham Palace and presented with the King's Medal for gallantry—for the same feat.

Here are a few observations on crime by Britain's "detective of the century":

"It has been my experience that most killers do have grey eyes. People with brown eyes are more warm-natured.

WAGES OF SIN

"Criminals who work alone are usually the most difficult to catch. It is generally easier to catch a murderer than a robber.

"The most common mistake of criminals is that they go to the well too often."

"I'm a great believer in women as detectives, I mean. They are a better line even in solving the disguises of women criminals. It is hard for one woman to fool another woman.

Columnist Dies

TORONTO (CP) — Thomas W. Jones, 79, who for 30 years wrote "The Layman" column on the editorial page of the Toronto Star, died Monday. The column, often sprinkled with puns, was one of humorous comment on the news.

Born in Ireland, he contributed much of his early writing to Punch magazine. After the First World War, he migrated to the United States and wrote for Chicago newspapers. Later he moved to Toronto.

New President Of UN Assembly Well Liked

By WILLIAM HARCOURT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—The president of the United Nations General Assembly is known as a "diplomats' diplomat." He has also been called "a cool cup of tea."

Dr. Eelco Nicholaas van Kleffens of The Netherlands was elected president when the assembly convened for its ninth session Sept. 21. He succeeded Mme. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit of India.

Tall, slight, with a high, domed forehead and an equilibrist, the 59-year-old authority on international law entered diplomacy in 1918 when he received his doctorate in law from the University of Leyden.

HOLD KEY POSTS

His first appointment was with the secretariat of the League of Nations where he remained for three years. In 1922, he entered The Netherlands' diplomatic service and subsequently held several posts of responsibility culminating in his appointment as foreign affairs minister in 1939, shortly before the outbreak of the Second World War.

He continued in the post during his government's wartime exile in London and during that period wrote "Juggernaut over Holland," an account of the Nazi invasion of his country.

When the United Nations charter was drafted in San Francisco in 1945, Van Kleffens headed his country's delegation to the conference and signed the charter on behalf of The Netherlands. He represented his country on the UN Security Council the following year. From 1947 to 1950 he was Netherlands' ambassador to the United States and since 1950 has been ambassador to Portugal.

Not many persons penetrate his reserve but a reputation for loyalty in personal relationships belies the impression he gives of aloof coldness. He can exhibit a ready wit, is an amateur of classical music and a connoisseur of Dutch gin and American cigars.

ACCOMPLISHED LINGUIST

He is equally at home speaking English, French or German, can handle Spanish and Italian, and has a little Russian. When he took over as president, he announced he would speak in English and in French on alternate days.

In his acceptance address he told the assembly: "You can rely on my impartiality. I know I may count in turn upon your co-operation."

"What the world at large expects from us here is, a contribution to general peace on a basis of live and let live. Mere coexistence will not satisfy people; co-operation can also coexist. The nations need much more than that. There lies our ambitious and difficult program."

Approve Settlement

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Mr. Justice Wilfred Judson approved settlement of $3,040 in favor of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Beither of Waterloo at the Ontario Supreme Court.

Mr. Beither won $1,940 for damage to his car in an accident near Georgetown last year. Mrs. Beither, driver of the car at the time of the accident, was awarded $100 for personal injuries suffered in the collision.

Defendant and driver of the second car was Lorna Draper of Georgetown.

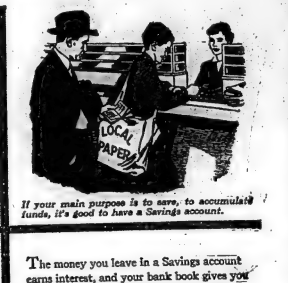
Saving money . . . and writing cheques

A bank offers you two types of deposit account, Savings and Current.



If your main purpose is to save, to accumulate funds, it's good to have a Savings account.

If you write cheques frequently, you will like the many advantages of a Current account.

The money you leave in a Savings account earns interest, and your bank book gives you an up-to-date, continuing record of your financial progress. If your funds are active, with frequent deposits and withdrawals, a Current account provides a special service; a monthly statement, together with your cancelled cheques—useful as receipts and a ready reference for budgeting, bookkeeping and other purposes.

Conference Takes Compromise Plan For Arms Control

New Program Is Proposed By Members From Belgium

TORONTO (CP) — A giant traffic jam today blocked an estimated 4,000 city-bound cars on the Queen Elizabeth highway at the city's western outskirts, and kept thousands of persons late for work.

Robert Kerr, police traffic inspector, said it was a case of too many cars trying to funnel from Highway 2 and the Queen Elizabeth highway onto a bridge over the Humber river.

"That's the time of traffic attempting to move into three lanes," he said.

Motorists, however, said construction gangs working on the Niagara-Toronto natural gas pipeline on the Humber river bridge at that point were responsible for the jam. Motorists said only a single traffic lane was open to eastbound traffic early today. They said two bulldozers were moving earth from the roadway.

As a result of a 4,000 - car jam last Sunday night, pipeline crews were ordered to work all night.

However, Wednesday night workmen halted streetcar traffic when they piled dirt on the streetcar tracks. A heavy rainstorm Tuesday also added to the jam when it blocked off the streetcar at the Humber river loop nearby. Early morning fog slowed motorists as well as streetcars.

Huntingdon, Que. Is in Danger Of Dying

OTTAWA (CP)—"Without exaggeration, Huntingdon is in danger of dying."

So spoke Leo Cappiellé, mayor of that Quebec textile town, Wednesday as he joined forces with Brenner, Que., in support of the textile industry's bid for higher duties on competitive wool cloth imported from Britain.

"Every yard of wool fabric landed in this country from Britain has taken work away from a Canadian worker, and the people of Huntingdon have felt it first hand the effects of this," the MP-board.

Suffering "severe depression," two of the town's four textile mills had been shut down and the others had cut operations. There had been similar reductions in employment in recent months, but 225 were out without jobs.

MILLS SHUT DOWN

T. F. Barnet, president of Renfrew's board of trade, said the town's new wood mill was also shut-last December, throwing 250 persons out of work. The company had secured temporary jobs, but 185 still were jobless. One of the mills had been put into bankruptcy.

It is "pathetic," he said, to see men who held high positions in the mills forced to take inferior work. Some had lost their cars and furniture. Real estate values had dropped and the town's bakers, butchers and other merchants also had lost business.

The two ministerial officials were called as witnesses as J. Grant Glassco, spokesman for the textile industry, continued to present evidence to back up the industry's bid for higher import tolls.

He presented a series of statistics figures to show that employment in the Huntingdon textile mills dropped to 5,170 on June 1, 1954, from 6,813 on March 1, 1951.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis — The weather map shows two areas of cool unsettled weather in the air over the southeastern states is causing a late September - like wave and some of this air is protruding up into southern Ontario. Today and Friday the weather over western Canada and the west central states will be fair to cool. Wednesday night and below freezing temperatures were reported in Saskatchewan and northern Manitoba.

LONDON (CP)—The nine-power German rearmament conference today accepted in principle a compromise plan for arms control, an authoritative conference source told Reuters news agency.

The question of arms control has been the main point of contention in plans to rearm Germany within the West's Atlantic pact defence lineup.

The nine foreign ministers accepted the compromise plan framed by Belgium's Paul - Henri Spaak, sources said.

The Belgian plan for controlling arms is said to represent a compromise between rival plans advanced by France on the one side and other European states on the other.

FOLLOWS TALKS

The plan, which said agreement in principle was reached by Western statesmen after important pre-session talks between Spaak and Pierre Mendes-France, the French premier.

After this morning's session of all nine foreign ministers, Canada's L. B. Pearson told reporters that "everything is going very well indeed."

Spaak's proposal is a compromise between the severe limitations sought by the French and say re-newal of German militarism and the unrestricted rearmament by the others.

Conference sources said it was agreed Wednesday that an enlarged Brussels treaty group including West Germany and Italy would set the upper limits on forces contributed by member states to the continental pool.

The Belgian plan was understood to hold the key to solving the problem of what safeguards should be written into the new defence project and who should impose them.

Most delegates here firmly believe the commitment will tip the scales in favor of West German rearmament in the French Assembly.

FINISH TONIGHT

Heartened by the progress made during the last two days, West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer predicted that the delegates would finish business tonight. But others, notably the French, thought the details would take somewhat longer to be worked out.

Home for Blind Opens in Kingston

KINGSTON (CP) — Justice Minister Garson Wednesday opened the Canadian National Institute home for the blind, Quinte-St. Lawrence, here.

The residence and training centre will serve blind in the counties of Hastings, Prince Edward, Lennox Addington, Frontenac, Leeds and Grenville.

Lt.-Col. A. E. Baker, Toronto, managing director of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, expressed the hope that the response of those who contributed towards construction of the home might "spill over and do work for others of the handicapped in this country."

All Turned Out for Judy Garland's Night, She Didn't Disappoint Them

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—They all turned out Wednesday night for Judy Garland's big night, and she didn't disappoint them.

The occasion was the Hollywood Pantages Theatre and the world premiere of Judy's comeback movie, "A Star is Born." When the former child star stepped out of her limousine, applause broke out and a shrill scream that indicated her comeback was a reality.

Most of the celebrities whose career seemed wrecked after her last picture a few years ago, was all smiles and happily faced the photographers, television cameras and radio mikes. Then she entered the theatre to see the three-hour, 36-minute film which sets out to be the biggest star audiences in recent history.

Previewers who saw the film seemed to agree that it was a triumph for Miss Garland.

Gable (with Kay Spreckles) showed up to honor Judy. Others who aroused the fans included Elizabeth Taylor and Michael Wilding, Debbie Reynolds and Eddie Fisher's friend, Joey Forman, Jeanne Crain and Dan Long, Fred MacMurray with June Haver, Joan Crawford with Cesar Romero and Lana Turner with his mother.

Being one of the most expensive films ever made, "A Star Is Born" naturally had to draw the best fans, searchlights and stars. It was a magnificent turnout, as Hollywood loves.

Miss Garland, who plays a movie star in the film, was introduced to TV audiences by George Jessel, who recalled giving her her premier when she was in a vaudeville act called the Gumm Sisters.

Previewers who saw the film seemed to agree that it was a

FORMER ARMY SGT. WILL BE TRIED ON TREASON CHARGE

Conviction Upset By U.S. Supreme Court

BALTIMORE (AP)—John David Provoo, former army staff sergeant whose conviction and life sentence for treason were upset by the United States Court of Appeals, will be retried here, probably early next year.

A new warrant charging the 36-year-old former bank clerk with treason while a prisoner of the Japanese in the Second World War was issued here Wednesday.

U.S. Attorney Hall Cochran Doub said he will seek an indictment before the federal district court grand jury convening here Oct. 12. Provoo will be arraigned for trial within three months of that time.

Doub, who said he believes the government considers "this the strongest treason trial since that of Aaron Burr," indicated that the new trial will be a costly and drawn out as the first.

WEIRD CASE

One of the weirdest cases to come out of the war, Provoo was convicted Feb. 11, 1953, of broadcasting propaganda for Premier Tojo the Japanese, of abusing fellow prisoners of war, of helping direct life hell camps, and of causing the death of army Capt. Burton C. Hoffman, a charge laid on him by their Japanese captors.

Hoffman reported the death penalty but the New York federal judge, Gregory F. Noonan, spared Provoo's life. Noonan considered Provoo deluded and sentenced him to a lifetime in prison.

The U.S. District Court of Appeals in New York last Aug. 27 upset the conviction and sentence on the ground that Provoo should have been tried in Maryland, where he was an army prisoner at the time of his arrest on the treason charge. The government appealed. The appeals Court also said the government wrongfully eliminated from the jury that Provoo was homosexual.

It left up to the government the choice of appealing to the Supreme Court or going back to Provoo in the Maryland district. The issuance of the warrant Wednesday eliminated the former possibility, Doub said.

MEDICATION-DOLLAR LOSS

The reversal cost the U.S. government a million-dollar investment. It cost the Witnesses—30 for the government, 35 for the defence —brought from all over the world. It cost the government that much to convict Provoo.

Doub said most of the witnesses probably will be recalled.

Provoo, who denied aiding the Japanese and causing pain or death if he disobeyed his captors, was employed by the government after he joined the army in 1941, Provoo was graduated from Officers' training and donned the white robes of Buddhism when Japanese forces overran Singapore.

FILM OFFICIAL SHOOTS SELF

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A Columbia pictures official shot himself to death in the Palace Hotel here Wednesday after talking with his estranged wife in Hollywood and Lawrence Tibbett, actor, reported.

He was Jack Mitchell, 47, transportation chief for the movie company.

Dry for 60 Years Tweed Goes Wet as 90 P.C. Vote

Dry for more than half a century the village of Tweed voted wet Wednesday when more than 90 per cent of the eligible voters went to the polls for a record vote.

All three questions before the voters were carried. Men's beverage room licence received a 61 per cent vote; women's beverage rooms 64.3 per cent, and the dining room licence 88 per cent.

It was the fourth time in the past ten years that the residents of Tweed had been called to vote on the beverage room and liquor lounge question. On two occasions the vote had been thrown out because of irregularities and one vote rejected liquor.

Less than a year ago Tweed villagers voted and the beverage room question and lounge licence was turned down by a very narrow margin. The wet interests appealed the vote and it was set aside by Ilis Honor Judge J. C. Anderson, magistrate at Belleville.

In the voting yesterday 640 voted in favor of men's beverage rooms and 321 against; 618 voted for women's beverage rooms and 342 against, while the vote for the dining room licence was 656 to 106 against. A 75 per cent vote is required to carry the issue.

With an eligible voting list of slightly over 1,000, 961 persons voted. Eighty-one persons voted in the advance poll.

HAVE LIQUOR STORES

The northern village has been under local option since 1894 and has been dry since that date. Beer and liquor stores were approved within the last five years but this is the first time the necessary majority could be obtained in the beverage room and lounge question.

There was high interest in the campaign with Dr. G. M. Dales as chairman of the group formed a committee opposing the beverage rooms. Len Taylor headed a Civic Progress Committee championing the wet cause.

Vote in the various polls was as follows:

| ADVANCE POLL | Yes | No |
|---|---|---|

Al Smith of Indians Hits First Pitch of Game for Homer

NEW YORK (AP) — The sun broke through today as New York Giants and Cleveland Indians met in the second game of their series at the Polo Grounds.

It was hot and murky and a bee flew over the outfield.

Manager Al Lopez of the Indians called on Early Wynn, a husky 34-year-old righthander with a season's mark of 23-11, as opening pitcher. Manager Leo Durocher of the Giants named Johnny Antonelli, a young lefthander who won 21 and lost 7.

Durocher stuck with the lineup which won Wednesday's 10-inning thriller 5-2, again saving Dusty Rhodes, the goat hero of the opener, for pinch - hitting duty. Monte Irvin was in left field.

Lopez made one change. He sent Wally Westlake, a big righthanded batter, to right instead of switch-hitting Dave Philley, hitless Wednesday.

The park filled much more slowly than Wednesday when 52,751 attended the opener.

FIRST INNING

Indians: Smith hit Antonelli's first pitch out of the ball park, for a home run. Some ten other players, Davey Jones of Detroit in 1909 and Gus Worthington of the Yankees in 1953, ever had opened a world series game with a homer. Avila rolled out, Antonelli to first a third strike. Rosen walked on a full count. Wynn hit a long drive, Westlake rifled a single into centre field but Mays charged in fast to take the ball on a third hop and threw to Westrum at the plate. ## GANG SMUGGLING OF U.S. CIGARETS IS BROKEN UP

Likely Seventy-Five Persons to Be Charged

MONTREAL (CP)—One man already has pleaded guilty and 14 others were scheduled to appear in court today in connection with what RCMP term a multi-million dollar smuggling ring in Quebec province.

The 15 were arrested in raids that began at dawn Wednesday. Maurice Guy, 28, of Harbourville, Que., pleaded guilty to smuggling Wednesday afternoon and was fined $100 under the Excise Act.

The RCMP estimated that five Quebec gangs netted a $9,000 - a - 000 profit during the last 12 months. The gangs smuggled mostly cigarets, some 2,500,000 annually, from the United States, but also handled margarine and other American merchandise, police said.

The rings operated from Trois-Rivieres to the Ontario border along the southern part of the province, said inspector Raoul Carriere, in charge of the 12-month investigation which led to the arrests.

The inspector said 75 persons in all will be taken into custody.

Each of the 17 RCMP detachments working on the case was given a painstakingly compiled list of names, addresses and routes of smuggled goods in its area. The arrested men ranged from labourers to shopkeepers.

One police official said he is "reasonably sure" there is no connection with other gangs reportedly bringing margarine banned by Quebec law from Ontario.

Sgt. Frank Law of the RCMP said the gangs were organized every "key" men, the first of those "behind the small fry" to be trapped. He said one ring had an interstate wholesale - retail organization that kept cigarets from border points to large distributors, then to vendors who peddled them to the consumer.

One man in a big factory might be a receiver over a certain quantity of cigarets, handing them to contacts in each department for sale to the employee.

Anti-Coagulant Drugs Help Many Patients

CLEVELAND (AP) — Patients who receive anti-coagulant drugs following heart attacks have one third greater chance of surviving than those given a placebo treatment, a country-wide survey of 1,031 Americans indicates.

The study was conducted at two hospitals here and 14 others throughout the United States under the sponsorship of the American Heart Association.

Anti-coagulant drugs are given to check formation of blood clots.

The study showed that 23.4 per cent of 422 patients who received standard treatment for heart attacks died within six months. Of 589 given anti-coagulants, 16 per cent died.

Heart attacks occur most frequently when a blood clot forms in the heart muscles is blocked by formation of a clot in one of the coronary arteries of the heart. The block is called coronary thrombosis.

Pearson Assures Conference Canada Not Affected by Action of France

LONDON (CP)—Canada's L. B. Pearson has assured the nine-power London conference on German rearmament that his country's military commitments in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization remain unaffected by France's decision to withdraw from European Community.

The external affairs minister spoke Wednesday—the same day that Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden pledged British military support for the proposed new European Defence Community—as Secretary John Dulles warned that "the United States might have to pull its forces out of Europe if the free countries cannot agree on a system of European unity.

The Canadian delegate said Eden's pledge was of "historic importance," and Dulles' warning also was important "not only for the development of European unity but for the larger Atlantic community of nations with which we are concerned."

European unity could not be effectively secured "unless the lines not only across the channel but across the Atlantic are strong and secure."

He reiterated Canada's stand that while Germany must be associated with the defence of Europe through the development of the NATO community, this community means "the focal point of our participation in collective defence."

Canada now has in Europe an infantry brigade in West Germany, an air division of three air force headquarters in Metz, France, and three navy escort vessels in France and Germany.

Canada also is training 1,000 airmen from nine NATO countries annually at an estimated cost of $62,500,000 for the "present financial year."

Thirty-six of the Royal Canadian Navy's 82 warships were earmarked for assignment to NATO if needed in 1955-56.

Canadian officials estimate the total cost of Canada's annual aid contribution to the treaty organization this year at $3,000,000,000.

P.M. and Duplessis Will Discuss Taxation Issue

Will Meet on Neutral Grounds, Montreal, Tuesday

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Prime Minister St. Laurent and Premier Duplessis of Quebec will meet Tuesday on neutral ground—Montreal—to discuss the taxation issue that has soured relations between the federal and Quebec governments.

A personal, informal telephone call to Ottawa Wednesday by the Quebec premier brought prompt agreement between the two on the meeting, which may be a historic turning point in the future of relationships between their two governments.

The arrangement, unexpected both in Ottawa and in Quebec, came in the wake of a succession of recent statements by the two leaders which, in forceful language spelled out their positions on the tense question of tax relationships.

ST. LAURENT POSITION

Mr. St. Laurent is the advocate of federal-provincial tax agreements under which every province but Quebec has surrendered taxing power to Ottawa in its constitutional right to collect personal and corporation income taxes in return for federal grants. The prime minister says that this promotes national unity and spreads Canada's wealth more evenly across the country.

Mr. Duplessis holds that to yield Quebec's taxation rights would be to fetter provincial autonomy. He has charged that the tax agreements increase the influence and power of the federal government and would bring centralization that would destroy the rights of Quebec's French-Canadian population. The two leaders will leave the technical advisers behind for the private meeting at 10:30 a.m. EDT on Tuesday.

Speculation has it that the result may decide the calling of a federal or provincial election — or both.

MAY BE BASIS

However, observers say the meeting may well lay the basis for a preparatory conference on taxation matters. Such a conference was proposed by Mr. St. Laurent in a telegram Tuesday night to Egan Chambers, Progressive Conservative candidate in the Nov. 8 federal by-election in Montreal St. Antoine-Westmount constituency. Mr. Chambers had urged settlement of the tax dispute.

After talking with Mr. Duplessis by telephone, Mr. St. Laurent took the unusual step of calling the press to his office in Parliament Buildings, telling a reporter the meeting was arranged, and asking that the location be kept secret from other reporters.

Later, Duplessis called a press conference in Quebec City to make the same announcement. He said he telegraphed Mr. St. Laurent after reading of the prime minister's telegram to Mr. Chambers expressing willingness to talk over the dispute.

IMPORTANCE MARKED

"I consider that this problem is so important that I felt justified to set aside sentiments of legitimate pride and I telephoned Mr. St. Laurent from Quebec," Mr. Duplessis said.

Arrest Warrant Issued For Key Figure

PARIS (AP) — An arrest warrant was issued today for a key figure wanted for questioning in connection with the leakage of French defence secrets to the Communists. There is considerable speculation, however, that he is dead or in hiding from the Reds.

The warrant went out for Andre Baranes, a fellow-travelling journalist named as a long-time police informer. He failed to answer a summons to appear today before Maj. Jean de Ressegier, the military magistrate investigating the espionage case.

It was Baranes who allegedly passed the information to Communist commissioner Jean Dides the confidential documents found in Dides' pocket when he was searched by counter-espionage agents.

Ressegier of Dides' papers first revealed that there had been leakages to the Communists from the French air ministry planning body of France, the national defence council.

Dides said after he was suspended that the life of his valuable source would be in danger. As the result of what he called the counter-espionage service's smashing of the anti-Communist intelligence network he was directing.

A member of the Paris press today began protesting against the "sensationalizing and throwing of inside names which has confused the inquiry. Some observers interpret the whole affair as a move to undermine Premier Pierre Mendes-France from within, from the leakages began during the government of former premier Joseph Laniel.

Nehru Says India 4th World Power Tops Br., France

NEW DELHI (AP)—Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru said today India is "obviously the fourth country in the world" after the United States, Russia and Red China.

The prime minister, closing a foreign policy debate in Parliament, demanded that India's country be given international affairs and rated his country above Britain, France, Australia and all other powers.

However, Nehru did not voice the suggestion previously made by some observers here that India be given a permanent seat on the United Nations Security Council. Permanent seats are now held by the U. S., Britain, France, Russia and Nationalist China.

Arthur Cole and Wm. Mundrey Nominated C.C.F. Candidates For East and West Hastings

A veteran and a newcomer to the election platform last night were nominated by the CCF South Hastings Riding Association to contest the next provincial election.

They are Arthur Cole, membership chairman of the association, who will carry CCF policy to East Hastings and William Mundrey, secretary, who will stand in West Hastings.

Cole was an unsuccessful candidate in the 1948 federal election when he ran on the CCF ticket for South Hastings. Mundrey enters the arena of active politics for the first time.

Nomination of the candidates, both of Belleville, was held in the local CNR staff, was conducted by Ontario CCF leader, Donald MacDonald.

In his address, Cole, who will run against Premier Leslie Frost, Dr. D. C. McVicker, Democratic, took a slant at his Liberal opponent. He reviewed the hospitalization costs in Ontario, and his municipal free need for a health scheme said: "I cannot understand why hard working people will go to the polls and elect a man who is a member of the Canadian Medical Association."

"A Christian socialist government in Ontario will find the answer to unemployment, here," he said, and added the reply to his municipal free need for a health scheme said: "I cannot understand why hard working people will go to the polls and elect a man who is a member of the Canadian Medical Association."

"A Christian socialist government in Ontario will find the answer to unemployment, here," he said, and added the reply to unemployment is the wide world for any government to say "we cannot meet the basic need of the people."

"This kind of folly need not be repeated again if we can get into Queen's Park and into Ottawa."

"Excepting the winters of 1930 and 1931 every cold winter since the end of the war has seen more unemployment despite industrial expansion," he said.

Across the world there are people using the universal methods as old as Christ. Yet we have people out of work in this country because we can not get rid of the machinery we produce.

"That is not only folly. It is a crime against humanity."

Dr. Blair's government denial of mounting unemployment as "a callous and indifferent attitude," he said: "Ontario's unemployment is by one daughter, Mrs. Joseph (Elizabeth) Dorian, Princess, and Mrs. Ernest (Georgina) Georgina, Trenton; Wilson, Charles and Jack, of Bellevilla and Ralph, of Toronto.

The deceased was a member of St. Thomas' Anglican Church.

Guild Members Receiving Series Of Lectures

Coincident with his direction of the Belleville Theatre Guild's forthcoming production of "The Lonely Chanted," Arthur Christie is delivering a series of lectures to Guild members. First in this fall's day night's rehearsal, at Queen Victoria School, the distinguished actor-director will continue his discussion of the art of directing.

The series began with "Fifty Steps in Directing", which dealt comprehensively with casting, blocking of the play, and fitting the production to available budget and stage facilities. Last Friday's talk dealt with the director's problem in ascertaining the capabilities of his actors and in encouraging their individual interpretations of their roles. He stated that it is the responsibility of the director to understand the actor, and not that of the actor to understand the director."

Mr. Christie's lectures are particularly interesting to the Guild members since he proceeds to put his principles into practice in the course of his production of their current venture.

All sections of Guild theatrical effort are closely observing Mr. Christie's professional techniques and thereby intend to raise the level of all future productions to a marked degree.

Crippled Kiddies Enjoy Circus Guests of Belleville Shrine

Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens echoed and re-echoed to the thunderous applause of thousands Wednesday afternoon, as the colorful exciting panorama of the famous Morton's Shrine Circus unfolded before their eyes.

Sixty per cent of the wide-eyed audience was children. Kids from suburban kids, country kids, kids from everywhere wildly cheered and clapped their delight at the famous indoor spectacle, rated kids best in the world.

Inconspicuous, until they rose to leave, were a number of kiddies less fortunate than the thousands of their counterparts. These youngsters, limped, or had twisted arms. Some hobbled along on crutches. Others were carried to their seats. Red-faced drivers saw to it that their proteges enjoyed every minute; that they had every comfort. And the joy in the faces of these "treats" that are synonymous with the Shrine.

In the "blues" sat twenty-one youngsters from Belleville and Trenton. In another section, close by, sat thirty-one others, some of them from Belleville, accompanied by Shriners from Belleville, Picton and Trenton hovered over their proteges like mother hen over new brood.

Transporting these kiddies to Toronto meant a lot of planning and arranging, hard work etc., for these gentlemen of the Red Fez. But they were amply repaid for their labors. Not in dollars and cents but in the shining faces of these youngsters, who, for a brief but exciting period of time, were transported into a wonderful, new world of fun, excitement and happiness.

WELL ORGANIZED

To Noble Tom Lewis, chairman of the Crippled Kiddies' Committee and Noble Ormond Shrine Club, goes the major portion of credit for the tremendous success of the kiddies' caravan. With his hard-working fellow Nobles, Noble Lewis included Noble Crawford "Jack" Beth, Horace Wright, Dave Hubbard, Orrill "Boller" Lloyd, Ross Purchase and Norman Banfield of Trenton, the kiddies were assembled and brought to a happy conclusion a trip that was a culmination of perfection from the time the motorcade left the Shrine Club at 9.30 a.m. until its return shortly before nine in the evening.

The committee saw to it that the children lacked for nothing. They had apples, candy, paper hats, toys and other goodies, and lunched on sandwiches, cookies, drinks and ice cream.

Several factors contributed to the unqualified success of the caravan. The St. John Ambulance Brigade nursing division took special care of the youngsters. Under the supervision of superintendent Annie McLaskie they did yeoman service, catering to the needs and welfare of the children. Mrs. Mrs. Mary Luckie were Mrs. Rita Henning, Reg. N., nursing officer; Mrs. Barbara Hughes and Miss Vivian Hanna.

POLICE ESCORT

Safety of the children en route was of paramount importance. Motorcycle police, kept in the hands of Ontario Provincial Police Officers, Corporal Ray Kowalchuk and Constable Ron Gray. These officers received the wellearned appreciation of Shrine president, Noble Charles Cawker, for an excellent job well done. The officers kept their speed down charges to the city limits, then led the way to the Gardens with the assistance of a Toronto police motorcycle escort. The return journey through a heavy rain storm saw the officers alert to all accident hazards and they brought the cavalcade home safe and sound with not an untoward incident.

Noble Jack Bush sent an ambulance along "just in case." Mayor Jack Both and "Boller" Lloyd drove the new "Police Station" station wagons, which contained the food and treats. Mrs. Davis, Foster Avenue, mother of the late Noble Murray Davis and herself an amputee, was a special guest.

The caravan left the Shrine Club, Highland Avenue shortly after 9.30 and passed at Trenton to pick up crippled kiddies of the town and district. Trenton shriners and their wives, and Noble Norman Benfold, himself a victim of paralysis took charge of the Trenton children in a manner that elicited the well-deserved acclaim of his Belleville fellow shriners. The caravan waited for some time for the Picton contingency, which included some 32 crippled and underprivileged children from Prince Edward County. Noble Marian Dodds was in charge along with Noble Mrs. Grayson, Noble Claude Nurse Mrs. Grayson, Noble Claude Wynn, Stan Tozer and others.

The Picton bus waited for more kiddies from the Belleville caravan leaving for Bowmanville where a pause was made for lunch. Later the Picton contingent joined the caravan and the whole cavalcade proceeded to Toronto without further incident.

The children were given drinks, eats, treats, etc., during the circus performance. Leaving Toronto a little before six, the caravan again paused at Bowmanville for "supper". And in a heavy downpour of rain and a heavy electrical storm, and reached the Shrine Club and Gardens in Belleville safely, happy. Shriners took the children to their various homes in order to one of the most wonderful days of their lives.

EXTENDS APPRECIATION

Noble Ormond Cawker, unable to attend, greeted the noble rulers and the caravan at the club. Later he sent a letter to Noble Tom Lewis and his committee, the Ontario Provincial Police, members of the St. John Ambulance Brigade, and all who contributed to the success of the day.

"It is gratifying for a president to express appreciation to those that his committees are under the leadership of capable chairmen," he said. "I am proud to say I am in that position."

The following is a descriptive account of the fabulous Morton circus. This writer has seen practically all of the big top shows. None of them even approach the color, artistry, quality and general atmosphere of this famous indoor show.

Conviction Quashed

VANCOUVER (CP)—Dr. Raymond D. Rush, Vancouver physician whose conviction on a count of manslaughter in the death of his wife was unanimously quashed Tuesday by the B.C. Court of Appeal, said Wednesday he plans to get on with his work and let the public forget.

Dr. Rush was convicted by an Assize Court jury of manslaughter, despite pointed suggestions by trial judge Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarlane that he should be acquitted. He was sentenced to five years in penitentiary.

Dr. Rush said he would like to clarify one point concerning his trial which he said had been consistently misinterpreted.

"Time and time again it was reported I asked fellow doctors to sign a death certificate before Mrs. Rush's death," he said.

"No such allegation was made, nor was there such evidence," said Dr. Rush.

Improvement for Highway Safety Heard by Committee Appointed by Legislature

Recommendations and suggestions aimed at the reduction of traffic accidents and an improvement of highway safety were heard here today as members of Ontario Legislative select committee on highway safety heard briefs from police officers from Belleville, Kingston and Trenton.

It was the last day of public hearings by the committee, which has sat in various sections of the province and this afternoon members moved on to Oshawa. Chairman of the committee on highway safety is W. M. Nickle, Q.C., of Kingston.

Presenting briefs at the meeting were Police Chief Walter Probert and Inspector J. C. Hayes of the Belleville Police Department; Chief Jack Taylor of Trenton, and Deputy Chief Andrew Reed of Kingston and Noel Langton, representing the Kingston and district police association.

Deputy Chief Reedy told the committee the problem of safety on highway safety hinged on proper enforcement of the traffic act.

He did not think fines or imprisonment were the entire answer and felt that suspension of drivers' licences and impounding of vehicles would be more effective.

Briefs submitted by the various police officers covered a wide range of topics including a suggested increase of highway speeds to 60 miles per hour on controlled access highways to uniformity of signs and regulations throughout the province.

ONUS ON ENTERING DRIVER

With respect to motorist entering onto through streets and highways, Deputy Chief Reedy felt the onus should be placed on the motorist entering onto the through road unless great discourtesy or lack of precaution is shown by the motorist on the through road.

He said there was a general feeling on the part of motorist on through highways "that I am on the road and I want everybody to get off."

Manners and courtesy were entirely lacking on the part of many drivers, he said.

Mr. Langton as representative of the Kingston and district police association recommended thorough examination and periodical checking of motor cars for mechanical conditions and also suggested permanent licence plates, automatic directional signals on cars, outside mirrors, uniformity of traffic signs and compulsory auto insurance.

Police Chief Probert of Belleville suggested that something more should be done about slow drivers who, he declared, were responsible for many accidents. He also called for uniformity of traffic signs and suggested that the present operators and chauffeurs licences be done away with and one driving permit be issued after strict examination.

Old jalopy type vehicles should be thoroughly examined for mechanical condition before being licensed.

Chief Jack Taylor of Trenton, also stressed the importance of proper licensing of drivers, noting that the present system was inadequate.

ONLY PART TIME

He noted that examiners work only part time at examining drivers and have some other business from which they derive the main portion of their livelihood. Under such a system it was almost certain that examiners for private reasons sanction licences for drivers who should not be licensed.

Numerous addresses given by some owners when applying for licences resulted in many motorists avoiding the onus which called for traffic offences, he said.

In many instances licences have been obtained for considerably only for police to find that it is some hotel or restaurant that employers are never caught.

One of the committee members noted that this was a "big hole" in enforcement procedure and was one which merited attention. The problem was how to check it under the present system of vehicle registrations.

One member noted that in one of the states south of the border there is no licence issuing office and permits are received by mail. In such a case the proper address must be given or the motorist would get receipt of it.

Chief Taylor noted that electric timing of speeds had resulted in fewer accidents as well as a decrease in the number of speeders in his town. He agreed that the onus should be on the motorist entering onto a so-called through street.

At least two of the committee members were a bit dubious of the onus being placed entirely on the motorist entering a highway from a side road, but noted that this might create a considerable inconvenience to farmers on a busy highway.

ASSURE MOST COSTS

They felt the only through highways were the controlled access highways and the designation of other highways as being through roads was misleading.

Inspector Clair Hayes called on the provincial and federal governments to assume a greater share of the cost of providing adequate signals at railway crossings through municipalities. He pointed out that due to already high taxation municipalities were reluctant to pay their share of the cost of signals and as results crossings remained unprotected.

He also felt there be more strict regulations in notifying the vehicle registrations branch of change of ownership of cars and also change in addresses. At the present time it was difficult to trace the ownership of jalopies sold to persons living outside the law.

Lack of adequate noise mufflers on highway transports was also attacked by the Inspector.

He suggested the matter be taken up at the next manufacturers.

He cited instances where drivers had knocked out baffle plates in transport mufflers with a crowbar in order to get more power. If more power is needed put it in the motor, he said.

Mr. Harry Johnston of the Ontario Provincial Police, noted that corporals and sergeants had already resulted in a decrease of accidents and fatalities in their districts, partly because police cruisers were kept continually on the road.

TRY TO EDUCATE DRIVERS

To a question placed by one of the committee, Sgt. Ramsbottom replied that patrol officers try to educate motorists to the fact that a driver is entitled to proceed onto a through highway once he has brought his vehicle to a full stop.

Alderman Jack Wilson as chairman of the city council traffic committee noted the main traffic problem in Belleville was to get through traffic out of the city. A circular road would be as direct as possible with bridges placed over rivers where necessary.

Other officials heard at the meeting included Mayor Ross Burtt of Trenton, and Ed. S. Denyes, county clerk treasurer, and Charles Mott city engineer.

Mr. Denyes suggested that heavier fines and fewer "watered down" licences would result in fewer traffic accidents.

Harold D. Bateman, city comptroller on behalf of Mayor J. Bolt welcomed the committee on highway safety to the city and noted that highway safety was one of the worthwhile projects before the legislature at this time.

Local provincial government representatives, W. E. Sandercock, Hastings-Prince Edward, and Harry Whitney, were heard briefly at the outset of the meeting.

WELL ATTENDED CONVENTION

Chairman W. M. Nickle noted that the committee would attend a world's traffic convention in Chicago early in October and later would present their findings to the Ontario Legislature.

Committee members sitting at Belleville today besides the chairman were, James Allan, Haldimand-Norfolk; William Bush, York South; R. Fred Edwards, Perth; Peter Manley, Stormont; George Gordon, Brantford; John Root, Wellington South; T. D. Thomas, Oshawa; Dr. S. F. Lavine, Kitchener, and John Arrenson, Q.C., Belleville, Toronto. Others present included D. J. Collins, secretary for the committee; A. H. Rowan, from the highways department, and Mr. Hutchison, assistant to the chief highway engineer.

Canadian Press Makes 2 Transfers Of Membership

VANCOUVER (CP) — Directors of The Canadian Press Wednesday held their semi-annual meeting to discuss affairs of the national news co-operative.

Two transfers of membership, involving changes of CP representation among newspaper members, were reported: Chicoutimi Le Progres du Saguenay from P. Casgrain to Leopold Tremblay, and Nanaimo Free Press from Ronald Norris to William J. Lupton.

It was decided to hold the 1956 fall meeting at Edmonton, subject to concurrence of the Canadian Daily newspaper Publishers Association. The 1955 fall meeting will be held in Charlottetown.

The board by resolution expressed its sorrow at the death of Hon. Walter Millard Buchanan, publisher of the Lethbridge Herald, and former president of CP and for many years a member and director.

The resolution, moved by D. R. Rogers, Regina Leader-Post, and seconded by R. Fred Landon, Free Press, noted that Senator Buchanan "gave to the Herald, as to CP, the benefit of his varied pursuits, a character of honesty, intelligence, broad humour and sportsmanship" and was loved and respected by countless friends across Canada.

Officer Thinks Right Man Has Been Arrested

SIOUX CITY, Iowa (AP) — A Sioux City detective said today "I think we have the right man" in the abduction-slaying of eight-year-old Jimmie Brunner.

Lieut. Harry J. Gibbons refused to identify the man but said he was an itinerant salesman previously questioned at length in the case. No charge has been filed. The salesman had unsuccessfully denied any knowledge of Jimmie's death, but "I think he knows a lot more than he's telling," Gibbons said.

The man has admitted talking to the boy Aug. 31, the night he disappeared from near his home here.

The month-long search for the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Brunner ended Wednesday in a pasture only four miles from the lad's home. Three highway maintenance men found the mutilated body.

Sioux City police, Gibbons said, also are working with officials of Auburn, Me., where a 12-year-old boy disappeared last July 22 under similar circumstances. His body was found nine days later in a river.

Gibbons said the salesman being questioned here admits being on the east coast last June.

Consumers Want Cut-Price Sale On Surplus Butter

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadians should get the benefit of any cut-price sale the federal government may contemplate of its surplus butter stocks, the Canadian Association of Consumers said Wednesday.

The association affirmed this position and also adopted a resolution urging that Parliament review anti-dumping legislation passed at its last session. The resolution said the powers granted under the law should be curtailed.

Mrs. H. R. Vautelet of Montreal was re-elected to a second term as president.

Other officers elected included standing committees, agriculture, Mrs. Hugh Summers, Pontiull, Ont.

A DISGRACEFUL AFFAIR

Freshmen at Queen's University in Kingston staged a snake dance.

The fun of their number were arrested after a manhole cover was removed.

Other students then followed the police cruiser to the police station, pushed a parked patrol car up against the main door, smashing the hinges, and hurled rocks through a window.

If these acts had been performed by scot-suiters, one would be deafened by a rising chorus demanding their apprehension and punishment.

Earlier a motorist had tried to crash the snake dance line with his car. The students hauled him out of the front seat, tore off his shirt and slapped mustard over the car.

If these acts had been performed by a street corner gang, the culprits would find themselves roundly denounced as hoodlums and delinquents.

There may be some persons so old-fashioned as to believe that we are all equal in the eyes of the law and that society is entitled to expect young men with sufficient education and money to enable them to enroll in a university to act at least with reasonable consideration and common sense.

REAL CULPRITS BEYOND LAW

We have nothing but the highest praise for the motives which prompted the members of the Ontario Legislature to pass the province's three-months-old Fair Accommodation Act.

There may be some question, however, as to whether they were wise in their choice of a method in their effort to eliminate racial discrimination.

The owner of a restaurant in Dresden, Ont., has told an investigating board that he knew he was breaking the new law when he refused to serve Negroes.

He did it, he says, because he "didn't want to lose business." He declares that his customers had told him on plenty of occasions that if he served Negroes they would not enter his restaurant. That, he said, was his only reason for refusing to serve Negroes.

It is obvious that, if this man is telling the truth, the people who are really responsible for the discrimination against Negroes are his customers. There is no way in which the law can punish them.

Perhaps the only way to wipe out such discrimination is to force all owners of restaurants and similar establishments to serve Negroes. Then eventually those prejudiced customers will either have to forego eating in restaurants entirely or will have to patronize establishments which serve Negroes. Nevertheless, it is obvious that for a time restaurant owners will be punished for the sins of their white customers. This is almost as repugnant to our sense of justice as is the existing situation, in which persons are being refused service merely because of the color of their skins.

There is only one real cure for racial discrimination —and that is not through the passing of laws but through the elimination of prejudice and the growth of tolerance of racial differences.

HORRIBLE THOUGHT!

The British Broadcasting Corporation issues a weekly summary of the talks given on its various services.

Included in the issue for January was an outline of an interview with the managing director of a British firm which is setting the type for the first encyclopedia to be printed in the Burmese language.

The men setting the Oriental type are English.

"It had been proved that men who did not know a language far more accurately than those who did for, as they could not read what they were setting, they did it by a method of comparison and the standard of accuracy was very high," the report observed.

Naturally we wondered how this tidbit of information could be turned into an insult to the denizens of the Ontario Intelligencer's composing room, should occasion arise for a disparaging remark in regard to the general level of intelligence in the editorial department.

Then a horrible thought struck us.

We know the linotype operator who sets these editorials has a good knowledge of the English language.

He makes very few mistakes when setting this copy.

Therefore, it is possible that these editorials are not written in English, after all?

We shall, of course, not breath a word of this horrible doubt within the hearing of the composing room staff. So, if you understand what we have just written, please keep quiet about it, will you, dear reader.

GOOD GAMBLE

Hey, mister, very strange you are,
Two dollars on a horse you'll bet,
You'll take a chance upon a car,
You'll throw the dice a meal to get,
Since taking chances you enjoy,
Why don't you take one on a boy?

The child is large, the odds are long,
The course is with temptations strong;
But shown the right way from the wrong
The spirited boy is worth a bet.
Why don't you take a chance like that Jim,
Will, when a man, successful be?

Back him to win, to show or place,
Train him how best to work and play,
He'll run for you a thrilling race
And finish well, let come what may.
What if the odds are ten to one?
You'll have a winner late on.

"Mabel! At last I've found you alone."

Tub Singer Makes Reply

(Edmonton Journal)

A Glasgow University geographer has declared that singing in the bath is responsible for the popular habit of singing in the bath which we have been subject to this base canard, he comments:

"Increasing humidity so affects the vocal chords that those least gifted with song burst forth when rain is imminent."

This is so wide of the mark that we can only ascribe for the future of geography in the hands of O. Hinchliffe of Glasgow. As for singing, the less obviously heard so little about it, in spite of his scientific research, that we are confident his views will leave it quite unaffected, fortunately.

The truth is that the bathtub baritone or tenor knows, is that bathrooms, especially when fitted with a vibrating tub, have a wonderful resonance. As a result, the aspiring operatic song. The water in the tub further increases the resonance when and while the hiss of the shower craftily obscures the odd squawk (Shelley), or squeak (tenor).

To these attractions may be added the relaxation which bath or shower engenders. Relaxing is ultra-important in the art of singing.

Mr. Hinchliffe may do research on the topic till he's blue in the face, but the bathtub baritones and tenors will go right on bellowing until they're blue in the face.

Prices Prevent Sales

(Midland Free Press Herald)

Far too many people are refusing to purchase the first rule of economics—the lower the price, the bigger the market, the greater the sale, the more the employment.

Canada's Communists

(Ottawa Journal)

The "festering sore of the Communist criminal conspiracy" (now that the U.S.) border they will prove to be the weakest link in our (U.S.) chain of defence against Red aggression.

Thus a columnist, Herbert Aitchbrick, concludes an article in the New York Herald Tribune on Canadian Communists.

The language is fearsome, but the trouble with it, as a trumpet of alarm, is its lack of foundation in fact.

Bidding no doubt from the beginning is this early paragraph:

"Operating through the Labor Progressive Party . . . is a vast and well-oiled anti-American propaganda machine. Its major newspaper is the Canadian Tribune, published in Toronto. It copies the Daily Worker in New York, utilizing many of the same writers, such as A. B. Magill, Howard Fast, and others."

Now the picture of the Canadian Tribune as a "major newspaper," as a vast . . . propaganda machine", is not likely to terrify anybody who is familiar with Canada.

The Canadian Tribune was launched some six or seven years as a daily. Edited by a man named Stewart Smith, it was at first intending to be a champion of trades unionism it would gain the confidence of . . . It turned out, however, that the trades unions were controlled, and in no line at all the Canadian Tribune had to be turned into a weekly. It is now published by communists and the RCMP, a pale carbon copy of the Daily Worker of London and New York.

It is true that the Canadian Tribune, in a feeble effort to make a sensation, has published the U.S. (that would be the job of any Communist) has been shooting for years in Canada. Another is "The Canadians in Canada". But they are not Canadian. Their author in Ottawa has given the U.S. Army "control of the key section of Canada's war industry" and has also by a lot of other Canadian editors and writers. He has got all his ideas from the Canadian Tribune.

Actually, it is impossible to fear the Canadian Tribune. Who will take it seriously — not certainly as a major factor in Canada's anti-Communist conspiracy" along the U.S.-Canadian border.

The Herald Tribune writer comes to James G. Endicott.

"From the pulpit, the Communist Lloyd Saunderson, MPP, and James G. Endicott, who has made frequent visits to Red China and who has accused the United States of conducting germ warfare."

Now it is true that Mr. Endicott (he is not now a member of any church and is not using the pulpit) has been to China and Russia (we have seen his picture in his laudatory articles in Soviet magazines) and has accused the U.S. of germ warfare. But who in Canada today takes a word he says, a man like Endicott seriously?

Finally, the Herald Tribune man comes to our trades unions, writes of the Soviet Union pouring most in Canada on "three labor unions" which "control 80 percent of Canadian production of metals, machinery and electrical equipment vital to the defence of the American continent." If, saying this, the Herald Tribune writer has in mind the Canadian Trades and Labor Congress, the Canadian Congress of Labor, and the Catholic Confederation of Labor, then he is talking nonsense. Only a few weeks ago, in Regina, the Trades and Labor Congress refused to readmit to its ranks a Communist - dominated union which had been kept in bankrupt. Actually, it is about as sensible to speak of the Canadian Trades and Labor Congress, the Canadian Congress of Labor, and the Quebec Confederation of Labor, Catholic workers being tools of a Communist conspiracy as it would be to speak of the British Trades Union Congress or the CIO as tools of the same conspiracy or to call Walter Reuther or Dalton Sheen as an agent of Moscow.

The Herald Tribune man is on a bit stronger ground when he speaks of "Communist infiltration" by the Canadian Congress of Labor—the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers and the United Electrical Radio and Machine Workers Union. He could not agree with Canadian industries in radar, uranium and electronic precision work.

The Journal last year asked about these unions, whether they should be allowed to work in the penetrating strategic or sensitive industries. The answer, from those subject to Communist effective screening barred any Communist union in Communists from positions inviting danger.

But even if the Herald Tribune writer has something in this latter item, has put his finger on a real problem, he had better not exist, he still is a long, long way from the kind of conspiracy which would go with a charge as grave as that which he makes. "A festering sore of Communist conspiracy along our northern border" adds up to pretty strong language.

About Communists, what they are up to and what they can and can't turn up, we can never be sure — a bitter experience of some few of us has taught us that. But it must take more than unsupported assertions by a U.S. journalist to convince us on a journey of frenzy and fear.

Buried Cream To Make Butter

(Boston Herald)

As a countryman snaps a switch and watches the magic of electricity make yellow butter from white cream, in a small glass container sitting on the kitchen counter, he considers how times change and where churns were invented.

Butter making has a long and interesting history.

In the Old Farmer's Almanack of 1830 it states: "A delicate and fine-flavored butter may be made by churning cream in a bottle with a napkin or clean cloth, and burying it a foot deep or so in the ground from 10 to 14 hours. The experiment has been repeatedly tried with complete success. The butter will come out sweet and palatable."

There are churns for outdoor years and worshiped dignity who remember the tedious chore of churning hand and arm with the cedar cylinder churn set on a table or on a bench in the back kitchen.

On a beautiful spring day when the grass was green and the air crisp or exploring the woodland, it was discouraging to keep cranking at a long dash in the cream-tankerously refused to "come." Many a farmer's wife would rather have the cream just the right degree of ripeness and right in temperature, but butter-making can be an obstinate and unpredictable affair.

A lad listened closely for the change in music. At first the churning sloshed and splashed and and loosely over the fat wooden paddles but that wasn't the ideal point. As long as the loose cream went kir-flop, kar-flop, over the paddles, it meant one kept cranking. Sometimes a fellow tried speeding up and he failed to get it. "It's never been proved that speed means butter will come any sooner."

Then, at last, when a lad was growing impatient, a change deepened. Instead of the loose gurgling, slop, slop, the tone abruptly changed. Fat globules joined; large scraggy blobs of butter formed. The butter had "come".

When mother said, "Thank you, son, I'll do the rest now," a singing spirits revived with miraculous speed and he and Shep, if he had been a party of talk, hustled for the creek to attend to a really important task.

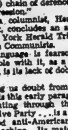
DISTENDED VEINS

A reader says she is of both eighty because of prominent veins on her hands. Her question is as follows:



Dr. Brady

"Can you tell me what causes the veins?

Far be it from this notorious pen to imply anything. You know me, folks. I don't mumble about what is "believed" or "said" or "accepted" when I have an idea to convey—I say I believe it is so or in my opinion it is so or necessary I stick my neck away out, say my piece and challenge points question, and challenge competent contradiction.

For that matter, I have learned from long experience, anything I may say will not be as fascinating as what read-ers, A, B and C may tell readers.

So I'm not going to say what causes the veins.

I'm going to ask D, G, N, Q and X. For instance reader D, G, N, Q and C, not this shameless charlatan, are responsible for the hope or, in many instances, the conviction, that the Indis Ration retards the graying of hair and, as the writers of scores of testimonials assert, it restores more or less of the original color to hair that has turned gray.

Please remember, this is what readers tell me. I'd like to believe it, but I haven't seen convincing evidence and I'm still inclined to think that it is an illusion. Every man, woman and child in the country needs a suitable daily ration of iodin and in most areas falls to get it in food or water.

What all this has to do with prominent or distended veins on the back of the hand, on neck or arms is not quite clear even to me, but nevertheless I urge every mature adult with this complaint to get enough iodin to fulfill the daily nutritional requirement.

More about prominent veins in a place to follow.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In the Pullman car the other day, I sat next to five gentlemen in adjoining seats who turned out to be well-known labor leaders and organizers, en route to a meeting. They looked and sounded like lawyers or business executives. One of them recognized me as a newspaperman and horned me into the conversation. Very shortly, I found myself giving the press a pretty through going-over for its treatment of labor news, its inaccuracies, its prejudices. I had a rough time for a while, but it is always a risky business to travel by day, when you are a newspaperman, because if it had been parsons or lawyers instead of labor leaders, and you were recognized as a newspaperman, you would have to stand to your guns or run. Not being a very good runner, I rode out the storm as best I could then began searching around for some way to handle the gentlemen of labor.

I recollected for them my early reporting days, a long time back, when most labor leaders looked like workers rather than professional men. I supposed that labor had now reached a position of strength in which it could afford to employ lawyers, scholars, and men of executive experience.

"Quite right, you fellows," I suggested, "ever worked at the trades you represent?"

There was a scandalized silence except for the rumble of "Hell, no!" and the prompt rejections of my suggestion came thick and fast. They had all worked in the labor movement.

"Do labor leaders," I enquired, "ever get a night job?"

Their laughter filled the car. They assured me they worked an eight hour day, a five day week a day, often longer. In fact, like grizzly bears, they never left all the time. The brain has no hours.

"What you labor organizers need," I plodded on, "is a union."

They all put on their bargaining expressions at once, and focussed their eyes on me like rifle sights.

"Now, to come back to the press," said the one nearest me. And there they were, kicking me all over the Pullman once more.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

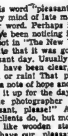
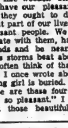
REAL BEAUTY

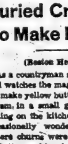
Two years ago a large university erected a new science laboratory. It was a modern, functional building in its architecture and ornamentation. Some of the university authorities, accustomed to more traditional architecture, thought that at least the main entrance have some decorations. At their insistence, the architect designed two ornamental columns made of clusters of aluminum plated rods, with a light on top, to stand outside the front door.

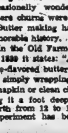
The columns did not support anything except the lights, which were unnecessary, since the doorway already had concealed lights which illuminated the steps and entrance. But they satisfied some people—for a little while.



Then, at last, when a lad was growing impatient, a change deepened. Instead of the loose gurgling, slop, slop, the tone







First a few students discovered what sounds began the two opposed lights on the columns were. After the university had replaced the lights, the glass was broken, the lights were removed altogether. Then came the rain and rain of the winter. The plating on rods did not live up to expectations, and they were streaked and pitted with rust. Instead of ornaments, they were eyesores.

At last enough people came to their senses, and the rusty columns were removed from the building in its original simplicity. they had learned this truth (at considerable expense): that simple usefulness is always more truly beautiful than useless affectation—a truth not only about buildings, but also about life.

Albert Gridders Trim Picton CI By 18-5 Score

The Bay of Quinte senior football schedule got underway yesterday when Albert College visited the Picton team for the first game of the season. Picton playing their first OSSAA game in nearly three years put up a surprisingly strong showing against a bigger and more experienced Albert College squad.

The first half started slow, both teams feeling each other out, with Albert having the ball most of the time, but Picton rally when their goal line was threatened and holding it fast. Albert's timing in the backfield was off and fumbles prevented major scores—Hamilton, Albert's fullback punted for three singles during the first half, and Albert's ends managed to trap the Picton quarter behind his own line on two occasions to score two safety touches—the half time score: 7 to 6 for Albert.

In the second half play opened up, Dave Scott started the ends for nice gains for the Albert squad, and one sustained march resulted in a touchdown which was converted by Bob Lemon. Score Albert 13, Picton 6.

Shortly after this Albert again marched down the field and Jim Hamilton went across for the second major score which was not converted. Three quarter score Albert 18, Picton 6.

Picton worked the ball into Albert territory, but had to kick from the 40 yard line—the kick was fumbled and Picton got possession, Albert held for two downs, and on the third down Croft went across for a touchdown which was not converted. Final score: Albert College 18, Prince Edward C.I. 5.

Prince Edward—Price, Grubin, Lindsay, Branscombe, Purtelle, Rashon, Croft, Nutley, Carson, Cronkwright, Cole, Keep, Kitchen, Clapton, Chapman, Smith, Minaker, Terwilligar, Johnston, McKinnon, Crawford, Harrington, Imrig, Williams, Kellar.

Albert College—Beaton, Boucher, Boylan, Bromley, Budgell, Conn, Dawson, Edwards, Fiske, Gilchrist, Gormley, Haspanen, Hamilton, Hoffman, Justus, Lemon, Miller, Perry, Pew, Robertson, Rupert, Scott, Walsman, Watson.

Referee, George Farmer, Belleville; Umpire, J. Garowitze, Picton.

BCI Juniors Defeat OSD By 37-0 Score

BCIVS Juniors opened the Bay of Quinte District of OSSAA rugby season by decisively defeating the Ontario School for the Deaf grid squad by a 37-0 score.

Behing the deft quarter-backing of Stan Jackson, Bill Jones, Barry Ray and Glen Maracle scored all the points.

Scoring opened on the second play of the game when Bill Jones carried the ball around end for a 55 yard touchdown. BCI's outstanding track star, Barry Ray, went off end for the second touchdown. A quick-kick took OSD unawares and Jones fell on the ball in the end zone to make the score 16-0. The scoring in the first quarter was completed when Jones kicked to the deadline for a rouge.

Fred Hagerman set up the next major when he caught a pass and ran for 40 yards. Jones carried 3 yards for the only score of the second quarter.

After half time the O.S.D. defence stiffened and quarterback Glen Sickinger hitched out to Robert Hillman for many short gains behind the blocking of Keith Dorscheer.

For BCI Glen Maracle powered his way through centre to make the score 27-0.

In the final quarter Jackson threw a long pass to flying wing Hamthorn and Jones completed the drive for a major. On the kick-off Barry Ray showed his heels to the O.S.D. blockers, kicked the ball as the safety man was picking it up and dropped on the pigskin behind the goal line to end the scoring.

The next game will be BCIVS at Albert College on Friday at 3.30 p.m.

ONLY REFLECTION

POTTSVILLE, Pa. (AP)—Police say that an "apparition," which appeared on a rock behind a home in nearby Mount Carbon and attracted thousands of persons, boiled out to be a reflection of light from a window. The apparition, seen for three nights, was thought by some to resemble the Virgin Mary, and rosaries were left on the stone.

CONFERENCE

The ministers scheduled a day full of discussions, to be climaxed late this afternoon when the United States, Britain, France and West Germany were scheduled to take up the key issue of granting Adenauer's government complete sovereignty.

Successful conclusion of these and the companion talks on German rearmament is expected to bring these results:

1. The U.S., British and France will announce their intention to end the occupation of West Germany, giving the Bonn Republic virtually full control over both external and internal affairs.

2. The Germans then will issue a declaration offering to join a proposed new seven-power European alliance and the 14-member North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

3. Under a reported compromise plan being worked out, the European alliance will organize controls to be placed on the arms and armaments of member countries—Britain, France, Italy, West Germany, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg.

4. The administration of these controls—primarily designed to prevent any runaway German rearmament—would be in the hands of NATO.

OBSTACLE CLEARED

A big obstacle to agreement appeared cleared when French sources said Premier Mendes-France is willing to discuss the future of the disputed Saar with Adenauer after the present conference ends.

Mendes-France privately has indicated that the conference agree on a complete "package deal," including a Saar settlement, Western defence arrangements and German sovereignty, which he could present to the French assembly.

The differences between the conferees apparently were broken Wednesday by a tradition - shattering British pledge of military support on the continent for many years to come. Foreign Secretary Eden promised that British would keep four divisions and a tactical air force in Europe indefinitely, conditional on an agreement on the rearming of Germany.

Dr. Summerskill New Chairman Of Labor Party

SCARBOROUGH, Eng. (Reuters)—Dr. Edith Summerskill, titian haired British Socialist for whom Soviet Prime Minister Malenkov recently plucked a bouquet of flowers in the garden of a Moscow villa, Wednesday night was appointed chairman of the British Labor party for the year 1954-55.

Tuesday night, eve of her appointment, a tiny parcel stamped with a Moscow postmark arrived at her Scarborough hotel.

It contained a single orchid which Dr. Summerskill later wore at a reception given by the mayor of Scarborough. There was no clue to the sender of the flower.

The new party chairman is 53, a doctor of medicine, married to a practising physician. She was minister of insurance in the last Labor government.

She was the only woman in the recent eight-member Labor party goodwill mission to Russia and Communist China.

New Red Demand Another Proposal For H-Bomb Ban

By TOM HOGE

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Reports circulated today that Andrei Vishinsky might unveil new Soviet atomic proposals to the United Nations General Assembly this afternoon, but observers predicted that, if forthcoming, they would boil down to another demand for a ban on nuclear weapons.

The chief Russian delegate was scheduled to take the Assembly floor shortly after the opening of today's plenary session (at 3 p.m. EST) to give a review of Soviet policy as his contribution to the 60-country group's opening general debate.

Vishinsky's speech, on which he had been working for seclusion all week, was expected to set forth the Soviet bloc's line on the American "atoms for peace" proposals and other vital East-West issues.

Bevan Calls Labor Leadership 'Disiccated Calculating Machine'

SCARBOROUGH, Eng. (Reuters)—Aneurin Bevan, speaking for the first time as an ordinary ranker since he lost his seat on the executive, Wednesday branded the official Labor party leadership as "desiccated calculating machine."

The leader of the party's left wing said that the British Labor movement is "falling into the control of a small handful of irresponsible bureaucrats."

His speech before a packed hall of his supporters produced hostile reaction afterwards from many delegates attending the annual party conference here.

Arthur Deakin, secretary of Britain's biggest trade union, the 1,300,00-member Transport and General Workers Union, said that Bevan "completely lost his head at the rejection he has had at the conference."

"VICIOUS PIECE"

"I regard Mr. Bevan's comments," Deakin said, "as being a vicious piece of vilification of people arising from his disillusionment."

Bevan lost his seat on the executive when he was defeated by former Labor treasury boss Hugh Gaitskell for the job of party treasurer.

Bevan characterized the "desiccated calculating machine" type of leader as being the sort of person who "must speak in calm and objective accents and talk about a dying child in the same way as he would talk about the pieces inside an internal combustion engine."

"If we are going to have a Labor movement which is controlled by a handful of bureaucrats," he said, "then we might as well become totalitarian."

MAIN LINE BLOCKED

MOOSE JAW. (CP)—Railroad crews worked Wednesday to untangle a pile-up of 34 freight cars that jumped the tracks 16 miles west of here Tuesday night, delaying three CPR transcontinental passenger trains. No one was injured in the derailment.

Driver Killed In Car Crash

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—One man was killed early today when his car went out of control on the eighth concession of Caradoc township just south of No. 2 Highway.

Dead is Matthew Rathley, 32, of the Muncey reserve. He is believed to have been the driver of the car which careened off the road into a tree.

A passenger, John French, 34, also from the reserve, is being held for observation at Victoria Hospital. He is not seriously injured.

Monthly reports were given. The visiting committee reported 53 calls made.

It was announced that the next meeting would be in charge of Mrs. Parker's and Mrs. Adsett's group.

The president reminded the ladies that the annual fall bazaar would be held in November.

Mrs. D. Stanton, Mrs. Court Miller and their group took charge of the meeting. Mrs. Ackerman Smith, Mrs. G. Scott, Mrs. L. B. Fonger, Mrs. J. Buchan and Mrs. W. N. Ponton.

GUEST SPEAKER

Miss Patricia Brearley gave 3 pleasing piano solo, following which Mrs. Miller introduced the guest speaker of the afternoon, Miss Jessie Tulle.

Miss Tulle spoke on "Ireland" which she visited a year ago. Her talk was humorous and interesting as well as highly informative. Mrs. Motti expressed the thanks of all the ladies.

The Rev. Miriam Collins brought the afternoon to a close with her singing of two delightful songs.

A social half-hour was enjoyed.

People Drive Out of Way to View Prettiest Garden in Maritimes

By IRVING C. WHYNOT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CORNWALL, P.E.I. (CP)—Mrs. Gordon MacMillan is a stocky little woman with a hearty laugh and a love for people.

She also loves flowers, and as a result up to 3,000 persons a year drop in to see. Local and visiting gardeners alike say she has one of the most attractive private gardens in the Maritimes. It rates high as a tourist attraction.

Most of the visitors have never seen Mrs. MacMillan before, but they go out of their way to drive over a dusty road to the red brick white house five miles from Charlottetown.

The gardens and their immediate backgrounds cover the best part of an acre with scores of varieties of flowers and shrubs, planted on a schedule which guarantees a continuous bloom of color during the summer months.

CUTS GRASS, TOO

Mrs. MacMillan does all the work, including grass-cutting.

She admits freely to being the "first lady farmer since I was born," she says. "I was born on a farm and my grandmother was from northern Scotland. Perhaps that's why I like so many hedges."

She waved her arms toward the neatly-clipped hedges of native spruce and said:

"I started this garden for my own pleasure between feeding the chickens and doing the housework," she said. "It just comes natural. Why, in school I found rotation of crops a lot easier than French or Latin."

As her garden grew in size, people started to drop around to have a look. Two years ago she had to put up a sign at the end of the lane, "Beechwood Gardens" she called her farm and it took so much of her time showing visitors around she started to ask a fee of 50 per car. More came than ever.

STARTED CATERING

Then she started to cater to them, fixing up an old barn house as a rest house and an old shed for serving meals.

"I had to sacrifice my own house work to do some of the gardening and it's hard work. But it's still a pleasure."

Mrs. MacMillan finds other outlets for her energy. She is active in community projects, has directed plays in rural drama festivals, worked on the executive of the Junior Institute Federation and interested the kids of the community in Scottish dancing.

She plays the piano by ear and last year performed at Christmas plays on five successive nights.

"Not too bad for an old lady," she said.

She also writes a weekly column on gardening for the daily Charlottown Guardian. Its a hodgepodge of gardening hints, poetry and homespun philosophy.

FLOWER WOMAN

Mrs. Gordon MacMillan started her flower garden at Cornwall, P.E.I., because she loves flowers. But it kept growing until it is considered one of the most attractive gardens in the Maritime Provinces and is considered a top island tourist attraction. Some three thousand visitors see the gardens each year. (CP Photo).

Harvest Festival, Baptismal Rite Held At Trinity Church

The traditional Harvest Festival Eucharist was celebrated in Trinity Church, Frankford, on Sunday. The church was beautifully decorated with a profusion of flowers, fruits and other produce of the field. The large congregation heard the ancient and beautiful prayers of the Eucharist which is at all times a service of thanksgiving, but especially during this season when thanks are given to God for His blessings.

The choir, under the direction of Mrs. Cecil Smith, and accompanied on the organ by Mr. Georgia Ketcheson, sang the Mass Fishermen's Evening Hymn, by William Henry Gill, with Miss June Pearson taking the solo part.

Servers for the day were: Gordon Pearson and Roland Peter.

The rector preached on the subject of "Stewardship".

At the close of the service, William Robert Wease, son of Donald and Kathleen Wease, was baptized. Godparents were, Winnifred Dench, Myrtle Wease and Donald Wease.

Dutch Girl Does Not Like Living Alone in U.S.

By NOAH HALPER

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Ines de Koning admits that she doesn't "exactly like living alone," but the 19-year-old Dutch girl says she manages to keep occupied enough to prevent boredom and loneliness.

Ines, who came to the United States less than three years ago, has an apartment in a central Philadelphia hotel where she cooks and keeps house for herself when she's not in school.

She has been living there, alone, since her father, Theodore de Koning, an electrical engineer, returned to The Netherlands for a visit more than a month ago and then found himself barred by immigration rules from immediate re-entry to the U.S.

The blonde, blue-eyed girl had gone to camp for the summer. When she got back Aug. 21 she found instead of her father a note saying he would be delayed.

Since then, with Mrs. Agnes Allen, the hotel manager, keeping a motherly eye on her, Ines has been making her own way. She is a "very independent and self-sustaining child," says Mrs. Allen.

NEED BY FIRM

Ines' father was in the U.S. for eight years on a "first preference" classification because his services were "urgently needed" by an American concern, said Henry Mulle, acting district director of the immigration and naturalization office here.

De Koning returned to Europe without "any knowledge on our part and even without the knowledge" of the firm needing his services, Mulle added.

An extension of the classification was rejected, Mulle said, because the "concern advised us" it was no longer interested in De Koning's services.

The director said De Koning could return under the same classification if another concern needing his services, filed a petition for his re-entry. The only other way De Koning could come back would be under the regular quota system which might take years.

Women's Activities

VICTORIA W.A.

Owing to the extremely busy season with factory work and apple picking for the women of the community, there was a smaller than usual attendance at the September W.A. meeting held Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Frank Townsend.

Mrs. Sidney Fox, 1st vice, was in charge. Mrs. Vanclief led in a fine devotional with officers and members assisting with readings.

A letter of appreciation for remembrances during her illness, in Kingston General Hospital was read from Mrs. (Rev.) Townsend, also one from Mrs. Lebow and Wilma, thanking the flower committee for the church decorations for Wilma's wedding on July 14.

Mrs. Brickman expressed the family's appreciation of the many kindnesses shown them at the time of Mrs. Brickman's death.

Business matters were discussed and plans were made for the next meeting at the home of Mrs. Vanclief.

All were invited to the dining room where refreshments and social merriment were enjoyed with Mrs. Hubert Townsend pouring tea.

Television Show Will Depict Life Of Emigrants

By RON EVANS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—A king-size television show to be screened here this fall will depict British emigrants and their life in Canada.

The program—titled simply "The New Canadians"—will tell their story.

Scheduled to run between 75 and 90 minutes, the program is one of the BBC's most ambitious TV public shows of the year. It is the work of Caryl Doessekker, a 30-year-old producer who got the idea for a TV documentary on British emigration to Canada almost a year ago and has been working on it, at least part-time, ever since.

Mrs. Miss Doessekker went to Canada as many Britons go to Canada and what happens to them when they get there? Last May she packed up her hands to find the answers.

FIRST-HAND INFORMATION

Her trip was her first step and she talked to dozens of officials, getting the Canadian government's views on immigration. Before leaving the capital city, she met her first Briton—a 22-year-old Flying Officer Robert Doncaster who emigrated to Canada three years ago to join the RCAF. He served as navigator on Prime Minister St. Laurent's royal tours of the world flight last February.

In Toronto, Miss Doncaster skipped rope with Joy in a Canadian home. She studied the routine of Canadian secretaries and visited neighborhood houses.

Winnipeg was the next stop and then on to Calgary, Saskatoon, Vancouver and Victoria.

TO EVERYONE

"I talked to everyone from Scottish loggers to English farmers," Miss Doessekker said in an interview at her office in the BBC's sprawling broadcast television centre.

"And I spent a lot of time chatting with taxi drivers, airline stewardesses and hotel housekeepers. You seem to do that when you're traveling.

After a month of interviews and observation, Miss Doncaster sailed for London University and the London School of Economics.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By MARDEN FARWAX

IS SHE SCHEMING A SCHISM?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

About ten years ago, I married a dream woman. I had known only six months, but it was a short marriage, with a promise from him that we would be married in church as soon as possible. I was hasty, and believed him.

Now, after almost two years, he tells me that he was married before, and does not know whether his wife is dead or alive. He said he felt that he was as good as not married, since she left him in 1933 and he has never heard from her since. He sent to the Board of Health for papers, but could not obtain any records to their marriage.

Aside from this one thing, he is a good man and very good to me. He says he wants our marriage always, and so do I, because I have him very much. But I do not think I can go on this way, not knowing about his former wife, as I feel I am living in sin.

Do you think I should leave him? I could live without him. — Jeanette.

Dear Jeanette:

The only thing for you to do, and you should do it immediately, is to take your problem to a competent lawyer and let him handle it. This is far more than merely a matter of your feeling that you are living in sin. It is a legal question, and unless your marriage conforms with the laws of the state in which you live, you may some day find yourself in serious trouble.

If you have no money to engage a lawyer to help you, then look in your city telephone book for the number of the Legal Aid Society. Call this organization and ask if you can be given an appointment to come and talk to someone there. They will know just how to help you.

HER MOTHER SAYS: NO MORE DATES!

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My family always promised that I would be permitted to start dating at the age of 14, my present age, but I actually started last summer when I was 13.

But now mother is beginning to object to my dates and says I must stop having them. Actually, I haven't really done much dating, but the fellows come to the house often and I have become interested in one of them who happened to be out of a job. I think this is what is back of my mother's objections, because she thinks that if I stop dating, I will lose interest in this boy. — S.F.

Dear S.F.:

I can't see why your mother should object to your liking a boy just because he happens to be out of a job at the moment. After all, I'm sure you're not going to think you're seriously interested in him at your age. I don't see either why your mother should want to cut off your dates just in order to get rid of one of your boy friends. Have you reason to believe this is really the case? What you say is so vague that it is hard to form an opinion of your situation.

In general, I would suggest that the boys who come to your house, and any boys who wish to take you out on a date, take particular pains to be polite and thoughtful in their attitude toward your parents, and so build up your mother's confidence in the character of them. Perhaps the boys you know have not been polite enough to speak with your parents when they come to see you, or to ask their permission to take you out.

As a rule, if boys show the proper respect toward their elders, there is not apt to be an objection on the part of parents to allowing their daughters to have normal friendships with them. You might give this some thought, and see if it might not be a good idea to drop a hint to your boy friends.

A Lesson Learned

By Mary Moore

The car was parked four blocks from the market. My family is down to an irreducible minimum (most) for my young people are back at school. But have I got enough money to stop buying groceries? The answer is "no".

I nonchalantly bought a basket of plums, then I saw a little grandkin. Surely anybody could carry a pumpkin and a basket of plums four blocks. But just as I was about to go home I saw a bargain in lettuce—two huge heads for only 29c. Lettuce isn't heavy; I bought it.

But did I know that the newspaper in which it was wrapped would get soaked and that in trying to save it from falling I would drop the pumpkin and it would crack open? Purse would fly open and my wallet would fall out? A beautiful policeman came to my rescue.

After that I decided that since I do not have a private chauffeur I'll just stay home for the later. So, as a starter for a long winter entertainment at home I made became guests were coming.

You will need 8 large red fresh plums halved and stoned—I used Lombards; 1-3 cup water, 2 1-2 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca, 2-3 cup sugar, 1-8 teaspoon salt, 1-3 cup sifted cake flour, 6 tablespoons sugar, 2 egg yolks beaten until thick and lemon-colored, 2 egg whites, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon cream of tartar. Add water to plums and bring to boil. Mix together the tapioca, sugar, and salt. Stir into boiling fruit and boil stirring 1 minute. Pour into greased baking dish and keep hot. Sift the flour and measure it. Add the sugar gradually to the egg yolks (which are well-beaten) and beat until very light, Beat egg whites and salt until foamy, then add cream of tartar and beat until stiff enough to stand in peaks, but not dry. Fold egg yolk mixture into egg whites. Then fold in flour, a small amount at a time. Give the fruit and tapioca mixture a stir and pour the batter over it. Bake at 325 deg. Fahr. for 30 minutes, or until batter is firm to touch at centre. Serve warm. For Blueberry Puff Pudding use 2 cups blueberries and sliced apples may be substituted for the plums.

PUMPKIN CHIFFON PIE

You need 1 2-4 cups strained pumpkin or steam raw pared and seeded pumpkin until very tender and strain, use canned pumpkin; 1-3 cup white or 2-3 or 3-4 cup brown sugar, 1-4 cup cornstarch, 1-4 teaspoon salt, yolks of 3 large eggs, 1-4 cup cold milk, 1-2 teaspoon ginger (and 1-4 teaspoon each cinnamon and cloves and allspice if you like dark chiffon filling), 2 tablespoons boiling water, 1 cup hot milk, 2 tablespoons soft butter, 1 teaspoon gelatin soaked in 1 tablespoon cold water, whites of 3 large eggs, 1-4 cup white sugar. Mix together the first quantity of sugar, the cornstarch and salt. Add the egg yolks slightly beaten, and combine with the 1-4 cup milk and stir to form a smooth paste; mix in pumpkin. Mix the spices with the 2 tablespoons boiling water and stir in. Stir in the hot milk slowly. Cook, stirring until it boils, then cook over very low heat for five minutes, stirring constantly. Stir in butter and soaked gelatin. Cool slightly. Beat whites until they cling to sides of bowl, then gradually beat in sugar until mixture looks like heavy marshmallow. Carefully fold in pumpkin just enough to blend. Let stand five minutes. Pour into baked pie shell. Chill. Decorate with whipped cream just before serving. This may be made many hours before serving time, but cream should be put on at last minute.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

TEN MINUTES OF TURBUD

Be a bathing beauty! A girl doesn't need as ocean or a lake; the bath tub will do. It is the faithful rubber who always looks at fresh as a May morning.

We have been told over and over again about the health benefits of the daily bath. The skin is an organ of elimination and to function normally the surface must be kept scrupulously clean. But bathing for pleasure—we seldom hear about that. One can feel so delightfully lazy, so relaxed, so luxurious in the tub. These are pleasurable moments and one should make the most of them.

Before stepping into the tub, cream your face and neck thoroughly. Put the cream on generously, spreading it with an upward, outward movement. It will loosen dirt when in contact with the steamy atmosphere and your complexion will glow.

Before turning on the water, throw a handful of bath salts in the tub. These fabulous aids only impart fragrance but they soften the water. They are as varied as soaps. You have them in your favorite flower scents or bouquets. Or you may prefer effervescent powders that come in the most fascinating containers and add to the decorative appearance of the bath room.

Recline in the warm water for several minutes. Go limp as a rag. Use a well soaped brush with heavy bristles and scour the body surface vigorously. You will speed up the circulatory stream and that is a big help if you are tired.

Turn on tepid water in the shower or spray. Let it cool gradually until you get an exhilarating reaction. Follow with a brisk rubdown with a coarse towel.

A slow finishing touch is the use of a fragrant dusting powder. If your feet are inclined to ache, fluff it between your toes and on the soles. Pick up the atomizer and spray under and arms with cologne. There you are, refreshed and radiant!

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECHMAN

EITHER MAY SAY "I'M VERY GLAD TO HAVE MET YOU"

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

Please settle a discussion we are having. When a woman and a man are introduced to each other, and she leaves first, is it correct for her to say to him, "I'm very glad to have met you," or should she simply say "Good-by"? — F.

This is a question that perplexes. The answer is that it is just correct for a woman, who is taking leave after an introduction, to say to a man who she has just met, "Good-by, I'm very glad to have met you," as it is for a man to say the same words if he leaves first. In other words it is simply a pleasant comment made by one person, a man or woman.

WHAT TO REPLY TO WORDS OF SYMPATHY

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

When there has been a death in the family and your friends express their sympathy to you, what are you supposed to reply to them? Thank you for any advice. — Reader

A gracious "Thank you" is really enough. Or even more gracious is to add the name, "Thank you, Mrs. Jameson." Or, "Thank you very much, Katherine." Or you may want to add a word or two of appreciation, "Thank you, Arthur. It is very kind of you." Or "You are very kind, Mr. Graham. Thank you for your good words." Some such brief words of appreciation are expected, and then,

Mother's Helper

If you care to or are able to, you may speak further; for example, "My mother was so devoted to you, and I appreciate so much being able to talk with you about her."

THE GROOM'S MOTHER WANTS TO KNOW

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

(1) My son is to be married soon. In the receiving-line does the groom's mother receive, or only the bride's parents? (2) Does the best man take care of such details as paying the minister, and so forth? (3)—If the reception is a breakfast and there is table service, should there be a bride's t a b l e? (4) Do the parents sit at the bridal table, or at a separate table? (5) Must the parents stay until all the guests have left? — S.

(1) The bride's mother, who is the hostess of the wedding, usually invites the groom's mother, who is the honored guest of honor at the wedding, to be a member of the receiving-line.

(2) The best man himself does not pay the minister. . . the groom gives the best man a fee in advance containing the minister's fee or gift, and the best man, before or after the ceremony, hands this envelope to the minister.

(3) There may or may not be a bride's table, even if the service is buffet for the other guests. Often there are two seated tables, the bride's table and the parents' table are combined.

(4) The bride's parents, and the bride's mother and the groom's parents sit at the table. The couples guests have departed, the groom's parents usually may also; they don't leave unless for some necessary reason. After the guests have gone, usually the bride's parents and the groom's parents have a wonderful time together talking over The Wonderful Wedding.

HOW TO MAKE OUT CHECKS

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

Following the ceremony in the church, the reception is to be given in the church dining room. If a check is given for this, should it be made out to the minister?—W.

Unless by special arrangement I shouldn't think this check would be made out to the minister, but either to the church or to the church 'treasurer. The bride's mother should ask the minister or the sexton about this.

U.S. Weather Bureau on Track Of New Forecasting Method

By DON WHITEHEAD

WASHINGTON (AP)—There is reason to hope that the U.S. weather bureau is on the track of a new forecasting method which will strip tornadoes of their deathdealing element of surprise.

Last year alone more than 550 of the vicious twisters roared out of the skies in sudden, smashing assaults on farms, towns and cities across the United States. Most of them were in the midwest and southwest.

Unlike the long-lived hurricanes, which move slowly out of the gulf and the Caribbean as hurricane spotters keep a close watch, tornadoes appear suddenly and oftentimes with no warning at all to slash a path of destruction and disappear as quickly as they came.

Sudden local storms are the weather forecaster's nightmare, but scientists are delving into the secrets of why these storms happen when and where they do.

AIR FRONTS CLASH

The answer, or a part of it, may be in what has become known as a "pressure jump line" or "squall line," which advances before a cold front smashing into a warm, moist mass of air.

Meteorologists for some time have known that when the cold and warm fronts meet—and certain other conditions exist—there is the likelihood of tornadoes over a wide area of the country.

Weather experts have found the pressure jump line travels like a wave before a cold front, much like a wave rolling toward the beach at the seashore. It may be as much as 150 miles wide.

Experts have traced this atmospheric pressure wave by means of instruments known as microbarographs, which show that as the jump line arrives there is a sudden increase in air pressure that violently disturbs the atmosphere.

SEES RELATIONSHIP

Dr. Morris Tepper, 28-year-old weather expert in the U.S. weather bureau, has taken jump line records and related them to midwest tornadoes. His preliminary studies show that 70 to 75 per cent of the reported tornadoes followed along the path of a jump line.

This study, Tepper is convinced, shows the relationship of the jump line and the storms to be more than accidental. Since the jump line's sweep across the land can be plotted almost to the minute, it may be that towns and cities can be warned in advance precisely when to expect a tornado.

This won't mean, however a tornado necessarily will develop after the sharp pressure jump has occurred. The bureau's instrument people have devised a gadget which, when certain weather conditions exist, trips a switch either to ring a bell or to send a signal showing the passage or a jump line.

It is hoped these gadgets can be mass produced for less than $100 each and then installed at strategic points where volunteer or regular weather observers can pick up a telephone and notify the nearest weather station when the bell rings.

Prairie Farmer Feeling Purse Strings Being Pulled Tighter

EDMONTON (CP)—Pity the poor prairie farmer on a fall like this.

Already short of cash because he could deliver little of last year's crop, the farmer is feeling the purse strings being pulled tighter as a result of a poor crop this year.

One farmer leader said settlement of this year's crop have been "shockingly" reduced because of unusually wet weather and rust. With the harvest delayed because grain wasn't ripe, frost now has ruined many fields. Many won't be threshed.

Wednesday's wet snow and rain blustered through prairie grain crops, again setting back long-delayed harvesting that is generally less than half finished.

HEAVY SNOW

Heavy snowfalls in western Alberta and the foothills faded into snowflurries across the rest of the province and parts of Saskatchewan. Heavy rains were reported in Manitoba. More killing frosts are predicted for Alberta and Saskatchewan with a risk in Manitoba.

All this leads to restriction of credit and the farmer, with a minimum of cash, is going to cut to the bone on anything that means spending money.

An official of the Retail Merchants' Association said more than 4,000 stores in Saskatchewan are operating on a strictly-cash basis. In Alberta the overwhelming trend is to strictly, cash.

RESTRICT CREDIT

Much of this has resulted from wholesale companies restricting credit to rural retailers. However, the bigger machinery companies are trying to figure out some way to make possible advances to farmers.

The initial delivery quota this fall is $300 worth of the 1954 crop. In some cases this won't even pay the hired man, let alone the cost of combining or threshing.

To get cash, farmers are selling livestock at low prices. This could mean that livestock herds will be decimated although it will help the feed situation.

Much of the hay was of poor quality, because of the rain but many farmers hope to cut oats, already given up as a grain crop, as feed.

Farmers probably will be doing more milking of cows so they can sell the cream and get enough cash to buy necessities. They'll try to sell hay, if they are among the fortunate who have a surplus.

The hired man will be let out. Work around the farm will be cut to a minimum with the owner having to do it all.

Tractor work will be reduced as farmers strive to cut down expenses. Tractors operate on gasoline and gasoline takes cash.

The farmer probably will buy less fertilizer and do with the seed he has.

The farmer's cash plays a large part in keeping the prairie economy going so the city dweller will eventually suffer too.

Two on Way To Meet Brides Hurt in Crash

TORONTO (CP)—A meeting of two young Italian couples who had been married by proxy was married Wednesday when the two men were injured in a traffic accident.

Admitted to hospital in critical condition were Michael Morgante, 24 and Anthony Petrilla, 30, both of Port Credit, and Morgante's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Morgante of Bathlo.

Morgante and Petrilla were on their way to Toronto's union station to meet their brides they had married by proxy March 30. A few minutes before they were scheduled to arrive, their car was struck from the rear by a transport truck which police said was driven by Peter Schmidt of Leamington.

The two young men left their fiancees, Rachel Caruso, 22, and Carmella Armada, 18, in the town of Accadia, in southern Italy's Foggia province a year ago.

They planned to save enough money to bring their fiancees to Canada where they could be married. After a year apart they arranged to be married by proxy so the girls would not have to wait for an immigration quota and ceremonies were performed in Port Elis and Accadia.

The brides were met at the station by relatives, who sped them to their husbands at the hospital.

Police said Schmidt has been charged with careless driving.

U.S. Army Adds More Men, Tanks, Guided Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Army is adding a new long-range guided missile to its arsenal, increasing the number of its combat-equipped divisions and buying more tanks.

This stepped-up tempo was disclosed in a series of announcements here Wednesday—the day after a conference in Colorado among President Eisenhower, Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens and Gen. Matthews B. Ridgway, the army's chief of staff.

The army has gone into what it calls "at least pilot line" or limited production of a new guided missile called Redstone. The weapon is presumably capable, like others of its type, of carrying an atomic warhead.

Details of Redstone's crpability are still kept secret, but there is speculation that its range may be up to 200 miles—substantially more than the army's "corporal" missile, like Redstone a surface-to-surface tactical bombardment weapon.

BOOST DIVISIONS

In a move which will add to its organizational numbers, although not to its total manpower, the army also announced a program to boost the number of divisions designated as combat outfits to 34 during the next two years. This will be done by giving to five of the present six training divisions designations as combat divisions, equipping them with arms for battlefield fighting and organizing them along combat lines.

A contract for $180,661,200 worth of M-48 medium tanks was also placed with Chrysler Corp.

Eastern Ontario Assoc. Elects Zone Presidents

SMITHS FALLS (CP) — J. C. Ketchum of Smiths Falls Wednesday night was elected as one of five zone presidents in the Eastern Ontario Development Association.

The association was formed last June with provincial government sponsorship to promote industrial expansion and development in eastern Ontario. Executives of four other zones are still to be chosen in preparation for the association's first annual meeting in Ottawa Oct. 27.

J. A. Perkins of Perth, acting president, told the meeting that 37 municipalities now are members and added: "Eastern Ontario is starting to waken up at last."

The meeting elected Henry Walker of Brockville as vice-chairman of the zone and named Mayor J. D. Carmichael of Gananoque and alderman A. G. Kelly of Brockville as association directors.

Zone representatives on various committees include: James Morton, Kemptville; C. W. Livingston, Lanark; Alan Hay, Prescott; R. W. R. Hodge, Perth; Jack McCarney, Gananoque, and J. A. Compton, Kingston.

APPROVE HOUSING

TORONTO (CP)—A. E. K. Bunnell of the Ontario department of planning and development said Wednesday a federal - provincial partnership "in principle is now prepared to go ahead" with a $14,-000,000 low rental housing project for east-central Toronto. Board of control said it will recommend acceptance of the city's share in the 600-unit development.

Negotiations Between Ford And Union Break Down For 2nd Time, Company Accused

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Negotiations at the Ford of Canada plant at Windsor today reached a second and possibly final deadlock after both United Automobile Workers (CIO-CCL) and the company indicated they would not call for another meeting.

A deadline of Sunday midnight has been set for settlement for the long-simmering dispute, or 9,700 Ford Windsor employees will be called off their jobs.

In a surprise statement released late Wednesday the union accused the company of not being able to claim any degree of credit for trying to settle the dispute. "It is squarely up to the company to call the next meeting," the statement read.

Previously, company spokesmen had intimated that it was up to the union to ask for a meeting to discuss a company offer to withdraw its demands for revision of company-wide seniority, considered one of the most contentious issues at stake in negotiations.

DECLINE COMMENT

Ford declined to comment on the union statement.

The union statement virtually ignored the company offer, and attacked Ford president Rhys M. Sale for not taking part personally in company-union negotiations.

It charged that Mr. Sale was not aware of the major issues at stake in the dispute, and he did not realize the seriousness of the issues.

The statement said there were still nine major issues to be resolved, but it did not elaborate on what they were.

"Ford of Canada, in Mr. Sale's name, has given the public the impression that it is seeking to prevent a strike. Prevention of strike through just and honorable settlement of outstanding issues is the actual goal of Local 200," the statement said.

"Should a strike become necessary, it will be the first time in Windsor's history where a union has been forced to strike, not to gain something, but to defend something."

OFFERS WITHDRAWAL

Negotiations, which collapsed Monday, were resumed Wednesday at the union's request. At Wednesday's meeting, the company offered to withdraw its objection to company-wide seniority, which it said cost the company $600,000 last year.

Under company-wide seniority, the list for any lay-offs of more than 16 days at any one of Ford Windsor's six plants was made from the company's master seniority list of employees.

This meant that if a worker, laid off from one of the plants, had seniority rating over a worker at another plant, the junior employee would be laid off, and the senior employee brought in to replace him.

Company officials said this system was expensive and inefficient often resulting in workers, because of seniority, finding themselves in a job for which they had no experience.

The company asked instead that seniority rating apply only within each of the six plants.

The union counter-charged that unless company-wide seniority was enforced, senior workers would be laid off, while junior employees remained on jobs in other Windsor plants.

MAY STRIKE EARLIER

The strike deadline was set at a meeting in Toronto of the Ford council, representing unions from all Ford plants in Ontario. Union spokesmen said then that unless the company put forward some basis for discussion, the strike might be called sooner.

Company spokesmen have repeatedly said they will meet union representatives any time there is something reasonable to discuss.

Total Circulation Of Newspapers Reach New High

VANCOUVER (CP)—Total circulation of Canadian daily newspapers has reached a record high of more than 3,375,000, Jack H. Macdonald, general manager of the Canadian Daily Newspaper Publishers' Association, reported here Wednesday.

Mr. Macdonald, here for the association's fall directors' meeting today and Friday, said daily newsp apreshav ereached record circulation levels despite competition from television, radio, magazine and weekend publications.

In addition newspapers are enjoying a record dollar volume of national advertising "in spite of increased competition from these other media."

"There is every indication that when the new audit circulation figures are published . . . daily newspaper circulation will be well in excess of 3,800,000," Mr. Macdonald said.

Advertisers at both the manufacturing and retail levels are becoming more analytical and selective in their choice of advertising media as business conditions steadily increases.

Daily newspapers welcome this condition "as no other medium is closer to the man who buys and the man who sells."

FORECASTS DIFFICULTIES

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — Harold Stassen, director of the foreign operations administration, Wednesday predicted that the Soviet bloc will have financial difficulties over its trade with the West before the end of this year unless Russia ships out more gold for sale abroad.

Rival Unions Expected to Sign No-Raiding Pact

By JOHN LaBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian Congress of Labor convention today deals with a no-raiding pact with the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada and is expected to approve it.

The historic peace treaty will pledge central bodies with a membership of 680,000 not to raid each other directly and will call on autonomous affiliates of the CCL and TLC to sign individual no-raid agreements.

It already has been adopted by the 280,000-member TLC, at its Regina convention in August. The CCL, with 400,000 members, was getting set to follow suit this afternoon.

USWA APPROVES

One factor virtually assuring adoption of the agreement, it was learned, was the decision of delegates from the United Steelworkers of America to give solid support to it. The steel union has about 200 delegates at the convention, almost one-quarter of the total.

The USWA is the biggest union in Canada, with 75,000 members. Its United States section has refused to go along with a no-raid arrangement between the CIO and the AFL.

Canadian delegates of the powerful union, which gets some strong direction from its Washington office, have been caucusing on the issue for three days and have decided to give convention floor backing to the no-raid agreement that will be sponsored by the CCL executive.

However, steel union spokesmen said the USWA is not committed to signing individual anti-raiding pacts with unions in conflicting jurisdiction.

TAKE UP LATER

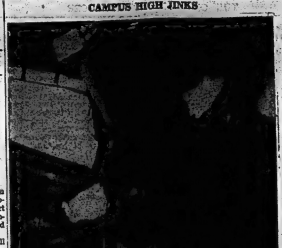
"That's something we'll have to take up later," a steel officer said.

Had the steel group decided to oppose the agreement, it probably could have torpedoed it. Its delegation is the largest at the convention, far outnumbering that of the second-largest union, the 71,000 member United Auto Workers. The auto men—whose international president Walter Reuther also is head of the CIO—will favor the pact, though some left-wingers in UAW ranks are expected to raise opposition to it.

CLAIMS SUPPORT

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Singer Johnny Johnston Wednesday was named defendant in a paternity suit filed by a Washington show girl. The singer-actor filed a court answer denying intimacies with the girl, Betty Bowers, known professionally as Bette Steele. Miss Bowers' petition stated that she expects a baby in December and asks that Johnston be compelled to pay $1,000 for medical expenses and a reasonable amount monthly for the child's support after birth. She said they met while he was singing in a Washington night club.

CAMPUS HIGH JINKS



Police at Kingston, Ont., overpower two Queen's University students who tried to wrest a fire hose police used to keep off an estimated 200 freshmen. The freshmen were trying to rescue freshmen who had been arrested. The incident took place after students rioted on city streets. The students raided the police station, pushed a parked patrol car over a nearby embankment and hurled rocks through a window. (CP Photo).

U.S., France Plan Immediate Aid Program for Indo-China

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and France evidently will put into immediate action a new billion-dollar program to bolster free Indochina against communism.

The approval of U.S. congressional leaders, however, will be sought for some expenditures.

Agreement on the program was announced Wednesday night in a communique issued after three days of talks between high French and American officials.

The communique gave only general statements of determination "to support the complete independence of Cambodia, Laos and Viet Nam," but it marked the first time since the shooting war ended July 21 that the U.S. and France have actually had a common action program.

In this sense it probably means a new era of cooperation in the struggle to save Indochina. Officials said it reflects a determination on the part of both governments to strengthen south Viet Nam, likely major target of new Red conquests.

Aside from the communique, it was learned from official sources that the main provisions of the program are:

1. France's 10-division force in Viet Nam will be systematically reduced. The aim is to get all French forces out of Viet Nam by March, 1956, about four months prior to elections on whether the whole of Viet Nam will go Communist or not.

2. The withdrawal will be geared to a relatively slow schedule so that no power vacuum will be created. Time will be permitted for the training of larger native forces which will eventually assume responsibility for the country's security. Native forces will be trained also in Laos and Cambodia, much less populous states.

3. Large quantities of military equipment supplied by the U.S. to the French for fighting the Communists in Indochina will be turned over to the native troops. The Geneva peace settlement forbids shipping in additional new arms, but the U.S. stands ready to provide replacement arms which the peace settlement permits.

4. The U.S. tentatively is committed to give financial aid to the Paris government for support of its shrinking forces in Indochina. France wants this aid at the rate of $60-80,00 a year for the rest of this year. However, funds were voted by the U.S. Congress for a fighting war, not for holding the line in peace, and Eisenhower administration officials plan to seek approval from congressional leaders before making the commitment to.

ROBT. FRIARS
"ENGLAND & SCOTLAND"
Mr. Friars, young adventurer and motion pictures producer, is known as "The Globe Trotting Humorist." His film "England & Scotland" is considered one of the most complete and thorough coverages of conditions, customs and historical landmarks, any one has this far recorded. The film begins at Dover's White Cliffs then to the stormy little Hebrides.

It takes through the countryside of Shakespeare, Robert Burns, Scott, Wordsworth and Burns. It covers London as he walks down the winding streets, Piccadilly Circus, Trafalgar Square, Westminster Abbey and St. Paul's Cathedral are included with many other points of interest. At Buckingham Palace he will thrill you with the changing of the guard, and the spectacular "Trooping of the Colors" on the Queen's birthday. Travelling to Scotland we visit Edinborough, Loch Lomond, Glasgow and Stirling Castle. Then we venture in the Highlands. During the past few years Mr. Friars has travelled and photographed in South America, Cuba, Jamaica, Haiti, Trinidad, France, Holland, Belgium and Switzerland.

DISCOVER EXPLORER'S MESSAGE

Eric Fry (left) and Capt. George H. Bowerman discuss a message left in the Canadian Arctic 78 years ago by British explorer Capt. Allen Young. Mr. Fry of the topographical survey branch of the Canadian mines and technical surveys department, discovered the document in a tin cylinder while he was engaged in field work on Ellesmere Island. # Message Left by Explorer In Arctic 78 Years Ago Found

By JOHN E. BIRD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—A message left in the Canadian Arctic 78 years ago by a British explorer has been found by a federal government topographical engineer.

The document, faded and brittle, was discovered in August by Eric Fry of the topographical survey branch of the mines and technical surveys department while he was engaged in field work on Ellesmere Island.

Mr. Fry stumbled across a tin cylinder containing the message on Bliss and glacier-bound Cape Isabella on Smith sound on the eastern side of the island 800 miles from the North Pole.

WRITTEN IN 1876

The message, dated Aug. 6, 1876, had been left by Capt. Allen Young of the British exploration ship Pandora for the crews of two other British exploration ships, the Alert and Discovery.

Capt. Young buried the cylinder near a cairn erected on Cape Isabella by men from the Alert and Discovery July 29, 1876. Under a prearranged plan, Capt. C. P. Nares, commander of the Alert and Discovery, was to pick up the message which informed him that the Pandora was leaving mail and dispatches for him in the cairn of a cache on Lyttleton island on the Greenland side of Smith sound.

Capt. Nares wrote in a book published in England in 1878 that neither the message nor the mail and dispatches were found. He said he called at Cape Isabella but was unable to locate the message left by the Pandora "owing to a thick coating of snow."

Mr. Fry was conducting topographical survey work from aboard the United States coast guard cutter eastwind when he made the discovery. During the northern voyage the cutter also restocked Alert, the joint Canadian-United States weather station on the north shore of Ellesmere island, 450 miles from the pole.

The cylinder containing the message was wrapped in a partially-rotted coarse grey canvas. String around the canvas had disintegrated.

FADED PAPER

Mr. Fry and Capt. George H. Bowerman of the Eastwind carefully unwrapped the cylinder and removed the lid secured by white lead putty. The message was written in ink. The paper was faded, rust-stained and beginning to disintegrate.

The men assembled the fragments and were able to read the message. It said:

"The cairn, Cape Isabella, Aug. 6, 1876.

"The Pandora, Capt. Allen Young, arrived off here this morning having dispatches for the Alert and Discovery, and visited the cairn, removing Capt. Nares' records, a copy of which is on the other side. The dispatches from the expedition will be looked for on the point named and should they be found another cache containing dispatches for the expedition will be put in the same place. Should no cache be found, the dispatches for the expedition will be deposited in a cache by the side of the depot of provisions which has already been visited and appeared untouched. The Pandora record containing full information of her voyage will be deposited 20 magnetic north of the cairn close to the depot of provisions."

On the reverse side an officer of the Pandora had copied the note left by the Alert and Discovery a year previously. This had instructed the Pandora to plant dispatches and mail for the Alert and Discovery at Lyttleton island.

PICTON

Agricultural and School Fair At Demorestville Success

PICTON — Ideal autumn weather prevailed Wednesday afternoon for Sophiasburg Agricultural and School Fair at Demorestville. Sunshine prevailed most of the time, rain falling about seven o'clock.

The bounty of Prince Edward County's gardens and farms, the skills of its inhabitants and the developing skill of its younger citizens were reflected in an unusually colorful and large array of exhibits. The hall itself was crammed with entries, while outside pumpkins among roots and vegetables made a splash of color against bundles of corn.

The floral display was particularly good with zinnias, marigolds and dahlias at their best, and late gladioli adding color.

The section devoted to schools vied with that of adults for both quantity and quality.

An added drawing card was the chicken dinner served in the hall at noon, by Demorestville ladies. It was a typical rural repast with all the trimmings.

Three horses competed in a running race, two owned by Laverne Way, finishing with one either owned by Sam Way dashing from the home stretch to its stall and unseating rider Laverne McConnell.

The platform program in charge of Noel Trumble, saw highly entertaining numbers given by the school children. In school choruses winners were Mount Carmel, Elmbrook and Big Island South.

With a ballet number, Sharon Woolmore - Goodwin was first for novelty dance; Barbara Ann Newcombe and Joan Naylor with tape, came next.

Boys and girls under 16 shared in square dancing with Mt. Carmel edging out Big Island school.

Other winners were: solo, girls 6-8, June Harvey; boys, 6-8, Garnet Woolmore-Goodwin, Tommy York; girls, 8-12, Kathleen Guernsey, Maxine Curtiste, Linda Byers; boys, 8-12, William Hoskstra, Douglas Fraser, Douglas Snider; duet, open, Linda Byers and Maxine Curtiste, Purl and Maxine Curtiste, Seppi Hoskstra and Kathleen Guernsey; open solo, Margaret Newcombe.

BABY SHOW

A baby show attracted many spectators. Winners in class for those under one year were: Bryan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Kleinsteiber; Darelle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Geddes; Anna Marie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Harrington. Baby over one year and under 18 months winners were: John, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leland Doxsee; Veccy daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Preston; Stephen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Carmen.

The 5-months-old twins, Joanne and Janice, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Brant, also carried off a ribbon.

There was a variety of sports for all ages.

Included among a fine entry of horses were ten ponies, top honors going to Richard Hicks, West Lake; Morris Parks, R.R. 7, Belleville, and Billy Kotchelly, Demorestville. M. Parks had 1-3 pony colts, with Doug Morden's entry third, Richard Hicks had best single driver; Charles Culmer second and also placed in that order with lady driver.

Saddle horse winners were: C. Culmer 1-3, and R. Hicks 2.

Ten firsts and five seconds in Holsteins were won by Gordon Gilbert, who was also leading winner in poultry.

Harry Gorsline was leading grain winner with 14 firsts and 4 seconds. Tom Wannamaker had best round cheese and Nelson Sarles best square cheese.

New Queen Elizabeth School Opened by Deputy Minister

PICTON—Dr. Cecil F. Cannon, Deputy Minister of Education for Ontario, officially opened Picton's new Queen Elizabeth School yesterday afternoon.

Dr. C. S. Hack, chairman of the Board presided and welcomed the large crowd present. Invocation was given by Rev. Hope Swayne.

Key to the new school was presented to the chairman by Harland Steele, FRAIC, of Page and Steele, the architects. W. J. Brown of the construction company which erected the handsome new school, spoke briefly.

In extending the town's greetings Mayor H. J. McFarland again made a generous gesture. His gift to the new school—though his firm was an unsuccessful tenderer—will be a tennis court.

PRESENTS PORTRAIT

Miss Mary Dunkley, teacher for many years at the old school, presented a portrait of Queen Elizabeth as a memorial to his sister, the late Elizabeth Dunkley, a former principal. This was accepted by William deC. Hepburn. A gift of a Bible was made, and presented by Miss Beverley Mason, accepted by supervising principal Carl Reid.

Rev. F. J. Whiteley conducted the official dedication and A. A. Renvie directed a choral group. Principal Reid expressed pride in the new school.

Dr. Cannon was introduced by Jesse Mason who recalled that the Deputy Minister had been principal of Picton Public Schools in 1926.

Stressing the important role of education, Dr. Cannon said that grants from the Province of Ontario to School Boards have risen from 9½ million dollars in 1944 to 65½ millions in 1954.

SPOKE ON NEED OF SCHOOLS

He spoke of the low birth rate of the 'thirties' and the high rate of the "forties" as responsible for the great need for additional school facilities. During the past 3,100 new class rooms have been added in the province; since 1945, 2,500 new schools have been added. This autumn, 378,000 pupils entered Ontario schools, an increase of 61,000 over the previous September.

Dr. Cannon defined a school as 'a place where we search for truth in the company of our friends.'

He said that one of the school's greatest functions is the teaching of a child to read, and in building up the desire for reading, which art, he said, had contributed much to the present civilization.

New Masthead

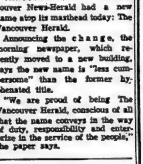
VANCOUVER (CP) —The Vancouver News-Herald had a new name atop its masthead today: The Vancouver Herald.

Announcing the change, the morning newspaper, which recently moved to a new building, says the new name is "less cumbersome" than the former hyphenated title.

"We are proud of being The Vancouver Herald, conscious of all that the name conveys in the way of duty, responsibility and enterprise in the service of the people," the paper says.



FOR ONE POINT landings

With the increasing hazards of highway travel, there may be a big market in store for a new lightweight aluminum crash helmet developed in Europe. It not only takes concussion right off your mind; tests proved that it also exhibits less "dent depth" when objects are dropped on it — with no one underneath, we should add.

Sounds like a sensible chapter for construction workers too. Certainly lots of aluminum I articles developed for one use have been quickly adopted for others . . . a process which has helped build heavy demand for Canadian aluminum both at home and in foreign markets. Carter and her group served lunch.

Mrs. Ella Way, who was taken ill last Saturday night is being cared for at her daughter's, Mrs. J. Houston's home, in Belleville.

Former Pastor Takes Services At Carmel's 79th Anniversary

RAWDON — On Sunday morning despite the inclement weather, large crowds of worshippers gathered at Carmel United Church in Rawdon township, for their 79th anniversary. The edifice was filled to capacity with an overflow crowd in the porch and in jubilee hall.

A former pastor, Rev. Ralph W. Barker, Wilton Grove, was in charge of the services. When he left the circuit five years ago the hall was still in the planning stage and during the pastorate of Rev. A. E. Baker, jubilee hall was built and the church newly decorated and new pews installed.

The edifice was a bower of beauty with baskets of autumn blooms.

Mrs. Arthur Fryer presided at the piano and the large choir of junior and senior voices rendered two anthems, "Sing O Heavens," with Mrs. Russell Fryer taking the solo part; "Great is the Lord," with Mrs. Harry Brown giving the solo part. A quartet, "Just Outside the Door," was rendered by Messrs. Ed Fryer, Wesley Steinhauer, Harry Brown and Douglas Fryer.

The service opened with "The Church's One Foundation," and the responsive Psalm, "Let us rejoice in the strength of our salvation."

Mr. Barker based his message on "Elijah, the Forerunner of Christ." He graphically pictured Elijah as a man who regarded truth more important than prestige; he would not surrender the great essentials of his faith in order to please a king, and he definitely would not surrender the faith of Jehovah for that of idolatry. Elijah always championed the right of the common man.

The speaker then compared present day living and Christian faith with that of the pioneers when Carmel church was built in 1879, and he stressed the fact that the people of today should be better spiritually and morally, after 79 years of Christian teaching and he urged his audience to concentrate on good daily living as their way of life.

The large audience sang as concluding voice "Onward, Christian Soldiers" as a closing for the morning service.

The church was again filled to capacity for the evening service with worshippers in attendance from all nearby points, also Trenton, Belleville and Campbellford. The service opened with "Under the Hills." Mr. Barker based his message on a New Testament lesson from Revelations. He stressed the value of the moral and spiritual outlook and said in today's changing world "Nothing is new unless it is better than anything carried on in previous years."

The full choir of junior and senior member, numbering about 40, occupied the choir loft and rendered two anthems, "God So Loved the World," with six girl sopranos of the junior choir giving a special part. In the second anthem, "Let Mount Zion Rejoice," the vocal parts were taken by Mrs. A. Packman and Mr. Fryer.

A duet, "My Task," was rendered by Messrs. Harry Brown and Douglas Fryer.

The offering was gathered by Messrs Ernest Carlisle and Russell Fryer and almost $400 was received at the two services.

The anniversary closed on the theme, "Guide Me O Thou Great Jehovah."

The guest minister complimented the Carmel congregation on the wonderful advance they had made since he was their pastor and urged them to carry on their good work and strive to build a stronger and better community in the years ahead.

P.M. AND

"I have always said and still believe that the constitutional problem in question is above personalities and political parties and that it is a question on a level with the best interests of the province and the country as a whole."

The sudden communication between the two followed a regular meeting of the Quebec cabinet. Earlier, Mr. Duplessis had told reporters he would "never go to Ottawa" to discuss the dispute but was willing to go "half-way, to Montreal."

Federal-provincial tax agreements have a long history. They began during the Second World War as a defence move, with all provinces taking part. In 1946, Mr. Duplessis refused to continue the arrangements.

Similarly, arguing the defence of provincial autonomy, Quebec's Union Nationale government has rejected federal grants for universities; and participation in the trans-Canada highway project.

Differences between the two governments sharpened last spring when Quebec imposed its own income tax, amounting to 15 per cent of federal collections in the province. The federal government refused Quebec's bid to have the full amount of provincial tax payments deducted from federal collections. Federal law provides for a maximum five-per-cent deduction from federal income tax payments for that purpose.

The dispute has boiled up more strongly since Sept. 10, when in a Montreal speech, Mr. St. Laurent said Canada's development is welcomed everywhere except in Iron Curtain countries and by some politicians in Quebec.

On Sept. 18, he said in Quebec that he rejects the view that Quebec "cannot be a province like the others."

The reply to his first speech came from Quebec's Solicitor-General Maxian Rivard, who said Mr. St. Laurent's statement disclosed a "particularly dangerous centralizing spirit."

Mr. Duplessis made his reply last Sunday at Valleyfield, Que., when he said that Quebec, with its racial and religious background, is not a province "like the others."

He said his government was prepared to reach a taxation agreement in Ottawa only on the grounds that the two governments were on equal footing.

A dog's craving for lean red meat is a natural craving for the rich protein he needs for normal health and development.

Dogs on a high protein diet show it in their glossy coats, their bright eyes and alertness, their general good health and happy disposition.

Rylstone

RYLSTONE — Carl Reid is a patient in Belleville General hospital, where he went on Thursday last, to have an abscess removed from his left eye. All wish him a speedy and complete recovery.

Those who attended the afternoon tea and bazaar in the Orange Hall, Springbrook, under the auspices of the Women's association of Springbrook United Church, on Friday afternoon, were: Mrs. Ray Stewart, Mrs. Wilfred Spencer, Mrs. Jim Milne, Mrs. Lily Anderson, Mrs. Will Rutherford, and Mrs. Ellis Jones.

Mrs. Jones contributed a reading to the program. The hall was nicely decorated with fall flowers and the program was under the leadership of the Springbrook president, Mrs. Delbert Fleming.

A splendid program was provided by the visiting branches of the Women's Association, and the Women's Missionary Society. The bazaar table was well laden with fancy-work, aprons, home cooking, candy, vegetables and potted plants, and was well patronized.

The hostesses served refreshments at the close.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Spencer and family were Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hustead, of Napanee.

Born—To Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Mumby, in Campbellford Memorial Hospital, on Saturday—a son, a brother for Tommie. Congratulations.

Mr. and Mrs. Melville Finch and family have taken up residence in their new home at Springbrook.

All extend sympathy to Mrs. Finch in the sudden death of her brother, Mr. William Bowen, in Texas, U.S.A.

Mr. and Mrs. Earle Miller and Wayne, and Shirley Stewart, of Trenton, were week-end guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stewart.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Morton, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Morton, and Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Anderson, of Campbellford, were recent visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Walter McCloud of Redderville.

Several of the men in the vicinity are picking apples at the Fred Beckett orchards, at Wellman's Corners.

The October meeting of the Rylstone Women's Institute will be held at the 8th line school.

A few from here attended the wed. and Lindsay Fuhs last week.

Let's attack the problems - not the schools!

As millions of children return to school, the Ladies' Home Journal offers a full review of the problems that beset America's educators and parents!...

...ited parents!

What do we want of our schools?

"Our school problems, fundamental and philosophical, must be solved by informed citizens. We offer these stories and articles, and as a result section or endorsed solution, but to stimulate those who must grapple with similar situations in their own communities."

Signed Beth Parton Cyrus Curtis
PUBLISHERS

This month, in a round-table discussion with Journal editors, six important educators, headed by A. Whitney Griswold, President of Yale, speak out frankly on questions like these which plague their profession, and endanger the future of our children:

- What caused the mounting crisis in public education?
- Do children really fail to learn to read?
- Should all children be promoted every year, regardless of progress?
- Should all high-school courses be watered down to the lowest level?

The Journal brings this challenging and controversial forum to you and millions of other American women because women have more influence on our educational system than men do—much more.

You'll want to read this entire October issue which features many articles and stories discussing problems affecting parents and educators today.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

NOMAD IN NIMROD

Six duck-hunting is 30 per cent luck — five per cent duck, and fifteen per cent shooting eye? Take that with salt.

A successful hunter, it is said, must needs have the full winged support of that fickle two-faced dame, Lady Luck—and always a nimrod in this town that can substantiate that statement.

What she did to him shouldn't happen to a mongrel pooch.

She met only frowned on him, she grimaced, sneered, scowled and frown-sheered, laughing in unholy glee when it was all over.

The poor bloke came back to work, his faith in hunting shaken, in Lady Luck shattered, and life in general, a sorry mess.

Here is what happened. His hunting pal couldn't show up at the last minute. He wakened at 1.30 a.m. Saturday to find his small daughter had the whooping cough. His sleeps in. He decides to go shooting alone in strange territory, and arrives at his destination six hours late.

A lone black sits there awaiting an invitation to dinner. Trumbling to bank, it flutters away before the hunter gets his gun out of the bag.

Then he spots a flock of blacks resting within feet of many good guns. He repeats his Indian scout prayer, and bullies up to them. He raises his gun. The flock gives him the "duck-quack" and drifts out of range.

Five playful drakes hang around wanting to play hide-and-seek. Every time he comes near range, they throw their gear into second and more fatalistically out of range.

He calls his Boy Scout beaten-training into play, grins, short-cuts over the sand. The ducks were in the same troop, it seems, and aware of the strategy, go into reverse.

Then being good duck scouts they decide to do their deed for the day. Giving the flip-tail duck salute they sweep by above and do a spot of sunbathing. The hunter stalks them, but the tell-tale traffic of false teeth, or was it . ivory cubes in his pocket, gives away his position—and the ducks take to water and drift out to sea. He takes a shot, anyway, but only ducks and drakes the flip lying in line of fire—and are safe. One run, no hits, three errors.

He spots a pair of ducks in a pothole. He ignores them, changes his mind, comes back to find another hunter has potted them.

He decides to put decoys out. Two ducks drop in to superintend the job, quack their approval and flit away before he gets his gun.

Slightly perturbed, he watches their flight, sees them drop in a foghole. He makes like a sniper in the South Sea Jungle. Carefully he raises his head and gaspe. Not two, but fifteen ducks are there. The ducks take off. Two gunshots blend the air. Fifteen ducks keep on course.

Two more incidents like that and he is ready for suicide. Again he sights three ducks in a pothole. Again he stalks them. At last they are within easy range. He cocks his gun, aims, then lowers it in disgust. They're decoys.

By this time it is dark and he is far from home, in a strange, strange land of duck-believe. He reaches for a flashlight. He forgot to put a battery in it. He left his car on a road somewhere, but where? He is lost. So he walks, walks and then walks some more. He finally comes to familiar territory. It is where he started—but where is the car?

But this doughty hunter is not beaten. True, he may be lost—but what is that compared to the noble sport of duck hunting? He peers into the darkness. He sees a small black and white object.

Nimrod, a wounded duck. He walks slowly towards it, then stops. Even as he looks the "wounded duck" lifts a tail erect, and a striped kitty slowly stalks away.

But don't go away. Our hero plods his weary way through the darkness some three miles, negotiating two and one-half circles to the light of a friendly farmhouse via bushland, sand dunes and plowed fields.

The friendly farmer folk give him directions and he finally finds the family Jalopy. He reaches for his wallet where he kept his car keys. You guessed it — they're missing. Comes a frenzied search and he finds them. They had dropped out of the purse.

But his luck held. On the way home, driving over strange roads he did not hit a thing. It is doubtful if he could have hit a barn had he driven straight at it.

But he swears that as he climbed in his car, he heard the whirr of duck wings and what he interpreted as a raucous version of a duck "Bronx Cheer."

Towering 10th-Inning Smash Breaks Tense Diamond Drama; Mays Is Co-Hero of Opener

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—It will be necessary to go on and play out the world series, for all the tickets have been sold, but it is difficult to think of anything that might happen here on that big boys didn't dish up in that 10-inning Opener Wednesday at the Polo Grounds.

There was a real hard rock of a baseball game, from the moment the first ball was thrown until, more than three tense hours later, Dusty Rhodes draped the fourth pinch home run in all world series history into the backswing right field stands to wrap it up for the underdog New York Giants 5-2.

As the result the Giants today were in an advantageous position. They have the fully-rested Johnny Antonelli, a 21-game winner, poised for a second thrust at the Indians today. Antonelli, a lefthander, was figured from the start to give the Indians the most trouble of any Giant pitcher.

LEMON THE LOSER

Bob Lemon, one of the two 23-game winners owned by the Indians, absorbed Wednesday's defeat. Early Wynn, the other big winner, will Lopez' choice for the second game, starting at the usual 1 p.m. time. Another capacity crowd, matching Wednesday's 52,- 571 turnout, was expected to be on hand with the weather forecast of cloudy and warm.

Wednesday's game was the sort of ball game that baseball league champions, the Giants and the Cleveland Indians, figured to put on, and the feeling here is that it set the pattern for what may be one of the greatest playoffs in history. The Indians are not beaten by a long way, but the club which scored a record 111 victories during the American League campaign must have decided only on its complacency and made to know that it faces a grim battle for its life.

It is true that Rhodes' climactic swipe was the result of the accidental variety for which the Polo Grounds is notorious. No shorter home run can be hit in any ball park than was this 270-foot special- then the ball only inches above the green barrier. But it also is a fact that the slugging Indians had the same target to shoot at all through the sunny afternoon, and that the Giants' specialist at winning the tingiers was the first batter to pull one down the line.

STAYED IN

Of deep satisfaction to Leo Durocher's club was the fact that it stayed in the ball perserved and finally defeated Cleveland's best. Walking that manager Al Lopez can throw at them from here on in the way of pitching is likely to cause the Giants any great concern.

Also of glad tidings to the winners was the manner in which their relief star, the veteran Marv Grissom, walked in there to stop the Tribe in its tracks after their starter, Bal Maglie, suddenly felt his 37 years in the eighth inning and his initial reliever, Don Liddle, had been called for one of the longest and most sensational pinkeals ever seen anywhere. They had counted heavily upon Grissom and their other bullpen gem, Hoyt Wilhelm, to level off Cleveland's supposed superiority on the hill, and Hoyt didn't fail them.

And last, but far from least, it was their wonder boy and official team destroyer, Willie Mays, who saved the game from being lost with his truly amazing over-shoulder catch of Vic Wertz' towering 450-foot smash to the centerfield wall with two Indians on base and none out in the eighth.

GAVE NOTICE

The boy from Alabama didn't get a bit off Lemon's sinking stuff, but he gave notice that he will be a telling factor all the way with that catch and his steal of second after Lemon had walked him for the second time with one out in the 10th. The steal caused the Indian ace to pass Hank Thompson purposely to set up a possible double play, and that gave Durocher the opportunity he had been looking for all afternoon, to insert the fatty Rhodes for slumping Monte Irvin.

The best Irvin had been able to do in four tries was down a sacrifice bunt, and more than a little complainit had been heard that Leo still had Rhodes sitting upon his hands when things looked so desperate. But the Giants' pilot, faced inning by inning with a 2-1 score, figured he had to keep Irvin in there for his superior fielding.

But after Monte had dropped a wind-blown fly off Bobby Avila's bat that gave Grissom another slight start to pitch out of the ninth, there seemed no reason for Leo to keep on hiding so struggously, and the next time the opportunity arose he acted with alacrity. The record crowd of 52,751 saw Dusty a sive system, and the next thing anyone knew that lazy little fly was being boosted along by the wind toward its destiny. It wasn't necessary for Rhodes to demonstrate his fielding prowess.

DUSTY RHODES

WILLIE MAYS

SAME WIND

The ironic part of it was that the same wind, blowing with some velocity across the field from left to right, almost surely robbed Jim Hegan, Cleveland catcher, of a bases-loaded home run off Grissom in the eighth inning, and that blew one back off Al Dark's bat that would have given the Giants a 3-2 win after two were down in the ninth. Both knocks clearly were headed for the seats when they set out.

For the benefit of those who, for business reasons, were not hanging over a hot television set, it perhaps is necessary to detail some of the events leading up to Mays' saving catch and Rhodes' winning fungo. It may help in sizing up today's duel as well as the following three engagements at Cleveland.

From the very start it was evident that Maglie was short on control. His first three pitches to the Indians' swift headed batter, Al Smith, were not even close, and the fourth one plunked Smith somewhere in his body.

Bobby Avila, the American League's leading hitter, followed with a looping single into short right which Don Mueller kicked around, permitting Smith to come to third. That brought activity in the Giants' bullpen and had Maglie looking worried. However, Sal settled and got Larry Doby and Al Rosen on popups. That brought up Vic Wertz, the Tribe first baseman whom even the Bambino more Orioles refused to continue feeding early in the season.

CLANGED ONE

Vic clanged one off the right-centerfield wall that would be going yet if it hadn't met wood. By the time it came back he was nice.

Five Leafs On All-Star Team, Clancy 'In'

TORONTO (CP)—Five Maple Leafs including King Clancy will make up Toronto's contribution to the National Hockey League all-star team which opposes the champion Detroit Red Wings in Olympia Stadium, Detroit, Oct. 2.

It will be the fifth time Clancy has worn the mantle of an all-star. The four times before, however, he was a player. This year he has been named coach of the eighth edition of the NHL dream team.

Sid Smith and Teeder Kennedy have both been named to the all-star team at forwards. Goalie Harry Lumley is making his second appearance and defenseman Tim Horton his first.

Top selections from each of the five NHL teams opposing the Stanley Cup champion Wings will line up as follows:

Goalies — Harry Lumley, Toronto and Al Rollins, Chicago.

Defencemen — Tim Horton, Toronto; Gerry Harris, Montreal; Bill Gadsby and Gus Morton, Chicago; Harry Howell, New York and Warren Godfrey, Boston.

Centres — Ted Kennedy, Toronto; Kan Mosdell and Jean Beliveau, Montreal; Paul Ronty and Edgar Laprade, New York.

Left wings — Sid Smith, Toronto; Ed Sanford and Doug Mohns, Boston.

Right wings—Maurice Richard and Bernard Geoffrion, Montreal; Fleming Mackell, Boston.

'Appas Tappas' Picks 'Em Again

TORONTO (CP)—Charles Oliver, who writes a horse racing column in the Toronto Globe and Mail under the by-line Appas Tappas, picked every successful winner and a second on Wednesday's racing card at Woodbine track.

A $2 straight parlay on the first seven races would have netted more than $20,000.

It wasn't a record for Mr. Oliver. He selected the last seven winners one day at the Thorncliff Park meet, and followed up with the first three on the next day's card.

'Chinese' Homer Inspiration For Sports Writers

NEW YORK. (CP) — China successfully invaded New York's sports pages today as world series writers strove with might and main to find new and different phrases describing the home run by Dusty Rhodes that broke up Wednesday's opening opener, giving New York Giants a 5-2 victory over Cleveland Indians.

"More Chinese than chow mein and just as Chinese as Shanghai and Pelping," said Arthur Daley of the Times.

The Daily Mirror's Ben Epstein declared that Rhodes' wind-blown 270-footer "converted the gloomy Indians into a tribe of Chinese scholars." Another Mirror writer, Leonard Lewin, said the blow had Chiang Kai-Shek written all over it.

Jimmy Powers of the Daily News called it "a real Fu Manchu homer." His colleague, Dick Young described it as "right out of a Charley Chan yarn." A third news reporter, Joe Trimble, saw it as a "Chinese coup."

The Herald Tribune's Red Smith was perhaps the most lyrical: "As Orientals at a Celsius girl eating chow mein in Shanghai . . . launch tickets flutterred in all directions."

Chinese, as applied to home runs is a growing fad these days. But it trades at par with the American variety on baseball's rate of exchange.

AP Transmits Play in Color

NEW YORK (AP)—The Associated Press wirephoto system Wednesday night transmitted in color one of the top action pictures of the first world series game. It was the first time world series picture copy in color had been sent on a spot basis by wirephoto.

Three color separation prints were sent to 12 newspapers in the United States which participated in the special project.

The color shot showed Vic Wertz, Cleveland Indians' hard - hitting first baseman, sliding into third base on his triple.

It was taken by AP staff photographer John Lent, who used a 35-inch Big Bertha camera equipped with an F5.5 Zeiss triplet lens. Lent shot the picture at 1-90th of a second at F8.2. Life magazine's color laboratory co-operated in processing the material for wirephoto handling.

Durocher Trumped Lopez' Ace In Fierce Diamond Battle

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Giants today hold a one-to-nothing edge over Cleveland in the best-of-seven world series mainly because Leo Durocher trumped Al Lopez' ace.

There were several contributing factors in the Giants' pulse-pounding triumph Wednesday but Durocher made perhaps the most spectacular catch, the courageous clutch pinching of reliever Marv Grissom.

Durocher's best bit of strategy came in the big top of the 10th. Vic Wertz, a murderous hitter all afternoon, opened with a two-base blast down the left-field line. After Sam Dente sacrificed, Dave Pope was purposely walked to give Don Liddle pinch-hitter Bill Glynn for the second out but still had to contend with a good unhanded hitting pitcher.

CALLED TIME

Durocher bounced out of the dugout and called time. Instead of consulting at Whitey Lockman, the first baseman, who had been holding down close to the bag, Durocher nodded and moved several feet to his right. Lemon took a ball but smashed a low, sinking liner directly into Lockman's glove. Several feet either way and the winning blow would have been ahead.

Leo Durocher explained: "Leo yelled to me, 'The ball will that way on first. Play wide of the bag. Let that man go to second if he wants to. Play the hitter.'"

Durocher's best bit of maneuvering was yet to come. In the Giants' 10th, after Mays had followed Don Mueller's single with a walk, Leo flashed the steal sign. Willie responded with a clean jump at second. With the winning run on second base and first base unoccupied, Leo ordered Ruben Thompson be given an intentional base on balls.

Monte Irvin was the next batter but Durocher called him back and summoned Rhoden's ace out of the pen to pinch hit for his left fielder. Rhodes strode up to the batter's box, picked out Lemon's first pitch and waited a high fly that fell into the lower left field stands for the game-winning home run.

LOSE'S ORDERS

Wasn't he supposed to start in last night, Rhodes was asked after the game?

"Yep," the slugger from the deep South drawled. "Leo told me 'mornin' this morning. Leo said Irvin was playing deep and I'd have a pop at the bench. I didn't like it but he told me:

"'I want you on the bench so that when the spot comes that I peg the long ball I can call on you. I need you for just one swish of the bat.'

"I'd rather have five swishes," I said. 'But I didn't argue. It turned out he was right, as usual."

'Star of the Day'

By BEN PELEGAS

NEW YORK (AP)—"Leo says he'll use me best when I'm ready to help most, but I say all there is to baseball is hitting and I'm ready couldn't be ready any sooner than."

James (Dusty) Rhodes, an Alabama boy who rose to fame in Leo Durocher's "star of the day" technique of baseball, and the National League pennant, showed his best when he had the chance in the affection.

His dramatic pinch homer with two on and one out in the 10th zoomed the Giants to their 5-4 triumph over Cleveland in the opening game of the world series.

The homer was only the fourth pinch hit in series history and was the first by a player who never before had batted in a series game. And it came on the first pitch.

But Rhodes wasn't worried about records, or firsts, as he basked in the limelight at the noisy clubhouse after the game.

CURVE BALL

He was propped up on a rubbing table, taking long swigs of ginger ale between answering everyone who asked, and there were many of that. It was a curve ball, a little one and "the best hit I ever got in my life."

"I was just swinging for a hit," he said. "I wasn't trying for a homer. I knew I was safe when I didn't know it was going all the way till it fell in.

"I'd been waiting around a long time to hit. I thought maybe I'd get up in the ninth but I couldn't. Then in the 10th Leo told me 'grab a bat,' and when I got around he crowded me on the back and said 'I knew you could do it.'"

While teammates joked and stripped and headed for the showers, Rhodes sat patiently on the table.

MAYS WINGERS

Willie Mays, whose spectacular catch-running back into the field during one of the day, leaned over and whispered into Rhodes' ear:

"You know what I said when you got that hit? I said, man, there's the first part of Rhodes' 20 homers."

The $2,000 is the approximate difference between a winner's and loser's cash in the series money.

Rhodes is a muscular, red-faced strapping fellow who grew up in the Birmingham, Alabama, area. He's married and has two children.

Play 'Hookey' To See Game

CARTERET, N.J. (AP) — The opening game of the world series had to be a minor "agrarian" at the high school here Wednesday. About 50 students cut away after being told they couldn't watch or hear the game in their classrooms. The ban was lifted by decision yet on what will be done to them.

Series Notes

By BEN OLAN

NEW YORK (AP) — Cleveland fans, remember Al Lopez limited dropped the first game of the 1948 world series and trailed 3-1 in games in the only other one in baseball they appeared in 1920. But they came back to win that one.

New York Giants, on the other hand, in three of the four previous series they have competed, won the first game but lost the series.

The law of averages, too, should be riding with the Indians today. They've lost two in a row (including last year's singular contest) and only four times this year have they lost as many as three in succession.

Wednesday's games of 3 hours and 11 minutes missed by 17 minutes the all-time series record for longest "time of game." The standard was set Oct. 8, 1945 when the Chicago Cubs and Detroit Tigers played 12 innings in 3 hours and 28 minutes.

Even the Brooklyn Dodgers couldn't pack 'em into the Polo Grounds like the Giants. The largest crowd to see the giants at home in '54 was $1,464—more than 1,000 under Wednesday's attendance.

baseball fan till she married me!") and his two sons, Dusty and Sonny, were a big help to the family. So was Fred Noland of Mountgomery, Ala.

RAISED HIM

"Mr. Noland practically raised me," Dusty said. "I'm sure glad he got to see this."

Dusty said the series to him was "about like playing Brooklyn."

Somebody asked him if he found it harder to go up to a pinch hitter than as a regular member of the lineup.

"Not at all," was the quick reply. "This way, the pressure's on the pitcher. He knows I'm there to hit and he's got to get me out. In the regular lineup, I'm not under that pressure."

British Clubs Make Strong Bids For Soccer Star

By JEFF RYAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

LONDON (CP) — Soccer fans wondered today which lucky team will get the chance to pay a record price for the classiest and costliest player in the United Kingdom.

The situation arises because big Alan Charles, a 23-year-old Welshman who led the 53-team Southern Football League in scoring last year, wants to play first-division football.

He's told his club, Leeds United. The club still has to make up its mind whether to let Charles go at a record fee. Meanwhile, the line formed in hopes of tempting the rangy centre forward or half.

GIVES OPINION

Charles himself told Leedy, a second-division club, that he would like to go either to Cardiff, in his native land, or the Arsenal, where among other things he would be with a number of Welsh players.

He scored 43 goals for Leeds last year, and has been a steady star for Wales on that country's international soccer team.

The record for a soccer transaction came in 1951 when Sheffield Wednesday paid £24,000 to Hull County for Jackie Sewell. Charles' price is reported to be £30,000 up. Sheffield Wednesday is one of the clubs interested in Charles this week. Others are Burnley, Preston, Sparkie and others.

Charles has been speculation that Arsenal might be out to take Charles—if the deal goes through—in time for the next Friday night in Moscow against either the Spartak or Dynamo club. The much-travelled Welshman could use a little strength down the middle these days gilbert Mercer, Wales, if they are making their Russian debut, or in league action where they stand 16th of 22 teams.

Plane Relays Game Telecast

HAVANA, Cuba (AP) — Cuba's baseball-happy fans watched the first game of the world series on Wednesday through eyes provided by a trailing airplane which relayed TV signals across 300 miles of water from Florida.

The plane, which never was clear here with minor flickers.

Cubans, who regard baseball as by far their most popular sport, watched the game on sets in homes, saloons and hotels—the first time they had seen a live TV program originating in the United States.

The plane, equipped with specially built receiver and relay transmitter, flew almost directly south of Miami's station WTVJ, which was transmitting the game. Only the picture of the game was received. A commentator, listening with earphones to New York, gave a running account in Spanish.

TV signals beat out on straight lines from the sending station; they go out from it with the curvature of the earth. The relay from high in the air increased the effective ranges of reception. Coaxial cables or hill-to-hill relay stations normally take care of cross-country relays.

Varsity Has Strong Backfield

TORONTO (CP) — When University of Toronto Blues meet Sarnia Imperials this weekend in Sarnia, coach Bob Hindley of Varsity will have lots of choice in his backfield candidates.

The Blues showed an impressive surge of power in defeating Toronto Balmy Beach of the Ontario Rugby Football Union 23-13 last weekend. Sarnia is also a senior OFRU team.

The Blues halfback line of Phil Murphy, Steve Anastakos and Mike Pinkey shapes up as a powerful contender when the senior intercollegiate schedule opens Oct. 9. Last season, fullback Munts carried the ball 78 times on one play and made almost 10 yards a try.

Dutchies Meet Mustangs Sat.

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — University of Western Ontario Mustangs, representing from their die-hard ranks by Sarnia Imperials of the Ontario Rugby Football Union last week-end, will take on ORFU leaders Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen here Saturday.

Coach Johnny Metras, who used most of his large squad in the game with Imperials plans to try it again against the Dutchmen before settling down to interpolate requirements.

The Dutchmen will have two ex-Western players opposing the Mustangs — big Bisky Taylor, a halfback, and former fullback Syd O'Hara. Former London high school footballers, Jerry Hill-

Rangers' Prospects Not Bright To Finish Out of Cellar Spot

By AL MARKLE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP)—New York Rangers, who haven't finished higher than fifth in the six-team National Hockey League since the 1948-49 season, don't figure to be crying the blues long before playoff time rolls around.

The Blueshirts, out of playoff contention the last four seasons, aren't given much chance by hockey circle observers to step up a notch and into the Stanley Cup picture in the 1954-55 season, although team officials hold bright hopes. The club hasn't been too impressive in training and it has lost a few old pros. Rangers who could be counted upon when they're the chips are down are few and far between.

In addition, Wally Hergesheimer, the club's third highest scorer last year with 43 points, suffered a broken leg and it is brother Lee will get back on the ice for at least three months.

Rangers haven't strengthened materially since last spring when they dealt Calum Mackay, only noteworthy off-season deal was the purchase of Danny Lewicki from Toronto Maple Leafs.

They've lost winger Eddie Kullman, who played Rangers in 1947 and who retired this season; defenseman Leo Reise, who is dangerous since he went to Rangers from Detroit Red Wings in 1953 and Max Bentley, the Delisle, Sask., dandy who went to Rangers in a deal with Toronto Maple Leafs last season.

COUNT ON LAFRADE

But the Blues can count on Rejean Lafrade, one of the most capable ice men in the world a year and a veteran big leaguer who has centred Jean Beliveau and Larry Popein, both from Vancouver Canucks of the Western Hockey League, in training here.

Centres Jim (Bones) Raleigh and Paul Masnick, also back, Raleigh, team captain and second high Ranger scorer in the 1952-54 season with 45 points, probably will go between Lewicki and Nick Mickoski. Rooty, who edged Raleigh out for team scoring honors with 46 last year, has shown well between Vic Howe from Saskatoon of the WHL and Glen Skonnar from Cleveland of the Eastern Hockey League in training here.

Johnny Bower will be in the nets again with Jack Evans, Harry Howell and Ivan (The Terrible) Irwin certain of defence posts. Muzz Patrick, who took over the coaching from Phil Watson, Rangers' last tail-end of last season, will start the first full season as Ranger coach.

Rangers make their 1954-55 debut at Vancouver Nov. 3 against the Cup champion Detroit Red Wings Oct. 7 and open before home-town fans Oct. 30.

'Nuthin' Hard About 'It' Says Willie 'Shortest Homer of the Year'—Lopez

By ED CORRIGAN

NEW YORK (AP) — Say, hey, now, was that the greatest catch of his young career that Willie Mays ran out on Vic Wertz in the New York Giants' 5-3 opening world series victory Wednesday?

"Naw," said the happy-go-lucky Willie in the dressing room later. "I had the ball all the way. There was nothing too hard about it. Maybe it did save the game, but you should see some of the catches I made better catches. But what about my bat? I wasn't any help up there at the plate."

It was in the eighth inning with two men on base that Mays raced back to the Polo Grounds centre field to get Wertz' screaming drive.

Over in the corner of the room, Johnny Antonelli, the Giants' starting nominee today, was in deep conference with starting pitcher Sal Maglie.

JUST REGULAR

"Just a regular game for us," shrugged Johnny facetiously. "We won the pennant with nothing like this all season long. So now we'll win the series with this, huh?"

He was referring, of course, to Dusty Rhodes' 10th inning, two-on-two base homer.

The Barber told the reporters: "If I didn't tire go much. It was just that I didn't have real sharp control of my curve ball. So I couldn't fool the batters like against the lefthanders. That's what got me behind."

And that Wertz. The way he was hitting today you couldn't get him out. You had to get him high, fast one, the next time a slider and the third time a low outside pitch. I guess we don't know him as well as some of the other Cleveland hitters."

STILL IN RESERVE

Manager Leo Durocher was all talk about Rhodes' game-winning home run. Yet Dusty still will not start.

"He was my big guy in a jam and that's what he's going to be the rest of the series," Durocher thused Durocher. "Dusty did just what I've come to expect him to do. Bring him up in an important place and bang—you're back in the clubhouse. He's more valuable on the bench.

Over in the Indian dressing room, Wertz, who had three hits but had his big one caught, sat sadly before his locker.

"That was the hardest ball I hit all year," he said.

REST OF YEAR

Manager Al Lopez went even further.

"It looked to me like the longest ball our club has hit all year. It certainly would be game for them. There wouldn't have been a 10th inning if Mays hadn't caught it.

"Well," he sighed, "we were beaten by the longest out and the longest hit during the game."

Rhodes' homer certainly was short. It arched just about 270 feet down the right field foul line.

Losing pitcher Bob Lemon, the victim of Rhodes' blow, was unhappy even thinking about it.

WORRIED ABOUT IT

"I was worried all through the game that something like that would happen," he said, "I'd heard

Point Anne Defeats Stratford 6-1, Enter South. Ontario Int. A. Finals

Behind Pat Marsolo's pitching and batting, the Point Anne Centennials earned the right to enter the OASA Southern Section Finals yesterday afternoon in Toronto when they downed Stratford Kroehlers 6-1 in the third game of their Intermediate "A" series. The Pointers dropped the first game of the series at home last week but came back to take the next two by wide margins on foreign grounds and will now meet Meaford.

Marsolo came within two batters of hurling his third complete game in five days when a walk and single by Stratford forced the shaky twirler to retire in the bottom of the ninth yesterday in favor of Don Hunter, who got the last pair down in order. The winner gave up six scattered hits by registering his fifth decision of the season. Fanning none and walking but two, his performance was a marked improvement over yesterday with a three-run homer by the big right-hander in his only chances of a Stratford comeback.

Ted George, who licked the Canada Cement crew on Saturday with a four-hit, 6-2 triumph, went all the way for the Kroehlers, giving up eight hits, whiffing seven and issuing five passes to Pointers.

Taking advantage of a little wildness on the part of Ted in the initial frame, the Eastern Ontario champs cashed a duo of runners home and added another in the second. They held the 3-0 lead until the ninth, when Stratford scored and then the Stratford nine broke Marsolo's shutout bid with their lone tally.

Walks to Hull and Mallory, a passed ball and Vern Geyer's single plated the winner's first run with none down while Marsolo came home on a double play that got Geyer and Green. Wade popped out to end the rally. Leo Geyer netted one of their third marker when he was hit by a pitch, advanced on Bob Strachan's sacrifice and crossed the plate when Pat Gilmour drove in a single to right-centre.

George settled down at this point to throw excellent ball from the ninth, when Leo Goyer lined a single. Marsolo retired Gilmour safely by beating out an infield hit and then Pat Marsolo pounded a terrific drive to centre for a circuit field for his circuit blast and a 6-0 score.

A walk to Templeton, a long fly and Hutchison's single netted their lone but Bob Hunter forced the next two batters to ground out to the infield and end of the hard-fought series.

Pat Gilmour and Vern Geyer solved George's mazda for two singles each to claim half the victory's hits while Marsolo's homer was the only extra-base blow. Other singles went to Roger Mallory, John Green and Leo Geyer.

Betts and Hutchison each punched out a pair of hits in the two-bases. McGraw and George also singled.

Both teams came up with a fine defensive account with the Pointers committing the only error of the game in the fifth when Mac Kingsland muffed her ruler and asked who was wingering in class, "Please sir, Miss Kingsland, I keep Puds from losing his job, I said. Then I was Puds Simkins, but I knew somebody had promised him a good job when he left school, and if he got there late he would probably lose it. So when Miss Kingsland muffed her ruler and asked who was wingering in class, I said, "Please sir

Mutilated Body Of Young Boy Found in Field

SIOUX CITY, Iowa (AP)—The month-long search for eight-year-old Jimmie Brenner came to a grim end Wednesday when his mutilated body was found in a cornfield only five miles from the lad's home.

Jimmie's distraught mother confirmed police identification when she was shown a belt and pair of tennis shoes removed from the body after its discovery.

"That's Jimmie's," she wept.

Russell White, assistant Sioux City police chief, said holes in the skull indicated the boy's attacker may have used a heavy instrument to bludgeon him to death.

RHEUMATIC PAINS GONE
"FEEL YEARS YOUNGER"
Joints, Muscles Free of Pain and Stiffness Since Taking Nervena Says this Man. Also Helped Stomach, tired out Feeling Disappeared, Eat Better, Sleep Better.
Mr. Fred Henderson, 122 Queen Street, Ingersoll, Ont., is glad to pass his experience along to other people, because he knows what it means to get relief from rheumatic pains and other health troubles after suffering a long time and trying almost everything he heard of without getting relief.
Troubled 2 Years
"It is just about 2 years since I first got this trouble," he says, "and that is, my that I would get indigestion, acid feelings, pains in my stomach and a nauseated feeling after my meals. Sometimes I would feel very dizzy and light headed and get sick headaches. Then rheumatic pains set into my joints, muscles and limbs. They got very painful indeed and my back ached a lot. Many nights I could not get my proper sleep and I'd start the day feeling tired out.
"I was told and told me about Nervena and now since I've taken it for 11 weeks I can say it is a wonderful medicine. It not only helped my stomach so that I can enjoy all my meals without distress afterwards, but I am free of headaches and dizzy feelings and the aches and pains are gone away. Now I sleep soundly at night and actually feel years younger when I get up in the mornings.
"Mind you, all this did not happen over night and I would advise anyone to take Nervena long enough to get really the best out of it."
Anybody Can Use It
Nervena contains no harmful drugs, no opiates, no minerals. It is a purely Herbal Medicine made from 12 of Nature's Finest Herbs and Roots. Thousands of men and women have used Nervena with good results.
Nervena is sold and recommended in Belleville by Dolan The Druggist.

Nervous Wild Turkeys Are Coming Back to Southern Ontario Woodlands

TORONTO (CP)—The nervous turkeys are coming back to southern Ontario woodlands.

Game officials Tuesday released about 300 wild turkeys in various wooded areas. It is an attempt to reintroduce a game fowl which has not been reported here since 1920.

A wild turkey looks much like his domestic cousin, but he has longer legs and more sheen on his feathers. Human beings make him nervous. He is what game officials call a secretive bird.

To survive, the wild turkey needs a lot of cover. For this reason, officials doubt if it will ever multiply in southern Ontario to the point where hunting will be allowed again. There is not enough woodland in the area.

Unregulated hunting and clearing of woodland in the area, which they never saw a turkey, a bear, then clearly.

The turkeys are on the protected list in Ontario and are expected to remain there.

Besides the experiment came from Dr. Alec Secord, a director of the association and the $2,000 expenses will come largely from the annual Sportsmen's Show in Toronto in the Canadian National Exhibition grounds.

The birds feed on grasshoppers, beech nuts and acorns.

SLAYER CONVICTED

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Sixty-one-year-old George F. Sack, whose first two wives died violently in Chicago more than 25 years ago, was convicted Wednesday night of killing his third wife. A death sentence is mandatory, since the all-male jury did not make any recommendation for mercy.

5th Thurlow

5th THURLOW — Mr. and Mrs. M. Wisdower, of Belleville, were Thursday afternoon callers at E. P. Yorke's and W. Hodgson's.

The pie social at the church on Friday evening was a decided success.

Rev. and Mrs. Kersey, of Plainfield was chairman in the absence of the regular minister, Mr. I. S. Thrush. The members were invited and much enjoyed as attested by the attendance.

Miss Mary Bertrand, of Peterborough Normal School, spent the week-end at her home, here.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Sheffield, of Picton, are spending part of their holidays with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Haynes.

Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Montgomery, of Toronto, spent the week-end with the latter's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Will Hodgson.

Mr. and Mrs. Earle Yorke and boys, of Tweed, and Mrs. J. O Hollins, Plainfield, were Sunday guests of Mr. E. P. Yorke.

The neighborhood was well represented at the funeral of the late Mrs. John Huffman, Sr., on Tuesday afternoon last.

Master Richard Sheffield, of Picton, is holidaying with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Haynes.

Mrs. Stillman Haight, 4th line, is spending some time with Miss Florence Huffman.

Mr. Gerald Livingston is busy filling silos.

The frost has not harmed the corn as yet, and the men are anxious to keep ahead of it.

Mrs. Gerald Swan spent Monday evening at Mr. John and Mr. James O. Huffman's home.

GRENADE KILLS FIVE

IZMIT, Turkey (AP) — Five school children were killed and three injured when a hand grenade found by one exploded as they played with it Wednesday.

Worth Remembering

A far cry from the padded boxing gloves of today were the ancient Roman "gloves" consisting of a weighted metal ball adorned with several sharp spikes. Another unusual fact worth remembering.
